But the new type McCormick-Deering separator can always be rebuilt and kept in perfect running order, and we make no charge for rebuilding any McCormick-Deering Cream separator, other than for the new parts required. You will never have reasons to regret an investment of a McCormick-Deering Cream Separator.

CRIPPLE TYPES WHILE ON BACK

Cokato—Sam, a good looking young boy with wavy blond hair and a pleasant smile, who is always flat on his back in bed and can move neither arms nor legs, operates a typewriter and has undertaken to address 300 letters. The unfortunate lad, Samuel Larson, was crippled by an attack of infantile paralysis. In spite of his handicap, he has devised a method by which he can typewrite, using a stick with a rubber tip to strike the keys of the typewriter. Unable to use his arms and legs, he is writing to Cokato residents calling their attention to the Christmas cards which he wants to sell.

OCTOBER INCOME OF FARMERS FIXED AT 886 MILLION

Department of Agriculture Cites Increase Over October, 1935

The flow of dollars into farmers' pockets from sale of their products was reported Monday by the agriculture department in Washington to have mounted to $886,000,000 in October, well above both the September total of $759,000,000 and the $802,000,000 figure for October 1935.

The department said the general average of prices for farm products on November 15 was 120 per cent of pre-war levels, down a point from a month earlier but 12 points higher than a year ago.

Drouth reduction of corn, apples, potato and other important crops was said to have reduced the gain in income from these to less than the usual increase from September to October, but this was offset by heavy movement of livestock products and good prices for these.

Government payments to farmers last month were reported at $22,000,000, compared with $6,000,000 in September and $62,000,000 last October. The department estimated that these government payments will aggregate $300,000,000 for 1936 compared with $583,000,000 last year.

Only $3,000,000 of the October payments were from the $470,000,000 which will be distributed under the 1936 agricultural program. The department said these payments were moving more slowly than anticipated.

At all principal works the increase is in the form of an additional five cents per hour for all factory employes. Wage increases have been made at other works with some differences in the basis of adjustment as called for by local conditions, he said.

PRESIDENT GETS BIG OVATION IN SOUTH AMERICA

Arrives Monday in Buenos Aires, Argentina, on Peace Mission

One million Argentines gave President Franklin D. Roosevelt the greatest mass welcome in their nation's history when he arrived Monday in Buenos Aires, Argentina, to open conferences by which 21 American republics hope to build a citadel of permanent peace in the new world.

Argentine secret service men said the wild ovations which lasted far into the night exceeded even those accorded England's King Edward VIII when, as Prince of Wales, he visited Buenos Aires in 1931.

Spontaneous salvos of cheering and "vivas" rolled about the presidential party for 15 minutes without interruption Monday night when he drove to the Casa Rosada to pay a formal call on Argentine's president Agustin Justo.

Similar demonstrations earlier rose from the throngs which lined the route along which he rode in the afternoon after landing from the United States cruiser Indianapolis.

At both the afternoon and evening demonstrations spectators broke through police lines in their enthusiasm.

When President Roosevelt, in a flower-covered car, drove up to the Casa Rosada, a crowd almost filled the nearby Plaza De Mayo, an area two blocks wide and three blocks long.

At the close of the contest, a banquet will be held at which time silver trophies and other awards will be presented to winning teams and individuals.

In the livestock division, separate contests are being arranged for teams representing farm clubs, high schools, 4-H clubs, and Schools of Agriculture. Teams expected to enter the latter event include the Northwest School, Crookston; North Central School, Grand Rapids; West Central School, Morris, Central School, St. Paul; Walsh County School, Park River, N. D.; Benson County School, Maddock, North Dakota; School of Agriculture, Brookings, S. D.; and School of Agriculture, Winnipeg, Canada.

The same group of agricultural schools will compete in the farm crops division.

R. J. Christgau will again supervise the livestock judging contests, while R. S. Dunham will have charge of the crops event. Last year, over one hundred individuals took part in these important educational contests. Officials in charge anticipate increased entries in all departments this year.

FRIENDLY AMERICA

In contrast with muddled conditions in the rest of the world it is encouraging to read reports from the American peace conference now under way down in Buenos Aires, participated in by twenty-one American Republics. It is encouraging, too, to know that the United States is looked upon as a friendly neighbor by Central and South American countries. Such a spirit of friendliness has not always existed. As a matter of fact our country has been quite generally feared, and sometimes hated, by these neighbors. And, silly as it may sound from our own point of view, those fears have too often been justified.

It is nearly a hundred years ago now since our war with Mexico. That was definitely a war of aggression, no more justifiable to the rest of the world than Japan's recent encroachments in China. In later years our foreign policies have been anything but reassuring. A central American country hesitated about selling us a right-of-way for a canal. A revolution, establishing a new government in that country, served our purposes beautifully. Since then, for many years, we have assumed the right to police other Central American countries.

Developments more recently have tended to restore confidence in our oft-repeated declarations of sincerity. We have withdrawn our troops from Central America and have not been quite so insistent about our rights to protect the lives and property of our citizens in those countries. In our dealings with the smaller countries we have been less dictatorial and more willing to meet with them on equal terms. Our "dollar diplomacy", so disagreeable to those upon whom we foisted it, has now been replaced by a more considerate and conciliatory attitude. And it is because of these changes in our own attitude that Latin America now looks to us with genuine friendship and good will.

A general understanding of the Latin American point of view in these matters is necessary to a full appreciation of the honor accorded our country in permitting our President to open the present conference. In part this recognition was no doubt a testimonial to the high regard in which they hold President Roosevelt himself. But it is more significant as a gesture of friendship to our nation which too often has been represented to our southern neighbors as the grasping and greedy "Colossus of the North." And as a nation it will stand us well in hand, both from a political and economic standpoint, to foster this spirit of friendship with Latin America.

It will be just six weeks ago tomorrow since Oen's store was destroyed by fire. We checked up on the date to settle a bet. If someone had told us five weeks ago that the new building would be so far along by Christmas as it now is we would have called him stupid. Which shows what watching the construction of a post office building will do to a fellow's judgment.

Most people will agree that December is the shortest month of the year. That doesn't apply to the kiddies, of course. For the youngsters the first twenty-four days of this month are never-ending.

AN INFORMED PUBLIC OPINION VITAL

(Northfield News)

One of the most difficult practical problems that modern democracies face is that of setting forth issues and policies in a rational light where they will command not only the careful and studious attention of public officials, but the intelligent interest of an informed public. The seats of government ordinarily are the center of such a fierce interplay of various forces that it is extremely difficult for the average public official to see clearly. He cannot readily distinguish between what is a candid and disinterested opinion, and what is special interest or personal ambition, and he is likely, therefore, to be swayed, perhaps unduly, by considerations of politics or the voices of those who for reasons of personal advantage crowd about him.

But how much harder it is for the average citizen, without the special knowledge and information before him that the official commands, and with less opportunity to get the facts, to formulate a fair and unbiased judgment! Selfish interests with their propaganda help befog the issues. And yet, without thoughtful public opinion and without a healthy and honest exchange of ideas, the best courses of governmental action cannot be determined. The importance of those channels which help to inform and educate the public are thus of the highest, while for the average man and woman there is still a message in the old axiom: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

DISCOVER YOUR POWER

(Anonymous)

There are in all of us, hidden reservoirs of power and of ability whose existence other people do not suspect. Perhaps we ourselves do not know that they are there. Perhaps we do not know that we have them, but we go along comfortably without using them. We don't want to be bothered to dig down and find them. We hate to make the effort. Oh, what's the use! We're having a jolly good time as it is. Being bigger, or doing something that the world calls better takes effort, even if it is only the effort of being different.

Then, perhaps just out of pique, to show that you can do what somebody says you can't, you make the effort. And the surprising result is this: you discover that the real satisfaction is not in showing somebody else that you can do a thing, but in showing yourself what you can do.

NOT HOW LONG, BUT HOW WELL?

(Kiwanis Magazine)

Hundreds of men crave to live a hundred years. For some men this is a laudable ambition, for others it is without reason. An alligator lives for several hundred years, we are told. It is doubtful if any one knows how great an age these reptiles attain, but every one knows that they are of value to the world only after their hides are tanned into leather to make slippers or hand-bags for my lady.

Whether a human being pays his rent for the room he occupies on this earth, depends not on how long he is able to stay above ground, but on the record he makes while he lives here. Is the world a better place because he lived on it? Were human hearts made lighter because he sojourned with us for a bit? Was some needy person fed by his hand while he still remained in the flesh? Was some crippled child enabled to go through life with a better chance because of his kindly ministrations? Were the politics of his home town cleaner because of his influence?

Many people have lived to a ripe old age and left the world no better than they found it. "The man who gets but never gives, may last for years but never lives." Few men care to live in this way. Most men are inherently good and charitable.

It is a fact, however, that the average man does little in the way of community betterment if left to himself. Here and there will come an opportunity where his few dollars may and do help. But in order to help in a big way, there must be big money. Few individuals can make such contributions. But when a group of charitable, civic-minded men are banded together, the combined man power and dollar power of the group can and does accomplish wonders.

Affiliated with and encouraged by the other men of the group, the personal service and cash contributions of the individual are rendered more effective, and the joy of giving increased.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Speaking at Chicago upon the occasion of the eightieth birthday celebration of Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court, Chief Justice John P. Devaney of the Minnesota State Supreme Court summed up Justice Brandeis' contributions as follows:

"First, he has endeavored to protect Labor in its efforts to maintain and improve its standard of living and conditions of work giving to men, women, and children the right to organize, to strike, to picket, to use methods of self-defense.

"Second, he has attempted to protect the small man against the concentration of capital and credit in the hands of a few and against monopolies ruthlessly destroying individual enterprise.

"Third, he has attempted to protect the consumer against extortionate prices by monopolies engaged in private business on the one hand and public utilities on the other.

"Fourth, he has ever struggled to preserve the Bill of Rights for every citizen of the land."

Justice Devaney then added:

"Judge Parry of England once wrote: 'The rich have many law books written to protect their privilege, but the poor who are a greater nation have but few!'

"The list of those who have written the law books of 'the poor who are a greater nation' will some day be compiled, and when the work of those who have written is evaluated, at the head of that list will stand the name of Louis Dembitz Brandeis!"

The state Planning Board, thru a subcommittee, has begun an analysis of the financial condition of Minnesota and of its 87 counties. The committee will use $25,000 allocated by the state emergency relief administration to prepare its report.

Outstanding among the questions to be investigated by the committee are the problem of coordination of relief bureaus, state and county indebtedness, population trends in various counties, and the total wealth of the state from industrial and agricultural sources.

The committee will seek to find ways of coordinating the administration of relief and improving cooperation with the federal government. The latter question has been accentuated by the new federal social security law, which adds further complications to the administration of relief in Minnesota.

It is pointed out that the state is now losing $625,000 a year in federal funds because its law for aid to the blind does not meet the federal requirements. The federal social security act provides for pensions of $15 a month for blind persons.

The committee will analyze the federal requirements for state legislation to comply with the federal unemployment insurance regulations. The last special session of the legislature, dominated by conservatives, failed to pass an unemployment insurance law. As the federal law stands at present, states are required to have unemployment insurance laws on their statute books at the end of this year, in order to comply with the law. In many states special legislative sessions are being called in order to enact unemployment insurance legislation. Governor Petersen recently announced that he would not call a special session in Minnesota, asserting that he believed Congress would extend the time allowed for the states to comply with the federal law.

Minnesota's tourist business in 1936 brought in the third largest amount from this source in the state's history, according to George H. Bradley, state tourist bureau director. Total income from the tourist industry in the state this year was $90,539,000, according to Mr. Bradley, and raised the total revenue from the tourist industry during the 14 years that records have been kept to more than a million dollars.

The first of a series of budget recommendations which will be presented to the 1937 Legislature was released to the press last week by Paul A. Rasmussen, State Budget Commissioner. Additional recommendations will be made from time to time during the next month.

Departing to some extent from precedent, Mr. Rasmussen will include in his budget recommendations a description of the revenue fund deficit and means to meet it, and an analysis of tax problems as they affect the state budget. A comprehensive picture of receipts and expenditures of the various departments will be given. Budget forms, according to Mr. Rasmussen, have been simplified and condensed and will permit increased departmental efficiency.

State Planning Board Cites Benefits Given by Birds in Minnesota

Minnesota and Minnesota farmers particularly, have few better friends than birds of the state, says the Minnesota state planning board. According to "U. S. Senate Document No. 12- Separate No. 7", the destruction of insects by birds throughout the state has an annual value greater than that of all farms (including land and buildings) in the combined five counties of Cook, Hubbard, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods and Mahnomen. Total value of all farms in these five counties is given by the U. S. Bureau of the Census as $13,570,694 while the yearly state-wide destruction of insects by the birds is given a value in the other report of $13,765,265.

In only two states, Kansas and Texas, is the dollars-and-cents destruction of insects by birds worth more to farmers than in Minnesota.

They not only kill insects which injure growing crops but birds distribute seed, helping to keep the ground carpeted with grass and plants. This vegetation prevents falling rain from running quickly into rills and creeks so that water sinks into the earth and builds up "ground moisture" absolutely necessary to crops.

Without birds insects would soon gain the upper hand. Growing things would struggle for existence and in time would die out altogether. So the Minnesota State Planning board pauses to remind that a bird supply on farm woodlots is dependent on the farmer leaving his brush on the ground and preventing destruction of undergrowth which furnishes cover for the birds. And to suggest that when snow is deep in city or country a few crumbs be scattered outdoors.

The Christmas Dinner

By Alice B. Palmer

'TWAS Christmas day! Ice coated—snow coated—crisp and delightful! Great preparations for the holiday feast were in progress in the old homestead at the far end of Jay street. A gorgeous Christmas tree and attractive berry-laden holly wreaths shone through the windows, while the evergreens without added to the beauty of the festive atmosphere.

There were just seven of them in the little family—father, mother and children. They were all busy in the happy holiday task of helping mother. The turkey was sputtering in the oven and the cranberries were popping. Joyous song and laughter rang through the gaily decorated home.

Long Ago There Had Also Been "Just Seven of Them!"

Lucia Bell, a new resident several doors down the same street, was sitting alone dreamily gazing out upon the Christmas ice castles.

Just then she heard a knock. Who in the world could be rapping at her door on Christmas day? "Come in!" cried the startled Lucia Bell. In stepped a small girl beaming with the very joy of being alive.

"My mudder—my—we all want you to Christmas dinner!"

Lucia Bell, smiling a smile of Christmas joy, was truly delighted and accompanied the happy little girl to the house of great Christmas preparations.

"Won't you be one of us," said mother sweetly, "and cut the Christmas pies?"

Lucia Bell was thrilled and before anyone knew it she had them trimly cut and ready to serve.

'Twas at the height of the Christmas dinner that something very wonderful happened to Lucia Bell. Why there they were—all of them! Strange she hadn't noticed before! In those other days long ago there had also been "just seven of them!" Opposite to her now, she could plainly see her own brothers and sisters sitting around that other table. She rubbed her eyes and blinked at the happy scene. At that very moment the little family before her became Christmas fairies in the mind of Lucia Bell; and she smiled a smile of tender gratitude toward each one of them.

Santa as He Appears in the Different Countries

SO SANTA CLAUS wears a red suit and a long white beard, and when he isn't busy in the toy store, drives a sleigh pulled by Donner and Blitzen?

Not if you live in Hawaii. There, on a moonlit December night, you might see Santa come riding in from the ocean on a surf-board. As likely as not there would be a lei, or wreath of flowers, about his neck, though he wears the same red suit and waterproof boots he dons for boys and girls of the United States, since Hawaii is really American territory.

In the Philippines, though it, too, is American, the white cap turns conical like a Spanish clown's. He carries a red-and-white lantern which helps him find the home of every good boy and girl, and drives buffalo, which they call carabao. The gifts are packed in baskets along across the backs of these creatures.

What would you think of Santa in a rickshaw? But, after all, if you were a Chinese child isn't that what you would expect? And Santa never disappoints. In Japan he sits with his feet tucked under him to take his tea on a wintry afternoon, and in the African tropics—well, you just wouldn't recognize the red suit! He has even taken to using the airplane in our own country. I am sure that when he leaves the reindeer in his barn, he pats the nose of each one and urges the ice elves to feed them plenty of reindeer moss till he comes home again.—Frances Grinstead.

Reminds Public Holiday Is Now Only Three Weeks Distant

With the holiday season only three weeks distant, Postmaster Andrew Anderson today issued a request of patrons of the local postoffice to cooperate by forwarding their Christmas mail as early as possible.

He also called attention to the fact that Christmas letters and parcels destined for Norway, Sweden, England and other European countries should leave this city not later than the end of next week to insure arrival at their destination by December 25.

"During the holiday period", said Mr. Anderson, "the volume of mail increases appromixately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days.

"Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards and letters by Christmas Day the public should shop and mail early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can attend to your holiday mailing a week or ten days before Christmas, according to distance."

Word Is Received of Death of N. J. Berg

Production Credit Association Directors

At the recent conference held at Detroit Lakes the directors of this and several other associations discussed the workings of their system through which a practical plan is worked out jointly by the association and each member-borrower so that he can pay off the loan, either on small regular installments or out of returns from some major project, such as marketing a carload of livestock, a quantity of grain, or a wool clip. Most of the small regular payments are expected to come from monthly or semi-monthly cream checks.

The board decided that it will make a special effort to reach farmers who are not now conveniently near its central office at Thief River Falls so that its varied services may be brought to a greater number of farmers of this county. The purchase of a deck of lambs for fattening, feed to finish off a flock of turkeys, the raising of potatoes for seed or commercial sale, are among the kinds of farm operations financed. Funds may be obtained for any of the many everyday enterprises of the general farmer or livestock producer, and even for making repairs and improvements and refinancing farm debts.

Funeral Rites Held for Ruth A. Oftelie

Funeral rites will be conducted Saturday afternoon, December 5, at the Zion Lutheran church, Rev. E. L. Tungseth officiating, for Miss Ruth Alvina Oftelie, who died at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon in a local hospital.

Miss Oftelie was born July 14, 1900, at Climax, Minn. She was residing, before her illness and death, with her father on a farm a mile east of the city.

In addition to her father, O. K. Oftelie, Miss Oftelie is survived by her brothers Halvor of this city, Carl of West Allis, Wisc., Willie of Seattle, Wash., and Edward, Guy, and Walter, all of Detroit, Mich., and her sisters, Mrs. J. J. Cox and Anne of Minneapolis, and Mrs. William Kuseak of Seattle, Wash.

LOCAL ELKS WILL HOLD HOMECOMING PARTY SATURDAY

To Initiate Class of Twelve; State Elks President Will Speak

Members of the Elks lodge from communities thruout this section of the state will assemble Saturday evening in the local lodge rooms for the organisation's annual homecoming party, it was announced in notices sent out by Secretary O. C. Paulson early this week.

A feature of the meeting will be the initiation of the J. I. Hallihan class of twelve candidates, while District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler J. O. Yetter will make his official visit, and an address will be delivered by Leonard Eriksson of Fergus Falls, president of the Minnesota State Elks association.

For the entertainment of the members a group of vaudeville numbers from Minneapolis will be presented, and an elaborate lunch will be served at the close of the evening.

Penney Employes Here to Share in Christmas Bonus, Nelson Reports

Announcement was made today by H. E. Nelson, manager of the local J. C. Penney company store, that the associates of the store will share in a Christmas bonus. The Penney Company recently authorized an extra payment for over 25,000 associates in all stores, offices and warehouses. All regular employees who have been with the Company over a year will receive two weeks extra pay. Those employed for shorter periods will receive proportionate amounts.

"The year 1936 has been the most successful in the history of our business. The associates have contributed largely to that success. This bonus is not a bonus on any permanent plan. It is additional 1936 remuneration for loyalty and service that have played a part in making this the greatest year for the Penney Company."

Masonic Lodge to Name Officers This Evening

Employes Must Make Returns by Saturday Postmaster Anderson Says

With approximately 950 blanks due to be filled out and returned to the postoffice by local employes who come under the terms of the new federal social security act, Postmaster Andrew Anderson stated that up to Wednesday afternoon only 180 blanks had been returned. He reminded local citizens that Saturday, December 5, marks the last day on which the completed forms may be deposited at the postoffice and urged all interested persons to make a return not later than that date, after which, he said, the forms must be sent direct to the social security board at Baltimore, Maryland. He added that the postoffice will continue to issue blanks to employes who have not yet been supplied.

GAMBLE STORE IS NOW LOCATED IN BIGGER QUARTERS

Occupies New Home in Remodeled Lyceum Theatre Over Week-end

The Thief River Falls Gamble store opened for business Monday in commodious new quarters in the remodeled Lyceum theatre building, following a week-end of activity in which the large stock of merchandise was moved from its former location in the Masonic block.

Ralph McCain, manager, stated that the move was necessitated by the need of more room to accommodate the steadily increasing lines of merchandise handled. The new quarters have a width of 24 feet and a depth of 140 feet, with an attractive front of light red brick and plate glass with white metal trim.

A total of nine persons are now on the payroll of the institution, Mr. McCain said, the latest additions being Arthur Burnevik of Crookston and Don Holt, who is resuming his connection with the local store.

LOCAL MAN OFFERS PLAN TO REDUCE R. C. INTEREST ON LOANS

"There are two things to be considered, however. One is that our bonds carry an average interest rate of about 4½ per cent. We charge 5½ per cent, plus 1 per cent applied on principal. The 1 per cent spread in the interest rate is to cover our operating costs.

"If the mortgage rate is less than the interest rate we must pay, plus our cost of operation, the difference will have to be made up from some other source, and the only one available is a tax levy.

"The other factor is that a drop in the interest rate would slow down our liquidation. At present the federal land bank has a somewhat lower rate, which is an incentive to farmers to borrow there, and pay off their loans to us."

Mr. Brattland's proposals include:

"Re-appraisal of all lands, loans and contracts by boards consisting of a representative of the state named by the tax commission, a county commissioner, and an officer of the town board.

Re-financing at the re-appraisal value of all loans and sales contracts, at 3 per cent interest, payable annually.

Rental of all rural credit owned land, at 4 per cent of the new valuation, secured by cash crops.

First right, for a certain time, to former owners to re-purchase farms taken over by the department.

Sale to the people of the state of certificates bearing 2½ per cent interest, to finance the rural credit department.

NATIONAL TEA CO. NOW OBSERVING 37TH BIRTHDAY

Management Cites Cooperation With Producers of Food Products

National Tea company stores thruout the middle west are now celebrating their 37th anniversary of their founding, Martin E. Nelson, manager of the local store, announced today.

The first store was founded in Chicago in 1899 by George Rasmuson, then a young man, and the enterprise has since developed to the point where today it comprises more than 1,200 stores in eight Middle Western states.

As an illustration of the company's cooperation with producers, officials cited the concentrated drive made by the institution previous to Thanksgiving to increase the consumption of turkeys. The company, it was stated, has also cooperated with growers and processors of fresh, canned and dried fruits as well as with beef producers in an effort to aid in solving their marketing problems.

Annual Payments Take 4th of Department Income, Elsberg Says

Total bonded indebtedness of the Minnesota highway department, including interest now amounts to $62,847,107, according to a tabulation prepared by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. This debt runs from 1936 to 1952 inclusive and requires payment from highway revenues of more than $4,000,000 a year for 12 years and somewhat smaller installments for the last five years. The entire debt will be wiped out by the end of the 17 years.

"In the past two years $11,150,000 of bonds have been issued by the highway department", Mr. Elsberg said. "These will cost the state $3,750,000 in interest before they are retired. These bonds were issued chiefly to match federal highway aid. The legislature reduced motor vehicle license fees until the highway department had insufficient revenues to match federal allotments. Rather than lose the federal aid, however, the legislature authorized the sale of bonds to make up the lack of current income.

"Of the total highway debt, $48,640,144 represents principal and $14,206,963 is interest.

"Bond payments now take more than 25 per cent of the highway department's total annual state revenues. I do not believe that any more highway bonds should be issued until our present obligations have been substantially reduced."

FIRST CALL FROM DOCTOR IN 50 YEARS

Northfield.—Some miracle more virulent than the ordinary tribe must have obtained access to the system of W. E. Hibbard, pioneer resident of Northfield, who was born 359 years to the day after Columbus discovered America, in that he thought it worth while last week to call a doctor—the first time in more than 50 years. Even then, his illness proved to be only a case of influenza which left him, after a few days, hale and hearty. A medical examination revealed that not one in a thousand at his age can show the same freedom from defects which this 85-year old man possesses.

PWA ALLOTMENTS IN STATE TO NOV. 1 TOTAL 21 MILLION

State and Its Localities Add $26,000,000 to the Total

The Public Works Administration, during the period from July 13, 1933 to November 1, 1936, made allotments in Minnesota totaling $21,002,429, which provide for the construction of 255 non-Federal projects estimated to cost $47,416,152, according to information received by Roland Hill, Acting State Director of the National Emergency Council.

The contributions of the state and its localities in furthering this large work program aggregate $26,413,723. Up to November 1st, 120 projects were completed.

Under Title II of the National Industrial Act of 1933, P.W.A. grants were limited to thirty per cent of the actual construction cost of a project; and under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935, the grant was increased to forty-five per cent of the total cost of a project. The balance, 70% or 55%, was to be financed by the state or local sponsor.

P.W.A. projects in Minnesota consist almost entirely of schools, sewers, sewage disposal plants and water works. The remainder of the projects are mostly confined to road and street construction, to hospitals, court houses and libraries.

Early School Days Here

We believe Times readers will find the following description of the school here in about 1890 and school days of that period, written by Homer F. Mussey interesting. The article was written about 21 years ago:

"The school building faced the south and was set back from the street about 60 feet. It was a typical old-style school and its exterior appearance was not particularly inviting. When it was first erected it might have been painted a blueish gray, but the weather of several seasons had marred its beauty and dulled and faded the color of the paint.

"Teacher's desk stood at the north end of the room. Rows of double seats accommodated the scholars and 'pals' sat together. Each desk was marked with the initials of former occupants, either scratched in the varnish or cut with a jack-knife deep into the wood.

"When the cold weather set in the school board provided a large box stove for heating purposes. The girls took turns cleaning the school room while the boys brought in the wood and tended the fire.

"At the time the building was erected this was district No. 107. Carl Kretzschmar was chairman of the board; Charles Hobbecke was secretary and W. W. Gibbs treasurer. Miss Wallin who had the distinction of teaching a term of school in what now is Thief River Falls in 1883, had been engaged as an instructor in 1890, continuing in educational work here until April, 1902, when deafness made it necessary for her to relinquish the textbook for a more suitable employment.

"The school board of district No. 107 in 1891 faced problems no less grave than does the Board of Education of district No. 18 today. The enrollment of the school was steadily increasing and on June 13, 1892, it was decided to call a special meeting of the voters to discuss the feasibility of securing a site and erecting a school building. By this time two rooms could not accommodate the enrollment and the overflow was handled in the building occupied by the Northwestern hotel on LaBree St. north.

"The site of the present Central school was purchased on June 17, 1893—just a year after the agitation was started. The consideration for the 12 lots was $1,240. Near the close of the school year in 1892 there were 124 pupils in actual attendance, this showing the rapid increase that made imperative increased accommodations.

"Pupils were required to purchase their books and in many homes may be found the textbooks used 25 years ago (about 46 years ago now). Some even have retained the old slates that now have been superseded by paper and pencil, the latter being less noisy and more sanitary. Well remembered is the first catastrophe of school days—the broken slate resulting from a fall to the floor through careless handling."

We omit a paragraph here and resume with reference to the Indians here in the early years:

"During the period in which the little old school house was occupied the Indians, then very numerous in this section, made their headquarters at the Aos store and the school children were often late on account of a too deep interest in the redskins.

"Events of the school year which still remain vivid in the minds of the pupils were the occasional public entertainments given in the village hall and participated in by young and old. Those were gala nights for the children who for weeks previous had studied and practiced for the 'big night'. Dialogues and recitations with a few songs comprised the programs which were generally liberally attended and applauded."

Hurdling another portion of the article we encounter a paragraph telling of the formation of another school district:

"Shortly after the purchase of the site for the Central school residents of the East Side, then known as Red Lake Rapids (although it was not incorporated) instituted a movement which resulted in the organization of school district No. 57. The organization being perfected school was held in whatever rooms were available—the Proctor residence at the corner of Bridge street and St. Paul avenue where the Melgaard residence now stands, and a house about two blocks farther south on St. Paul avenue which has since been remodled or removed.

"Here also lack of room was a problem. Pupils sat three to a double seat and the writer and a chum, 'Bobbie' Bye, were accommodated with chairs and a portion of the teacher's desk as a study table. Although it is pleasing to think that a lack of room was responsible for the arrangement, the truth might reveal the fact that the teacher was thus able to eliminate a goodly portion of mischief from her daily worries."

This is certainly a vivid cross-section study of the old school days here and we plan to present further paragraphs in another article.

SKUNKS APPEAR AT SCHOOL; VACATION

Luverne—"A feller's best friend", according to vote of the school children in a school near Jasper, is the skunk, which is not generally accepted as a very popular little animal. But, when a den of the black and white cats invaded the schoolhouse, so that it meant a vacation for the pupils, that is a different proposition. The odorous little animals took up their home in the walls of the building and made their presence so well known to the students and teacher that classes had to be discontinued. A meeting of the board was necessitated to devise ways and means by which the skunks could be persuaded to move without leaving an enduring calling card, and school was dismissed for a week before the animals could be eradicated.

VISIONS OF OIL FIELDS DAMPENED

Moorhead—With visions of a rush to new gas and oil fields in Minnesota, chemists were called from the neighboring agricultural college in Fargo to determine the nature of the gas and the Moorhead fire department rushed to the scene to extinguish flames from a newly drilled well. While Chris Miller, well driller, worked with his drill in anticipation of locating water for a farmer, a confusion of bubbling fumes arose and flames shot into the air. The farmer's picture of 'getting rich quick,' soon faded when the theory was expressed that the fumes which caused a clear blue flame to burn, were gasses formed by nearby swamps.

Reminds Public Holiday Is Now Only Three Weeks Distant

With the holiday season only three weeks distant, Postmaster Andrew Anderson today issued a request of patrons of the local postoffice to cooperate by forwarding their Christmas mail as early as possible.

He also called attention to the fact that Christmas letters and parcels destined for Norway, Sweden, England and other European countries should leave this city not later than the end of next week to insure arrival at their destination by December 25.

"During the holiday period", said Mr. Anderson, "the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days.

"Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards and letters by Christmas Day the public should shop and mail early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can attend to your holiday mailing a week or ten days before Christmas, according to distance."

Production Credit Association Directors

At the recent conference held at Detroit Lakes the directors of this and several other associations discussed the workings of their system through which a practical plan is worked out jointly by the association and each member-borrower so that he can pay off the loan, either on small regular installments or out of returns from some major project, such as marketing a carload of livestock, a quantity of grain, or a wool clip. Most of the small regular payments are expected to come from monthly or semi-monthly cream checks.

The board decided that it will make a special effort to reach farmers who are not now conveniently near its central office at Thief River Falls so that its varied services may be brought to a greater number of farmers of this county. The purchase of a deck of lambs for fattening, feed to finish off a flock of turkeys, the raising of potatoes for seed or commercial sale, are among the kinds of farm operations financed. Funds may be obtained for any of the many everyday enterprises of the general farmer or livestock producer, and even for making repairs and improvements and refinancing farm debts.

Announcement was made today by H. E. Nelson, manager of the local J. C. Penney company store, that the associates of the store will share in a Christmas bonus. The Penney Company recently authorized an extra payment for over 25,000 associates in all stores, offices and warehouses. All regular employees who have been with the Company over a year will receive two weeks extra pay. Those employed for shorter periods will receive proportionate amounts.

"The year 1936 has been the most successful in the history of our business. The associates have contributed largely to that success. This bonus is not a bonus on any permanent plan. It is additional 1936 remuneration for loyalty and service that have played a part in making this the greatest year for the Penney Company."

Employes Must Make Returns by Saturday Postmaster Anderson Says

With approximately 950 blanks due to be filled out and returned to the postoffice by local employes who come under the terms of the new federal social security act, Postmaster Andrew Anderson stated that up to Wednesday afternoon only 160 blanks had been returned. He reminded local citizens that Saturday, December 5, marks the last day on which the completed forms may be deposited at the postoffice and urged all interested persons to make a return not later than that date, after which, he said, the forms must be sent direct to the social security board at Baltimore, Maryland. He added that the postoffice will continue to issue blanks to employes who have not yet been supplied.

GAMBLE STORE IS NOW LOCATED IN BIGGER QUARTERS

Occupies New Home in Remodeled Lyceum Theatre Over Week-end

The Thief River Falls Gamble store opened for business Monday in commodious new quarters in the remodeled Lyceum theatre building, following a week-end of activity in which the large stock of merchandise was moved from its former location in the Masonic block.

Ralph McCain, manager, stated that the move was necessitated by the need of more room to accommodate the steadily increasing lines of merchandise handled. The new quarters have a width of 24 feet and a depth of 140 feet, with an attractive front of light red brick and plate glass with white metal trim.

A total of nine persons are now on the payroll of the institution, Mr. McCain said, the latest additions being Arthur Burnevik of Crookston and Don Holt, who is resuming his connection with the local store.

LOCAL MAN OFFERS PLAN TO REDUCE R. C. INTEREST ON LOANS

"There are two things to be considered, however. One is that our bonds carry an average interest rate of about 4½ per cent. We charge 5½ per cent, plus 1 per cent applied on principal. The 1 per cent spread in the interest rate is to cover our operating costs.

"If the mortgage rate is less than the interest rate we must pay, plus our cost of operation, the difference will have to be made up from some other source, and the only one available is a tax levy.

"The other factor is that a drop in the interest rate would slow down our liquidation. At present the federal land bank has a somewhat lower rate, which is an incentive to farmers to borrow there, and pay off their loans to us."

Mr. Brattland's proposals include:

"Re-appraisal of all lands, loans and contracts by boards consisting of a representative of the state named by the tax commission, a county commissioner, and an officer of the town board.

Re-financing at the re-appraisal value of all loans and sales contracts, at 3 per cent interest, payable annually.

Rental of all rural credit owned land, at 4 per cent of the new valuation, secured by cash crops.

First right, for a certain time, to former owners to re-purchase farms taken over by the department.

Sale to the people of the state of certificates bearing 2½ per cent interest, to finance the rural credit department.

Annual Payments Take 4th of Department Income, Elsberg Says

Total bonded indebtedness of the Minnesota highway department, including interest now amounts to $62,847,107, according to a tabulation prepared by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. This debt runs from 1936 to 1952 inclusive and requires payment from highway revenues of more than $4,000,000 a year for 12 years and somewhat smaller installments for the last five years. The entire debt will be wiped out by the end of the 17 years.

"In the past two years $11,150,000 of bonds have been issued by the highway department", Mr. Elsberg said. "These will cost the state $3,750,000 in interest before they are retired. These bonds were issued chiefly to match federal highway aid. The legislature reduced motor vehicle license fees until the highway department had insufficient revenues to match federal allotments. Rather than lose the federal aid, however, the legislature authorized the sale of bonds to make up the lack of current income.

"Of the total highway debt, $48,640,144 represents principal and $14,206,963 is interest.

"Bond payments now take more than 25 per cent of the highway department's total annual state revenues. I do not believe that any more highway bonds should be issued until our present obligations have been substantially reduced."

FIRST CALL FROM DOCTOR IN 50 YEARS

Northfield.—Some miracle more virulent than the ordinary tribe must have obtained access to the system of W. E. Hibbard, pioneer resident of Northfield, who was born 350 years to the day after Columbus discovered America, in that he thought it worth while last week to call a doctor—the first time in more than 50 years. Even then, his illness proved to be only a case of influenza which left him, after a few days, hale and hearty. A medical examination revealed that not one in a thousand at his age can show the same freedom from defects which this 85-year old man possesses.

PWA ALLOTMENTS IN STATE TO NOV. 1 TOTAL 21 MILLION

State and Its Localities Add $26,000,000 to the Total

The Public Works Administration, during the period from July 13, 1933 to November 1, 1936, made allotments in Minnesota totaling $21,002,429, which provide for the construction of 255 non-Federal projects estimated to cost $47,416,152, according to information received by Roland Hill, Acting State Director of the National Emergency Council.

The contributions of the state and its localities in furthering this large work program aggregate $26,413,723. Up to November 1st, 120 projects were completed.

Under Title II of the National Industrial Act of 1933, P.W.A. grants were limited to thirty per cent of the actual construction cost of a project; and under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935, the grant was increased to forty-five per cent of the total cost of a project. The balance, 70% or 55%, was to be financed by the state or local sponsor.

P.W.A. projects in Minnesota consist almost entirely of schools, sewers, sewage disposal plants and water works. The remainder of the projects are mostly confined to road and street construction, to hospitals, court houses and libraries.

Early School Days Here

We believe Times readers will find the following description of the school here in about 1890 and school days of that period, written by Homer F. Mussey interesting. The article was written about 21 years ago:

"The school building faced the south and was set back from the street about 60 feet. It was a typical old-style school and its exterior appearance was not particularly inviting. When it was first erected it might have been painted a bluish gray, but the weather of several seasons had marred its beauty and dulled and faded the color of the paint.

"Teacher's desk stood at the north end of the room. Rows of double seats accommodated the scholars and 'pals' sat together. Each desk was marked with the initials of former occupants, either scratched in the varnish or cut with a jack-knife deep into the wood.

"When the cold weather set in the school board provided a large box stove for heating purposes. The girls took turns cleaning the school room while the boys brought in the wood and tended the fire.

"At the time the building was erected this was district No. 107. Carl Kretzschmar was chairman of the board; Charles Rohbecke was secretary and W. W. Gibbs treasurer. Miss Wallin who had the distinction of teaching a term of school in what now is Thief River Falls in 1883, had been engaged as an instructor in 1890, continuing in educational work here until April, 1902, when deafness made it necessary for her to relinquish the textbook for a more suitable employment.

"The school board of district No. 107 in 1891 faced problems no less grave than does the Board of Education of district No. 18 today. The enrollment of the school was steadily increasing and on June 13, 1892, it was decided to call a special meeting of the voters to discuss the feasibility of securing a site and erecting a school building. By this time two rooms could not accommodate the enrollment and the overflow was handled in the building occupied by the Northwestern hotel on LaBree St. north.

"The site of the present Central school was purchased on June 17, 1893—just a year after the agitation was started. The consideration for the 12 lots was $1,240. Near the close of the school year in 1892 there were 124 pupils in actual attendance, this showing the rapid increase that made imperative increased accommodations.

"Pupils were required to purchase their books and in many homes may be found the textbooks used 25 years ago (about 46 years ago now). Some even have retained the old slates that now have been superseded by paper and pencil, the latter being less noisy and more sanitary. Well remembered is the first catastrophe of school days—the broken slate resulting from a fall to the floor through careless handling."

"During the period in which the little old school house was occupied the Indians, then very numerous in this section, made their headquarters at the Aos store and the school children were often late on account of a too deep interest in the redskins.

"Events of the school year which still remain vivid in the minds of the pupils were the occasional public entertainments given in the village hall and participated in by young and old. Those were gala nights for the children who for weeks previous had studied and practiced for the 'big night'. Dialogues and recitations with a few songs comprised the programs which were generally liberally attended and applauded."

Hurdling another portion of the article we encounter a paragraph telling of the formation of another school district:

"Shortly after the purchase of the site for the Central school residents of the East Side, then known as Red Lake Rapids (although it was not incorporated) instituted a movement which resulted in the organization of school district No. 57. The organization being perfected school was held in whatever rooms were available—the Proctor residence at the corner of Bridge street and St. Paul avenue where the Melgaard residence now stands, and a house about two blocks farther south on St. Paul avenue which has since been remodled or removed.

"Here also lack of room was a problem. Pupils sat three to a double seat and the writer and a chum, 'Bobbie' Bye, were accommodated with chairs and a portion of the teacher's desk as a study table. Although it is pleasing to think that a lack of room was responsible for the arrangement, the truth might reveal the fact that the teacher was thus able to eliminate a goodly portion of mischief from her daily worries."

SKUNKS APPEAR AT SCHOOL; VACATION

Luverne—"A feller's best friend", according to vote of the school children in a school near Jasper, is the skunk, which is not generally accepted as a very popular little animal. But, when a den of the black and white cats invaded the schoolhouse, so that it meant a vacation for the pupils, that is a different proposition. The odorous little animals took up their home in the walls of the building and made their presence so well known to the students and teacher that classes had to be discontinued. A meeting of the board was necessitated to devise ways and means by which the skunks could be persuaded to move without leaving an enduring calling card, and school was dismissed for a week before the animals could be eradicated.

VISIONS OF OIL FIELDS DAMPENED

Moorhead—With visions of a rush to new gas and oil fields in Minnesota, chemists were called from the neighboring agricultural college in Fargo to determine the nature of the gas and the Moorhead fire department rushed to the scene to extinguish flames from a newly drilled well. While Chris Miller, well driller, worked with his drill in anticipation of locating water for a farmer, a confusion of bubbling fumes arose and flames shot into the air. The farmer's picture of getting rich quick, soon faded when the theory was expressed that the fumes which caused a clear blue flame to burn, were gasses formed by nearby swamps.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

THIRTY STUDENTS ANSWER OPENING CALL FOR DECLAM

Work Now Underway for Selection of Reading for Contestants

The announcement, that the students who wished to take part in the Declamatory contest must sign up, was met with great enthusiasm by many of the pupils of Lincoln High School. Thirty-one students have signed up, which is a considerably greater number than last year. They are the following: Fae Belcher, Joyce Bennes, Jean Baker, Mary Chommie, Frances Stenberg, Helen Haroldson, Lorraine Amundson, Yvonne Anderson, Violet Langevin, Arda Crown, Dagny Tungseth, Elaine Douglas, Doris Hostvet, Minnie Omen, Margaret Jacobson, Gloria Quist, Joan Dahlquist, Ardith Haney, Bernice Halvorson, Leona Bratland, Marjorie Matheson, Ragna Folkedahl, Maugerite Simonson, Mildred Jensen, Ann Hillyer, Thomas Jorde, Robert Du Champ, Fred Kavanough, Clifford Olsson, Joyce Paquin, and Mary Rolland.

Many of the contestants have not yet selected their readings. Their selections will be put in a later edition of the Progress.

THE KEYHOLE PEEKER

We hear Don Lorentson has got his drivers license back (much to our disgust). Well, take it easy Don.

Jack A and Milt N. seem to make a practice of breaking up peaceful little parties. (Imagine them throwing water in thru the windows!)

I'll bet there's lots of broken hearted girls in school now that Roger W. has gone, and just in the midst of a budding romance with Mary C. too.

And who is the Junior boy who's been trying to "date up" Joyce O? None other than Jesse H. (As yet it's been in vain.)

And what's that we hear about Evelyn Tungseth and Pomeroy Hill? (Each man for himself, Mel H.).

A lot of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaires are resulting from Joyce O. party. Even the most masculine of our football team. Some fun eh?

Several N. W. Schools on Progress Exchange List

The Lincoln High School Progress is now exchanging papers with several Minnesota high schools and colleges. Each week the Progress receives a paper and in return sends a copy of ours to the school from which the paper is received.

At present we are exchanging papers with the following schools: Hallock High School, Pelican Rapids High School, Crookston High School, Warren High School, and Luther College, Bemidji State Teachers College, Gustavus Adolphus College, Concordia College, Hamline University, and St. Olaf College.

These papers are of interest primarily to the Progress Staff as they permit them to notice particular characteristics and benefit from them. But they are also of interest to students who were former residents of these towns or have relatives and friends there. Several of our faculty members are alumni of some of these colleges and are interested in activities at their Alma Mater.

These papers are kept in the Progress room, and are available to anyone who cares to see or read them.

WIND-CHILL

And, oh, did our teachers have good times during vacation. And as you might guess, they won't tell what they did, either.

Basketball is here again—hurrah—now for a few good times on Friday nights. And it won't be long before we skate in the new arena.

Mae Lindquist is objecting to the interchanging of names—Lindquist to Moline, in last week's "Wind-chill". The Hazel Romeo seems to visit Mae Lindquist not Mae Moline. Mae Moline is interested in Red Lake Falls. Enuff said.

Lenny H. is back in school and is a certain young lady highly elated. (There's a two bit word for you.)

Wear your smoked glasses to the game tomorrow. Your going to see ten of the flashiest basketball outfits you ever saw. And a flashy team too!

It seems that Mr. Montague could have been another Rudy Vallee or else some of his ancestors must have been Swiss Yodelers.

The slogan of the modern girls is "I came, he saw, I conquered."

Famous finales: Then came the dawn; and we still weren't home.

Another school annual is on the way with the selection of the four Prowler department heads by a Senior electoral committee, announcements heralding the coming of the 1937 Prowler were gladly received by the school body. This year the prospects seem better than ever before that a better annual than has been issued for some time will make its appearance next spring. The competent staff is headed by Vernon Wedul as editor, Lois Morell as assistant editor, and Bruce Prichard as business manager with Elizabeth Dahlen as his aide. The staff is already at work collecting material and at present pictures of all class members are being taken and they are expected to be finished before Christmas. A good deal of work remains for the staff assembling all materials but with the full cooperation of the student body the '37 Prowler promises to be a better annual than in the past years.

PROWLERETTE'S CORNER

Whoops and with a heap o' squelin and a pile of "paws up" commands the tourney in volley ball is over with the following results:

First game, Sophs lost to Frosh 26-22.

Third game, Frosh lost to Juniors 28-23.

That makes it even until we count total points each for Frosh and Sophs and 48 for the "Jr.-Sr." aggregation. Now we want a "Grudge Battle" between the 49'rs just to see teeth fly and "paws up" again.

Now comes basketball and to wind up the volley ball season a G. A. A. get-together program. Yeah, really!

Skating theme on Bulletin No. 3 is a honey—All in blue and gold 'n stuff. The artists are: Evie Tungseth, Half Pint Lee, "It" girl Thompson and Ellen Olson.

Meet you on the ice—standing up, I hope.

Constant Free Food

The only kitchen in the world through which free food constantly flows is located in the basement of the great Cistercian monastery in Alcobaca, Portugal, says Collier's Weekly. Whenever fish is wanted for dinner, all the chef has to do to get a supply is to lower his net into the branch of the Alcoa river, which conveniently runs right through the middle of this gigantic room.

BAND NOTES

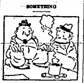
The Band officers have decided that in order to get a letter, the band members must have no more than three unexcusable absences.

After Christmas the Home Economics classes will start to work on the new Band Uniforms. They hope to have them ready for the first District tournament Basket ball game.

The School Board has purchased new instruments for the band. They are the following: Baritone horn, Bruce Prichard; two French Horns, Vivian and James Skarstad; and symbols, Joyce Bennes.

The Band has two new members. They are Beatrice Pederson, who played in the Fergus Falls Band, Clarinet; and Martha Havel, Mellophone.

SOMETHING



Weary—I read de odder day dat at de age of sixty-five a man has taken in 95 tons of feed.

New Members Added as Pep Squad Begins Work

The Pep Squad under the able direction of Miss Lois Thoreson, is busy preparing varied and original routines, which they will perform during the halves of the Basketball games. The Pep Squad is anticipating performing at the out of town basketball games as well as the home games. The ourfits are the same as last year; namely, royal blue flannel slacks, old gold blouses, and blue triangular ties.

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

The boys of the Shop II classes recently completed a project of much merit and utility to the industrial training department. The project involved the laying of 280 feet of gas pipe line on the west side of Lincoln high school to the shop. Working plans and complete specifications were worked out by each student in advance of the project.

The project itself involved the digging of the trench to bury the pipe, the cutting, threading, and fitting of all connections, the testing of the line, and the installation of a gas furnace in the shop.

The gas furnace will have numerous uses in the department, including its use for soldering or melting metals, or hardening and annealing of steel. Keen interest was shown by the boys in doing the work. The results are most gratifying.

The Agriculture I, II, and IV classes have enjoyed during the past week movies on talkie films dealing with agriculture. These films were furnished by Lund and Tunberg, local Ford dealers. The films were entitled "Farms of the Future", and "Looking Forward Through the Past". The first film showed new uses for the farm surpluses, and new products being made from the soy bean. These films were historical and educational, and not a form of advertising. They were greatly enjoyed by all students. These films will also be shown to the part-time students.

Mr. Harrison and the students have greatly appreciated the courtesy of Lund and Tunberg in allowing these films to be shown to the classes.

His idea of wide open spaces is ten feet between his car and the one ahead.

PROWLIN' 'ROUND

And another basket ball season is here. It reminds yours truly of a few events last season.

Do you remember how decisively the Prowlers won their first home game last season?

Do you remember how each team would carefully guard our old star and captain, Mick? It'll be Bud that they watch this year. Yeah? And then watch Lenny, Don, Mick, Junior, and the rest come through while "Bud" plays a decoy.

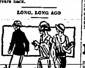
Do you remember how after playing only three scheduled games, "Bones" came through to be placed on the all-district team last year, and with such competitors as Wheelhouse of Crookston, Engelstad of Warren, and Sundeen of East Grand Forks. Bones will be in there all the time this year.

Remember how close a game that first one with Cass Lake was last year. It ought to be just as hard fought this year, so come one, come all.

If a few early seasons predictions are not out of order here are ours. It looks very much like the team to beat this year if it is possible to single only one out, will be the rangy, confident Pirates of Crookston. Our southern neighbors have several lettermen including such stars as Floyd Barnes, all-district forward; Rog Panser, potent scoring factor in the Pirate machine; and Wheelhouse, big center and guard, as well as two of last years reserves, Lundberg and Matson.

The Green Wave, no longer little, of East Grand Forks will again be represented by a big powerful outfit. Sorenson, guard of last years district champs, is back after resting for some time recovering from a fractured bone in his leg. Other East Side luminaries are Sundeen, big elusive center; Don Hiney, a fast shifty forward, and Raymond a guard and brother of the famous Raymond twins of two years back.

LONG, LONG AGO



"Percy is losing his memory. Its' been going on now for two months."

"So long as that? The poor boy must have forgotten all he ever knew by this time."

PROWLERS DOWN MIDDLE RIVER

First Game of Season Ends in Victory for Locals

The Prowlers opened their annual basketball season Tuesday night playing a game with Middle River and handing them a trimming of 37 to 16. It took all of the first half for the local boys to get accustomed to the unusually small floor and also a team from Middle River composed of five very spirited boys. At the end of the first quarter the Prowlers found themselves trailing by two points at 8 to 6 but during the second period they managed to settle with a tie, 12 to 12.

The last half, however presented a different picture when the locals rolled their score up to 37 and held Middle River to only two more field goals which brought their tally to 16. Lee, Mickelson, and Helquist of the Prowlers seemed to be right at home of the small floor while a few of the others found the lack of space a great handicap. The smallest boy on the team, Roy Lee, was high scorer making seven field goals and a free shot for a total of fifteen points. Middle River's high point man was Carriere who had four field goals, or eight points, to his credit.

Defeat Goodridge

In a fast but erratic game Plummer defeated Goodridge by the lopsided score of 20 to 3. It was a fast exciting game dimmed only by the inability of the Plummer team to find the basket. Time after time Plummer was in for good close shot only to find their efforts to be of no avail because of their inability to put the ball through the hoop. Had Plummer been "on" there is no telling what the score might have been. Plummer's fast offensive basket ball failed to click because of the erratic passing and that, too, aided in keeping the score down.

The Plummer defense again showed its efficiency by holding the tall Goodridge team to one basket for the entire game. It completely smothered the passing game Goodridge had and bottled up nicely any attempts they had at the basket. Due to this Goodridge was compelled to resort to long shots which did not go in and the rebounds were taken care of by the stalwart Plummer guards.

The Cardinals did not really begin to play basket ball until just a few minutes before the end of the game. Then their passing and shooting ability began to show itself. Give Plummer a few more games for experience and they will be a hard team to beat.

Langlie and Karlstad were high scorers of the Goodridge game with Ripple close behind. The guards, although they did not score often were open for many shots but hard luck kept them from denting the scoring column to any extent.

The crowd at the Goodridge game was slightly larger than that of the preceding game. It showed fine qualities of sportsmanship and supported its team to the utmost. Fans here are already looking ahead to the Warren game to be played at Warren Tuesday, Dec. 15. The next game is with Thief River Falls on Dec. 4.

The Junior and Senior classes had, during the week, made preparations for a party after the Goodridge game. Committies had arranged for music and refreshments, and had extended an invitation to the Goodridge players, coach, faculty and rooters. The lateness of the hour prevented most of the visitors from Goodridge from remaining until refreshments were served. Coffee and cake, served in the basement closed the party and sent all home in the best of spirits. All were glad Plummer had won its first conference game and all had enjoyed the party.

All the grade rooms had made arrangements for Thanksgiving programs and parties Wednesday afternoon.

THEY WILL BE SURPRISED WHEN WE TELEPHONE THEM.
YES. PEOPLE IN EUROPE DONT USE THE TELEPHONE NEARLY AS MUCH AS WE DO.

AMERICANS LEAD THE WORLD IN THEIR USE OF TELEPHONE SERVICE
The average American makes nine times as many telephone calls as the average European.
In the United States, you can get more and better service for your money than anywhere else in the world. Under such conditions, it is natural that Americans should use telephone service more than do the people of other countries.
Your telephone dollar has been buying more and more each year. It buys swifter, more accurate and more dependable local service; it buys out-of-town service amazingly faster, clearer and more sure at substantially lower cost; it buys service which reaches across oceans and covers almost the whole world.
For more than half a century, the Bell System has worked constantly to improve and extend telephone service and to keep down its cost to telephone users. In this way, it has helped to give the United States world leadership in telephone service.

GOVERNOR URGES CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE SUPPORT

Points Out Need of Continuing Campaign Against Tuberculosis

Governor Hjalmar Petersen urges Minnesota citizens to help Minnesota keep its high rating in the fight against tuberculosis in his statement issued in connection with the Christmas Seal campaign. The statement follows:

"The current drive for funds for the campaign against tuberculosis is the Thirtieth Annual Christmas Seal sale.

"As Governor, I wish to ask all citizens of the State to do their part in helping to obliterate the dreaded disease—tuberculosis. It is not necessary to remind you that the larger the fund raised in this drive, the more effective will be the campaign against tuberculosis.

"The emblem of the Christmas Seal has become the hall mark of human advancement in saving youngsters from early death and giving them years of health, instead.

"Minnesota, rated as one of the healthiest states in the Union, has long had the reputation of leading the nation in anti-tuberculosis activity. I ask that the people of our state contribute generously to this worthy cause and help us maintain Minnesota's present high rating among the states."

PEARL APPEARS IN FRIED OYSTERS

Tower—If oysters were served raw instead of fried in local restaurants, their value might be increased five hundred times, it was proved by the man whose order of fried oysters was accompanied by a pearl. Estimated values of the pearl, before cooking, varied from seven cents to $112, but during the process of cooking its value had decreased to three cents. The man who enjoyed the serving of oysters averaged its pre-cooked value at $15 and for that amount he could have had several more meals.

Authority at 'U' Farm Urges Consumer Aid in Killing Turkey Surplus

With the largest turkey crop on record going to the markets, both in Minnesota and in the United States as a whole, Dr. W. A. Billings, extension veterinarian at University Farm, St. Paul, is advising Minnesota consumers, both urban and rural, to "go turkey."

The number of birds going to the market will probably total 20 million or more, an all-time record for turkey production in this country. As a result, turkey raisers are recieving several cents per pound less than they did last year. In addition to the low price, states Dr. Billings, high feed prices are adding to the turkey raiser's difficulties. "Some farmers," Dr. Billings said, "have clamored for turkey production control, but this lowered price and feed costs which will doubtless remain high until the 1937 grain is harvested will probably react to produce a smaller turkey crop next year."

The turkey situation can at least partially be remedied by cooperation from the consumer, and growers and produce men are hoping that the consumer will step into the turkey picture and take full advantage of the low retail prices. Housewives, says Dr. Billings, have rarely been able to satisfy the family craving for turkey at such prices. Compared to last year, almost everying on the holiday table will be higher in price except turkey. Dr. Billings goes on to say that the consumer should not lose the opportunity to eat turkey this year, for he is not likely to buy birds so favorably for some time to come. Buying at least one turkey this year on the part of the consumer, and preferably two would go a long way towards wiping out the surplus that faces the turkey grower.

Civilian Conservation Camps Conquer Typhoid, Medical Group Reveals

The experience of the Civilian Conservation Corps camps with typhoid fever may well be taken as a measure of the success of modern methods for control of this ancient plague.

Members of the Minnesota State Medical Association's Committee on Public Health Education cite recently published figures for the 1,400,000 men in the CCC Camps to show that there is no longer any need for typhoid outbreaks anywhere and that proper sanitation and hygiene will virtually wipe out typhoid fever from civilian communities.

In the three years of their existence, camp records show a rate of only 0.32 per thousand men in 1933, 0.27 in 1934 and 0.26 in 1935.

This record was achieved in spite of the fact that the camps are located for the most part in remote districts where typhoid is more prevalent than in the cities.

The United States Army Medical Corps has supervised all sanitary arrangements for the camps, examined all of the men and administered typhoid vaccine as a routine procedure.

The very small number of scattered cases reported were, in most cases, infected before they went to the camps.

For those who live where there is adequate protection of milk and water and food supplies, vaccination against typhoid is not regarded by the physicians as a routine necessity. People who are going into remote districts, where the sources of milk, water and food are not known to be protected should take the same precautions that have been so successful in protecting the CCC camps.

Red Lake Falls Youth Named to West Point

Paul J. Ducharme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ducharme of Red Lake Falls, has received the welcome news that he has been appointed by Congressman R. T. Buckler of Crookston as his first principal candidate for West Point, having passed his October 17 examination with a standing of 82.71 per cent, the highest of any of the candidates, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette. All that Paul needs to do now is to pass his physical examination in order to be admitted to the corps as a cadet next July, and there should be no difficulty in doing that. Paul graduated from the Red Lake Falls high school last June and is now attending the University of North Dakota.

MANY ANGLEWORMS MILD WEATHER SIGN

Red Wing—The fact that the angleworms, which usually go deep into the ground early in the fall are being found in abundance near the surface is being determined by Red Wing citizens as another reason—and a new one—for predicting that King Winter is not going to be very much in evidence for the next few months. Prairie Island Indians who admit they were somewhat "off color" a year ago are positive that the coming season will be easy on the fuel supply, basing their predictions on thin corn cob husks and flimsy muskrat structures.

ROUGH FISH REMOVAL CONTRACTS APPROVED

Applications of commercial fishermen for winter rough fish removal were approved last week by the state Conservation Commission and operations will begin as soon as ice begins to form in Minnesota lakes. Rough fish will be removed principally from lakes in the southern zone. Commercial fishermen must post a bond of not less than $1,000, which must be approved by the department of administration and finance and by the attorney-general.

HUNTER SURPRISED AT HIS OWN SKILL

Fergus Falls—A hunter who almost fell over with surprise when he saw a buck drop was M. H. Videen, who shooting at a deer for the first time, with the first shell fired from a new 30-30 high powered rifle, killed the buck and brought to camp the first deer killed. And after firing the one shell, Videen sold the rifle at a gain of $3.00. Following the urge to purchase the gun, he joined 16 hunters on a trip to Tamarack, where he was placed by a guide on a "location" and given a few fundamental pointers on deer hunting. The shock to the hunting pupil came when, having been alone for only two or three minutes, he heard the crackling of twigs. Breathlessly awaiting results, Videen cocked his gun, a buck and a doe came into view and halted 125 feet from the gun. There was a "bang" and the buck dropped, the hunter almost falling with it in amazement of his skill.

FALSE TEETH AD BRINGS RESULTS

Duluth—"Set false teeth found. Owner identify, pay for ad", were [illegible] a gentleman, a little [illegible] quite toothless to the office of the Duluth newspaper which printed the advertisement. Whether the lost article carried the owner's initials or whether the man's appearance was enough proof, the teeth were properly identified by the person who revealed that it had been "quite a night" and that the teeth weren't the only thing he lost.

HONEST PERSONS TRAVEL HIGHWAY

Farmington — When ten-dollar bills are scattered along a busy highway and they remain there until the owner returns the next day, it is quite evident that honest people must traverse the highway, and that Diogenes, the sage who carried a lantern in the daytime looking for an honest man, wouldn't have had much trouble finding one in that community. A purse, containing $70 was lost on a road leading from Minneapolis to Farmington, the money, in ten dollar denominations, was scattered and when the owner returned to search for it the following day the bills could be picked up at intervals of 15 steps.

TOURIST INDUSTRY GIVES MINNESOTA 90 MILLION IN '36

Breaks All Records for Past Seven Years, State Bureau Reports

The largest annual income in the tourist industry in seven years, and the third largest annual income in the state's history poured into Minnesota in 1936, according to figures just released by George H. Bradley, director, Minnesota Tourist Bureau. Three high years in the records are 1929, the peak year, when 2,994,000 tourists spent $97,182,000; 1927, with 2,314,000 visitors expending $88,204,000; and 1936, with 2,662,000 tourists pouring $90,329,000 into the various channels of trade within the state.

While generally improving economic conditions played the major part in bringing about the gross income increase, appropriation of $80,000 by the 1935 legislature for advertising the state and its recreational endowements was responsible in large part for the gain, because it enabled the state to capitalize upon gains in the business world, according to Mr. Bradley.

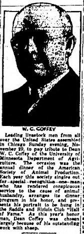
Gasoline taxes paid directly into the state treasury, one reliable index of tourist income, showed a gain of 25% in 1936 over 1934, rising to a total of $4,412,084 for the months of June, July and August this year, as compared to $3,510,506 in the same three months of 1934, a gain of $901,578, or more than 22 times the amount the state expended upon advertising. At the same time, nonresident fishing licenses reached an all-time peak, yielding an income of $160,000 in 1935, as compared to $150,000 in 1934. This year, on November 15, with returns still incomplete, gross income from tourists from this one source alone had reached 186,000 or $80,000 more than the total expended upon fish propagation by the Game and Fish department for the entire year.

Of the average tourist dollar, 25 cents went directly into the channels of retail trade; 21 cents for transportation, 20 cents for food, and a similar amount for lodging. Recreation, including licenses, tackle, golf clubs, etc., accounted for eight cents out of every dollar, while the balance, six cents, was spent for souvenirs and refreshments.

Plummer Will Levy No Village Taxes in 1937

As was the case in the current year, no tax for municipal purposes will be levied in Plummer for 1937, it was announced last week by A. H. Carlson, mayor of the village. He stated that the profits from the successful operation of the municipal liquor store have retired all indebtedness and pay the running expenses of the village government.

U Farm Dean Honored



W. C. COFFEY

Leading livestock men from all over the United States assembled in Chicago Sunday evening, November 29, to pay tribute to Dean W. C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota Department of Agriculture. The occasion was the annual dinner of the American Society of Animal Production. Each year this society singles out for special recognition one man who has rendered conspicuous service to the cause of animal husbandry, arranges its dinner program in his honor, and presents his portrait to be hung in the Saddle and Sirloin Club "Hall of Fame." As this year's honor man, Dean Coffey was chosen largely because of his outstanding work with sheep.

THIEF PLAYS ROLE OF GAME WARDEN

St. Cloud—The man who assumed the role of game warden, later turned out to be the thief. A group of local deer hunters, who were returning from their hunting trip, stopped in Brainerd, the fenders of their car loaded down with game, and were approached by a man who introduced himself as a game warden, demanding that the hunters show their licenses. They left the car and the deer and when they returned one of the deer had vanished. Investigation of the situation revealed that description of the man who had borrowed a knife, used in cutting the rope with which the animal was tied to the car, also suited the "game warden."

Since the first Christmas Seal was sold in 1907 the tuberculosis death rate has been cut two-thirds. But tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death between 15 and 45. Carry on the work by purchasing your share of Christmas Seals.

Thief River Falls, Minn.
Nov. 27, 1936

Dear Editor:

Some 120,000,000 people were on relief after election. Relief from the unmerciful campaign tactics which crowded the radio, the press and other public programs. Together with all the other citizens I have enjoyed this relief. I have therefore taken a recess from using space in the public forums of our papers. I almost hesitate to break this peaceful silence even now. But there are several matters which I like to discuss with friends and neighbors in this locality. I therefore ask space in your paper for a few brief articles.

The recent election as far as our state and nation is concerned, was a very decided victory for progressive and liberal government. Politically there is nothing so good that it has no evil. As good citizens we must pray and work that we may purge away that which is evil. When and where we find a poor spoke in the wheel, we will not discard the wheel, but replace the spoke. And that will be done when people are not blinded by party politics, but have their eyes open with reference to the men they elect. Let us not call anyone a party traitor because he can not vote for all the names on a party ticket. Only by exercising personal choice can the voters purge the party from unworthy candidates.

Mr. Jim Farley, who managed President Roosevelt's campaign for re-election, said that this was not a partisan election. Most certainly it was not. The Democratic party has no doubt gained much membership during the last three or four years. Yet the Democrats themselves do not imagine that all who voted for Roosevelt now were Democrats. The people did not vote for Roosevelt, the Democrat, but for Roosevelt, the Progressive. The man who has gained the confidence of the American people by his liberal leadership the last 3½ years. We, who are personally and politically dry, are not satisfied with the Wet portion of the New Deal. However, we are still more disgusted with the Republicans who cowardly dropped their Temperance plank. Our country is not yet ready to go back to the former Prohibition. Yet I do believe that the majority of our people now see the need of an uncompromising control and check of the liquor business.

In the national arena there was much edivence of the people voting for the man as over and above the party. There was Senator George W. Norris, who easily won a three-cornered race. He won over the Republican, as well as over the Democratic, opponent. He won the race on his own merits as an independent. There is Senator Borah of Idaho. He still sails under the Republican flag without apology. However, the people of his state know him as a progressive and gave this Republican senator a huge majority together with Roosevelt. Langer, an independent candidate for governor of North Dakota, won over both his opponents, one a Democrat, who had the support of the National Campaign. So, our people are still thinking in terms of men. Next week we will have a few comments on state politics.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume 26 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota, Thursday, Dec. 10, 1936 Number 50

TILT ENLIVENS COUNCIL MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

William Douville and C. M. Evenson Engage in Argument

PETITION ASKS FOR SEWER, WATER MAINS

Land O'Lakes Given Permit to Erect Feed Grinding Plant

The usually sedate sessions of the city council were varied at the December meeting Tuesday by an altercation involving William J. Douville, chairman of the Workman's Protective league, and C. M. Evenson, city supervisor of poor relief.

Charging in a written statement that Mr. Evenson had addressed him in unbecoming language and that he had exceeded his authority in escorting a non-resident relief family out of the county instead of getting the sheriff to do it, Mr. Douville demanded the resignation of Evenson.

The relief overseer responded that his strong language had been provoked by Douville's attitude, and asserted that he had acted with full authority in his treatment of the family in question, which, he said, had been entirely willing to leave the city. The council disposed of the matter by referring it to the poor relief committee.

A building permit was granted to Land O'Lakes creameries to erect a building to house a feed grinding plant on the Great Northern right-of-way. The building, which will be of frame construction and 30 by 60 feet in dimensions, involves an estimated expenditure of $1,000. Also granted was a permit to B. G. Rounds to remodel the residence east of the Soo Line tracks on Brige st., at an estimated cost of $800. The house, which was partly destroyed by fire, will be remodeled into a bungalow, it was indicated.

Attorney H. O. Chommie appeared in behalf of M. J. Poster, seeking a license to solicit dry cleaning for the Grossman Cleaners of Grand Forks. Local dry cleaners were present at the meeting to oppose issuance of the license on the ground that it is contrary to a city ordinance, and the council supported this view by rejecting the application.

A petition signed by residents of Arnold and Duluth avs. S. in the southwest section of the city requested that the city install water and sewer mains for a distance of approximately four blocks. The council indicated it would seek a transfer of WPA funds for the work from another project on the east side calling for the connection of the ends of mains in the outlying section.

Following reports that numerous residents on the outskirts of Thief River Falls are desirous of being included within the city limits, the council went on record as encouraging petitions with that objective, and the move was endorsed by Mayor W. W. Prichard.

Another wood cutting project to provide employment for relief clients in the city was discussed, and the council decided to investigate and try to locate an available wooded tract not too far away away from the city.

Following lengthy consideration of a report by the license committee, the council rejected the application of the firm of Yatesund & Tvedt for the transfer to it of the beer selling license now registered in the name of William Sheedy.

DEPOSITORS TAKE TITLE TO CITIZENS BLOCK ON MONDAY

Group of Depositors Acquire Ownership of Former Bank Building

The Citizens bank block became the property of the Citizens Depositors, Incorporated, last Monday evening when the board of the new corporation accepted the title and settlement in the deal that has been pending for some time. Last summer the Citizens Depositors, Incorporated was formed and officers elected. President is Rasmus Oen; S. K. Dahle, vice president; Adolf Eklund, Secretary-treasurer; with C. E. Hellquist and Chas. Hermanson composing the first board of directors. H. O. Chommie is the corporation counsel.

Last spring notices were sent out to depositors offering the opportunity of transferring a prospective dividend of 8% on their deposits for shares in the building. This was successfully carried out. The secretary now is preparing to issue such stock to the persons who have assigned their dividends for that purpose. The new corporation comes into possession of the large two story, steel and concrete block on the corner of Third st. and LaBree avenue, clear of all incumbrances and fully rented. It is one of the best and largest buildings in the city.

The room which the bank at one time occupied now has been made into a first class cafe known as the Sorenson Cafe. Other tenants have occupied the building for many years. Gilbert A. Brattland, special deputy examiner, also states that the request for transfer of dividends for this purpose had been very responsive. The assigning depositors he said, are to be commended on this move retaining the title of this valuable building among home people.

County Agent Files Report on 1936 Work

Douglass Estimates Soil Conservation Payments May Reach $100,000

The work of organizing Pennington county to qualify under the provisions of the federal soil conservation program occupied much of the attention of the county agent's office during the past nine months, it is revealed in the annual report of County Agent R. M. Douglass, completed during the past week.

The report states that 1,650 work sheets were made out covering 90 per cent of the farms in the county, and that a total of 1,420 farms were measured this fall for compliance. Benefit payments to Pennington county farmers, it is indicated, are expected to aggregate almost $100,000.

A total of 457 boys and girls, members of sixteen 4-H clubs, engaged in 590 projects during the current year under the supervision of the county agent's staff, much of this work being performed by Miss Thelma Solie, acting club leader, whose services were provided in part by a contribution from the Rotary club of this city.

Among the variety of activities in which the club members engaged were a one-act play contest, three home economics achievement days, fall achievement day for poultry and livestock, attendance of 83 county boys and girls at 4-H week at Northwest school in Crookston, participation in the county fair with 250 projects entered, and the attendance of twelve 4-H workers at the state fair and of nine at the junior livestock show in South St. Paul.

Other activities in which the county agent's office participated were the organization of the woman's home management project into 21 groups, and cooperation in Bang's testing, Red River valley winter shows, ram exchange day and rural electrification meetings.

FINE BIRDS ARE SHOWN AT 19TH POULTRY SHOW

Approximately 260 Entries in Show, Which Will End Friday

TURKEY SHOWING NOT UP TO EXPECTATIONS

4-H Division Judged Wednesday by Professor Herner

The choicest specimens of Northwestern Minnesota poultry flocks are now on display at the Auditorium in the 19th annual Pennington county poultry show, which will continue thru Friday.

Included in the show are approximately 260 entries, Secretary Vernon Copp of the poultry association announced, the predominating varieties of chickens on display being the White Rocks and White Wyandottes.

Show officials expressed disappointment in the relatively small number of turkeys on display in this year's event, ascribing the shortage to the fact that many flocks were disposed of during the Thanksgiving marketing season and to dissatisfaction with the prevailing market on the birds. The market classes of turkeys have been judged alive, but will be judged dressed today before awards are announced.

Judging started Wednesday afternoon and will be completed today by Professor M. C. Herner of Manitoba Agriculture college in Winnipeg.

Up to this morning judging of the 4-H classes had been completed, and the following awards were made:

Breeding class of chickens: 1. Elmer Ona, Silver Faced Wyandotte; 2. Dake Ayers, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds; 3. Melvin Ona, R. C. White Wyandotte; 4. Alert Ona, Jersey White Giants; 5. Lorraine Loeffler, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds. Market class chickens: Dake Ayers, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds, first. Market class Bronze turkeys: Leonard Yonke, first.

Awards in the other classes will be announced next week.

KING ABDICATES

The long drawn out controversy in England resulting from the determination of King Edward VIII to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, attractive Baltimore woman, reached its climax this morning when radio dispatches from London announced that the king had abdicated to clear the way to his marriage to Mrs. Simpson. Premier Stanley Baldwin had taken the lead in the campaign to force King Edward either to renounce the twice-divorced Mrs. Simpson or to give up the throne. The British parliament is meeting this morning to act on the abdication, it was announced. In the event the abdication becomes final, Albert, Duke of York, will become King Albert I.

Hockey League Play to Open December 19

First Home Game Scheduled Against Grand Forks December 27

The work of forming a sheet of ice on the skating rink in the new winter sports arena, is scheduled to get under way today, and is expected to be complete by Sunday so that hockey practice may get under way the first of the week. In charge of flooding operations will be Mike Van Jura, formerly of Fort Frances, Ontario, who is an experienced hockey player, and who will serve as ice tender during the season.

The schedule of games for the States-Dominion league was revised at a meeting of representatives of the six member teams in Warren Sunday. It calls for the Thief River Falls aggregation to play its first game at Emerson Saturday, December 19, followed by a contest at Roseau Wednesday, December 23.

The opening game in this city will be played Sunday, December 27, according to present plans, with the Grand Forks team furnishing the opposition. Each club will play eight games at home and eight away from home, the schedule ending February 21. Local men who attended the meeting in Warren Sunday include Alvin Christofferson, Earl Effinger, A. M. Senstad and A. B. Stenberg.

As the result of arrangements completed during the past week Walter H. DePaul, a graduate student at the University of Minnesota, will serve as coach of the senior hockey aggregation, as well as of the junior and intermediate teams. He has had ten years of hockey experience, playing at Eveleth, St. Cloud Teachers college and in Minneapolis, where last winter he was named a member of the city's all-star team.

HJALMAR HOSTVET FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH ON MONDAY

Minneapolis Bridge Co. Employe Dies Near Home During Night

On the coldest morning of the winter Monday, when the mercury dropped to 25 below zero, the body of Hjalmer Hostvet, 42 years old, lifelong resident of this community, was found frozen to death on a short-cut from the Soo Line tracks to his home, 200 feet distant at 216 Conley av. S.

The body was discovered shortly after 8 o'clock Monday morning by boys on their way to school. Mr. Hostvet had last been seen at midnight Sunday by several small boys who saw him on his hands and knees near where the body was found, but they apparently had failed to report the incident on reaching home. No organic defects were revealed in a post-mortem examination conducted by Coroner A. M. Smith.

Mr. Hostvet, who had served as bridge foreman for the Minneapolis Bridge company for nearly 20 years, and who recently had charge of steel construction on the Oen Mercantile company building, was born in this city in 1894 and grew to manhood on a farm near Hazel.

Funeral rites will be conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock from Zion Lutheran church, Rev. E. L. Tungseth, officiating, and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Hostvet was married in 1922 in this city to Miss Frieda Ristau, who survives him, together with a son, Dale, and two daughters, Doris and Gildie. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. John Erickson of this city and Mrs. Goldie Hukke of Brancepeth, Saskatchewan, Canada; and three brothers, Leslie of British Columbia; Ed of Anoka; and Alfred of Minneapolis. His parents and two sisters preceded him in death.

Old Saint Nick Will Pay Advance Visit to Local Children

WILL BE ESCORTED TO CITY AUDITORIUM

Local Stores Cooperate in Opening of Christmas Shopping Season

Little folks of this section of the state are thrilled by the announcement that their old friend Santa Claus will pay an advance visit to Thief River Falls next Saturday, December 12.

A message received from Saint Nick at the North Pole states that he will fly to the Canadian border and from there will travel on a special train on the Soo Line, arriving at the Soo station in Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. In charge of the train will be Harry W. Kinghorn as engineer and J. O. Yotter as conductor.

Santa asks that his little friends meet him at the station, from which he will ride on a big truck to the Auditorium, escorted by the Legion auxiliary drum corps and other musical organizations, as well as a welcoming committee. At the Auditorium, he hinted, he will have a real surprise for the boys and girls who assemble there to greet him.

Thief River Falls merchants, entering into the spirit of the occasion, which marks the formal opening of the Christmas shopping season, have equipped their stores with an unusually complete showing of holiday merchandise that will meet every demand of Northwestern Minnesota shoppers.

Every wanted article of merchandise is available in the large number of business places, and extra clerks will be on duty during the Christmas season so that there will be no tedious waits for service. A large number of stores are featuring Toylands, in which are displayed the season's newest ideas in children's toys in a wide range of prices to meet the requirements of every purse.

It is a certainty that every boy and girl who is able to walk or ride will plan on being at the Soo station Saturday to meet Santa Claus, and he assures them that they will be well repaid for their visit.

PETERSEN PLANS SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Needed to Act on Unemployment Insurance, Says Governor

Governor Hjalmar Petersen said Tuesday that a four-day special session of the legislature beginning December 23 probably will be necessary for Minnesota to receive unemployment insurance benefits under the national social security act.

"Federal officials have told us that Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio and Maryland are holding special sessions and that Pennsylvania last week passed legislation so those states would benefit under the national social security act," said Governor Petersen.

"New York, Pennsylvania and California, plus Ohio, provide almost half of congress and it looks now very much as though we'll have to have a special session so that Minnesota will not lose out.

"It looks like we need this legislation before the end of the year so that Minnesota will not lose the 90 per cent benefits from the estimated $3,000,000 which will be paid to the federal government by Minnesota employers under the unemployment insurance provisions.

Governor Petersen said that C. W. Eliot, general counsel for the national federal social security board, advised him and other Minnesota officials that the board would not recommend to congress any extension of the period in which to qualify. Governor Petersen said he expects to make his decision as to calling a special session within a few days.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Huge Losses Reflected in Booze Figures

Every dollar of liquor revenue received by the Federal Government costs ten in direct expense, says a statement issued by the Anti-Saloon League of America. During the fiscal year 1936 Federal liquor taxes amounted to $505,404,037 but the consumers paid $5,000,000,000 at retail for the liquor.

Crimes costs in the United States are set at $15,000,000,000 a year. While no official statistics have been gathered to show the part played by liquor in crime, yet it is notable that 23.9%, or nearly one-fourth, of the arrests reported from the states to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the first six months of 1936 were for offenses connected with liquor. For the past four years 20.4% or one-fifth, of the arrests reported from the states to the F. B. I. for the first six months of the year have been for offenses connected with liquor. It is well within the bounds of probability that liquor-connected crime cost the nation at least $3,000,000,000, without taking into account other crimes in which it was a contributing factor.

DEAR'S CHRISTMAS DOLL
By Helen Gaisford Waterman

DEAR was really too big to play with dolls. Yet, when she said that all she wanted for Christmas was a really nice doll, of course mama and everyone gave in.

People always were nice to Dear, probably because Dear was so nice. That was why everyone called her "Dear" instead of by name.

Such a doll, on Christmas morning, with real eyelashes, and long curls. It could walk, talk, and sleep. And it had a whole trunk of lovely dresses and shoes, and a little fur coat.

Dear dashed down to see it first thing Christmas morning, and then, when breakfast was over, she got her wraps, dressed the doll in its fur coat, and set out with its trunk under one arm, and it in the other. "She's so proud, she has to show it to her friends," smiled mama.

But when Dear returned, she had neither doll or trunk. "Why, Dear," said mama, "where's your doll?"

"I gave it away," Dear answered. "I do hope you won't mind. You see, I knew a little girl who had never had a doll in her whole life, and I wanted so to give her one on Christmas."

"But Dear, why didn't you say so? We could have bought one that would have been good enough, and you could have kept yours."

"That's why, mama," Dear explained. "It had to be just the nicest doll ever, to be fun. And oh, mama," she cried, her face beaming with happiness, "did you ever see a poor little girl with her first lovely Christmas present?"

Senator Shipstead Goes to Clinic at Rochester

Sen. Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, is on his way to Rochester, Minn., to consult the Mayo clinic.

He has been suffering from a gall bladder ailment for seven years, and recently was seriously ill in the Naval hospital at Washington. He left Washington late Tuesday for Rochester.

Before leaving, he issued a statement attacking the works progress administration for paying off drouth-stricken farmers who have been getting special drouth aid.

About 12,000 have been taken off the aid rolls in Minnesota, he said, and will be unable to get through the winter unless they are given some form of federal aid.

Condition of Pope Shows Continued Improvement

Sudden chilly weather ruined the hope of Pope Pius XI to leave his bed in Vatican City Tuesday and resume active duty.

Despite continued improvement in the pope's condition, Vatican officials said it was considered unwise for him to risk exposure.

The pontiff, recovering from a paralysis of the legs, was particularly disappointed because it was the day of the Immaculate Conception and its customary mass.

The 69-year old pontiff unwillingly yielded to the insistence of physicians that he consider himself still an invalid.

Further Reductions in Telephone Toll Rates Announced by Company

The American Telephone and Telegraph company announces a $12,000,000 reduction in long distance toll rates, effective January 15, the ninth reduction in ten years. Commenting on the new rates, Walter S. Gifford, president of the company, said:

"By its order of September 9 last, the federal communications commission instituted its first investigation of the long distance telephone rates of this company.

"The company was very glad to participate in conferences with representatives of the commission in an effort to work out the present rate problems by informal discussions rather than by the usual type of formal hearings, which are often highly controversial, long drawn out, and very costly to all concerned.

"It is gratifying that this effort has proved successful. The reduction of $12,000,000 on an annual basis, in the long lines toll charges, is substantially in excess of the reduction the company thought should be made at this time. We have decided to accept this reduction, however, in view of continued improvement in business conditions and in view particularly of the advantages which this method of dealing with rate problems promises for the public as well as for the commission and the company.

"The new rates will be effective as soon as the necessary schedules can be prepared and placed in the hands of operators throut the country.

LOCAL SHUT-INS TO BE SUPPLIED WITH USED RADIO SETS

Larson Co. Cooperates With Association for Crippled Children

The Minnesota Association for Crippled children will give between 300 and 400 reconditioned used radios to crippled shut-in kiddies who cannot afford to buy a radio. The gift will be made before Christmas and the association asks for early suggestions and information from the general public so that all worthy cases in Minnesota can be taken care of.

Anyone in this community knowing of a crippled child who should have one of these radios is asked to send a request direct to the association offices, 302 Hodgson Building, Minneapolis, giving the name and address of the child and the names of the parents. The applications for these gift radios will be checked by officials of the association and the distribution of the gifts at Christmas time will be under the supervision of the association. There are only 2 conditions to the gift. The child must be a shut-in, and the family unable to afford to purchase a radio.—The reason for these conditions are very apparent.

This plan for bringing sunshine and good cheer each year during the holiday season to the crippled children of Minnesota was inaugurated by The Roycraft Company, Philco radio distributors for Minnesota in cooperation with Philco radio dealers throughout the state. The Larson Co., local Philco dealer, has offered to supply the reconditioned radios for this particular community.

In 1883 they settled on a farm near Hazel in Rocksbury township, where Mrs. Anderson made her home until recently when she went to live with her daughter at St. Hilaire.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

Santa Claus will be a welcome visitor to the city Saturday afternoon. It is several years now since the old gentleman has made a public appearance locally. And this present trip is made possible only through the co-operation of the Soo Line and a group of its employees. The train will arrive promptly at 2:00 o'clock. Be on hand at the depot to give him a rousing reception.

Representatives of the Northern Packing Company of Grand Forks were well satisfied with their experiment in direct buying here Wednesday. Receipts far exceeded their expectations, totaling a big car of hogs and a light car of cattle. From the standpoint of the community a cash livestock market should prove advantageous. It means additional competition in the buying of one of our most important products and increased competition among buyers is certainly favorable to the sellers. If this method of buying proves to be successful over a long period of time it will be because the sellers are satisfied. And if the sellers are satisfied it will deserve to succeed. If the buyers do not "pay up" there soon will be nothing for them to buy and stock will move to market through those channels that are already established.

Now that Democracy is taking the place of Communism in Russia, developments in that country during the next few years will be more interesting than ever. For centuries the Russian people have been ruled by dictators. Now they are to be given an opportunity to express their views on questions of public policy and to take part in the election of their public officials. If, under their new constitution, the Russians are really permitted to enjoy these liberties then it will not be long before the country will be divided into various political groups and each group will strive to gain power. Then will come the real test of the ability of the Russian people to govern themselves.

Demand for electricity has now increased to a point where both the large engines are required to pull the peak load. But the load can increase quite a bit more before we will have to start worrying about buying another power unit. A breakdown of either of the large engines would make it necessary to restrict service but we would still be able to get along fairly well with the three remaining units. At any rate it's going to take some time before the ice gets as thin as it was on a couple of previous occasions. And then, too, there is still the possibility that the river may become a river again. With ample water power the light plant would produce a lot of net revenue on its present volume.

Instead of being burned, sweet clover straw is now being hauled to town to be processed into a marketable feed. The processing plant will give employment to local labor. Farmers will be able to sell a product that heretofor has been wasted. All of which will make us a more efficient and a wealthier farming community. It is thru the development of industries of this type that our city best serves itself and its adjacent territory. The city is now recognized as a good market for most of the regular products of this section of the state. But it probably will be through the development of markets for the by-products of our farms that we make our most worth while contribution to the progress of the community. And as a community we could well afford to spend both time and money in an effort to find ways and means of utilizing these by-products.

In this week's issue of the Farmer, an article by Harry N. Owen presents some interesting information on the consumption of food through periods of prosperity and depression. His charts, based on official government figures, show that there was little difference in the amount of food consumed during the recent lean years as compared with the preceding years of prosperity. And what has been true of food has also been true to a large extent of other so-called consumable goods. Practically as many shoes were bought during the depression as during the years of prosperity. In other words, as economists have pointed out, the depression, in terms of unemployment, has been in the capital goods industries and not in the consumable goods industries. The reason for this, economists tell us, is that the consumable goods market is largely an auction market. Goods sell for what people are willing to pay. As a result there are sales and goods move into consumption. In the capital goods field there are more artificial barriers to contend with. If the people can't afford to build a home for a certain amount of money, the cost of building that home does not come down to the prospective builder's means as does the price of oats or the price of butterfat in the auction market. Instead of coming down to that level, the homes remain unbuilt and there is unemployment in the building trades. But if oats can't find a buyer at thirty, it goes down to ten, or eight or five until it does find a buyer, and then it is consumed. There is much to be said in favor of a free market in all fields. From the farmer's standpoint, it should either be an auction all along the line, governed by the natural laws of supply and demand, or farming itself should be given the same status of privilege that is enjoyed by other groups.

Good news for skaters—the rink probably will be opened for skating during the Christmas holidays. Flooding will start at once but for the time being skating will be limited to hockey players. Because the front end is still under construction the building cannot be opened to the public as yet.

WHO WERE THE FIRST AMERICANS?

(Geographic Society Bulletin)

Search for the remains of the earliest human beings in North America, believed to be Mongoloid ancestors of the American Indian, who migrated across Bering Strait from Asia, will be conducted in Alaska this summer by a joint expedition of the National Geographic Society and the Smithsonian Institution.

The expedition also will excavate old village sites of prehistoric Eskimos who came to North America from Asia much later than the original arrivals, and who were the forerunners of the Eskimos of today. Buried villages and refuse heaps left by these ancient Eskimos, preserved for centuries in the perpetually frozen soil, are widespread in Northern Alaska.

Many scientists are of the opinion that North and South America must have been populated originally by Asiatics who crossed Bering Strait to Alaska, many centuries before Christ; but so far no relics nor remains of these ancient immigrants have been found.

The project will be known as the National Geographic Society-Smithsonian Institution Archeological Expedition to the Bering sea.

RAZZED AND READ

(Montevideo News)

There has been talk about the "declining influence" of the newspapers. It is said they do not cut much ice in a political campaign. The newspapers themselves have been giving space and headlines to statements that they are no longer an influence in forming public opinion. By the way, no other medium is so sure of itself that it will criticise itself.

Does the press exist only to be with the majority, and speak for it? If so, the press is not always successful. A megaphone loses influence when it fails to enlarge sound. So does a loud speaker. But the press is more than an amplifying device.

The fact that the majority sometimes does not agree with the newspapers is proof that the press is true to one of its functions—namely to have opinions and state them.

Sometimes with the majority, and sometimes with the minority, the newspaper under all conditions continues to be razzed, and read.

BUILDING COSTS

(Detroit News)

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland economic authority, says the lag in construction activity, responsible for much continued unemployment in the heavy industries, is due to high prices.

It is true that building prices never were deflated in the depression quite to the same extent as other prices, and that they still are somewhat out of line. Yet they are no higher now than in 1930 and considerably lower than in 1929. Moreover, they show more signs of going up than of going down, which ought to be a factor encouraging construction.

Surely it is not to be overlooked, either, that the cost of borrowed money, an intangible but none-the-less real element in construction costs, has remained throughout the recovery at unprecedented bargain levels. In the case at least of the many large corporate borrowers able to borrow money at scarcely more than three per cent, this should go far to offset the effect of other costs as a deterrent to construction.

We suspect the true causes of the construction lag, now happily waning, must be sought in sources other than that merely of costs, though we are not prepared to guess at what they may be. Lack of business confidence in the future used to be not many months ago the explanation favored by many authorities, including Colonel Ayres himself. But even that has come to sound a trifle inadequate, now that evidences of abundant business confidence in other directions are visible on every hand.

A COMMONPLACE MIRACLE

(Northfield News)

The slender, red second-hand of the electric clock stood motionless. No lights burned in the office. The motor of the oil burning furnace was silent and a chill was gradually settling. Suddenly the red second-hand began to move. Simultaneously, with a click and a hum, the oil burner took life. An electric light bulb that had been left turned on flashed into brilliant whiteness.

That was Sunday afternoon, November 15. The electric current in Northfield had been turned off for half an hour while changes were being made at the plant.

It brought a startling realization of the extent to which our life has become dependent upon a mysterious force, a definition-defying energy which "flows" thru wires into our homes, business places and institutions to become an intimate vital part of our living, yet withal accepted with the amazing complacency of civilized man.

A temporary disruption of services reveals the necessity of that energy, the chaos that would result from its sudden ceasing to exist, makes clear the one fact that, regardless of who gives it us, we must have electricity.

Never, never rest contented with any circle of ideas, but always be certain that a wider one is still possible.—Jefferies.

Bible Lectures Continue at Old Methodist Church

In spite of the cold weather, many came to the old Methodist Church last Sunday night to see the replica of the old sanctuary with its beautifully arranged curtains and peculiar furniture. "The great court session of the universe, where God now presides as Judge", according to Evangelist Gulbrandson, "consists of an investigation of the record books kept in heaven. The book of life is being examined, and the book of death. The names of the whole human family are found recorded in either of these two books. If men conform to the standard of God, obey the gospel, secure Christ as their advocate, and confess their sins these will be blotted out and the transgressor pardoned. On the other hand, if our names are blotted from the book of life, we shall be found wanting." The Back to the Bible lecture program for next week is found elsewhere in this paper.

Rural Electrification Topic at Winter Shows

Problems in rural electrification will be discussed at a special meeting to be held during the forthcoming Northwest Farmers' Week and Red River Valley winter shows to be held at Crookston early in February. Speakers will include Ralph Wayne, county agent, Litchfield, Minnesota, and Irving J. Clinton, secretary-manager of the Meeker county co-operative rural electrification project.

According to present plans, over 1500 of the 2400 farms in Meeker county will be supplied with electricity before next summer. The first 300 farms included in the project were served and the current turned on last week, and it is expected that 500 farms will be served before the first of the year.

Farmers throughout the Red River valley are keenly interested in this project and will wish to hear of the progress that has been made in other parts of the state.

Rural Credit Liquidation

Editor Times:

The last legislature passed a law for the purpose of speeding up liquidation of the Rural Credit Bureau which has not proved to benefit either the borrowers or the speeding up of liquidation very much.

However, there was a bill passed by the house at the last session, which would have speeded up liquidation and saved the homes of borrowers as well as benefitted the taxpayer by making it possible for the borrowers to pay the lower rate which was set at 3 per cent.

This bill failed to pass the senate, probably because there was not enough personal backing from Rural Credit debtors and tax-payers.

The conservator seems to think that interest rates can not be lowered on the Rural Credit bonds, without waiting for maturity, which contention would be correct if none of the bonds were held by the State Investment Board, but my information is that a big portion of Rural Credit bonds are so held, and the state can certainly pay these before maturity if the legislature so decides, and a 2½ per cent rate for new state bonds would certainly be salable to the public when Postal savings rate is only 2%. The bill also provided reappraisal at "Loan value" of farms which would wipe out a lot of fictitious values now carried on the books.

At the coming session, I believe a law like the bill passed by the house last session can be put through the senate, too, if the business men and other tax-payers would push the matter through their clubs in towns and small cities, for it generally takes lobbying to get legislation through. It is easy to realize why this is so, if we consider that our Representatives and Senators have hundreds, yes, into the thousand, of different bills and proposals to look after so they cannot properly center all their attention upon any one proposal. The private lobbyist can do this, and thus becomes a useful and needed contact man between friends of the measures he is working for.

This matter should certainly interest the business-men of this community, for there are nearly 400 farmers in Pennington who would directly benefit by this proposed legislation as it would save, in the aggregate between 60 and 70 thousand dollars every year in interest, and save them from foreclosure.

This $60,000 or $70,000 saved yearly in Pennington county, should be worth a little effort by business-men to send a personal representative to the coming legislative session to back up our Senator and Representatives in their efforts to pass a law to save these R. C. farmers from foreclosure, and, incidentally save this money for this locality, even though the state should have to take a loss, which they are doing now, anyway.

Andrew Trovaton.

Editor The Times:

The state of Minnesota has until lately been known as a Republican state. When it again went Democratic in the election of President, and Farmer-Labor on its state ticket the reason is near at hand. Our people are thinking in terms of liberal government as versus reactionary. Our people have control of government by virtue of their vote. They accept the party which seemingly offers the best political program. No party which does not actively and sincerely sponsor the cause of the common people will ever have much chance of winning an election in Minnesota.

Minnesota will no longer be known as a Republican state. It will be known as a Progressive state. Minnesota wants a progressive and liberal government which will enact and administer liberal and progressive legislation. The farmer must have living prices for his products and the worker must have living wages for his work. Whichever party will best sponsor these constitutional and inherent rights of the common man will find ample support in the hands of the Minnesota voter. Until lately Industry and Capitol has had control of government. This control is now being broken.

There is the ever present danger that the party in power becomes too party-conscious and too little people-conscious. The only thing a party has to check carefully is its service to the people.

Every one elected to office, whether it be on party basis or not, must be sincerely conscious that his service is to the people and not to a party. It has been very interesting to check the election returns throughout the state with reference to the legislature. A few facts will no doubt interest your readers.

Since the Senate members hold over until the '38 election, there were only two senators elected this year. These two were to fill vacancies caused by death of former members. In both instances Republicans were elected. The Farmer-Labor candidates failed of election. In the House there will be a very large number of new members. In checking the re-elections I find that some 33 Farmer-Laborites were re-elected and some 35 others. When I say "others" it is because I do not know whether they are Republicans or Democrats. They were known not to organize with the Farmer-Labor group at the last session. This shows that the people did not re-elect their Representatives simply because they were Farmer-Laborites, even in a Farmer Labor election year. It proves a healthy situation that a man can not become elected simply because he stands good with a winning party. He must stand good with the people.

The next session of the Legislature convenes Jan. 5th, 1937. The proposed Farmer-Labor legislation for this coming session is apparently good. My constituence in this 65th District will find me actively supporting all progressive legislation in the future as in the past. In your next issue I will render a brief account of my legislative work.

Sincerely yours,
E. L. Tungseth.

Slippery Roads Bring Warning From Patrol

Slippery condition of Minnesota's highways the last few days brought a warning to drivers from John P. Arnoldy, chief of the Highway patrol, that this is the most dangerous season of the year. Ice, forming quickly, may cause serious accidents before maintenance crews can sand curves, hills and dangerous places, Mr. Arnoldy said. Plows remove snow but cannot remove ice, and automobiles, striking icy surfaces at high speed, may cause serious accidents. Drivers are urged to proceed with caution to protect pedestrians and other vehicles, as well as themselves.

FRIENDS OF LONG AGO MEET AFTER 41 YEARS

Sleepy Eye—The man who 41 years ago befriended a stranger in a New Ulm hospital and the man who was then a patient met again last week, and although the former did not remember his deeds of kindness, the latter had not forgotten. Their meeting came through a conversation in a Minneapolis barber shop, where the former patient is now a barber. Mentioning in the course of the conversation that his home is in New Ulm, the barber inquired of his customer if he knew a man by the name of Herman Raabe. The customer was Herman Raabe and also the person who visited the barber when he had an operation 41 years ago in New Ulm. Since the sick man was not acquainted in the town, Mr. Raabe had taken him to his home during his convalescence.

Farm and Implement News

GOOD CREAM SEPARATORS are now a topic of conversation since a carload of just that kind was shipped into Thief River Falls last week. It's the McCormick-Deering that leads in the class.

A POOR, OR WORN OUT cream separator is a very expensive machine on any farm. Very few realize the dollars lost with a poor cream separator.

We know positively that a NEW McCormick-Deering cream separator investment will earn you dividends besides paying for your investment in savings.

We know also that we have not stressed the great and greater value of McCormick-Deering cream separators, and it can hardly be estimated as to its value until you have one on your farm and actually use it and the longer you have it the greater you will appreciate your investment.

We used to hold special CREAM SEPARATOR SERVICE DAYS, but now every day or any day is cream separator service day, as we have a man very competent to adjust and rebuild your cream separator and we do not make any charge for this service, other than the actual new parts necessary to replace. This service we will extend to any make of cream separator and in the event we must order replacement parts for these other makes, we usually have several used machines in stock that we can loan you during the period. Or even willing that you take out a new McCormick-Deering to try it out while we repair your old machine.

McCORMICK-DEERING STATIONARY ENGINES

We have been short, but now have a supply again of new type McCormick-Deering type "LA" engines 1½, 2½ and 3-5 H. P. sizes. Both of these engines have proven more than satisfactory to our customers and we are willing that any one in need of either of above size engines take one out on trial. They are all inclosed, self-oiling with high tention magneto and impulse starter. No better engine ever made. You will agree.

The Figurine
A Christmas Story
Martha B. Thomas

MARIE LA FARGE was the prettiest girl in Beaulaire. Her dark eyes sparkled; her black hair framed a lovely, vivid face. It was inevitable that many young men should fall in love with her. Which they did. But chief among them was tall handsome Jules Gareau, the son of a wood-carver.

Marie's mother was a small hard-working woman whose beauty differed from the girl's. Strong lines were graven on her face; and in her eyes shone clear fortitude. Madame La Farge's eyes looked steadily at everything, whether it was the snow which lay so many months about the small tight cabin, or at one of her children who had, perhaps been angry or selfish. So, while Marie's face was sweet and winning, her mother's expression was full of character.

It could hardly fail that Marie should grow a little arrogant under the circumstances. "You are unkind to me," said Jules one day. "I have loved you always, yet you act as if it did not matter. And now you tell me you are going away from here." He waved his arm.

"What is that to you?" Marie was dressed in bright jacket, full woolen skirt and high, laced boots. A red knitted cap was pulled jauntily over her curls.

"How can you ask such a question of me?" Jules reproved her.

"A girl cannot stay in this simple village forever!"

"But Marie," He reached for her mittened hand. His eyes, looking down at her, were filled with beseeching love. "We had plans together, you and I. Already father has given me the land. Already I have cut the timbers for our house . . . have you forgotten?"

Marie laughed goodnaturedly. "You handsome stupid . . . ! I must see a bit of the world before settling down to . . ." she nodded towards her own house where her mother stood in the door, calling to one of the children. "You see?" said Marie, "she's worn out with work. She's old before her time. She wears old clothes and thinks old thoughts . . . It cannot be otherwise, here in Beaulaire."

"We Had Plans Together, You and I," He Said.

"Your mother," replied Jules sternly, "has the most truly beautiful face in the village. My father says so."

Marie raised her long lashes in surprise, and shrugged her shoulders. A week before Christmas the girl left the village. "I have a position. During the holidays extra girls are needed in the stores. Soon I shall have money of my own. Soon I shall dance and go places with many fine people."

"So that is what you are thinking," said her mother. But she added no words of advice or reprimand. "Don't forget us, child. Think of us at Christmas with the white snow about us, and the green spruces on the hills. Think of your father in the woods, chopping. Think of me cooking, and mending and singing to the baby . . . and nothing shall go wrong with you. Come home when it seems best. We love you" . . .

But Jules was silent and heartbroken. "You'll never be the same to me, Marie, again. Your head will be filled with idle notions. And to think you can go and leave us at Christmas!"

But Marie went. And if they missed her sadly in the village where she was born, she worked hard. And because of her energy and lovely face, she was kept on in her position after the holidays. She sent presents home but she did not go there. She liked her new life.

One year. Two years. For one reason or another she never found time to visit her people. She was doing well. She was thrifty. She went about with this or that admiring escort. And she smothered the occasional pangs of homesickness in her heart.

Five years away. Now and then she heard from Jules, short letters which related how her father had cut his hand chopping wood. How her brother had fallen through the ice and was rescued. How her mother was just the same. "Everyone loves her," wrote Jules.

Then one day Marie happened to meet an artist named Tom Santos. "You are so very beautiful, I must paint you at once," declared this impulsive young man.

Marie laughed at him, but it soon happened that she posed regularly for this brilliant painter. She liked his queer, jerky way of talking while he worked. She felt that she was lucky to be admired by him. One day in the studio he asked about her home. Marie told him a little, rather grudgingly.

"You say you were born in Beaulaire?" cried the man. "How odd!"

He laid down his brushes and went to a shelf. "One of the finest wood-carvers in Quebec made this, a young man called Jules Gareau." He picked up a small figurine and held it in his hands.

Marie felt a quick trembling run all over her. "Oh," she breathed, "Jules never told me he had taken up his father's work!"

"You know him then . . . this artist Jules?"

"Yes," she answered stepping down from the dias where she posed. "Let me see, please."

Tom gave her the small figurine as if it were something precious. "Look at the pose," he said. "Look at the old woman's face. Isn't she wonderful . . . and beautiful in character? I'd like to meet her."

"You shall," murmured Marie in a low voice, and added, "I must stay away from home for years, before I discover from a stranger how fine my mother is. Come . . . we can catch the evening train."

Snow lay thick on Beaulaire that Christmas eve. Bright lights shone from the houses. The mountains were dark with purple shadows.

"Oh," She Breathed, "Jules Never Told Me."

Two figures walked along the squeaking snow. "How could you have left all this for an ugly city, Marie?"

The girl answered nothing. She hurried faster and her heart beat furiously. "I cannot wait to get there," she thought.

"Over there," she said aloud, "is the Gareau home, and now, here we come to our house. Hurry, hurry!"

They pushed through the gate; they entered the house without knocking. A huge fire blazed on the hearth. Singing and dancing filled the low-ceilinged room. Marie pulled her friend towards a slight figure sitting in a chair. "This is my mother," she said.

At once the room was in an uproar. People flocked about the new guests, all talking together, kissing Marie, laughing and shouting.

But Tom Santos bent low over Madame La Farge's hand. "I'm proud and happy to know you. Yes—" looking at her critically, "Gareau is a genius."

Marie with a new light and radiance about her next pulled him to a tall young man standing by the fire. "And this is Jules," she explained simply. "Jules Gareau." The two men shook hands.

"Please, please, all of you," she cried, "be quiet!"

The room fell into silence.

"I have been away a long while," began the girl. "But I am home again. I have neglected you all, but chiefly my family. But now, on Christmas eve, I come to my senses . . . and you!" Her lovely smile encircled them all. "Mother, the figurine which Jules carved of you, brought me back. I could not wait, for then I knew how I'd missed you."

A murmur of pleasure ran about the room.

"Jules," her voice faltered, blushes rose in her cheeks, "are you still . . . ?" She could not finish.

The tall handsome young man, as if in a dream, strode close to her. "No, Marie, I'm not married. I've waited so long for you."

And then uproar rose again. They danced. They feasted. And Marie sat close to her mother, and looked and looked at that kind, strong, forgiving face.

And all the children fell asleep and were waked up again, and Marie's father roared with laughter.

Thus Marie La Farge came back to the village of Beaulaire . . . and Jules.

1936 HIGHWAY UPKEEP COSTS STATE 8 MILLION

Snow Plowing and Winter Damage Expense Totals $2,000,000

Maintenance expenditures in the Minnesota trunk highway system of 11,340 miles will total approximately $8,000,000 in 1936, according to an estimate by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. This compares with maintenance expenditures of approximately $7,500,000 in 1935, he stated.

"We estimate that it cost each Minnesota motorist about 80 cents a month to pay all costs of maintaining the trunk highways this year," Mr. Elsberg said. "The cost per mile of road per month was about $58. Of course more was spent on some roads and less on others.

After three years experience in operating the expanded trunk system, our maintenance engineers have recommended an annual maintenance budget of $8,500,000, which I believe is a proper figure. Snow plowing and spring breakup damage, which is greatly increased by removal of the snow, take about $2,000,000 of maintenance funds annually.

"During 1933 and 1934, maintenance expenditures were held down far below normal because of lack of funds. Substantial increases in 1935 and 1936 were necessary to protect Minnesota's huge investment in its highways, and in the interests of public safety. We believe a high level of maintenance should be insisted upon in the future, for it is cheaper to keep roads in uniformly good condition than to let them deteriorate and then pay extra costs to restore them."

Inspiration
Helen Gaisford

MRS. McCRERY swept the snow from the steps of her boarding house with vicious strokes, all the time keeping up a stream of grumbled protests about everything in general.

"A fine start for a New Year. Work, work, work, same as last! Hang that confetti, how it sticks! What is there to life, anyway? Work all day, and half the night, and for what? What difference does it make that I'm alive? Nobody cares. What do I do that's worth while? Nothing! Might just as well be dead."

She had come to the end of the walk, and now she knocked the snow off her broom and turned back. "And I thought once that some day I'd be a great lady."

All morning Mrs. McCrery spent in a maze of abuse and self-pity, but when lunch time came she bethought herself of Dora Pike, third floor back. "Poor chick," she thought, "no work yet. I'd better fix her up a bite to eat." She set a tray and covered it with a clean napkin.

"Shame on me," she went on, as she climbed the stairs, "grumbling at my work, when that poor girl would give her arm for a job. Guess she isn't everything she would like to be either, but she doesn't go around bawling like a calf. She's an inspiration, that's what she is, and this coming year I'm going to try to be more her way. If I had to put up with what she has to, maybe I'd have some right to mope and complain."

"Me?" "Yes. I Was Feeling Sorry for Myself."

She paused, smiling, and then knocked. "Here's just a bite," she began, as the door opened. "Why, what's the matter?"

Dora Pike's eyes were red with weeping, and now they brimmed again. "Oh, it's you, Mrs. McCrery! Come in," she said. "I'm in a bit of a funk," she apologized, "what with New Year's, and all. In fact, I would have ended it, if it hadn't been for thinking of you."

"Me?"

"Yes. I was feeling sorry for myself not having any work, and so on, and then I thought of you and how brave you are about all the things you do have to do, that I was right ashamed of myself. But I don't know what I might not have done, if there hadn't been you to think about."

"Well, dearie," said Mrs. McCrery, as she gathered the girl in her arms, "maybe that's what we're here for, darlin'."

WARROAD MAYOR IS SLAIN BY KIN SUNDAY EVENING

E. A. Harloff, G. N. Depot Agent, Dies After Bullet Wound in Chest

E. A. Harloff, mayor of Warroad and Great Northern depot agent in that village, was shot fatally at his home Sunday evening at 9:30 by his brother-in-law, Alton Obeson of Roseau. Obeson, 42 years old, is being held in the Roseau county jail on a first degree murder charge.

After calling at the Harloff home several times Sunday, Obeson returned in the evening with a high powered rifle, and without warning fired four shots at Harloff, the first being the only one to strike him, passing thru his chest. The shooting was witnessed by two of Harloff's children, his wife being away from home at the time. He died shortly after the shooting in the Warroad hospital.

Obeson, father of five children, is married to a sister of Harloff's wife. The couple once was divorced but married again. About a month ago, Sheriff O. A. Rice said, the two had separated the second time. Last fall they moved from Badger to Roseau where Mrs. Obeson lives with the children.

Obeson was out of work and Harloff, Rice reported, had been helping care for the family which Obeson resented.

Funeral rites for Harloff, who was 40 years old, were conducted Wednesday afternoon.

EXTEND DEADLINE FOR FILING SOCIAL SECURITY BLANKS

Employes to be Given Until Tuesday, December 15, It Is Announced

With the registration of 26,000,000 workers for federal pension accounts falling short of its plans, the government decided Saturday to extend the deadline for applications until midnight Tuesday, December 15.

The action climaxed a busy day in which the social security board divided attention between a last-hour rush by workers to return their forms and unemployment insurance activity in various states.

The original workers' deadline was midnight Saturday night. The board said so many inquiries had come in that an extension was necessary to allow time for proper preparation of the questionnaires affected.

Under the law, both the taxpaying employers and workers are liable to fines and jail sentences if they fail to submit data required. Giving no hint of punitive action, the board expressed appreciation for "the co-operation evident throughout the country on the part of employers and employes." The latter were reminded that application forms can be obtained from their employers or postoffices.

No such extension was granted employers. Mailmen throughout the country were busy checking up on those who failed to apply for "identification numbers" before their deadline, two weeks ago.

A large majority of local employes had filed their application by last Saturday, Postmaster Andrew Anderson announced.

HUNTERS LOSE DEER TO WOODS OUTLAWS

Redwood Falls—The survival of the fittest, the only law known to ancient men, was revived in the north woods when three Lucan men went primitive for the age-old sport of deer hunting. Ready to tag the deer which they shot, ten strange hunters approached and claimed the deer, proving that numbers and the threat of weapons count where police and the agencies of law seldom penetrate. The deer was relinquished by the Redwood county men only after one of the claimants had been knocked down, another slugged and the gang of ten threatened to pick up their guns to settle the dispute with bullets.

2 Holt Creamery Men Admitted to Creamery Short Course at "U"

Oscar Fosholm and William A. Davis of Holt, helpers in the the Farmers' Cooperative Creamery Co., plan to spend 2 months at University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota, this winter attending the eight week creamery course sponsored by the University of Minnesota dairy staff, January 7 to March 4. They recently received notice from Prof W. B. Combs, in charge of the short course, that their applications had been approved. As only 50 men will be admitted it is a real credit to be accepted as a candidate for their course, says Mr. Combs. Young men who successfully complete the dairy short course are eligible to receive dairy school certificates granted by the University of Minnesota. Applicants must meet definite educational requirements and must have had at least one year's practical experience in a creamery. Interested persons may obtain complete information by writing Prof. W. B. Combs, dairy division, University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota.

DOE WITH ANTLERS SHOT BY JUSTICE

Blackduck—A doe with antlers was a strange specimen shot during the hunting season by J. J. Trautmann, Blackduck's justice of the peace. The antlers were like those of a spike buck with spikes about a foot long. They were still in the "velvet", a term used to describe the horns when they are still soft and covered with a mossy growth, and in the early summer.

Federal Land Bank Loans Being Repaid Promptly

Principal payments and special payments in full on federal land bank loans made during the first 9 months of this year were more than $443,000 greater than the amount of principal installments that normally would have come due for payment in that period.

This surprising situation was revealed this week by President Roy A. Nelson of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, who analyzed the repayments as indicating an encouraging disposition of farmers to wipe out their farm mortgage debts as rapidly as possible. He said:

"It is significant that such a volume of repayments in excess of requirements is being made. This means that agriculture in many sections of our district, though not in all, has passed out of the depression period and is now in position to meet financial problems in a normal way."

GOLF BALLS USED TO POISON SKUNKS

Detroit Lakes—Chloroforming skunks, and 66 of them, heads the list of the season's prize hunting stories. The feat was performed by Walter Eltenpeter who collected a number of golf balls, soaked them in chloroform and rolled them down holes perforated in the ground six miles south of here. By plugging the openings, which he knew were skunk tunnels, 66 skunks were exhumed, and the polecats had no opportunity to behave in the distasteful manner for which they are so famous.

CASS LAKE BOWS TO STRONG LOCAL QUINT 37 TO 22

Seconds Cop Opener From Plummer In Loose Game

Basketball officially stepped into the Lincoln High School sports picture last Friday evening when George Lee unveiled his second Prowler quintet which went on to defeat the troublesome Cass Lake Indians by a score of 37 to 22.

Leonard Helquist, burly guard, led the scoring for the locals with the huge total of twenty points. Previous to this game, "Bud" was regarded by fans as just another member of the first Prowler five, but he was finally acknowledged the credit due him. He scored almost at will from any place in enemy territory.

Cass Lake caught the Prowlers flat footed at the opening whistle as Letendre put the Indians in the lead with a field goal. This lead was further increased when D. Gamache scored after camping under the Prowler basket unobserved. The Prowlers came back fast and furious as Lorentson counted on a short shot. Helquist was fouled and made his free throw good. Nelson captured the lead for the locals with another two points. Helquist found his range and tallied a field goal as the quarter ended 9 to 8 in favor of the Prowlers.

Wright opened the second period scoring but Helquist replied with a successful free throw and a field goal. Roy Lee went into the game and scored immediately on a one-handed shot. Wright put in two free throws and the half ended with the Prowlers in the lead by a 16 to 8 margin as the gun ended the half.

Helquist ran his total to ten points as he tallied on a long shot near the sideline but "Bearcat" Letendre offset this with a quick shot. Helquist again scored, this time on a loping left handed flip. Lorentson counted twice after a Cass Lake time out period. Helquist dropped in a field goal on a difficult corner shot but D. Gamache scored on the next play. The third quarter ended with the Prowlers commanding a 21 to 14 advantage.

Nelson put in a shot from the sidelines and Lorentson added another two points under the basket as the last quarter got under way. R. Gamache, frail guard, was given a tumultuous ovation when he scored on a desperate shot near the center line. Helquist raised the Prowlers total to thirty points on a distant attempt. D. Gamache counted a field goal but Helquist did likewise. Lorentson scored once and Nelson twice on free throws. Helquist was successful on a long try. Cass Lake rained shots on the backboard and were finally rewarded with Wright converting. Captain Nelson ended the scoring with a field goal as the eventful game ended with the Prowlers on top 37 to 22.

Helquist played a flawless defensive game besides being scoring leader. "Bud" Nelson and Lorentson were also standouts on both offense and defense.

Wright, D. Gamache and Letendre were stars offensively while diminutive R. Gamache played a commendable defensive game for the visitors.

In a preliminary game, the Prowler "B" squad upset the dope bucket as they trounced Plummer 33 to 10. A mediocre local second team was expected to take the floor but Plummer was rudely surprised by the proficiency and versatility shown by Coach Lee's second stringers. Clarence Haug played a superb all-round game while Jerome Salveson captured scoring honors with light points. Captain Jack Ripple and Ted Karlstad exhibited a fine brand of ball for Plummer.

A peppy Lincoln high school band under the direction of Mr. Riggs performed at various times during the course of the evening.

Lincoln Alumni Stars on Leading College Clubs

Several boys are playing on college teams this year that have participated in the sport circles of Lincoln high school during the past year.

Two outstanding alumni playing basketball are Wendell Kielty and Bill Korstad. Kielty is playing his second year as a regular forward with the Bison of North Dakota State. He is billed as one of the three outstanding members of the strong Dakota club. He has been one of the high scorers of his club in the first two early games against the Dickenson Teachers and Moorhead Teachers College. Wendell graduated in 1935. Bill Korstad is playing his second year as a regular forward on the Macalester quint in St. Paul. He also was billed as an outstanding performer against North Dakota U. last Friday night. Bill left Lincoln High in 1934, after participating in football, basketball, and track.

One boy is keeping up the standards of Lincoln High in collegiate football. He is Ernie Helquist, varsity quarterback on the 1936 Macalester eleven. He is a letterman of last year. Ernie also graduated in 1934.

TEAM FETED AT FIRST PEP FEST

Reorganized Pep Squad, Pep Band on Program

A pep fest for the basketball game with Cass Lake and Plummer, was held Friday afternoon Dec. 4. Robert Quale acted as master of ceremonies.

It was opened with a selection, "Military Escort", played by the band directed by Mr. Riggs. After that the band played the school song and the high school students sang. Mary Chommie led the students in a yell for Mr. Riggs.

The newly organized Pep Squad sang two pep songs about the Prowlers.

Coach Lee was called upon for a short talk about the forthcoming game. He then introduced the first squad players: Bud Nelson, Captain, Lennie Helquist, Milton Nesse, "Bones" Stadum, Don Lorentson, Gordon Caldis, Robert Quale, Roy Lee, Clark Mickelson, and Melford Haughom.

The two cheer leaders, Mary Chommie and Lorraine Amundson, led the student body in several yells.

WIND-CHILL

All these wise and knowing seniors didn't seem so wise in Social Monday. When asked who Bierman was, among the several answers were, (1) that he was an orchestra leader, Yowza! (2) that he was a local doctor, (3) that he was the all star football captain and (4) that he was coach of the "Gophers."

You should watch some of these boys in gym classes—do they swing high and low.

Your reporter needs a little help in solving a mystery—We can't seem to pin either of our two Mays down to anything definite about the gentlemen from Hazel. Both deny knowing anything about him. Well, so do I!

How's about all you youngsters sending a card to Erling Melby at the University Hospital? The address, if you're interested, is University hospital, Station 40, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Our basketball team looks pretty nice in their new outfits, dontcha think? Winning the first game more than likely is a good omen. Anyway, here's to the team!

Our beloved teachers handed out those little white cards with more or less red marks on them today, and what a one a for most of us! Only 4 more times this year thus to cheer us!

Joke (?) "When will Wally marry King Edward? Ans. When Edward Windsor." (catch on?)

The latest bombshell landed in T. R. F. with a couple of new Romeos and Juliets. It seems that Mel H. is "ladder climbing" for Lovey C. and Tat M. is telling Lloyd L. (football hero) to do the same. You can't keep everything a secret, you know.

Famous Finales—so Wally said to the king....

Billikens, Hawks, Huskers Bats, Boilermakers Win in First Clashes

Several interesting games have been played in intra-mural basketball so far. The Cornhuskers downed the Giants by a score of 40 to 13. The high scorer for the Cornhuskers was Reuben Mickelson, who made 15 points and Bruce Prichard accounted for 4 of the Giants 13 points. In the next game the Gophers lost to the Panthers with a score of 10 to 7. Jack Adkins was high point man for the Panthers with 9 points to his credit and Wayne Bredeson of the Gophers with 3 points. David Jaranson made 10 of the Billikens 22 points when they downed the Trojans. The very snappy Wallace Tunberg made 8 of the Trojans 10 points. Then the Boilermakers, in a close game with the Wildcats won by a score of 16 to 14. Clarence Haug of the Boilermakers and Dicken of the Wildcats were high point men. The game between the Bats and the Hawkeyes ended with the Bats leading 10 to 7. Each player made two points for the Bats and Olsen of the Hawkeyes made 5 of their 7 points. In the last game played the Blackhawks surprised the Cornhuskers with a score of 16 to 13. Arle Lorentson, playing for the Cornhuskers, made 6 points and Peterson and Mickelson each made 3. Jaranson and Larson each made 6 points for the Blackhawks while Kielty made 4 and Eide and Sorenson each made 1. Since last week a new team, the Badgers, has been organized, with Glen Carlson as captain.

These games are of much interest to both players and spectators. For, if one team does not have enough players, they forfeit the game. There have been no games forfeited yet and with the interest shown in the games so far, it seems that there will be none forfeited or none lost without a hard fight.

"Thumbnails of Seniors"

"That's what you think"—Cosgrove

"I want to be alone"—Matheson

Mary Margaret Cosgrove commonly known as Lovey was born April 5, 1920, in Thief River Falls. This young lady's future ambition is to convince Milton Nesse of "something". Her inspiration is Mr. Montague (you just can't win, —I know). Being called Mary is her pet peeve. She likes Ted Fiorito's orchestra playing "South Sea Island Magic." She thinks Jack Benny has the shortest half hour on the radio. She enjoys the Lucky Strike program too. Candy is always appealing and she doesn't worry about "those calories" (can you imagine!). Her usual response to a remark is "that's what you think." "Fuller's Earth" by Carolyn Wells is her favorite book and "Under Two Flags" her favorite movie. She enjoys English IV immeasurably. Her favorite sport is skating, pastime walking, and hobby shoes. (I bet her dad appreciates that.)

Marjorie Matheson's hobby is listening to the radio. She was born July 15, 1920, in Thief River Falls. Denver sandwiches seem to hold a special appeal to Margie. While listening to the radio she turns the dial to Wayne King, One Man's Family or Little Jackie Heller singing "It's Delicious, Delightful, Delovely." She watches for her two favorite stars Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor, but she prefers a "Tale of Two Cities" to any movie she has seen. She's one of those "like them all students" with no favorite subject (we see through you guys) and Jack Adkins as her pet (?) peeve. Her favorite expression is "I want to be alone—with you". (Who's the lucky person, Margie?) She has high ambitions of becoming a radio star with Lily Pons as her inspiration. Her favorite pastimes are heckling people and singing (maybe the same thing.) She has participated in outside activities taking part in declam, debate, class play '35, chorus, sextette.

Has our school spirit and pep increased since school opened this year? This question was brought to our minds a few days ago. I would answer that question in the affirmative. There seems to be a good deal more pep in the student body that there has been for some time. They are putting their support behind school enterprises more vigorously than ever before. More people are turning out for the athletic contests than they have previously. Students have supported their respective classes by paying their dues with greater promptness. And they are giving more vocal support to their teams. This is the way other schools judge us and we must keep up our spirit. Don't be satisfied now, make Lincoln High stand out for its glamorous spirit!

The annual campaign for Christmas seal sales is again under way. Each and every person that receives seals should support this excellent cause by sending in the small amount of money asked for. A short time ago when we were in the grades, we were required to sell a few of these seals. Why not require high school students to sell or buy themselves at least a few seals. Christmas seals are for a very worthy cause, that of fighting tuberculosis. Nearly every student in school benefited by the tuberculosis tests given in school some time ago and should be willing to give and they should be willing to give what help they can in bringing these tests to other more needy schools. To do this we must give full support to the Christmas seal movement.

Buy Christmas seals—fight tuberculosis.

PROWLIN' 'ROUND

If the first game of the season is any indication, we must certainly say that the Prowlers look good. They could be satisfactorily compared to the great 1932 defensive machine and the '34 high scoring aggregation. Scoring thirty five points against a team such as Cass Lake proves this. With Helquist hitting the basket even half as well as he did Friday, he can undoubtedly be counted on for eight or even ten points a game. Added to this one man scoring machine are such excellent shots as Lorentson, who gave a fair sample of what he would do in way of scoring and Capt. Nelson, who has not as yet flashed his old form but who is expected to come back strong. Then too the mighty midget Lee and Clark Mickelson will do some high scoring on lots of nights. Stadum did not hit his old form but with a few more games under his belt he should go great guns. Haugum, a Junior guard, also showed possibilities of future glory with his showy ball handling. And watch this second team forward "Clutch" Haug he should be up there soon.

Our future opponents met with varied success this past week-end. Bemidji who also defeated Cass Lake, lost a 21-24 battle to the strong Coleraine team. Grand Forks, our opponents of tomorrow, decisively defeated Hillsboro. Mahnomen and Ada both defeated their opponents and East Grand Forks defeated the Crookston Aggies.

Seeks Specific Cure For Tuberculosis

Continual research for a specific cure for tuberculosis and for better methods for treatment, cure and prevention are carried on as part of the Christmas Seal program. In a number of laboratories throughout the United States the work is carried on continuously under the direction of the National Tuberculosis Association, with which the Minnesota Public Health Association is affiliated.

While this research program goes on, Christmas Seals also promote the use of present knowledge of the disease to prevent and cure the disease. Authorities declare that if present knowledge could be disseminated widely enough and put to proper use, tuberculosis could be reduced to a minimum in a very short time.

Toward this goal the double-barred cross Christmas Seal works with its year around educational campaign on the subject and with its constant program to promote tuberculin testing and x-raying to find early tuberculosis. Christmas Seals do not work only in one direction, they fight on every possible battle front to defeat this ancient enemy of mankind, tuberculosis.

WILD TURKEYS IN MINNESOTA

Fergus Falls— Whether or not wild turkeys ranged Otter Tail county when the pilgrim fathers enjoyed the first Thanksgiving dinner on the Atlantic seaboard, the fact remains that there is a flock of wild turkeys this year in Girard township, northeast of Battle Lake. The birds were originally shipped from Texas to the farm where there are many kinds of wild geese, ducks and pheasants.

THE KEYHOLE PEEKER

And what's this we hear about Eddie Holmstrom being down in Steiner Saturday night? It seems that he was presenting various imitations. (That oughta give us an idea for a pep fest).

Aren't the new basketball suits the cutest things? So nice and soft. Maybe that's why we won the game (or was it?)

Why don't some people stay home on Saturday nights. Oh me! A perfect evening gone to waste on account of Floyd M. [illegible] (Maybe I'll you'd stay home next Saturday—)

Have you been watching this M. McGilvery-Herslam (Junior romance reaching, its peak? (She's from Georgia in case you've been wondering. (Something new and different!)

Are our basketball heroes ever going to town! Goes with Clark Mickelson escorted Saturday night. (None other than Dorothy Snelling).

"Tinny" Carlson's left Elaine D. "out in the cold again". He's shining around Barbara K. now.

LOCALS TO MEET G. F. CENTRAL FRIDAY NIGHT

Locals to Face Six for Forward Line in First Interstate Battle

After inflicting a 37 to 16 defeat on Middle River, and stopping Cass Lake 37 to 22, the Prowlers will endeavor to add another victory to this pair tomorrow evening when they journey to Grand Forks to play a very strong Grand Forks Central quintet.

Coach Ed Behahoff's boys played their season's opener last Friday with Hillsboro and still have a clean slate, which means that they will be in no mood for a defeat tomorrow evening. Their tall, rangy, front line composed of Fitzstraut, Parish and Turner have gained the reputation of being unusually fast in handling the ball and driving in to the basket, the two factors which will, undoubtedly, give the Redskins most of their points. Bill James and Millettes, the two starting guards, are used mainly to feed the ball to the forwards under the basket rather than adding points to the scoreboard.

Last year the Centralites gave the Prowlers the most decisive defeat they received all season and the local aggregation will be out to avenge this humiliation. In spite of this the Redskins are the favored clubs. They present the five probable starters mentioned above, a team given more than a good chance for the Dakota championship.

The Prowlers, on the other hand, had to depend on the guards for most of the scoring in the game with Cass Lake, and if Helquist takes another liking to the hoop as he did last week it will provide a little surprise for the Grand Forks boys. The Prowlers may be somewhat handicapped in their shooting though by the fact that they have been forced to practice in the small high school gym rather than in the regular floor for the past week.

No matter which way the game goes, it will be the first real competition for the local boys and will also serve to bring out the weak points in their play as well as the strong.

PROWLERETTE'S CORNER

Brr—try running two blocks and walking two blocks this weather. It'll not only get you there faster but it provides an extra service for your favorite dish without disturbing thoughts of the after effects.

Hi-ho! What do you think? About seventy-five girls decided that basketball was their favorite sport—with a group of josies like that what a time we'll have! Two leagues will be formed—with appropriate and significant names dubbed each team in the two leagues. More about this next time.

How are the "paws" after the G. A. A. program and taffy pull? Tisn't sticky, but fun.

Hear as how the younguns' we below in the grades are being taught the fundamentals of basketball—umm, starting rather youngish—huh? But I saw a little two-footer lift the ball right through the hoop!

Well—girls—if I don't meet you right side up on the ice perhaps we'll have the pleasure of sitting down together on the basketball floor. The seasons on!!!

Red River Valley History

(More of Early Schools)

We continue Mr. Mussey's account of early school affairs, which probably will stir memories and elicit comment from others, corrective and critical perhaps or simply elaborative. Whatever its nature, it is welcomed by this column for what it will add to the record. Here is what Mr. Mussey says further:

"The Knox building was erected in 1894 and was a two-room structure two stories high, having a bell of the same size and tone as the one used at present (about 21 years ago). There was great rejoicing when the building was first occupied, but this was quickly turned to gloom when, a short time after its occupancy, the structure burned to the ground one Friday morning, the fire being discovered shortly after eight o'clock. The building was rebuilt within a short time."

We interrupt the account here to say that we hope Mr. Mussey was not trying to tell readers that the children were gloomy because the school burned; that would not be natural. But we resume;

"Mention of the bell may here seem of minor importance but fond recollections are nevertheless connected with it. After its recovery from the ruins of the building there was considerable good-humored strife over the matter of its possession. In the end W. J. McCrum, one of the first board members of the district, secured the useless bell and it remained for a number of years in his yard as a receptacle for flowering plants.

"Considerable rivalry existed between the scholars of Red Lake Rapids and the West Side and this feeling was utilized to good advantage by the instructors in urging the pupils to a greater excellence in their work. Even in the public entertainments was this competition a prominent feature. In the work accomplished by the pupils a marked improvement was noted. The writer still treasures a volume of Hawthorne's Twice-Told Tales bearing this explanatory paragraph:

"Presented to Homer Mussey for perfect attendance at fall term of school, 1895, Red Lake Rapids, Minn. Geo. Keniston, teacher." Prof Keniston was also pastor of the M. E. church.

"It is doubtful if a single of the pupils will forget Mr. Keniston. He surely believed in the adage, 'Spare the rod and spoil the child.' Although he did not use a rod his punishments were much more severe. For the offense of whispering the offender was required to stand on his tiptoes, facing the wall with hands above the head, the duration of the ordeal depending on the gravity of the offense. Two such periods of punishment served to convince the writer that it were better to refrain from further illicit conversation during school hours."

But this form of punishment was too drastic for the school board. Mr. Mussey tells us: "The mode of enforcing his rules having been reported to the school board, Prof Keniston was advised to change either his methods or his vocation." Then we learn about early pupils:

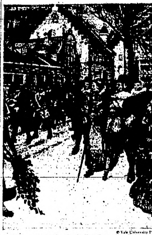
"Among the school mates of the first year or two might be mentioned Linda Robbecke (Mrs. Dr. Booren), Olga Kretschmar (Mrs. Chas Stewart), Eleanor Connelly (Mrs. W. H. Frederick,) Emma Backe, now city librarian, Melvin Evenson (the two last mentioned comprising the total membership of the first class to graduate from the local high school,) Freddie Maxwell, Mabel Chapman, Orange Kjos, Hattie Turville, Frank Kratka, Pearlie Christianson, Ada Clements, Wayne Richardson, Jim and Mike Connelly, the Wedmer twin girls, Gunda and Linda, the Wedmer Twin boys, Olaf and Conrad, Phil Zeh, Jr., and Gertie Holzknecht. There were many more but time wipes out memories regardless of the intimacy that might at the time be connected with them.

"Many of the school mates are still well remembered in Thief River Falls (about 1915), where a considerable number of these still reside. Among these are Theresa Bourque (Mrs. W. D. Fuller), Emma Brown (Mrs. A. M. Langseth), Mollie Lonson (Mrs. E. K. Aasen), Gina Gilbertson (Mrs. Charles Shirley), John and Albert Gilbertson, Cora Rockstad (deceased) Leon Bourque, Lizzie Bourque (Mrs. John Madden), Emma Lonson (Mrs. A. J. Mercier), Katie McMahon (Mrs. James Connelly), Edna Jubb (Mrs. Ole Jaranson), the Vesey girls, Beatrice and Mary, Harry Burns, the Folkse sister and Henry Folske, Alma Gilbertson, Lettie Kinsela (Mrs. Jas. Mulhall), Thomas Kinsela, Frank Zavoral, Mary Zavoral (Mrs. Ed Kelly) Hans Hanson, Willie and Lulu McCrum (the last named now a teacher in the city schools), Lizzie Brown (Mrs. Louis Hanson), Clara Brown, Minnie Brown (Mrs. P. O. Myhrum) Celina Gilbertson, Laura Anderson, Emma Bye. There are more names which we shall present next week.

Krakatao Eruption

Krakatao is a volcanic island in the Sunda strait, Netherland Indies. This island blew up in August, 1883, with a report that was heard 3,000 miles away. Thousands and thousands of persons were killed by tidal waves in places that were hundreds of miles from the island. The Sunda strait lies between Sumatra and Java.

Yuletide in Old New York



© Yale University Press

There was a hot time in old New York when Christmas rolled around. The Dutch were a merry people and the streets rang with joy to commemorate the birth of Christ. In '654, for instance, the city fathers declared themselves a Christmas holiday that began December 14 and lasted until three weeks after New Year's day. That was a real Christmas vacation!

Physicians Recommend Purchase of Safe Toys for Children's Gifts

With the approach of Christmas, members of the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association offer suggestions to Santa and his representatives on the great desirability of safe toys for children.

In spite of repeated grave accidents, toys are still presented each year with sharp points that are almost certainly calculated to get out of control. If the resulting destruction is only damage to property, the young recipient of the gift will be fortunate.

A definite number of cases of damaged or completely ruined eyesight is reported each year, according to the doctors' bulletin, as the result of bow and arrow sets with sharp metal tipped arrows given to children; or an air rifle whose little bullets, with deadly accuracy, found an eye; or sharp pointed scissors or a jack knife in the possession of a boy too young to know how to use it.

Often it is not the parents but a well meaning, though ill-advised friend without "chick or child" of his own, who brings these unfortunate gifts. The parents hide their misgivings for fear of hurting the good friend's feelings.

Better hurt feelings than a pierced eye, according to the physicians. And, better yet, wise selection on the part of everybody from the fabulous collection of safe toys on the market to give gifts that will not mar the joys of Christmas.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

The unemployment insurance plan announced by Governor-elect Elmer A. Benson should meet with the approval of all liberals. The principal feature of the proposed act is that only employers will contribute to the unemployment reserve fund. The Governor-elect argues that this is the only form of unemployment insurance which will do justice to the workers. He contends—and rightly—that industry should bear the brunt of its own shortcomings, of which unemployment is one. There is no reason why the worker should be penalized for the faults of industry. Depressions are not created by the workers, but are due rather to inherent faults of our economic order.

Governor-elect Benson further points out that to compel the worker to contribute to unemployment reserve funds is in effect to lower his standard of living. This standard is already too low and it should be raised rather than lowered.

Governor-elect Benson also recommends the pooled fund type of unemployment insurance as against the reserve account type, both of which are acceptable to the federal Social Security Board. The pooled fund type is more advantageous to the worker, because it will make certain that all workers get the full benefit of the law and not merely those in enterprises where employment is more or less stabilized.

The coming Legislature is regarded as certain to pass an unemployment insurance bill. The reactionaries in the last Legislature defeated an unemployment insurance act, but the demand for this legislation is now so great that it cannot be resisted. The last election has brought home to all politicians the message that the people demand legislation of this kind.

Governor-elect Benson also stated that he will ask the Legislature to set up an adequate and coordinated public welfare system for Minnesota. This has been needed for quite some time. The agencies set up for temporary purposes are now used to take care of permanent needs, and there is no question but that there is great waste due to duplication of efforts and inefficiency because of inadequate machinery.

The Governor-elect is of the opinion that the first definite need is to set up county boards of public welfare responsible for the local administration, under state supervision, of relief, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, and other supervisory services. At present there are welfare boards only in Hennepin, Ramsey, St. Louis, and Itasca counties.

The appointment of Attorney General Harry H. Peterson to the Minnesota State Supreme Court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Justice I. M. Olsen is meeting with general approval. The presence of another liberal on the Minnesota bench is a very wholesome thing.

The recently announced German-growing menace to the world of Japanese pact against Communism is a clear indication of the growing menace to the world of fascism. The pact is nothing more nor less than a military alliance and an agreement on the part of Germany and Japan to wage a war of aggression against Russia.

The entire foundation of all despotic governments is the exploitation and oppression of its own workers and farmers at home and ruthless attack upon foreign democratic countries. Fascist dictatorships, with their emphasis upon extreme nationalism and antagonistic racial theories, must in the end have their outlet in war. The sooner the world discovers this the better for its own safety.

It is time that liberals in America give serious attention to the growth and dangers of fascism at home. The Farmer-Labor movement of Minnesota is alive to that danger. We cannot wait until our Reverend Gerald K. Smiths and other fascists of this country organize a fascist movement and military groups and attempt, as they did in Italy and Germany, to supplant law and order by force and violence. These movements must be nipped in the bud at the first indication of militaristic tendencies.

At a recent meeting of the state committee of the Farmer Labor Association at the Hotel Lowry, plans were developed for the coming state convention of the association to be held at the St. Paul Auditorium, January 29. The Convention will be devoted largely to discussion of liberal legislation to come before the next Legislature, according to I. C. Strout, secretary of the Association.

True Porcelain

The porcelain made at Meissen, commonly called Dresden, out of courtesy to the city where sat the electors of Saxony, was true porcelain and should not be confused with the early translucent ware made in Egypt and Persia and in Italy, England and France, which owed its texture to the use of glass. Such ware was, at best, a substitute for the real thing.

A palimpsest is a parchment manuscript, which, after the writing upon it has been partially erased, had been used again. Both the Greeks and Romans erased manuscript in order to use the parchment again.

Keeping Christmas

By Katherine Edelman

MARIAN turned slowly from the full length mirror where she had been surveying herself for a critical moment, and looked across the room at her twin sister.

"I'm so tired of all this Christmas fuss," she said, languidly; "it is all so old-fashioned, so outdated."

"Are you expressing my feelings?" Nadine's voice was even more languid; "but how in the world are we going to make our dear family feel as we do about the matter? You know they are already in the throes of Christmas preparations." She threw out her slender hands in a gesture of infinite boredom as she finished.

"We can let them know that we won't be a part of the silly business—we can serve notice on them that we are going to work against all the noise, and fuss that is made about Christmas."

Forgetting their pose of boredom and sophistication for a moment, the seventeen-year-old twins jumped excitedly around the room. "Just think of how they will be shocked!" Marian cried, "I can see mother and dad. It is all going to be so exciting fighting the world, so to speak!"

But they were taken back quite a little when they announced their big news . . . mother's voice was very serious. "If you really feel that way, I guess the rest of us will have to celebrate without you. We're going to miss you a lot, of course, but we must consider your feelings." The twins failed to see the twinkle in her eyes as she leaned across the table at dad.

As if to make matters worse, Bill and Dick laughed in derision at their plan. "I bet they'll be on their knees to get in on our fun before Christmas," Bill predicted. And as if that were not enough, he suggested that now there would be nothing to buy for the twins, maybe he could have the moving picture outfit he had wanted so long. "I hope you don't change your mind, sweet sisters," he cautioned, as he proceeded to put a huge piece of pie in his mouth. "I do want that picture machine pretty bad."

"I'm Going to Do Like Everybody Else," She Said.

The twins threw scornful glances in his direction; they couldn't trust themselves to speak. There were things they had forgotten when they made their big resolve to do away with Christmas preparations. As soon as dinner was over, they hurried from the table.

The days that followed were not very happy. The twins could find no one interested in their plan to change the way of keeping Christmas. Even the most modern of their friends laughed them to scorn. No one was really interested in advancement, they decided. Here they were willing and eager to get a new crusade started, one that would save time and temper and money, and no one, not even their best friends, would lend a hand. They grew fretful, impatient, even peeved at each other.

One evening Nadine came home and found Marian in their mother's bedroom, peering into some boxes that had just been delivered. Nadine smiled to herself, and hurried from the doorway so Marian would not see her.

But next day in the toy department of Smith's store, things came to a showdown. The twins ran into each other, found themselves side by side clutching for foolish things that lay on the counter. Brown eyes challenged blue as they stood in the crowded aisle. Guilt showed plainly on both faces.

Then Nadine was speaking, quickly, incoherently: "You might as well know, Marian, I'm chucking your silly plan. I'm going to do like everybody else. I'm going to make a big fuss about Christmas. I want to push through the crowds—to buy foolish things—to hang up holly wreaths—to—to do just everything! . . . And if I'm not mistaken, you're just dying to do the same!"

"You're absolutely right," Marian answered, utterly careless of the amused glances thrown in their direction. "We've been a pair of fools, but we're going to have one grand and glorious time in the two days that are left . . . We're going to make the biggest fuss about Christmas that has ever been made before."

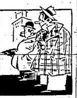
THE CHRISTMAS VISIT



"Where are you going to spend Christmas this year?"

"It will be either at my folks' or my wife's. We haven't quarreled about that yet."

HOLLAND'S SANTA

CHILDREN of Holland believe that St. Nicholas was a kindhearted Spanish bishop who had heard about their land of dikes, windmills and tulips and decided to pay it a visit, says Johan Hart in "Picture Tales from Holland." He arrived there long years ago on December 5, and began giving children presents. Since then he has always returned on that night to fill the wooden shoes of Dutch children with gifts. The children in turn leave out some carrots or hay for his horse.

Do You Know That:

One out of every four deaths occurring among girls from 15 to 30 is caused by tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is responsible for the death of about 4,000 children under 15 years of age in the United States.

More than 3½ million people have died of tuberculosis in the United States in the past 30 years.

The Christmas Party

By Katherine Edelman

IN SPITE of the gay music, the Christmas atmosphere, Doris Brian was miserable. For the first time in his life Dick was neglecting her for some one else. Ever since the first dance he seemed to have eyes and ears for just one person—Barbara Overton, a visitor from Chicago. Doris couldn't understand it; Barbara was not even pretty. But there was Dick, hanging on every word she was saying, and leaving Doris unnoticed.

Only yesterday he had been suggesting that they get married. There was his writing; he had told her something would come from it before long. Editors couldn't keep saying "no" forever . . . But now he seemed to have forgotten that she even existed. Doris had heard of men growing suddenly infatuated like that . . .

Snatching a wrap she hurried out on the veranda. She couldn't bear the gayety another moment. Suddenly she felt herself whirled around. Dick had come quickly through the doorway. "I've got the whole dope from her," he was saying excitedly. "I'm on the way to riches. Don't you know she's THE Barbara Overton who took first place in the biggest contests last year—and, honey—she's put me right on the track. I'm going to win big money next year—you see if I don't. Doris, are you willing to take a chance, and marry me right away—to make it a Christmas wedding?"

Mrs. W. C. Peterson and daughter Eileen and Mrs. J. W. Pahlen and daughter Jeanne motored to Thief River Falls Saturay.

Plummer School Notes

The Cardinals dropped their first game of the season when they took on the more experienced and rangier second team of Thief River Falls. Handicapped by the loss of several regulars early in the game and the inexperience of the substitutes the Plummer five found itself unable to ward off the determined attack of the Prowler seconds.

Mr. Ripple officiated in the St. Hilaire—Goodridge game at Plummer Friday night. St. Hilaire took the game by the close score of 14 to 13.

The regular meeting of the Plummer P. T. A. was held Thursday at the hall. A large crowd was in attendance in spite of the cold weather. Due to a misunderstanding Mr. Deputy of the Bemidji State Teachers College who was to have been the main speaker failed to arrive with others who were to furnish part of the program, and so only a short program was given. Mr. Ohnstad gave a short talk on the value of band training and directed the band in a short concert. The band is about a year old now and is proving itself more indispensible right along. Mr. Jaspers directed his group of the intermediate grades in three songs.

After the program lunch was served in the basement at the school house.

In a special class meeting the seniors unanimously agreed to use caps and gowns for the graduation exercises in June. They also agreed to put out an inexpensive high school annual.

On December 12 a group of local people who believe in the value of boy scout work will present a home talent play—"An Irish Stew"—at the Municipal auditorium. It is hoped that many will attend the performance and the dance that is to follow it. All will enjoy the rollicking comedy and at the same time make it possible for Mr. Ohnstad, the scout master, to take the local troup to camp next spring.

The visiting week which was sponsored by the P. T. A. was highly successful. Sixty patrons and parents visited at some time or other during the week and showed a lot of interest in the work the school is doing. All are now undoubtedly better informed on school activities than ever before and in a better position to support the efforts of the school which will benefit the community. The Supt. and the teachers of the school wish to express their appreciation for the friendly interest shown and to extend an invitation to come again.

Due to the fact that the six weeks period ended during the Thanksgiving holidays, report cards were not given out until this week.

Snake Not So Speedy

The snake's apparent flashing speed is an optical illusion. A man can walk faster than the fleetest snake. Its maximum speed is less than four miles per hour. The snake's reputation for speed is based on the receptive grace of its smooth, fluent, undulatory gliding.

GRYGLA

Married

At the Grygla Lutheran parsonage the Rev. S. T. Anderson Monday evening, Harry McLean and Miss Mabel Levang were joined in wed-lock.

Both contracting parties are very prominent with the younger set in this community and are favorably known. Many of the best wishes are extended to the happy couple. They were attended by John McLean, a brother of the groom and Mrs. Ida Flaaten a sister of the bride.

Mrs. John Hygnestad suffered a very unfortunate accident last Thursday when she fell and broke her arm. Altho very sore and painful the injured member will, no doubt, soon heal and be as useful as ever.

Last Thursday a capacity house greeted another meeting of the North Star Farmer's club, at the RNW hall. The business was very short but an entertaining program was rendered, consisting of singing, musical numbers and a play. Lunch being served after the program then the guests continued to dance until the wee small hours.

John C. Nelson returned from Iowa on Tuesday where he had been suddenly called by the death of a brother accidently killed.

Even Smeby is the proud owner of a new 1937 Chevrolet car recently purchased from local dealers. —Mr. and Mrs. Otto Haack and sons from Pine River spent a few days vacation visiting at the Haack home here. —Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Rude of Fargo spent a few days visiting at the Mrs. Marie Rude home west of town. —Mrs. F. A. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Duran spent last Saturday in Thief River Falls on a shopping tour.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Johnson and daughter Miss Iola, Mrs. Ellen Croninger, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Maney and Miss Mary Maney returned last Thursday evening from the Southern part of the state where they were called by the sudden death of a relative, the funeral being held last Wednesday. The deceased was the wife of Martin Maney a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Maney

A rough and ready helper for dad arrived at the Clarence Peterson home last Tuesday morning. Gink says the boy is a dandy and will be lots of help when the spring work starts. Mother and child are doing exceptionally well. Congratulations.

H. E. Linn returned from Warren last Friday evening where he had been a few days on Jury duty. Harry says he enjoyed the new service and will return the middle part of the month to complete the calender. —Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hylland accompanied by Mrs. Mike Telgland were week end shoppers at T. R. Falls.

MAN BURNED IN FREAK ACCIDENT

Preston—Falling asleep with a cigarette in his hand set fire to the clothing of Clarence Bendickson, Fountain mail man, and caused serious burns about his body, face, legs and arms. Learning that the hotel operated by his parents would be filled for the night, Bendickson decided to sleep on a davenport in the lobby. Before retiring, however, he pulled a chair up to the stove to warm himself. As he sat there with a cigarette in his hand he fell asleep and when he awoke his sheeplined overcoat and overalls had been burned off and his flannel shirt and underwear were in flames.

THREE CHURCHES BENEFIT BY ROW

Fairmont—As a result of unhealable warfare between two business enterprises in Dunnell, a village of 217 population, three churches there are richer by $500 each, and though the congregations do not believe in fighting even the pastors admitted in this instance that strife may have a silver lining. Two firms were competitors for the livestock shipping business of the community, but because there was not enough business for two institutions to exist they battled for more than two years with the result that "for the good of the town" it was finally decided to wipe out the two concerns altogether and organize a new livestock shipping business. Lengthy consultation brought an armistice and peace treaty which divided the balance in the treasury, amounting to $1500, evenly among three churches in the village.

ARTESIAN WELLS FOUND IN NORTH

International Falls—During the process of digging a well on their farm and upon drilling to the depth of 120 feet Carl and Jim Erickson, living two miles south of Loman, hit an artesian well from which water flows through a two-inch casing at the rate of 45 gallons per minute. Although it is the shallowest well in this community it is the best of the six flowing wells found along the Black river.

TURKEY READY FOR TABLE IS STOLEN

Farmington— Although a free turkey was a mighty nice bird to adorn the Thanksgiving dinner table, the man who obtained it by stealing it from another's back porch duly deserves the "meanest man" title of the Thanksgiving season. A 15-pound turkey dressed and slated for the oven at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Schuler was stolen from their porch, making it necessary for them to buy another bird in order to supply their dinner table.

RECREATION PLAN FOR STATE TOWNS STUDIED AT "U"

Program Being Developed in Southern Minnesota Tests

To work out a suitable program of physical education and recreation for the public school and high school students of Minnesota communities which will also be suitable for adults seeking recreation is the purpose of a research now being conducted by the University of Minnesota. For a year and a half experiments with the program have been going on in the cities of Litchfield and Glencoe and progress has been made to the point where these two programs are said to be meeting popular needs to an adequate extent.

Professor Carl Nordly of the department of physical education and athletics is conducting the study under the direction of Frank McCormick, director of athletics, and the university's committee on educational research.

Upon completion of the study Professor Nordly will make a complete printed report aimed at making his results available to all communities, in the hope that scores of Minnesota towns will take steps to improve their programs of recreation.

Thirteen points called the standards of an adequate program have been followed in Litchfield and Glencoe, as set up by the American Physical Education association. Hunting, hiking, firebuilding, first aid and other simple, natural activities of the boy or man to whom the great outdoors is available are items on the program. Touchball, volleyball, horseshoes, checkers, speedball and soccer are included in the program, as are basketball, table tennis, and shuffleboard. All items in the program are planned to meet the actual needs and the existing capacities of the participants.

The entire study is unique and is expected to contribute not only to the health and welfare of the communities but also to provide additional wholesome means of occupying leisure time.

WOLFS AT DOOR NETS $20.00 FOR FARMER

Littlefork—The story of the "wolf coming to the door" has materialized in a Littlefork home, but instead of the resulting poverty with which it is ordinarily interpreted, the riches of Stanley McGuire were increased by $20.00 by the wolf's coming. The wolf, who may have come with expectations of snatching Mr. McGuire's all, not only met with the loss of his breakfast but in the end—disaster. Seated at his breakfast table, the man saw the wolf approach his door. He met the animal at the doorstep with his trusty old 30-30 rifle and a bullet from it ended the life of the marauder. Collection of the bounty and sale of the hide amounted to $20.00 for Mr. McGuire. It is assumed that wolves this year are more numerous in this vicinity and bolder because of the scarcity of rabbits, the wolve's regular food supply.

DECEMBER TURKEY RECEIPTS ATTAIN TOTAL OF 34 CARS

A total of 34 carloads of turkeys that left Thief River Falls during the December marketing period, added to 37 carloads shipped in November, makes an aggregate of 71 carloads to leave the city during the past six weeks, or well in excess of 1,500,000 pounds.

December marketings this year were virtually the same as 1935 shipments of 35 carloads, while November of this year exceeded the same month in 1935 by a margin of 37 to 20.

Figures that explain the price jolt turkey producers are suffering in marketing their birds this year were set forth last week in a statement prepared by W. B. Garver of the agricultural economics staff at University Farm. The outstanding factor is a 33 per cent increase in supply over 1935, the trade estimating 20 million birds this year as against 15 million last year. Consequently, growers in some parts of the country are receiving as low as 10 cents a pound, an amount way below actual feed costs.

DEER PARK YOUTH PLACES SECOND IN 4-H LAMB CONTEST

Arnold Myrum of Deer Park township won second place in the statewide 4-H club ten-ewe contest for 1936, it was announced today by County Agent R. M. Douglass. First place went to Kalvin Sylvester of Kittson county.

Arnold's achievement consisted in raising 18 lambs with an average weight of 85.1 pounds and a total weight of 1,532 pounds, while Sylvester raised 20 lambs with a total weight of 1,636 pounds and an average of 81.8 pounds per lamb.

To Arnold goes the distinction of having the highest average weight per lamb in the state. Contestants were required to care for ten ewes and see how many pounds their lambs would weigh at the end of a 150-day period.

Local Workers to Receive Wage Payment Before Christmas

All WPA workers in Pennington county will get a pay check just before, instead of just after Christmas, as would have happened had it not been for a temporary revision of work hours and pay periods, authorized this week by Victor Christgau, state WPA administrator. Assurance that the checks would be ready for delivery in all parts of Pennington county was received this week by Merle Webb, engineer in charge of WPA activities in this area, through the office of J. B. Kovarik of Detroit Lakes, district director.

Checks to be delivered on the 22nd will be those that would be issued ordinarily from the 25th to the 31st. Weather permitting, arrangements will be made so that crews will put in the same total number of hours as they normally would have worked after the holiday.

Thus, the crews will earn full checks by working longer hours and on days when the projects usually are inactive. If weather conditions do not permit such a switch in hours, short checks will be issued.

The decision to pay the crews before the holiday will not only meet the wishes of the workers, but will be helpful to business men generally by reason of the increased buying power, locally, just before the end of the Christmas rush.

Throngs Follow Him to Auditorium After Arrival on Soo Special

Colored Lights Lend Festive Aspect to Business Section

Santa and his packages were mounted on a truck and escorted to the Auditorium headed by a Chevrolet sound car playing Christmas carols. The throngs increased as the procession made its way thru the business district, and an estimated 2,000 children and their elders packed into the Auditorium, where Mayor W. W. Prichard extended a welcome and a group of first and second grade pupils sang a song under the direction of Miss Harriet Helquist, after which Santa, with the aid of a group of assistants, distributed popcorn balls and all-day suckers to the assembled children.

Since the coming of Santa, the holiday spirit has been very much in evidence in the city, with crowds of shoppers filling local stores, and with the streets in the business district arrayed in festoons of colored lights. Many decorated Christmas trees have been installed downtown, especially conspicuous ones having been set up by the Rotary club north from the Auditorium, by the Soo Line over the south entrance to the station and by the Thief River Grocery company on the roof of its building.

Local churches are busily engaged in arranging their Christmas programs, which will be held at various times during the coming week, with services as usual in all churches Christmas morning.

The schools of the city will close Friday for the holiday season, and sessions will resume Monday, January 4.

State Fire Marshal Warns of Christmas Season Fire Hazard

"Let's make this a "Safe" Christmas and avoid the usual fatalities", says Frank Yetka, commissioner of insurance and state fire marshal.

It is true that during the Christmas holidays the general public seem to forget the seriousness of some of these seemingly trivial hazards that so often result in such fatal disasters. There is not a Christmas that has not meant the loss of some life due to some existing fire hazard. So, as a reminder Commissioner Yetka is issuing this warning and the following suggestions:

It is advisable to stand the trunk of your Christmas tree in a pan of water to prevent it from drying out too much.

Electric lights should be used and the wiring should be thoroughly examined before being placed on the tree. Ascertain if there is a short circuit or not.

Crepe paper used for decorative purposes should be treated with a chemical solution to make it fire resistant.

Cotton, paper or celluloid ornaments should not be used on Christmas trees for decorative purposes unless chemically treated.

Non-combustible trimmings are just as cheap, and White Rock, Red Tip and asbestos, Jepson flake or wool make "safe" snow.

Do not place trees too close to heating or electrical fixtures. Lighted candles should not be used on trees nor placed in windows.

Children should not be clothed in paper costumes when participating in Christmas programs, or in anything of an inflamable nature.

Smoking should be prohibited near decorations.

Certain types of toys should be carefully watched, especially those where some substance is used for generating power.

Only safety films should be used in projection machines.

It is recommended that a pail of water or fire extinguisher be placed in the room in a convenient place in case of a fire in the tree. It is also suggested that a woolen blanket or rug be kept in a handy place to use for smothering a fire.

If additional wiring must be done in connection with Christmas decorations, by all means employ a competent electrician to do his work for you.

Merchants should use fire resisting paper decorations, or dip their decorations in a solution to make them as nearly fireproof as possible. Crepe paper can now be obtained which is of the slow-burning type and which will not throw off a flame. This should be used where paper decorations are necessary.

LEGISLATURE SPECIAL TERM CALLED TODAY

Asked to Enact Law Qualifying State for Unemployment Insurance

GOVERNOR PETERSEN ISSUES CALL FRIDAY

Various Plans Are Scheduled to be Submitted to State Solons

Minnesota's state legislature will convene in special session at noon today.

This extraordinary session was called Friday by Governor Hjalmar Petersen for the purpose of enacting an unemployment insurance law to qualify Minnesota for a 90 per cent share of $3,000,000 of 1936 employer contributions.

The governor issued the call after conferring with legislative leaders and Attorney General Harry H. Peterson. Peterson advised the governor that 28 states already have either passed unemployment insurance laws or have called special sessions to do so.

This would give those states having such laws a majority in congress, making it improbable that the federal social security act would be amended to extend more time for delinquent states to pass their own legislation.

The governor called the extraordinary session, the second of the 49th general assembly, to meet at noon today. The governor pointed out this would allow sufficient time to enact state unemployment insurance law and have it approved by the federal social security board before December 31, the deadline.

Word from the social security board in Washington indicated that it would take that agency but four days to consider and approve a Minnesota unemployment insurance bill. This would give the legislature 10 days in which to enact a measure, considered ample by legislative leaders.

At least three measures, covering as many ways of handling the problem, are now ready for submission to the special session.

Labor will have one measure and Senator Donald O. Wright, Minneapolis, one of the leaders of the major unemployment insurance battle at the special session a year ago, has two bills, each carrying different plans.

The first of Wright's proposals provides for covering only employers of eight or more workers, and for employe contributions. The other will cover every employer of one or more persons and for contributions to the fund by the employer only.

Both measures provide for a combination pooled and reserve fund systems in the unemployment compensation fund. Half the money paid in would go to the pooled fund, while the remainder would go into the reserve fund, where payments would be carried to the individual employers' accounts.

HIGH SCHOOL GROUPS ENTERTAIN ROTARIANS

Two musical organizations from Lincoln high school, the boys' double quartet and the girls' sextet, furnished the program at the Rotary club luncheon Tuesday noon in the Evelyn hotel. Each group sang a group of selections.

Mild Weather Holds Up Hockey Schedule

First Game With Emerson Deferred to Wednesday, December 30

As a result of the continued extremely mild winter weather during the past week, preparation of the hockey rink in the winter sports arena has been seriously delayed, making it necessary for the local States-Dominion league entry to postpone until December 30 its game at Emerson originally scheduled for Saturday evening.

The second game arranged to be played at Hallock next Wednesday may also have to be postponed unless colder weather sets in soon. In the meantime a temporary rink has been established near the First st. bridge so that members of the team may start practice sessions.

Walter DePaul, who will coach the hockey team, arrived Tuesday from Minneapolis, and expressed satisfaction with the material available for the senior team. He stated that as soon as intermediate players are ready for play with the senior aggregation they will be played in the regular league played in the egular league games. Earl Effinger, John Lynskey and A. M. Senstad have been certified as referees for league games, goal referees to be named later.

The league schedule will open this evening at Grand Forks where Roseau will meet the University of North Dakota team in a contest, which, it has been reported, will be announced over Radio Station KFJM.

A. P. Berge, chairman of the hockey ticket sales committee, announced that season tickets for the eight home games of the regular league schedule will be offered in an advance sale at $2. The schedule includes five Sunday games in the winter sports arena. Rink tickets for local skaters also will go on sale this week under the direction of A. B. Stenberg, committee chairman.

900 EMPLOYES IN CITY FILE SOCIAL SECURITY BLANKS

Nearly All Eligible Persons Have Signed up, Says Postmaster

Approximately 900 employes of this community had, up to the deadline Tuesday, returned completed blanks to the local postoffice qualifying them under the terms of the federal social security act. Only a few here remain to be registered, Postmaster Andrew Anderson stated, adding that new employes may continue to secure the necessary blanks from the postoffice.

Officials in Washington expressed satisfaction Monday at the rate of registration for federal pension accounts after a check showed three-fifths of the eligible employers and more than two-thirds of the workers have signed.

There is no need, they said, for a second extension of the deadline for workers' applications which expires Tuesday.

The latest tabulations of forms returned to the social security board's Baltimore office showed about 2,200,000 from employers and 22,000,000 from employes, against original estimates of 3,500,000 and 26,000,000 respectively.

Since an average employment of 11 in an establishment was indicated, the number of eligible workers may go above 30,000,000.

Although the lists probably will be incomplete at the deadline, indications are that summary action against delinquents will be deferred. No instance of willful avoidance of the law has been reported it was said.

JAIL BREAKER IS RETAKEN SUNDAY NEAR OWATONNA

Bad Check Artist Hides Self in Barn Loft Where He Is Apprehended

After digging their quarry out of a straw pile in a barn loft at Hayfield, near Owatonna, following a three-quarter-mile chase last Sunday, Sheriff Arthur Rambeck and Police Chief A. B. Stenberg returned to this city Tuesday with Elmer Braseth, who recently escaped from the county jail while awaiting a hearing on a bad check charge. Also brought back was his brother, Alvin Braseth, who is accused of having assisted Elmer in escaping from jail.

As the officers drove up to the farm home where the two men were suspected of being in hiding, Elmer fled thru the back door in the direction of an adjoining farm. Chief Stenberg trailed him thru the deep snow, finally sighting the man, and following his trail to the barn where he had hid in the straw pile.

The two brothers yesterday were in the city jail awaiting a preliminary hearing. Elmer Braseth is also wanted in Marshall and Polk counties on charges involving the issuance of worthless checks, according to reports received by local authorities.

POSTOFFICE SET FOR BIG HOLIDAY BUSINESS VOLUME

Three Additional Employes Are Added to Staff for Coming Week

The Thief River Falls postoffice this week is completing arrangements to handle the biggest volume of Christmas mail in recent years, which will get into full swing over the coming week-end Postmaster Andrew Anderson stated today.

To facilitate the handling of parcels and other work in connection with the holiday rush, arrangements have been made to add three members to the staff for the coming week. They are Howard Holum, Gordon Johnson and Alv Vistaunet.

Two employes will be on duty at the parcels post window during the rush period, while stamp sales and general delivery will be handled at a second window. Every inch of available space in the postoffice building is being utilized during the rush period, no less than eighty mail sacks having been set up on racks to receive outgoing mail.

County WPA Payrolls Boost Buying Power

Holiday buying power in Pennington county has been increased $7,290 as a result of the disbursement of WPA payrolls for the last three pay periods, according to figures announced this week by Victor Christgau state administrator. These figures show that approximately this amount has been or will be distributed in checks to 93 WPA workers in the county during this period, according to data obtained from the district office of J. B. Kovarik at Detroit Lakes released this week by Merle Webb, engineer in charge of WPA work in the county.

DELINQUENCY IN TAXES DROPS IN DISTRICT 18

Heavy Payments of Back Taxes Makes Net Delinquency 1.5 Per Cent

17.5 PER CENT OF 1935 TAXES REMAIN UNPAID

Board of Education Meets in December Session Monday Night

Taking into account payments of delinquent taxes received this month in connection with the November settlement, property in School District 18 this year shows a net delinquency of only 1.5 per cent, it is revealed in an analysis of school district taxes submitted by Supt. Morris Bye to the board of education at its December session Monday evening. This figure compares with 4.8 per cent in 1935 and 8.1 per cent in 1934.

Delinquency in payment of 1935 taxes due this year was reported by Mr. Bye as being 17.5 per cent for the school district, compared to a delinquency on current taxes in 1933 of 18.7 per cent, with a corresponding figure of 22 per cent for 1934.

Mr. Bye's statement revealed that with a total levy of $58,817.58 for the general maintenance and bond and interest funds, there was collected the sum of $42,996.05 in current taxes and $9,526.51 in delinquencies, making aggregate receipts of $52,522.56. The total received by the district from the November tax settlement was $20,073.21, Mr. Bye stated.

The board at its meeting supplied a bit of Christmas cheer for members of the teaching staff by authorizing the payment of the first half of their December salaries on the last day of school preceding the Christmas holiday, which opens Friday and continues until Monday, January 4.

Mr. Bye said that noon lunches being brought to school by high school students living at a distance are now supplemented by a hot dish served by students in the home economics department at a charge of two and one-half cents. He added that the deficit in the project for the first month was $1.19.

The board approved the purchase of capes for the use of members of the high school band. The capes, which will be made by students in the home economics department, will be royal blue and gold, the high school colors.

Skating rinks provided by the school district are now ready for use at the Knox and Northrop schools, Mr. Bye said, while the Washington rink is being completed this week.

PROWLERS LOSE TO GRAND FORKS FRIDAY EVENING

Playing in a manner distinctly off their usual form, with weakness notably in the basket-shooting department, last Friday evening resulted in the Lincoln high school Prowlers losing to Grand Forks Central at Grand Forks by a score of 27 to 12.

Central high also had difficulty in finding the basket, making only eight out of 30 tries in the first half, while the Prowlers made three out of 21 attempts, eight of the tries being inside the foul line. Best performers for the locals were Roy Lee, Stadum and Lorentson.

A game with the Ada high school team has been arranged for the Auditorium here Friday evening to take up an open date on the Prowler schedule. Tumbling acts will be presented between the halves under the direction of B. W. Gabrielson, physical education instructor.

In a hard-fought inter-district contest Tuesday evening at Mahnomen, the Prowlers nosed out a 29 to 25 victory over the Mahnomen Indians. Leonard Helquist proved to be the best point-getter for the locals, accounting for a total of 14 points.

Morris Bye Will Address Junior Chamber Tonight

Supt. Morris Bye will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce this evening at 6:30 in the Civic and Commerce association rooms. GOOD

Their Christmas Good Deed

Jocile Webb Pearson

BILLIE JONES adored his big brother. Jim had been a boy scout before going to college and to be a scout like Jim was Billie's one ambition.

"If we're goin' to be scouts," he confided to his chum Joe Perkins, we oughta begin practicin'."

"Yes, but how do we know how to begin?" inquired Joe.

"We can help our mothers," said Joe. "Sure," Replied Billie, "but this must be somethin' special like helpin' old Miss Riley carry her basket when it wus icy, or somethin'. An' bein' Christmus, we oughta give somethin'; mebbe a present, too. Say, I got an idee, Joe. Why can't we give her somethin' for our first good deed? She don't have a daddy or nobody to help her."

"But we ain't got money," objected Joe, "an' I bet she needs a lot of things—coal an' kindlin' an' everthin'."

"Leave it to me, Joe. I got a nother idee, but it's to be a secret. 'Tain't a good deed if ya tell anybody. Now cross your heart an' say: 'I'll never tell till death us do part.' There, that's the bindinest words I know."

Anyone would know it was Christmas by the spicy fragrance in the air. Even before one saw the big lighted tree in the living room.

There were many whispered conversations and signs and giggles between the two boys that Jim's keen eyes found amusing. Coming home one evening he surprised them in the act of smuggling a basket of coal out the back gate.

"Hey, fellows! Where you going with that?" It was Joe who blurted: "Billie says it ain't no good if ya tell." Billie hung his head. "We're just practicin' to be scouts," he stammered, "an this is our good deed. We been doin' it for two weeks—I mean takin' coal to Miss Riley. She's poor an' deaf an' ain't got no daddy to get her coal—half the time we take it from Joe's house"—Billie looked appealingly at Jim.

"An' she only had a teeny little bit," put in Joe, staunchly. "An' you're s'posed to give to folks Christmus, ain't you?"

"I salute two mighty fine scouts right now," said Jim. "But first we'll have to make clear the scout ideas of property rights. Deliver your coal, then come up to my room and we'll talk things over."

When old Mrs. Riley hobbled to her door in response to a loud knock Christmas eve, she did not see two little boys scamper behind the coal shed, but she did see a huge basket filled with a generous supply of food, and many bulgy packages piled high on the top, with a "Merry Christmas to you" tied to it.

THE CHRISTMAS CAROL

Helen Waterman

THE Christmas Spirit, if such a sprite there be, must have fled in dismay from old Silas Wentworth, for a crustier, harder, less Christmas-spirited man would be hard to imagine.

Yet Sally Blaine, his clerk and bookkeeper, had the temerity to bring Christmas into the store, stringing lines of tinsel

Sally Blaine, rather frightened now, looked up. "Merry Christmas, Mr. Wentworth."

Silas surveyed the store grimly. "Take it down!"

But Sally hesitated.

"I said take it down. More of your fool notions! What's this?"

"Dickens' Christmas Carol, sir."

He thrust the book on a back shelf. "Humph! Don't let me catch you reading on the job."

"Yes, sir. I'm sorry about the decorations—"

At nine o'clock on Christmas eve Silas saw out his last customer, and began putting up the shutters. It was beastly cold, and his numb fingers were slow at their task. As he was about to lock up, he was confronted by two men, one carrying a revolver.

"Let us in and lock the door," said the man.

"Now if you're quiet you won't get hurt," said the spokesman. "My pal here has had an accident. I need some medicines. You'll be paid all right."

Silas grunted. "Tommyrot."

The other man had been rummaging about the store. "Here," he commanded. "I can't watch what you're doing. So you read aloud until I get through." And he handed Silas "Christmas Carol."

Silas Surveyed the Store Grimly. "Take It Down!"

He was scarcely half way through when the men paid him and left. He threw the book down and started off, but at the door he turned, and sitting by the night light, read again. "So like me," he muttered, as he finished.

From the wastebasket he drew out the tinsel and strung it awkwardly around the store. He looked through his accounts marked "Overdue," and selected several bills which he marked "Paid in Full," and put in proper envelopes. Then he got his wraps.

"Merry Christmas, Silas," he exclaimed, and went out to the dawning of his first merry one in many years.

As told to: FRANK E. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Truthful Election Costs

AN OHIO law requires candidates for office to file a report of all expenditures in their campaigns. Sometimes these reports are not always truthful.

But the man who ran for sheriff of Perry county a few years ago turned in a report that no one could doubt. It said:

"Lost 1,360 hours of sleep thinking about the election. Lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent. Donated one beef, four shoats and five sheep to county barbecues. Gave away two pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses, $5 in cash and 13 baby rattles.

"Kissed 126 babies. Put up four stoves. Kindled 14 fires. Walked 4,076 miles. Shook hands with 9,508 people. Told 10,101 lies and talked enough to make in print 1,021 volumes.

"Attended 16 revivals and was baptized four times by immersion and twice by other ways. Contributed $50 to foreign missions and made love to nine widows—five grass and four sod.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

"The ancient struggle between conflicting wet and dry forces, each with a national victory to its credit, is again being fought in Kentucky.

"While a great Canadian-American corporation is constructing here at a cost of nearly $5,000,000, the largest Bourbon whisky distillery in the world, and new and old plants have sprung into such activity that Kentucky again leads the states in distilled liquor production, a score of special county local option elections were held in September, with dry victories in every instance but one.

"Twenty other counties either have set election dates or are circulating petitions with that end in view, and in each case it is practically a foregone conclusion that liquor would lose. Probably 60 counties can be counted upon as certainly dry, with 30 others doubtful, observers believe.

"The present question is: To what extent can the distillery interests, which have invested from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 in Kentucky since repeal, depend upon city legislators and city voters to preserve for them their privileges?"—News story from Louisville, Ky., by Malcolm Bayley, October 2, 1936.

MAGAZINE OF 67 YEARS AGO FOUND

Anoka—A portion of a 67 year old magazine, Colman's Rural World, published in April, 1869 was found here during the work of altering a basement in an old home. The magazine, well preserved, differs from periodicals of today in that advertisements of automobiles and gasoline are substituted by advertising of seeds, plants, etc. Early rose potatoes were offered for seed at $1.00 a pound, gladiola bulbs were quoted as high as $3.50 and $4.00, and in addition, advertisements included a mower, a rake, scales, sewing machines and horse plum pits for stock at $9.00 a bushel.

Growing With Your Child

"No, my wife feels that what she has to offer our boy is fully the equal of whatever teaching he'd get in a nursery school, so we've decided not to send him to one. He's with us older people so much that he gets plenty of mental stimulation."

Thus the father of a four-year-old boy, to an acquaintance who was asking him about his little son, of whom it was easy to see he was very proud. The father, a man approaching middle age, and a "high-powered" executive in a position of importance, went on to say, "I don't know just how much they should be learning, anyway. About a year and a half ago I tried to teach him his alphabet. We stuck at it for a while every night, but after awhile I began to see that it was making him nervous, so I stopped."

Poor father! The ignorance you displayed in regard to your young son's needs would make you blush with shame, if only you knew what a ridiculous figure you were cutting. Nor is that the worst. If you knew what a wrong thing you were doing, when you attempted to drill him with academic learning for which he could have no possible use for several years to come, you would be the first to snatch him out of the way of such harmful handling.

Let's examine for a minute what this father has said. In the first place, his wife assumes that the time her little boy spends with her is well-spent. It may be that it is, but again, the chances are that because he is an only child, born when his parents were past their youth, his mother will be inclined to lavish much attention on him, and talk to him in such a way as to make him too old for his years. Many mothers take it for granted that a child would rather have their company than that of other children, without ever giving a child an opportunity to try out which would be more fun. A mother may be a highly intelligent person, have a sparkling personality, be full of life and vitality and humor, and still be a very poor person for a child to be with. She may so dominate, wherever she is, that he is always a bit overpowered. She may be so demanding of affection, or so devotedly pouring it out all the time, that the child is weak from the resultant strain.

While not every child needs to go to a nursery school this little fellow is almost undoubtedly one of those who would profit most by such experience. As it is, he has every advantage that a delightfully well-provided for home can give, except the companionship of little children, at his own level of interest and capacity. Instead, he must be harassed by the loving attentions of a father who is intent on pouring into him more knowledge than he can possible absorb, regardless of whether or not that knowledge is anything the child can use, or even whether he might not be better off, as he certainly would be in this case, without it.

Children who are under school age do not need "teaching" in the sense of being filled full of facts. What they do need is to learn how to live. Instead of finding out about those mysterious symbols, A B an I C, he should be finding the enjoyment and thrill of achievement of doing something for himself. Instead of talking to his mother all day long, and picking up a large vocabulary of more or less grown up words, he should be collecting large smears of dirt on his person, as a result of his intimate acquaintance with nature, and his encounters with the little boy next door, who doesn't take kindly to the idea of sharing his sand-toys.

No, Mr. Big-business Man, though you try to provide "everything" for your precious baby son, you are forgetting that money can't buy the understanding of his needs which, in your ignorance, you don't even realize that you lack.

Made Best of Worst of Christmas-Time Mishap

THE snow began nearly a week before Christmas and when the great day arrived, folks were trying to remember the time when it didn't snow in Morton City. Barnes, the only merchant, had put off getting his shopping supply so there were no gifts in town to be bought for love or money. But when news got about that the train down on the mountain siding was snowbound in Morton City, old and young sort of forgot about the lack of gifts. Too, the president of the road with his party had a special car on the rear of the snowbound passenger, and wasn't that a great honor indeed?

Folks got over the novelty of their visitors in time for the organization of a huge choir of carol singers that went down to the train and paraded through the length of the coaches, even to singing for the chef and the porters and, of course, all the train men. They had remembered to take along a tree decorated with the makeshift ornaments they had on hand from previous years. But somehow, they made a great hit with all the strangers who joined heartily in the fun.

The passengers dove into their baggage and brought up books, boxes of candy, candy bars, ties, fancy soaps and bath salts, highly perfumed, beautiful towels and even lovely baby clothing, wearing apparel and jewelry. In fact, not a soul in the little settlement was without one of the impromptu gifts. The passengers received old-fashioned roasted fowls and all trimmings of a generous feast. What one hath not, the other hath seemed the most terse explanation of the happy condition!—Loella R. Lyons.

CHRISTMAS AMONG THE PINES

By Jocile Webb Pearson

BIG BILL, in spite of his six foot four was a boy at heart. Boss of a logging crew he could be plenty stern when occasion demanded, but a Christmas tree and all the lights and cheer that goes with it was his weakness.

"Christmas is no fun without kids," was the way he put it. But, it looked like Bill was doomed to disappointment this year.

The crew were lounging around the fire after a hard day's work when Pudgy Sam, the cook, shook the ashes out of his pipe and said: "What's the reason we can't have a Christmas just like home right here? Plenty trees, if we can muster the trimmin's."

"Christmas No Fun Without Kids," the Way He Put It.

Bob, the kid dishwasher, was all enthusiasm. "We've got popcorn. I've strung yards at home for mom. Sam's got a harmonica, and Dave a Jews harp, an' some of you fellows can sing. And I'll trim the tree."

"The Boss wouldn't think much of a Christmas without kids," put in Dave. "There's the Martins. They got a couple kids; we can ring them in. I was by there t'other day an' heard them talkin' about Santa comin'."

"Boss said Martin looks sort of beat out, too," said another. "Suppose we appoint Bob, here as a committee of one to extend our invitation for them to join us. I feel we owe them something, the way they helped us when some of the men had flu."

Big Bill was jubilant with their plans. "You fellows took the wind out of my sails, but you'll do a better job than I could."

"Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," lead by Sam's harmonica, floated out from lusty throats upon another star-strewn night.

Big Bill in a scrambled suit of red flannel and a hemp beard was a satisfactory Santa Claus to at least two happy children. He handed out gifts to everyone. Sam had done his best on the feast that followed, and everybody joined in the "three cheers and a tiger" for a jolly Christmas among the Oregon pines.

Three Tuberculosis Deaths Each Day

The death rate from tuberculosis, indicated on the accompanying chart which shows the decline in the death rate in Minnesota, is an index of the progress made in the campaign against tuberculosis, a campaign financed by Christmas Seals. Since 1907, when the Christmas Seal was introduced into the United States, the Minnesota death rate has been cut nearly two-thirds.

In 1907, 103 persons for every 100,000 in the state died of tuberculosis. In 1935 this rate had been reduced to 35.6. That the need is still great is evident when it is considered that the 1935 rate means that three Minnesota people die each working day of the year from this disease, and that the Minnesota death rate showed a slight rise in 1935 over 1934.

This rise, the first in the state in ten years, serves as a warning that vigilance cannot be relaxed. Christmas Seals carry on a year around battle for prevention and early discovery of tuberculosis.

THE SPECIAL SESSION

Because Minnesota has not provided for an unemployment insurance system it is now necessary for a special session of the legislature to enact laws before January first that will meet the requirements of the federal social security act, or the state will lose nearly three million dollars that Minnesota employers will pay to the federal government as a tax on 1936 payrolls. The special session, called by Governor Petersen for this purpose, convenes in St. Paul today.

Unemployment insurance, as provided for in the social security act, has no relation to the old age pension system that was also provided for by that same act. Like the old age pension system, however, unemployment insurance will be financed by a tax on payrolls, employers of eight or more employees being forced to contribute according to the terms of the federal act. The unemployment insurance tax on 1936 payrolls is one per cent. For 1937 it will be two per cent and thereafter will remain at three per cent.

Proceeds of this tax in states that do not provide a satisfactory unemployment insurance system will go directly into the United States treasury. States that do provide such a system will receive ninety per cent of the taxes collected in such states. In addition to this compulsory minimum federal tax, states may extend the tax base and include all employers and may also provide for a contribution by employees. Considerable leeway is provided for the states in determining how the funds shall be distributed.

This is the problem confronting the lawmakers as they convene in St. Paul today. That so difficult a problem will be handled satisfactorily in the few days of the special session is not to be expected. The legislature probably will enact a law that will answer federal requirements and leave as many of the details of the state system as possible to be worked out by the regular session which will meet in a few weeks. This is all that can be expected of the special session. Its sole purpose is to enact legislation that will enable the state to get back ninety per cent of payroll taxes paid by Minnesota employers, and it will not be criticised if it does this in the most simple manner, avoiding as much as possible those controversial questions that can be settled later on.

Now that the electoral vote of the country has been officially registered, President Roosevelt need worry no longer about whether or not he was re-elected. By electoral votes, his re-election was almost unanimous, all but eight of the 531 votes cast being for him. There were six million more popular votes cast in this election than four years ago and of the total of 45,812,155 votes cast, Roosevelt received 27,751,612 to 16,681,913 for Landon. Had the electoral vote been divided according to the popular vote Roosevelt would have received 323 electoral votes, Landon 194, Lemke 10, Thomas 2 and Browder 1. In view of the fact that the election, both in popular and electoral votes, was very one sided, there probably will be no agitation for changes in the electoral vote system to make it more representative of popular sentiment. If, as has happened in the past, the winner by popular vote had not received a majority of the electoral votes, then those who demand this reform would have been real noisy by now. And perhaps the system should be changed, although it is difficult to understand why the demand for such a change should come from the less populous states which enjoy an advantage under the present method.

"PREMIER BUTTER STATE"

(Duluth Publicity)

For many years Minnesota has topped all other states in quantity production of creamery butter. Now the national banner for highest butter scores has been won again by Minnesota in competition with outstanding buttermaking sections of the nation. In 1935, 273,000,000 lbs. of butter manufactured in Minnesota represented $75,100,000—some industry! And more than three-fourths of all the butter made was sold on out-of-state or foreign markets. Minnesota should insist that it be wholesaled, retailed, and served in hotels and restaurants as "Minnesota Butter." Note the signs in our own markets—California peaches, Texas grapefruit, Florida oranges, Michigan apples, Wisconsin cheese, etc. A lot of people in California think all we raise in Minnesota is snow fences. It takes as much sunshine, ideal climate and good soil to make good butter as it does to raise fruit. Forty-seven states can tip their hats to Minnesota, the "Premier Butter State" of America.

TIME TO REDEEM PROMISES

(Deer River News)

It's time we took taxation out of politics. A national election is just over. It will be four more years before we stage the great quadrennial show again. But in the meantime, no matter who sits in the White House, no matter who are members of the house and senate, taxes are going to hit us all. Republicans pay taxes. Democrats pay taxes. So do Socialists and Communists. And no political party has a clear record on tax legislation. Spokesmen for all parties have long promised tax reduction—and then, once they took office, proceeded to raise taxes. Members of all parties have done their part to fasten a leech-like bureaucracy upon us—and you can't have a bureaucratic government and efficient, economical government at the same time. During the campaign we heard more promises of tax reduction from all political quarters. Now the time for conversation is past, and the time for action has arrived. Promises demand fulfillment, pledges cry out to be redeemed. Unless we are to be utterly crushed under a tax burden that is already sapping more than 20 per cent of the national income, the American people must demand that statesmanship take the place of politics, and that a sincere effort to reduce the cost of government be made.

"PRODUCTION FOR USE"

(New York Times)

Recently a Moscow workers' club bought 150 chairs, and forty-six of them collapsed at the first meeting after their purchase. The director and plant manager of the factory have been sentenced to five and three years in prison respectively. The Times dispatch from Moscow refers to "the fight, so largely fruitless, to improve the quality of consumer goods, which, under socialized production, is wretchedly low while prices are appallingly high measured either in gold value or in relation to wages."

All this must sorely puzzle our own reformers. For years they have been advocating "production for use" instead of "production for profit." They tell us that in the good old days chairs (one of their favorite illustrations) were made to be sat on, while now they are made to be sold. But in Russia, it seems, chairs produced for use are not usable; while in America chairs made for the low motive of obtaining a profit can be sat on with safety and comfort. It is all very strange.

Perhaps it is not so strange after all. It is true that in America the manufacturer of chairs is making them in the hope of a profit. But for that very reason he has to be very careful. Consumers do not have to buy the chairs he makes. They may prefer the chairs of any of a hundred different competitors. Therefore, in order to make his profit, he must make his chairs not only usable but obviously and eminently and attractively usable, so that those who are to use them will take them.

In Russia, with a State monopoly of manufacture, the consumer has neither the variety, the range of choice nor the preference regarding quality that he has under competitive private industry. He has to take what he gets. Indeed, our Moscow report of the chair incident remarks that when a store complained of the bad quality of the goods the director of the factory replied: "If you don't like them, don't take them."

AGE-OLD CONFLICT

(Boston Transcript)

Raymond Moley, editor of Today, and a former member of the new deal brain trust, sees the future in this country as a conflict between security and liberty. In a recent address he said that security must be paid for in restricted freedom of the individual. Thus there was the beginning of a contest to be waged with alarming success for security and for freedom.

But this does not imply that security will disappear when freedom wins, and freedom will be crushed to earth when there is a swing back to security. It is merely an old conflict in a new form. The world moves ahead with gathering momentum until there is revolt against so much progress with the changes it brings to the individual. Momentum is lost. There is a period during which people become familiarized with new conditions. They accustom themselves to the degree of freedom possible under this new order. There is then further advance. Mr. Moley is telling an old story in a new way.

It is a tale carrying cheerful reminder that we are not to become a nation of robots. There will be no such degree of regimentation that political parties will disappear. Two will be needed, one giving first place to security; the other, to freedom. There will be security on the left and freedom on the right, or should it be vice versa? And perhaps some statesman of the future will demonstrate that people can have both—security and freedom, one and inseparable. Then, however, it might become necessary to devise new means of keeping two political parties in existence.

STINGERS

Why work for money when you can get it by voting for it?

For nearly 4,000 years politicians have remained the lowest form of animal life.

Our difficulties are not with a social system that won't work, but with a society that won't work.

We shall run out of money, of course, but by then we shall have established a government and a bureaucracy that will be independent of our votes.

The new yearning for standards of living that begin below the belt, rather than above the collar have sunk us into indifference as to conditions of life and government that no vigorous people would tolerate for more than an afternoon.

The great trouble with our universities is that they are spoiling thousands of good truck drivers.

In America almost nobody has ever conceived of education as anything but a means to make money.

America is no longer sensible, if indeed it ever was. It has gone over to easy thinking, easy living, easy money, unreasoning prejudice, and meaningless slogans. It has become apple pie for every cheap demagogue and every expensive vote buyer.

Many leaders are coming to believe that the real solution of the depression problem, as well as the establishment of dependable prosperity, is along the line of reducing costs to consumers. The approach up to this time has been the exact opposite, the idea being to "prime the pump" and then through taxation to supply the unemployed with aid so they could buy the products that flowed from the primed pumps. Some of this was necessary as emergency action, but as a regular policy it has had the effect of increasing consumer costs and developing a circle which as it went round and round merely fastened the problem on the nation and made but little advance toward settlement. Short working hours, curtailed production on farm and in factory, business penalties embodied in regulation and taxes, have all combined to boost costs which in turn have limited consumption and aggravated the problem instead of solving it. There are signs that the new approach to the depression problem will give more consideration to larger consumption and less to the program of reduced production. If a dollar can buy more goods and services, more goods and services will be bought and as they are bought there will be larger demands for labor and raw materials. As the demand and the market for both are increased, there will be more wages with which to buy—and that is all that is needed to end the depression.—Long Prairie Leader.

The best sort of job insurance in the world today is the old fashioned practice of salting down a part of every dollar received for a rainy day. We know this is scoffed at at present and we are told it is a relic of the horse and buggy days. Yet when the improvement meets with an accident or illness visits the family, to whom do they turn, to the improvident neighbor or to the one who is known to have been conservative and had a reputation for paying their bills regularly? We will let you answer this. Uplifters may devise other schemes that sound good from press and platforms but it will be a long time before this time-honored system is improved upon.—Monticello Times.

Christmas in Shanghai Just One of Their Days

WHEN Christmas comes to Shanghai, a cross-section of the world makes holiday. The average Chinaman fails to get the meaning of it, but such a fun-loving people can do well with one more celebration. So the Chinaman himself adds to the din with firecrackers and gift-giving, parties and the making of calls.

There is a distinct western touch to the observance of the season by this most cosmopolitan city. Shanghai's "social registerites" start plans for dinners and dances as early as the middle of November; immediately reservations are checked off on the calendars of ballrooms and restaurants. The exact form of observance varies with the nationality divisions of the city. In the Russian section, the day is observed as it is on the steppes or in Moscow. The French greet Santa Claus in their own way, even though the wax dolls have to be brought far from the Champs Elysees. The Japanese prefer to make merry by drinking saki. The English must have their plum pudding and holly.

At the mission schools, where boys and girls are taught in separate classes, Christmas carols around the tree give modest school girls a chance not only of singing hymns but of "seeing hims."

In interior China, however, most of the people prefer to celebrate their own Dragon-boat, Mid-Autumn, and New Year holidays rather than this "imported" one. They do not even try to understand these queer foreigners. To them December 25 is just another day!—Frances [illegible].

A BOY'S MODEL FARM

We have a model farm display in our window that any boy would be glad to own, I'm sure. Well, after January 1st, we are going to give some farm boy a chance to earn this farm and it's a mighty nice farm with house, barn, garage, hog house, horses, sheep, cattle, hogs and a dog, with machinery, a car, truck and tractor. It costs $35.00, but to the boy who will bring in his dad to place an order and make settlement for a McCormick-Deering tractor for first tractor to be delivered this winter from this date will get this model farm. Tell dad he will not have to pay cash for the tractor, but any deal acceptable to the Harvester Co. will count and on the amount paid in cash will be given a discount for the period to Spring and on the unpaid balance there will be no interest charged until Spring. Why not? Dad wants a tractor for spring. Bring Dad in.

WINTER DAYS

Even though winter days, many of them are nice days and many jobs can be done to advantage and profit during winter days. One important thing is to check up on the old cream separator. It might be stealing, because it is not skimming clean, and it pays better now than for many years to have a good cream separator, such as the McCormick-Deering which leads in quality construction and perfect skimming. Easy payment plan.

Don't forget the feed grinder, the saw rig, etc. We are in a position to complete your farm equipment in quality merchandise.

Physicians of State Endorse Christmas Seal Sale Campaign

One out of every 11 children, statistically speaking, was tested for tuberculosis in 1935 in Minnesota. That means, according to a bulletin on the tuberculosis campaign of the Christmas Seals issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association's committee on public health education, that among each 10 untested children there are some who are infected with tuberculosis. There may be a few, even, who are suffering from active tuberculosis, unknown to themselves, their parents or their teachers. Among the 53,000 who were tested under Christmas Seal auspices in 1935, 15 per cent were found to be infected in varying degrees with tuberculosis.

Some of the thousands of others who were not tested are certain to be in need of immediate care and constant watching to avoid an otherwise certain breakdown from disease later on.

The only way to conquer tuberculosis, according to the physicians, is to find out where it exists; and the only way to find out where it exists is to test all young people, especially since young people are its chief victims—by the Mantoux tuberculin skin test which indicates almost infallibly whether or not any tuberculous infection is present.

When that important fact is known, X-ray and other methods can be used effectively to find out where the infection is lodged and how far it may have progressed. Immediate steps can be taken, then, to guard the child from illness. When that important fact is not known, the child may be and too often is allowed to over-strain himself at school or to remain in constant association with an open infective case of adult tuberculosis.

A day comes when, without apparent warning, the child is overtaken with a serious illness—that may take years out of an active life to cure.

FIRE 4 SHOTS AND KILL FOUR BEARS

Roseau—With visions of a bear chasing them and thoughts of what might happen running through their minds, Ernest Klema and Barton Rhine had no recollection of the fact that the bear story involves the mamma bear, the papa bear and the baby bear, and they did not realize that the one bear which made them so miserable was in reality four bears which they had killed. Coming to a place in the woods, north of Salol, where many trees had fallen, making traveling rather difficult, Ernie was surprised to see a bear stick its head from a hole in the windfalls. He raised his gun and fired twice, but the bear kept coming. He shot again, but with no apparent luck. Only two shots left, he started madly through the entanglement, thinking that the one bear was still in pursuit. Barton saw what had happened and after he had fired twice they saw four bears lying dead. The first bear appearing from the hole had been followed by three others and four shots had killed them all.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 14, 1936 (U.S.D.A.): Slaughter steers and she stock opened this week on a weak to 25c lower basis, bulls fully steady, vealers steady to weak. Choice 863 lb. mixed yearlings brought $11.00, best long-fed steers with weight $10.50, but most steers were plainer kinds selling at $5.50-7.50, some up to $9.00. Common and medium heifers made $5.00-7.00, very few here suitable to sell up to $9.00 or more. Cutter and low cutter cows earned $3.00-3.75, beef cows $4.00-5.00, very good fat cows up to $5.75. Sausage bulls bulked at $4.50-5.25. Better vealers sold at $8.00-9.00 or more, cull and common $4.50-6.00. Most stock steers were lower grades selling at $4.00-6.25.

Hogs opened steady to 10c lower, better 190-300 lb. $9.75-9.85, 160-190 lb. $9.20-9.80, 140-160 lb. $8.75-9.40, 100-140 lb. $7.50-8.90, sows 400 lbs. down $9.50-9.70, heavier weights down to $9.25 or below. Stocker and feeder pig trade was dull and weak to lower.

Lamb trade was very slow, early sales about 25c lower than Friday, slaughter ewes weak to 25c lower. Good to choice native and fed lambs sold at $8.00-8.25, bulk choice fed offerings held above $8.25. Good to choice ewes were bid $3.25-4.00. Desirable 63-66 lb. white-faced feeding lambs were steady at $7.25-7.50.

Feed and Raise More Hay, "U" Farm Man Advises

Minnesota farmers can well afford to make a practice of feeding and raising more hay, advises S. B. Cleland, farm management specialist, University Farm, St. Paul, for hay compares favorably with other feeds when measured in terms of the amount of digestible feed.

For example, Mr. Cleland sets up a comparison among hay, corn silage, corn, barley and oats. A yield of three tons per acre of alfalfa hay will give a farmer as much digestible feed for his livestock as will a yield of nine tons of corn silage per acre, 67 bushels of corn, 80 bushels of barley or 136 bushels of oats per acre.

Grain should be fed to supplement the roughage, especially for dairy cows, Mr. Cleland states, but first the cattle should be given a chance to consume all the good roughage they can use. This means, in the case of hay, that it must be cut early and so cured that the cows will relish it and consume large quantities. It means, too, that the hay should be fed over a long season, late in the spring and early in the fall during periods of poor pasture. It also means feeding less corn fodder, low quality hay and straw, and using good hay instead.

By such methods of feeding, more clover and alfalfa can be raised and fed, the result of which will be higher crop yields, more feed from the farm, better livestock production, and larger net income, states Mr. Cleland.

PRES. ROOSEVELT BACK FROM SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR

Chief Executive Returns From Peace Journey to Argentina

President Roosevelt returned to American soil Tuesday for the first time in nearly a month, officially terminating a history-making cruise of 18,000 miles to South America in the interest of peace of this hemisphere and the world.

Tanned a deep brown from long hours under the tropic sun the chief executive came down the gangplank of the cruiser Indianapolis to the shrill whistle of the boatswain's pipe and the booming of a 21-gun salute.

Mr. Roosevelt, hopeful that the Pan-American conference that he formally opened December 2, in Buenos Aires, will achieve its objectives and set an example in mutual helpfulness and understanding to the war-weary nations of Europe, came home in excellent health, eager to tackle the many domestic problems that require his immediate attention.

Between now and the first of the year he will be required to draft his messages to congress on the state of the union and the budget as well as scan details of the inaugural program.

N. D. "U" TEACHER, THREE CHILDREN DIE IN COLLISION

Greenbush Men Involved in Car Accident North of Grand Forks

An inquest into the headon collision near Manvel, N. D., north of Grand Forks which Sunday killed one University instructor and three children of another instructor, was indefinitely continued Monday following preliminary investigation by a coroner's jury.

The four were occupants of a car driven by Dr. J. L. Sayre, head of the University political science department.

Dead are W. C. Stockfeld, 32 years old, assistant professor of marketing; Mae Sayre, 7 years old; Josiah (Billy) Sayre Jr., aged 6; and Lawrence Sayre, 4 years old.

The four were killed when the Sayre car and another crashed near Manvel, 16 miles north of Grand Forks, shortly before 6 p. m. Sunday. Driver of the other car, a coupe, was Mathew Barto, 22, of Greenbush. He was accompanied by Clarence Stauffeneker, 22, also of Greenbush.

Dr. Sayre and the two occupants of the other car were taken to a Grand Forks hospital, none seriously injured. Dr. Sayre's physician Monday night said his condition was "very favorable" and expected he would leave the hospital Tuesday. Dr. Sayre is suffering from a head bruise, cuts and other bruises as are Barto and Stauffenker.

States Attorney W. B. Arnold late Monday night said he expected a manslaughter charge would be filed against Barto. He did not know if any charge would be placed against Stauffeneker, passenger in Barto's car.

A coroner's jury late Wednesday night placed the blame for the auto crash deaths Sunday of W. C. Stockfeld, Mae, Lawrence and Josiah Sayre on Matthew Barto, of Greenbush.

The inquest was completed Wednesday night after testimony of Adolph Carlstad of Grand Forks, first to reach the scene of the tragedy and that of his companion, Miss Clara Johnson of East Grand Forks, had been taken.

State's Attorney W. B. Arnold said late Wednesday night manslaughter charges would be preferred against Barto and he would be arrested today and held in technical custody at the hospital in Grand Forks. Arnold said no charges would be immediately filed against Stauffeneker.

Wheat Prices Rise to Seven-Year High Mark

Domestic wheat prices smashed high records for the last seven years by sky-rocketing five to eight cents a bushel Monday, the sharpest advance in a single market session since 1933. Suggestions that a world shortage of breadstuffs was at hand, including new estimates of increased German import requirements, were largely responsible, traders said, for the buying wave that swept prices upward. Wheat deliverable this month shot up eight cents a bushel to $1.46¼ at Minneapolis and 7 5-8 cents to $1.36¼ at Chicago.

132 DEER FOUND DEAD IN WOODS NEAR BAUDETTE

Survey Reveals That 1,700 Hunters Sought Game in That Section

A checkup of the deer hunting season in the Baudette section discloses the remarkable fact that onehundred and thirty-two deer, mostly fawns, were found dead in the woods, says the Baudette Region. These figures are supplied by Jack Manweiler, head of the wild life department of the resettlement section. The figures also disclose that there were 1,700 hunters in the area and that approximately one thousand of these were outsiders.

The total number of deer seen during the ten days was six thousand, and there were six hundred and fifty killed and reported. Five black bear were also killed and reported by hunters. It is estimated that the average cost of hunting was $27.65 per hunter.

The remarkable part of Mr. Manweiler's report to H. E. Fladstol, project manager, is the number of dead fawns found in the woods, and it bears out the contention of many that the fawn law this year was a farce. Mr. Manweiler was assisted in securing the figures by Jack Wentling, jr., assistant game project manager and an efficient staff of helpers.

BLOOD AFFLICTION TAKES BOY'S LIFE

Brainerd—A strange and rare blood affliction, similar to the dreaded hemophilia, a hereditary disease that has pursued the Spanish royal family and its offspring for years, struck a humble Crow Wing county family when it exacted as its toll the life of a five-year old boy, Robert Chamberlain of Crosby. He died after a blood transfusion failed to stop the spontaneous flow of blood spurting out at intervals from different parts of his body. The boy's affliction was described as an acute condition which strikes its subjects without warning or, as far as science knows, without a definite cause. It is characterized by the refusal of the blood to clot making it impossible to stop the flow that spontaneously crops out under the skin on any place of the body. Robert's condition was diagnosed by injection of a hypodermic needle with a minute point from which blood trickled for 36 hours defying all attempts to halt it.

SOIL CONSERVING PLAN CONTINUED FOR COMING YEAR

The 1937 Agricultural Conservation program, similar in many respects to the 1936 program, was announced this week by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in Washington, D. C.

Like the 1936 plan, the new program offers payments to those farmers who meet specified conditions for shifting land from soil depleting crops to soil conserving crops, and for carrying out approved soil building practices.

"Despite drought and other handicaps, the majority of farmers who took part in the 1936 conservation program approved its principles", Secretary Wallace said. "Hundreds of community and county meetings were held at which the growers discussed plans for next year. Many suggestions for program improvement and for simplifying administration were made. We considered all of them carefully and incorporated as many of them as could be well fitted into a national program for agriculture.

"Most of the changes made, in fact, were proposed at these conferences or at the meeting with farmer-committeemen and extension service representatives in Washington.

"The modifications are intended, for the most part, to adapt the program more closely to the needs of the various regions. As you will recall, this is in line with the statement made by H. R. Tolley at the time the 1936 Agricultural Conservation Program was announced.

"For the 1937 program, additional emphasis has been placed on soil building and more money will be available for soil building practices. Such practices, together with the shifting of acreage to soil-conserving crops on land previously devoted to soil-depleting crops, are essential to any sound plan for restoring soil fertility and preventing erosion.

"The new program should not only improve the soil but it also should protect the interests of consumers and help to preserve the economic gains which farmers have made during the past four years.

"The fact that funds for the 1937 program are not yet available should be pointed out. The Congress, at the time the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act was passed in 1936, authorized an annual appropriation of $500,000,000 for carrying out a program under the Act. The actual appropriation for 1937 remains to be made however. The program we have drafted, therefore, is dependent upon the action of Congress."

Salient points of the new plan include:

The program provides for expenditures not to exceed the $500,000,000 authorized to carry out the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act.

The plan of establishing soil depleting bases for farms has been continued. These bases will be used as a yardstick to measure diversion from soil depleting to soil conserving crops.

Crops will be classified as soil conserving and soil depleting. These classifications follow those established in 1936 but some changes have been made in the light of experience gained in the actual operation of the program and conditions brought about by the 1936 drought.

The regional set-up for the administration of the program will be virtually the same as for 1936. The administrative expenses of all County Agricultural Conservation Associations will be deducted from the payments to farmers in their respective counties.

Any producer, no matter how small his farm, will have an opportunity to earn at least $20. The minimum allowance in the 1936 program was $10.

PROWLERS DROP 27-12 TUSSLE TO GRAND FORKS

Central Leads at Half Time Period — Hold Upper Hand Throughout

The Prowlers played their third game of the season last Friday at the Grand Forks Central gymnasium and were handed their first defeat. The North Dakota boys proved to be too tall and just a trifle too fast for the Prowlers and to add to that, the local team was far from top form.

During the first half the Prowlers had 21 shots, eight from within the foul circle, and made only three, while Central had 30 shots and caged eight. Of the fifteen free throws that were given the locals, only two passed through the hoop, and the Redskins didn't do much better sinking three out of fourteen.

The game started slowly but it wasn't long before the score board started to show points for Grand Forks and by the end of the first period they had built up a lead of 12 to 2. It was during the second quarter that the Prowlers made their best offensive showing of the evening but were still far from even average and the score stood at 19 to 7 when the gun sounded at the end of the first half. In the last half of the game the locals held Central to only four field goals and gained two for themselves, Stadum making both. This brought him into high scoring honors for the Prowlers.

Parish and James were the outstanding players for the Redskins, the former being high point man with five field goals and two free throws.

Roy Lee undoubtedly played the best game of ball for the Prowlers and in spite of his height, or shortness, gave Central plenty of worry. However the team had a proverbial off-night and the score at the end of the game was 27 to 12.

The box score of the game follows:

MEANING OF CHRISTMAS

THE first meaning of Christmas is that of generosity, inspired by the great gift of God to mankind. The selfish sway of the world is broken at least for a time, and the Christ spirit is born in our hearts. Sometimes the exchange of presents is carried too far and becomes a burden instead of a pleasure; but anything that makes the world unselfish is beautiful and good.

FROSH HOSTS TO SOPHS FRIDAY NITE

A short program was presented in the assembly under the direction of Miss Olson before the students retired to the gym for games and lunch. James Dorreson acted as master of ceremonies at the program. Francis Stenberg tap-danced, Doris Hostvet played a piano solo, and two small girls tap-danced. Elaine Rambeck sang "In a Chapel in the Moonlight" and Laureen Johnston yodeled. The program was concluded by having Jon Peterson and Helen Brinde lead the students in the school song.

After the program games were played in the gym. Such games as farmer-in-the-dell, and drop the handkerchief, seemed to be enjoyed by all even though they are rather childish. (Maybe the freshmen are enjoying their second childhood.)

After the games dixie cups and cookies were served to all. The sophomores wish to thank the freshmen for a very enjoyable evening.

Local Team Captures Tight Interdistrict Game Tuesday Night

The Prowlers won their fourth start of the season Tuesday when they scalped the Mahnomen Indians by a 29 to 25 score, in a hard fought fracas on the Indian's floor. The Prowlers were handicapped by the miniature floor and were opposed by a small but rugged team that was endowed with that essential called pep. The Prowlers had an "off night" on defense and only some brilliant work by "Bud" Nelson, Clark Mickelson and the scoring thrusts of Lenny Helquist staved off defeat.

The Indians captured an early lead in the melee and held it until the end of the first quarter which found Mahnomen leading by a tally of seven to six. The Leemen spurted into their old form in the second quarter to lead their adversaries 18 to 15 at the end of the half, only to see their lead whittled down to one meager point at the completion of the third period, the Prowlers having a 21 to 20 advantage. Both quintets lashed back with fury in a hectic final quarter but the Indian's rally fell shy by four points and the final gun sounded with the Prowlers winning their third game of the current season by a 29 to 25 count.

Leonard Helquist found his scoring range, that defeated Cass Lake in a previous game and rolled up a total of fourteen points to hold individual scoring honors for the evening. Clark Mickelson, ambidextrous forward, upheld the honor of the Mickelson clan with eight points besides playing a whale of a game on defense. Captain Nelson also played a commendable all-around game.

Donald Glass, fleet Indian forward, proved he was equally as efficient on the hardwood as he was on the gridiron as he led the Indian scorers with twelve points besides being a shark defensively. Johnson with seven points, and Bonn with five, were other high scorers. Although the game resembled a football contest, few fouls were committed. Johnson of Mahnomen was the only cager to leave the game on personal fouls.

CHRISTMAS

In one week people in all sections of the world will be celebrating the greatest holiday ever commemorated by man — Christmas. It is the time of "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Christmas is celebrated in vastly different ways in the countries of the world, but we Americans believe that our own way of celebrating on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day is just about the best. The custom of exchanging gifts and Christmas cards has sprung up from that first Christmas of long ago when the wise men brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Babe born in the lowly manger.

The sentiment connected with all the mannerisms of the season of the year is commendable—but the facts remain that we have commercialized Christmas. All this day of days means to many of us is the exchange of gifts, family gatherings, and fun for all. This interpretation is not altogether wrong for the day was meant to be a day of great joy and celebration to everyone. However, let us not forget the real reason to celebrate is the birth of the Christ child who is the Savior of the world.

THE SCREAMER

Fred K.—Where the angels all look like Mae West.

Milt N.—Where there are plenty of parties to crash.

Ardith M.—Where they've never heard of younger brothers.

Mel H.—Where they do away with people who don't mind their own business.

Jack A.—Where they have hamburger steak, and more hamburger steak.

Lynn B.—Where a guy can have big feet without being reminded of it continually.

Gordon H.—Where they dish out extra height free for nothing.

Don P.—Where they'll let me lead all the songs—providing Helen G. is my co-leader.

Merten W.—Where you can fry hamburgers as well as play a harp.

Elmer D.—Where there is wireless communication with "Snookums."

Enough of that cause we have a question that just won't wait. Who is the newest—oh you know—Sammy D? All we know is that her first name is Helen—come on, confess. You'd really hate to see us die of curiosity, wouldn't you?

And this last item is a request member, Floyd M. wants one and all to know that he wasn't the host at a party Friday night—just an everyday—get-together! Understand, you kids?

PROWLIN' ROUND

A fairly good show of the Lincolnites standing in this district was given last week end. East Grand Forks, defending champions and supposedly one of the toughest teams in the District was defeated by Bemidji 24-9 last Friday and lost to Cass Lake by a decisive score the following evening. As you know, Cass Lake was decisively defeated here two weeks ago. The Wave plays host to the Pirates of Crookston tomorrow. This game should give a pretty fair lineup on the supposedly powerful Pirate crew.

There seems to be higher competition for the starting guard position on the Prowler five this year than for some time. Helquist has been the only consistant starting guard this season. Nesse started against Cass Lake and Haughum against the Grand Forks Redskins. Caldis and Quale are nearly on a level with the two mentioned before. So it seems that the starters tomorrow will probably be determined by the flip of a coin.

Roy Lee, Prowlers forward, has at last gained the recognition due him. The Grand Forks Herald said, "Roy Lee, a midget forward, was a standout for the visitors, (Prowlers) He handled himself like a veteran and with a little more luck of a few field goal attempts, would have had his team in the running all the way."

The faculty and student body of Lincoln High School extend their deepests sympathy to Doris Hostvet in the loss of her father.

WIND-CHILL

Looks like the team was either steppin too high or too low at the Forks Friday night—but we're still behind you.

Tripping the light fantastic is quite an art—just ask our "Friday nighters—and this doesn't necessarily pertain to our junior friends either!

And just where are all these letters planted in the halls coming from? (Who said Senior girls were grown up?)

A few seniors seemed to be having trouble with amending the amendment to the amendment of the amendment (this goes on forever) last week.

You should read a few of these exchanges in the Progress office (room 2 to you mugs). Some mighty nifty scrawlings there.

Just think 15 seniors are left to pay their dues. (Cheer up the second assessment is still a ways off.)

Bud K. is going to lose his tonsils tomorrow and with a swell shindig coming up too.

Mr. Montague in Eng IV, "There will be lots of people there— at least I'll be there!"

Speaking of Casanovas, have you heard what shining lights are being lit in Yvonne A's eyes and by Clarence H. and likewise Bob H. and Jean Lee—Ya can't win fellas!

The janitors are chasing me out so "Merry Christmas!" See you next year.

FAST ADA QUINTS SLATED TO MEET LOCALS FRIDAY

Lincoln Cagers Will Meet Vikings in Third Game

Ada suffered a narrow defeat at the hands of the Crookston Pirates earlier this season but have a victory over Twin Valley to their credit. The locals and Ada are resuming a friendly rivalry after a lapse of three years. The last tussle between these two aggregations resulted in a victory for Ada when the Prowlers were forced to concede the game to the Vikings because of an infraction of rules.

This lineup may be changed somewhat as Coach Lee has been experimenting with several different possible starters. Perhaps the most evident of these experiments has moved Captain Nelson to a guard where his height and experience can be capitalized on and moving Lee to Nelson's forward part. Stadum seems to have regained his stride in the Grand Forks game and he is expected to register more points than he has before this season. With victories in two of the three early season games the Prowlers will be out to keep a clean slate for the rest of the season.

The Prowler "B" five will clash with a fast Alvarado team in a preliminary game. Last season the B's won both contests from the A's in hard fought games. The visitors will present an experienced and well-balanced five tomorrow.

The Lincoln High School tumblers will make their first public appearance at the contests under the supervision of B. W. Gabrielson, local physical training mentor.

Pre-game selections should place the Prowlers as favorites in both games but a spirited battle is likely to ensue and the games will probably be in doubt until the final gun.

PROWLERETTE'S CORNER

"I want to be a "—um-um-taffeesh good, but sticky—huh? Yeah! Exactly 68 G. A. A. girls decided that the program, meeting, and taffy pull were "tops" and felt like more-more. All of us "Josies" were ready for an encore for Jewell Warner and her E. Powell ability to say nothing of our Frosh find in Elaine Rambeck—warbler (or what do you call a lady crooner, or a good one?) And then there were the Frosh, who introduced the "I want to be a G. A. A. ditty-peppy kiddos—there. Watch the Frosh, Josies, says I "It'll be a relief to watch for something after the "Edward-Simpson-Baldwin tussle.)

Imagine the surprise of the basketball advisor when thirty-two girls reported to the "I-know-nothing-of-basketball" meeting last Thursday night.

Let's keep the attendance in the recent breaking 75. So I say—to the Prowlerette's—with love.

Post Script: Just wanted to see it written out once! Remember this is our "follow thru" year for the Prowlers— wherever they go, whatever they do—we want them to know we're tagging along and fancy too! G'bye now—be perky!

VALHALL

The Neighborly club will meet Friday afternoon, Dec. 18. Each member will bring a five cent gift as it will be in the form of a Christmas party.

MINE COMPANIES WIN IN SUPREME COURT LITIGATION

Justice Olson Writes Opinion in Tax-Valuation Action

A supreme court ruling in favor of the Mesaba range iron ore mining companies in St. Louis county Friday gave the concerns another victory in their fight for lower tax valuation of reserved properties. The opinion was written by Justice Julius J. Olson, Chief Justice Devaney dissenting.

The high court upheld 41 out of the 43 mining cases appealed from the St. Louis county district court. In the lower court the companies gained a 15 per cent reduction of the $104,000,000 valuation assessment levied by the state when the court ruled the actual valuation at $88,000,000. The companies claimed that the valuation should have been $78,000,000.

The state was left but little hope of salvaging anything from the extended court contests. The meager hope of realizing something from the litigation lies in the cases sent back to the lower court for review.

These are the forster and Mount Iron-Rathburn mines cases. The amount involved in these cases amounts to only $150,000.

Law to Ban Shotguns in Deer Hunting Is Urged

Increasing sentiment among sportsmen against permitting the use of shotguns in deer hunting is expected to result in recommendation to the 1937 Legislature of a law curbing the practice. Officials of the department of conservation point out that the use of shotguns increases the number of deer that are wounded and left to starve or to become the prey of wolves, which is less frequently the case when high-power rifles are used. It is also claimed that hunting deer with shotguns increases the danger for the hunters themselves.

FAMILY IS SAVED BY DOG'S ALARM

Hastings—An Airdale dog is credited with saving the lives of three persons when his frantic scratching and howls awakened his mistress, Mrs. Clyde Rivers in time for her to rescue herself and her two children from their blazing home in South Hastings. The fire, which had started on the first floor from an overheated pipe of a coal stove, had burned for several hours before Mrs. Rivers, who was asleep upstairs with her two children, was awakened. Upon arrival of the fire department almost the entire ceiling of the living room had burned away and there was a large hole in the second floor ceiling.

The "60" engine, available in five body types, is built in exactly the same body size and wheelbase — to the same advanced design — with the same comfort and convenience as the "85." And it delivers V-8 smoothness at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Six Special Contests and a Leaders Conference Scheduled

4-H club members in Northwestern Minnesota will have an opportunity to take part in six special contests at the forthcoming Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows February 8-12, 1937. According to District Club Leader, H. A. Pflughoeft, these contests include crops, poultry, dairy and general livestock judging, also dairy team and individual demonstrations. The poultry judging is a new feature this year. Teams will be composed of three poultry club members. Four classes will be judged according to the Standard of Perfection and four according to egg production.

Continued interest is being shown in crops judging which was new last year. The Clay county crops judging team that placed first at the 1936 Winter Shows, established an enviable record during the year in that they won the highest honors in both district and state competition.

Contestants in dairy judging and dairy demonstrations will have their expenses paid by the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association. Special trophies, plaques, and Certificates of Merit will be awarded to the winners in all the above contests.

A 4-H leaders' conference will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday with State Club Leader T. A. Erickson, A. J. Kittelson, H. A. Pflughoeft, and Amy Wessel in charge. An extra day has been added for discussion to permit leaders to become better acquainted with the various phases of club organization and to be able to acquire more new ideas for the club program. Several counties have already selected leaders to attend, with part or all of their expenses paid.

57th ANNIVERSARY OF TRAIN'S ARRIVAL

Fergus Falls.—The arrival of a train was a marked event 57 years ago and great preparations were necessary, as evidenced by recollections of the first train coming to Fergus Falls, the anniversary of which occurred the day before Thanksgiving. The event was called to memory with the following description of the first train's arrival: The tracklayers rounded the curve near the depot grounds in the forenoon, followed closely by the construction train. At exactly two o'clock the engine stood on the main track as far west as the elevator, and as the ties, the rails and the spikes were systematically and rapidly put where they would do the most good in advancing the line, our citizens were drawn out in numerous squads to witness the work. At a quarter before five o'clock the track was spiked across the Red river bridge and the train was moved onto that structure to all the music that the engine could make added to a heavy anvil chorus, in which that son of a Vulcan did himself proud.

Forty Countries Have Tuberculosis Seals

More than forty countries throughout the world have used the Christmas Seal to carry on anti-tuberculosis work since 1904 when Einar Holboell, Danish postal clerk, originated the idea of selling these decorative penny stamps to raise funds to fight this ancient plague.

No country in the world has had greater success in the use of the tuberculosis Christmas Seal than the United States. Beginning with a restricted sale in Delaware in 1907, when America's first Christmas Seal was designed by Miss Emily P. Bissell, the Seal has become through the past 30 years the chief means of support of some 3,000 national, state and local associations in the country.

Although a campaign against the disease had been promoted in Minnesota since 1890, no method of financing a program and arousing the public interest was found until the Christmas Seal plan was adopted. The first Seal sale in Minnesota was held in 1909.

This year's Christmas Seal, with a jolly, modern Santa Claus, symbolizes a modern battle carried on against tuberculosis, making use of all modern weapons. This thirtieth Seal symbolizes the progress that has been made during the thirty years of warfare for in Minnesota the death rate from tuberculosis had been cut nearly two-thirds.

1937 'Hopper Situation Reported Not Alarming

Although the grasshopper situation as it looks for 1937 is not alarming, a statewide survey of both the adult grasshopper situation and the extent of egg deposits in Minnesota indicates that the expected infestation is "threatening", announces A. G. Ruggles, professor of entomology at University Farm and head entomologist of the State Department of Agriculture.

Heaviest infestations in 1937 are likely to involve Norman and Kittson counties where the survey indicates that from 12 to 14 per cent of the crop area may be affected. Counties where approximately 5 per cent of the crops are in danger include western Marshall, western Polk, Clay, Bigstone, Pope, Yellow Medicine, Lincoln and Pipestone.

In a number of counties the danger is rated from 1 to 3 per cent as follows: western Becker, Wilkin, Ottertail, Traverse, Stevens, Wadena, Todd, Morrison, Stearns, Sherburne, Anoka, Swift, Chippewa, Lac qui Parle, Lyon, Nobles, Murray, Rock, Cottonwood, Jackson, Brown, Blue Earth, Faribault, Scott, Rice, Waseca, Steele, Mower, Olmsted, Wabasha, Winona, Fillmore and Houston. Remaining Minnesota counties appear to have only a normal grasshopper population and crops are in no immediate danger.

Grasshopper losses to Minnesota crops were almost negligible in 1935, stated Mr. Ruggles, and very little poisoning was necessary. This was a happy contrast as compared to neighboring states. The difference can be accredited to the efficient and thorough grasshopper control work in 1932 and 1933.

GRYGLA

Thomas Fitzgerald of Detroit Lakes and C. L. Engelbert of St. Paul, both gentlemen deputy Internal Revenue Collectors spent last Thursday evening in town visiting with friends. —Last Thursday afternoon, Mrs A. J. Miller entertained the members of the Friendly Neighbor circle. A very interesting program was rendered, included being a short playlet, The Trail of a Glutten with a good moral background. The hostess served a very enjoyable lunch.

A very large number of ladies of the village and surrounding community were in attendance at a baby shower at the John Hanson home last Tuesday. The self invited guests brought many useful gifts and after a very social hour enjoyed a fine lunch.

At the present writing Mrs. H. E. Mussey is not in a very good physical condition. A few days ago she suffered a stroke which has paralyzed her lower limbs and is gradually growing weaker. At her age it is doubtful whether or not the kindly old lady can with stand the shock. Many of her friends are assisting the family in their care for her.

Halvor Nomeland and Illus Magneson are proud new owners of 1937 model new Chevrolets purchased from local dealers. Geo. Armstrong too, has joined the new parade and will endeavor to give his patrons on the mail route good service during the holiday rush with a brand new International Panel Truck.

A large number of local citizens went to Thief River Falls last Saturday to see Santa Claus and incidentally complete their Christmas shopping. Such an enormous crowd was all over that it is reported shopping was near impossible.

Mrs. H. E. Linn is enjoying a visit from her sister and son who reside near Hamilton, Montana. It has been a number of years since they were together and needless to say the visit is much enjoyed. They expect to remain until after the holidays. —A number of ladies connected with the various Sewing Projects journeyed to Four Towns on Monday to meet with the leader from Bemidji and also to receive further instructions as to their work. Much constructive work was accomplished, it was reported.

Red River Valley History

Early School Lore

Additional schoolmates listed by Mr. Mussey in his early article on Thief River Falls school days were Robert Bye, Earl Bye, Fred Gallenback, Josephine Bourque, Harold Hicks, Rose Jerome, Joseph Votava, Mary Mulecky (Mrs. Nels Severson,) Edith and Joseph Pederson, Amanda, Effie and Hilma Thompson, Willie, Jennie (Mrs. Oscar Svien) and Jalmer Lillimoen, Peter, Sigfrid and Gilbert Backen, Henry McMahon, John Hofseth, Carolina Hofseth (Mrs. Axel Rod), Emma Olson, Clarence Jubb, Katherine and Amanda Dunn, Lillian Kivel (Mrs. Dan Sheedy), Anna and Henry Johnson.

Continuing Mr. Mussey's story we read:

"When the Central school was erected the present bell was purchased. This being about the time of the organization of the fire department arrangements were made by which the bell would also serve as a fire alarm. Many were the times when the class recitations and study periods were disrupted by the violent clanging of the bell sending forth its warning of fire dangers. At such times the windows would be filled with anxious faces watching for signs of the fire. The bell was also used by one of the local churches.

"The free textbook system was adopted in 1893 and the innovation was a most acceptable one to the parents, while the pupils expressed open rebellion at the idea—it necessitated extreme care in the handling of the books. A torn page or a damaged corner meant the purchase of the book and a stern parent usually made the erring one suffer accordingly."

Next we encounter our historian's version of what he terms "A School Romance." He says:

"For the 1896-97 term Herbert Fuller and Martha Brown were engaged as teachers in the Knox building. They still reside in this city and their children attend the Knox school, their home studies being accomplished through the aid of these same two instructors, now Mr. and Mrs. Fuller."

This impresses us as a neat way of handling such a romance and of telling the story briefly. From the romantic phase we turn abruptly to the prosaic business angle of school affairs:

"In 1902 the criticism of "too much school room" was again advanced when it was decided to erect the Washington school and make it an eight-room structure, but in 1906—only four years later—four rooms were added to the Central building and four to the Knox school. Two rooms had also been added to the latter in 1900. When these four-room additions were authorized it was decided to complete but two rooms in each addition as it was believed that would afford ample accommodations for years.

"In 1911, five years after the completion of the additions to the Central and Knox schools, the Lincoln school was dedicated and now, but five years later (note: we are mistaken apparently in assuming that the article was written 21 years ago; the above statement indicates it was 20 years ago), the school board again faces the urgent necessity of securing more room. The one logical conclusion is another building."

Later history of school matters in the city reveals that the board of education has met the needs of education as they developed and that Thief River Falls today has one of the finest school systems in the state. We find that Mr. Mussey closed his article with what might be considered a peroration in oratory. He says:

"To one who has seen a quarter of a century of school advancement in the city and who has noted the rapid but steady growth, it is not surprising that the present conditions exist. Eleven years attendance in the schools, during many months of which it was necessary to 'crowd in' in order to be seated, makes one realize the disadvantage under which both the teachers and the pupils are working at the present time. Had the school directors of the earlier days foreseen the future in store for the city there would probably not be the present congestion.

"Of the school board members of the old days still in this vicinity who will be able to see the error of their ways are Ira C. Richardson, W. I. McCrum, H. E. Mussey, Lars Backe and Frank Bourque. There is a once popular song which still retains its reminiscent value and the chorus runs in part:

" 'School days, school days,
Dear old golden rule days,
Readin' and 'riting' and 'rithmetic,

"There is more truth than poetry in these lines and were one able to gather and compile the many anecdotes and reminiscences of the "dear old golden rule days" of Thief River Falls, the days of the late 80's and early 90's, he would have a document priceless beyond computation. Suffice it to say that, given the privilege of living over again just one brief period of the past, there would be no hesitancy in choosing those happy days of youth, spent in the school room and with school mates, days with pleasures innumerable and without worries, when 35 or 40 was the total enrollment of the village and when knowledge was more to be desired than riches.—

Synecdoche

Synecdoche is the figure of speech which consists of putting a part for the whole, the whole for the part, a more comprehensive for a less comprehensive term, or vice versa. Thus a hundred bayonets for a hundred soldiers; the town was starving for the people in the town.

TWO LITTLE PIGS "GO TO MARKET"

Winnebago—"The little pig who went to market" was accompanied this time by his brother who ordinarily stayed at home, but even though there were two, the trip did not prove to be especially profitable for the men who went with them to market. Two Winnebago men attempted a clumsy theft of two porkers, killing and dressing them near the scene of the theft. Driving the hogs from a herd at the stockyards, they killed and dressed them at the railroad yards near there, hiding the carcasses under a straw pile. The village marshal witnessed the [illegible] the evidence led to [illegible] culprits.

EXPERIENCES ITS FIRST TRAIN RIDE

Belle Plaine—If everyone could travel as cheaply and as comfortably as does the cat owned by Emil Engfer, Belle Plaine's mail carrier, the railroad companies' business would, no doubt, increase rapidly. Satisfying its desire to go places beyond the family's motor trips, the cat boarded a passenger train to St. Paul without the price of a railroad ticket. Passenger agents wondered what to do with the unticketed passenger until word came to them that the cat belonged to the Belle Plaine man. It had been picked up by a drunk who boarded the train with the cat under one arm. On its return trip the cat was labeled with a destination tag.

SHEEP DRENCHING DEMONSTRATIONS GIVEN IN COUNTY

H. G. Zavoral, extension animal husbandman, University Farm, St. Paul, visited Pennington county December 10 and 11 and discussed sheep production problems with farmers who gathered at the Wm. Vaughan farm in Highlanding, the E. H. Ponocenke farm in Cloverleaf, the Ole Nesland farm in Deer Park and the Frank Hardisty farm in Kratka. These meetings were well attended and much interest in sheep management was shown by farmers.

Some of the most outstanding recommendations are given below:

Inasmuch as Pennington County is in an area low in iodine it was recommended that in order to prevent weak or goiterous lambs iodine salt be fed. Granulated salt was favored over block salt as sheep eat granulated salt in larger amounts. Where common salt is fed farmers were advised to add one ounce of potassium iodine per 100 pounds of salt. Potassium iodine can be purchased in any drug store.

In addition to being low in iodine this area lacks in phosphorus. This lack is most easily seen in cattle where it causes a tendency to chew bones, eat soil and chew boards on mangers. With sheep lack of phosphorous is less easily detected, but nevertheless, it causes light fleeces and slow development and growth of lambs.

To correct this condition Mr. Zavoral recommended that farmers keep before their flocks at all times a mixture composed of one third salt and two thirds bone meal.

More important in Mr. Zavoral's opinion than all other sheep troubles are those caused by round and tape worms. For this condition it was advised that sheep be given a new pasture each year so that worm eggs will not accumulate in the soil. It was also recommended that in the spring before the sheep go on pasture, and again in the fall before they go into winter quarters the sheep be drenched with copper sulphate and nicotine sulphate for the elimination of round and tape worms. For those interested in the problem of drenching it was recommended that the county agent be consulted on the dosage to be used and on other drenching problems.

POULTRY ADOPTS LATEST FASHION

Ivanhoe—The modern trend in stream-lining has gone so far that even poultry wishes to comply with latest styles, as evidenced by a rooster exhibited here by Andrew L. Johnson of Arco. Of the Rhode Island Red variety, it was a bird that resembled all of the latest stream-lining of the upright type. Wings and legs were parallel, thus putting the bird into an upright position, and adhering to the old adage of "the best foot forward", the rooster stood, balancing itself with the left foot ahead, the right foot back and neck pulled in. In its walk it ambled along in a hop, skip and waddle.

A House Built Christmas Day

Frances Grinstead

A HOME that was built on a Christmas day stood for a long time on the old Santa Fe trail where it passed near Arrow Rock, Mo., on the Missouri river. Though not quite completed in a single day, with the help of his neighbors on that "holiday" about a hundred years ago, Henry Nave got his cabin ready for his family and the day after Christmas took them into his shelter.

Of course the house was built of undressed lumber, felled right on his farm. When he had selected the location this pioneer cut down round poles for the walls, rafters and joists—the framework.

Mr. Nave had found some large flat stones, and in the afternoon they dragged these into place for the hearth. Then of other suitable rocks, by much puffing and pulling they built a fireplace—one of those great practical ones which served to heat the home and to cook venison, buffalo meat, corn pone and other "victuals." The exterior of this fireplace was wood, the stones providing a fireproof lining.

The mortar to bind the stones was chiefly mud; to obtain even this simple ingredient it was necessary to build a fire in the middle of the half-constructed cabin and thaw the ground.

But, writes this hardy woodsman, "It was not many days until we were living snugly in our cabin and in good health and with fine appetites."

While the Little Nave Children Wished for Things.

Holidays among our ancestors were made occasions for such celebrations as this, but they never witnessed the cessation from labor ours afford. There was always need for immediate shelter, crop harvesting, or game killing. Hence log-raisings, corn-huskings, and gun-shoots were made social occasions. But do you suppose we ever have more fun than Henry Nave's family and friends had building a house on Christmas day?

News and Comment

By R. W. Hitchcock

Stockholders of the Farmers Union Terminal Association, at a meeting in St. Paul last week, voted for the return of the marketing functions exercised by the Farmers National Grain Corporation to the regional grain marketing cooperatives affiliated with the grain corporation. This is a move to shake off the autocratic control of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, a relic of the Hoover farm program. It is a step in the direction of democratization of grain marketing.

Minnesota's first farmers' cooperative electric line began operation in Meeker County last week. Two hundred and fifty farmers over an area of 130 square miles can now put away the kerosene lamp with its flickering, inadequate flame and really make use of the winter's long dark nights. The Litchfield municipal plant supplies the current for all of Meeker County and the City Council has voted to purchase a $55,000 Diesel power unit to enlarge the capacity of the plant.

According to a study made by Farm Research, an independent agency, 40 per cent of the farms in the United States in 1935 included less than 6 per cent of all farm land, whereas 4 per cent of the largest farms included more than 40 per cent of all farm land. This shows that the trend of concentration of wealth in America in the hands of the few is true also of concentration of farm lands in the hands of the few.

Concentration of farm land in the hands of the large owners, according to Farm Research, has been progressing steadily since 1900. The situation is a serious one and if permitted to continue eventually there will be no such thing in America as the independent farmer operating his own farm. For that reason the movement to obtain federal legislation which will enable the tenant farmer to purchase the land he is operating under long time easy payments with low rates of interest, is of tremendous importance. Every effort should be exerted to see that this movement succeeds.

The proud British Empire has finally passed the "greatest crisis in its history." Edward has abdicated and he is free to marry Wally. Now the British people can put their mind to a real rather than a sham crisis.

Today, the glory that once was England's threatens to vanish. In the East, Japan not only intends to boot England out of Chinese markets but is already invading the markets of India. As a result, mills in Lancaster are idle. In Africa rumbles of discontent, a rising tide of color threatening the rule of Britain in the south, and in the north Mussolini sends his war birds aloft as a gesture against the Suez Canal. In Australia, Canada and New Zealand, Britain's own colonies, people are demanding more and more home rule and caring less and less what happens to the mother country.

On the continent of Europe, the German high seas fleet is rising from its grave at Scapa Flow. Meanwhile the Russian bear stirs himself from his long winter's sleep and bodes no good to English imperialism in Persia and north India.

At home the miners of Cornwall live in abject poverty after 15 years of continual unemployment. The slums of Liverpool and Glasgow teem with the refugees of an empire— unemployed sailors, broken-down workers, wharf rats, and petty criminals. England's list of permanent unemployed grows apace.

Meanwhile, Caproni bombers blasting Madrid, the tramp of booted feet on the Rhine, the vacillation of French foreign policy and the continued estrangement of Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and the Little Entente is creating a situation which will cause the people of England to think that the present furore over Edward VIII's marriage plans is slightly exaggerated.

Farmers in the state are greatly concerned about the cutting from W. P. A. rolls of 12,444 of their number who will have to face the sub-zero weather with no adequate means of subsistence.

An attempt to cushion the blow was made by announcement that the Resettlement Administration would care for the "neediest" cases. However, the Resettlement Administration plans to care for only a third of those who are now on W. P. A. rolls and the others face the winter with nothing in the house and no job nor chance to get one. Even those who are fortunate enough to transfer to the Resettlement Administration lists will receive from $18 to $23 a month—about half what they have been getting.

BARE FACTS BARED ABOUT BEAR DINNER

Wheaton—A banquet, the menu of which centered around roast bear and venison, resulted in the story of a bear hunt, although only a dream. One of the guests at the dinner related the following story the next day, and it is attributed to the fact that the bear meat which was unusually palatable, was consumed in generous amounts: "I barely made the bear feed but if you will bear with me I will bare some of the details. I ate so much I could hardly bear the thought of going to bed, but I was barely in it when I went to sleep and dreamed that for some reason I was bare and the bear was hunting me. I climbed up a tree and out to the end of one of the bare branches which would hardly bear my weight. The bare fact was that I could not bear to think of that bear bearing down on me baring his bare teeth so fiercely that I could barely bear down on the branch with my bare skin enough to hang on. If I had only had a bear skin to cover my bare skin, I would have been barely able to bear the bear hunt, but as it was—well, I woke up."

School Notes—On Friday afternoon, Dec. 18 at two o'clock the school will give a Christmas program in the Municipal Auditorium to which all patrons, parents and children of pre-school age in the district are cordially invited.

Last Thursday evening the Cardinals defeated the St. Hilaire quint by a decisive score. The visitors practically played the Plummer five or even terms during the first quarter, but then the superior teamwork of the local boys manifested itself and from then on the score climbed steadily.

St. Hilaire put up a good fight all the way and it is apparent that they will improve steadily as the season advances. The shooting of the Cardinals has improved tremendously and so has their teamwork. All the boys played a good game.

In a hard fought battle Saturday with the Bemidji State Teachers' College Seconds the Plummer quint held its own and was only defeated by two points in the second half.

Plough Monday

Survival of an old rustic festival, Plough Monday (January 7) was regarded as the end of Christmas holidays, and was called St. Distaff's day when spinning was woman's chief occupation. On this day judges return to the law courts, and a Mansion house dinner recalls the time when London's agricultural lands were farmed by citizens.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

ELSBERG PLANS NO CAMPAIGN TO ADD TO HIGHWAY FUNDS

Willing to Leave Matter in Hands of Public, Commissioner States

The Minnesota Highway department will not lead a campaign for increased revenues at the coming session of the legislature, according to an announcement by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

"We believe and will recommend that some means should be found to finance a 'reasonable' construction program", he stated. "However, we will not lead a campaign for more funds, as we have been urged to do by a number of persons interested in obtaining highway improvements in various parts of the state.

"It is the function of this department to supply the legislature with complete facts as to our highway problems, and to make recommendations as to needs of the trunk highway system. Beyond this, we do not intend to go.

"We have been asked to fight for higher motor vehicle registration fees, to fight for a higher gas tax. We do not intend to fight for either. If the public wishes highway improvements to continue, the public must pay the cost. It is the function of the legislature to represent the public in determining the amount of highway funds and the means by which such funds are raised.

"Minnesota vitally needs legislation which will put the highway department on a pay-as-you-go basis. This can be accomplished either by eliminating road construction or by increasing current revenues enough to match federal aid and meet other expenses incidental to obtaining various federal road funds. There will be $8,500,000 of federal funds available for the state in 1937 and an equal amount in 1938. On the basis of present income, the highway department cannot obtain this federal money.

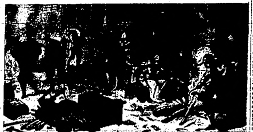
"Faced with a similar situation two years ago, the Legislature authorized the sale of state bonds to finance federal aid. Bond charges now take more than one-fourth of the highway department's current income every year. We cannot continue indefinitely borrowing money in this fashion.

"Eventually the public and the legislature must choose between sacrificing highway improvements and federal aid or paying for a continuation of those improvements of motor vehicle taxes. If abandonment of the federal aid and construction program is chosen by the legislature, the highway department will necessarily have to confine its activities chiefly to maintenance in the future."

First Prince of Wales

When Edward I, king of England, annexed Wales in 1282, he conferred the title of prince of Wales upon his son Edward, who happened to be born at Carnarvon, in Wales, during the period of occupation. It has since been customary to use this title for the king's eldest son and heir to the throne.

Even the Pilgrims Celebrated on Christmas Day



© Yale University Press

The Pilgrims thought that joy and feasting on a holy day was sinful and frowned on any observance of Christmas, yet on the evening of December 25, 1620, it is recorded that the Puritans returned to their ship and had a feast. The historian was careful to record, that it was to celebrate the start of their new home.

KING GEORGE VI IS PROCLAIMED NEW RULER OF BRITAIN

American Citizens Hear Former King Renounce the Throne Friday

Great Britain proclaimed its new king George VI Saturday and mourned, as if he were dead, the old one, Edward VIII.

King George took the oath of accession at St. James palace, before a special accession council of high dignitaries of church and state.

Then the council proclaimed him formally as king and the royal heralds and kings of arms were ordered to read his accession proclamation from a balcony of the palace, from Charing Cross, from Temple Bar and on the steps of the Royal Exchange in the old city of London.

Cabinet ministers, high church dignitaries, court officials, the lord mayor of London and his aldermen and sheriffs gathered in the old palace to hear King George take the oath.

A large number of residents of this community listened in on their radios Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and heard the former King Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, make to the world his history-making announcement of his abdication from the throne. The former king arrived in Vienna Sunday, in which vicinity he will remain for the time being.

Meanest Place in Canada

Meanest place in all Canada is this silvery peak of Mount Waddington, more popularly known as Mount Mystery. Jutting 13,260 feet through the roof of the Canadian Rockies, Wadding is virtually as inaccessible as Everest, the frigid queen of the Himalayas. Man has tried to conquer it time and again, only to be beaten.

Postal Inspectors Make Drive On Obscene Matter

Encouraged by the 15-year Federal penitentiary sentence meted out to Gayle R. Cleveland of Pensacola, Florida, alias Miss Georgia Clayton and Miss Gayle Cleveland, on charges of sending obscene matter through the mails the Postal Inspection Service has launched a nation-wide drive on obscene correspondence clubs conducted through the mails, it was announced at the Post Office Department last night.

Cleveland was the operator of "The Letter Club Different", one of numerous obscene corresponding clubs, which have for their purpose the mutual exchange of obscene literature, photographs and drawings, and which have been uncovered by postal inspectors in various sections of the country. The Pensacola "Letter Club Different" of Cleveland, was conducted in the same manner as are the other obscene correspondence clubs which are now the subject of a far-flung roundup by the Postal Inspection Service.

As operator of the "club", Cleveland would insert advertisements in the cheaper magazines offering for a small fee, usually ten cents, to put interested persons in touch with others of either sex who were interested in the exchange of literature and photographs of an obscene nature.

TAKES OUT EGG SIZED TONSILS

Roseau—Records were established in a new field when a Roseau physician laid claim to the honor of having cut out the largest tonsils, a big handful. The tonsils, which are the size of eggs, it is said, are the largest ever taken out of living man, but the patient from whose throat they were cut, experienced no greater discomfort during the operation than do other persons.

PRIVATE INDUSTRY GIVES MORE JOBS, NRS CHIEF STATES

Work Given to 37 Per Cent More in November Than a Year Ago

Activities of the National Reemployment service in Minnesota during November reflected usual declines in public construction, but showed an increase in the number of placements to private employers on prevailing wage jobs, according to Dreng Bjornaraa, director for Minnesota. New applications received during November were 2.6% greater than in October although 40% less than in November 1935.

A total of 3,639 job openings were filled in November. This is 2,171 fewer jobs than in October and is due to the usual seasonal decline in construction activities. In contrast to this decline in total placements, a contra-seasonal increase in the number of placements secured with private employers was evident in November when 1,602 jobs, or 46.6% of the total placements, were in private gainful employment. This represents an increase of 37.4% over the number of such placements secured in November 1935 and a 4.6% increase over October of this year.

A marked increase in the number of contacts with private employers was apparent in November. This work is conducted to acquaint employers with the facilities offered by the National Reemployment Service. During the month, personnel of the service made 1,782 "out of office" contacts with private employers. This represents an increase in this activity of 47.5% over October, and a 100.3% increase over the November 1935 figures. At the present time an intensive campaign of employer contacting is being conducted throughout the nation by the federal and state-federal employment offices.

During November 1,910 jobs were filled in public prevailing wage employment. This was a decrease of 56.6% as compared with October activities.

FOUR WINNERS IN DECORATING EVENT NAMED

H. M. Olson Home Awarded First Honors Again This Year

McCALL INSPECTS NEARLY FORTY HOMES

L. Haugen Second, A. M. Magnuson Third and Dr. Bratrud Fourth

Bringing to a climax the second Christmas home decorating contest to be conducted in this city, T. M. McCall of the Northwest School of Agriculture, who served as judge, Tuesday evening judged the entries and for the second time awarded the first prize of the $10 to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Olson at 242 Markley av. N.

Decorations at the home of Luther Haugen, 322 Kendall av. N., won for him the second prize of $7.50, while the third award of $5 went to A. M. Magnuson, 820 LaBree av. N., and fourth prize of $2.50 was awarded to Dr. Edward Bratrud.

Mr. McCall inspected nearly forty local homes that had been more or less elaborately decorated for the holiday season, in addition to which hundreds of others revealed ample evidence of the presence of Christmas time.

Commenting on the contest, Mr. McCall said, "Marked improvement has been made in beauty of design and appropriateness of decorations to the Christmas season as compared to a year ago. There was an increase not only in the number of homes scored but also in the number of homes that had minor decorative effects. Awards were made on the basis of all the points listed in the contest rules."

Mr. McCall also took occasion to congratulate the Civic and Commerce association and the First Federal Savings and Loan association, sponsors of the contest, on its success. Details were handled by a committee including A. W. Mickelson, chairman; Dr. A. M. Smith and Hal Ekeren.

The Olson home was attractively lighted and featured a Santa Claus and reindeer on the roof of the house. Blue lights were used effectively at the Haugen home, while the Magnuson house was outlined in colored lights and there was a lavish display of lights at the Dr. Bratrud home.

The home of S. R. Dahlen, manager of the savings and loan association, which was not considered in the judging, was adorned by realistic reproductions of the Three Wise Men, effectively brought out by the use of floodlights.

BURGLARS OBTAIN $300 FROM LOCAL DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Loot Dr. O. F. Mellby's Office Safe Thursday Evening

Burglars last Thursday night entered the office of Dr. O. F. Mellby on the second floor of the Citizens bank block and, after opening the safe without the use of explosives, escaped with $300 in currency and silver, it was announced by local police, who are following meager clues to the identity of the intruders. As the safe was opened several times before the loss was discovered Friday afternoon, it was not possible to obtain any finger prints, Chief A. B. Stenberg said.

Car prowlers were active adjoining the Sons of Norway hall while a dance was in progress last Friday evening, smashing windows in two parked automobiles. Reports to the police indicate that all that was taken was a ladies purse containing a fountain pen and a meal ticket issued by a local cafe.

50-Mile Wind Saturday Results in Epidemic of Chimney Fires in City

Excessive drafts caused by a 50-miles-an-hour northern gale that blew over this section of the state Saturday afternoon were responsible for four chimney fires during the afternoon, no damage resulting in any case. The fire department spent a busy afternoon responding to calls from the building at the east end of the First st. bridge occupied by Andrew Hagen; the Ole Sunsdahl home at 617 Crocker av S., the Martin Mickelson place west of Greenwood cemetery; and from 406 Duluth av. S.

Complete details of the new program, however, will not be discussed at this meeting, for later meetings are to be held throughout the state at which the program will be explained in full. Part of the day will be used to discuss the completion of the 1936 farm program, its present status, its progress and accomplishments.

After district meetings have been completed, township and community educational meetings will be conducted for the purpose of electing officers and discussing the farm program with the farmers themselves.

Relief Case Burden in City Declines from '35, Overseer Evenson Says

Owing largely to the widespread building program in Thief River Falls this year and to a general improvement in conditions, there are considerably fewer families receiving assistance from the city relief department this winter than last, Overseer C. C. C. Meet Thursday Draws Big Gathering

Resettlement Project Head and New Hockey Coach Are Speakers

The largest attendance in recent months was registered at the meeting of the Civic and Commerce association last Thursday noon when a turkey dinner was served. It was the final meeting of the current year, the next session being scheduled for Thursday evening, January 7, to be held jointly with the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Lincoln high school boys double quartet furnished a group of well rendered selections, accompanied on the piano by Harold F. Harrison.

Secretary Paul Lundgren was instructed to write a letter to Ole Legvold, superintendent of the water and light department, expressing appreciation of the excellent work done by Mr. Legvold and his assistants this year in decorating the downtown streets with festoons of colored lights.

J. W. Taylor, in charge of the Thief River Falls resettlement project, was called upon for a report on progress of the undertaking to date. He stated that with options on 200 farms in four counties, a total of 108 have been accepted up to the present time, including 11 in Pennington county. He said that work of constructing buildings on a half dozen tracts near this city is now getting under way, altho possession of the farms will not be taken until after the next crop year.

Pointing out that there is an acute shortage in this section of farms equipped with buildings and that a large percentage of local farmers are tenants, Mr. Taylor said that the project will encourage a trend toward farm ownership.

Walter DePaul, who arrived last week in the city to assume the duties of hockey coach, was introduced to the gathering, and said he would work both to develop a winning team and to make the city hockey-minded. O. C. Paulson of the rink committee said five players had been secured from Canadian communities, in addition to which ten or twelve local men will be utilized.

Local organizations are sponsoring the distribution of baskets of food, as well as toys and other remembrances, to needy families of the community, and it appears that no one will fail to be reminded of the arrival of Santa Claus this evening. Mild Weather Nears End of Second Week

This section during the past week enjoyed a continuation of the extremely mild weather which has prevailed locally since December 12, in marked contrast to conditions during the holiday season a year ago. The only unpleasant feature of the week's weather was a 50-mile-an-hour wind which blew over the northwest Saturday afternoon, bringing with it heavy clouds of dust. No snow fell during the week, and many streets and highways are virtually bare.

May Open Arena Rink on Christmas Night

Ice Sheet Will be Completed Friday if the Weather Turns Colder

The committee in charge of the winter sports arena, encouraged by a forecast of colder weather for today and Friday, announced Wednesday night that if the prediction is borne out, the sheet of ice on the arena skating rink will be completed in time to permit local people to try out their skates Christmas night.

This will be good news especially to the young folks of the community, who have grown increasingly critical of the protracted spell of extremely mild weather this month, resulting in repeated delays in flooding operations.

A. B. Stenberg, ticket sale committee chairman, announced that individual season tickets will go on sale today at the Thief River Pharmacy and the J. & B. drug store, while family tickets are available at the office of Alex Campbell in the Larson company store. Tickets also will be on sale at the arena Friday, assuming that the weather does not interfere with plans.

One of the boys, who was on parole from a state institution at Red Wing, was taken back there Tuesday by a probation officer. The other was given a suspended sentence with instructions to report regularly to Chief A. B. Stenberg. The cases were disposed of in juvenile court, and the boys' names were not made public.

The court instructed them to supply liquor only on bona fide prescriptions issued by physicians. The arrests were made by Police Chief A. B. Following forecasts made at recent conferences held in Minnesota of regulations being drafted to speed up and broaden the service of production credit association to farmers using short-term credit in their farm operations, the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul this week announced the first of the new regulations.

"Local associations and their boards of directors are now in a position to give immediate service in the same way as any other local lending institution", said President George Susens.

State Takes High Rank in Nation on Per Capita Basis

Determined that Minnesota maintain its position at third highest in the country in the per capita sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals, committees in every county are this week making a final effort to reach their quotas. Extra contributions to the campaign are invited this week.

In 1935 only two states in the country, Delaware and Connecticut, beat Minnesota's record of a sale of more than five cents' worth of Seals for every man, woman and child in the state.

Hennepin and Ramsey counties with per capita records of approximately nine cents led the State last year. In counties between 15,000 and 100,000 population, Winona led in 1935 with a record of selling seven tuberculosis Seals for every man, woman and child in the county. Other counties towards the top of the list were: Goodhue, Steele, Olmsted, Dakota, Wabasha and Itasca, with a record of more than five cents per capita. In counties below 15,000 population, Lake led with a per capita sale of seven cents. Other counties in this group selling more than five cents per capita were: Lake of the Woods, Watonwan and Isanti.

Among the towns of the State striving to hold their places are Wanamingo which held the 1935 record for the highest per capita sale with a record of 20.0 cents and the following towns which held first places in their population group were as follows: Cambridge, 18.9; Crookston, 10. Quota-winning towns for 1935, which are also making special effort to establish new records this year, were Brainerd, Waseca, Monticello and Strandquist.

SOLONS ADOPT UNEMPLOYED WORKERS BILL

Reach Agreement Wednesday Morning on Disputed Provisions

SPECIAL SESSION COMPLETES ITS WORK

Cost of Insurance Will be Met by Special Levy on Employers

After being in session since last Thursday noon, the Minnesota state legislature Wednesday morning enacted an unemployment insurance bill after ironing out differences between the bills passed by the upper and lower houses. It was expected the new law, which will go into effect January 1, would receive the signature of Governor Hjalmar Petersen late yesterday.

The bill as enacted applies for the year 1936 to employers of eight or more persons, while in subsequent years employers of one or more persons will be affected. The act provides for the payment of unemployment benefits ranging from a minimum of $6 to a maximum of $15 a week. The law as passed enables the state of Minnesota to qualify for funds for unemployment benefits from the federal government.

Provisions of the act on which both houses reached agreement Tuesday include:

A pool fund into which all unemployment insurance taxes will be placed.

No contributions by employes.

Administration of the fund by the state industrial commission.

Exemption from provisions of the bill of persons employed by the government, agriculture, domestic help in the home, maritime, sons or daughters employed by their father or vice versa, employes of charitable, literary, educational and religious institutions.

Benefits to be paid will be based on unemployment occuring after an employe has worked at least 10 weeks during the previous 7½ months.

Both bills set up disqualifications, such as misconduct, as either lowering or eliminating benefits to be paid.

The house, in its activity Monday night, turned down four major amendments proposed.

One by Representative Harold H. Barker of Elbow Lake, house minority leader, would have eliminated merit rating for employers. The vote was 43 to 55. Two others would have fixed the number of employes to be covered at four and six, respectively, instead of the one beginning with 1937 as provided in the bill. The last, proposed by Representative Mark Nolan of Gilbert, would have raised the minimum benefit from $5 per week to $8.

Joan's Unexpected Guest Was Her Yuletide Love

NINA had gone with her Donald to Chicago; Vera to her Granny's house to meet her fiance and Dora, she had gone up to Lowell for Bob's fraternity dance. Joan wondered if any girl had ever had such a lonely Christmas holiday in prospect.

"Gee, there's that little cripple boy down there in that rooming house on the corner that might relish some nice food. I've waved at him every morning for the last six weeks. I guess we know each other well enough and they do say his mother takes that early bus into town to scrub floors every day in the week," she told herself as she was about to drop off to sleep, Christmas eve.

It was scarcely daylight when Joan had gone to the little corner rooming house, slipped a little note of invitation under the door of the cripple boy's door, and was on her way to the store for a supply of everything that belongs in a traditional Christmas feast, plus a few gifts for the lad.

There was barely time to exchange her house dress for a street frock so she might run down to the corner to push the youngster's wheel chair to her house as she had promised. But at the very moment she stepped forth into the hall, she met not only her guest-to-be but a splendid, handsome young man.

"You see, miss, I got the invitation—the note was tucked under my door, but I gathered at once who you meant it for so I delivered it to Jimmy and made friends with him—we've been together the past two hours, taking a short ride and now I'm turning him over to you, Miss—Miss—"

"Joan Burke, and you are—?"

"Larry King, Miss Burke, and this is Jimmy Jordan. With your permission, then, I'll return for my charge later in the day. What hour do you say, fellow?"

Joan interrupted, "If I may be so bold as to ask—running along to where?"

"To the lunch wagon, if you must know," Larry acknowledged.

"You are not. If you don't stay to have Christmas dinner with us, I'm going right out into the street and hail the first stranger I see. You see I don't want any turkey left over for turkey hash, tomorrow."

Three partook of Joan's royal feast but the fourth guest, though unseen, was present, too. Love was there uninvited. But that fourth remained forever and a day, upon invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Larry King who never forgot to include little Jimmy Jordan at their special occasion celebrations the year around.—[illegible]

CHRISTMAS "INSIDE"

By GERTRUDE H. WALTON

THE large house interested Celia. There seemed little life within, no Christmas decorations in the windows as in many dwellings on the streets. Tonight, a dim light in the back, with the early Christmas eve twilight, heightened its drabness.

"One may be excused for inquisitiveness, tonight," Celia led Ann, her roommate onto the porch. "This house, outside, looks gloomy but no more than is my heart. I'll admit being disappointed because of no opening, after our singing audition over WGQ this afternoon." Celia, slipping to a side door, with Ann, began singing Christmas carols. A door opened and a dignified woman said:

"Come inside, girls, and sing. I'm Mrs. Ashby. There's a piano, not opened since Beulah—"

"We'll sing if you join us," Celia answered.

After singing, Celia told of ambitions for her voice and of the afternoon's disappointment.

"Girls, you have given me a happy pre-Christmas eve and birthday, as well. Many of my club members have birthdays at this season. Please come again, tonight, if you wish. You're across the street."

Celia and Ann, at home, were eating, when, answering the telephone, Celia swung Ann around into dizziness.

"We're to report for a program tomorrow afternoon over WGQ! Someone not filling engagement! We'll practice on Mrs. Ashby's piano. Let's decorate her windows with these wreaths," Celia cried.

During the Christmas day program, dedicated to those with birthdays of the season, when Mrs. Ashby's name was mentioned, the announcer said:

"Mrs. Ashby will enjoy this program. She called us last evening—asked that you girls sing for birthdays of her club members—other members asked for you, too. Mrs. Ashby travels, gives of time and money to a shut-in club of which she is national president. Her daughter is the wife of a famed doctor in India. You probably will have a permanent program for birthdays of listeners."

"Maybe that house interested me because, even through boards and stone, human kindness, character, oozes through. Her windows look pretty, though, with our wreaths," Celia told Ann.

CHRISTMAS IN THE HOME

CHRISTMAS festivities are likely to be much more fun when the whole family helps, says the New York state college of home economics.

The older children are always eager to trim the Christmas tree, collect Christmas greens, and make wreaths. Often they have good ideas on how to arrange these holiday decorations. Because these tasks are unusual they have a special appeal, but with the right encouragement from father or mother even the more routine work may seem a part of the general family-sharing at Christmas.

Big brother and sister can be a help if they show their small brother or sister how to help in odd carpentering jobs that come with Christmas. If mother is busy, older brothers or sisters can help the youngsters to dress or get ready for bed.

What can the small members of the family do? Little Johnny or tiny Mary can cut out gingerbread men and other fancy shaped cookies, which mother will lift onto the baking sheet. Father will also be pleased to know how well his small son or daughter can find his tools, cut the string used to wind the Christmas wreath when both of father's hands are busy, or to help with other preparations.

One thing father and mother should remember is to watch for signs of fatigue or nervous strain in the younger children. They should not ask the children to do too many or too difficult tasks.

Popcorn Ball Decorations

Popcorn balls, wrapped in red and green tissue paper, silver paper or glistening cellophane, and piled in a decorated basket, make attractive centerpieces for Christmas dinner or party tables. A small favor may be placed in each ball, to add interest at a party. Hung on the Christmas tree, these balls make pretty ornaments for the strong lower branches that always seem to be neglected when the tree is decorated.

MEANING OF "NOEL"

"NOEL" is the French name of the Christmas feast and of the old carols formerly sung in the French country churches at this season. Its derivation is from the Latin "natalis," meaning "born," and the word was originally shouted or sung to express joy over the birth of Christ. With the spelling "Nowel" it is found in Chaucer and other early writers.

Christmas Carols

By Katherine Edelman

WARREN ELMORE was mad—angry through and through. For the first time in his business career he had had a quarrel with his partner. Of course it had been all Peter's fault, but even that thought didn't help so very much. The old saying, "It takes two to make a quarrel" kept bothering him.

What was it that his wife had told him to get at Grant's? He asked himself the question as he entered the big department store. Hose for Muriel, that was it! Bother Christmas shopping, anyway; why didn't Beverly tend to things herself?

As he walked down the crowded aisles, he was conscious of music from the balcony. An orchestra was up there playing Christmas carols. Warren Elmore forgot his peeve against the world; he hurried up and joined the happy crowd. His voice joined in "O Little Town of Bethlehem." It was followed by the glorious "Adeste Fideles." Then came "Silent Night." As its beautiful strains filled the store Warren Elmore was conscious that all anger was disappearing from his heart . . . He wanted to get back to the office, to slap old Peter on the back, and tell him they were a pair of fools for letting such a small thing interfere with their friendship . . .

And man-like, he purchased six pairs of hose for Muriel instead of three on the way out. A store that took time and thought for Christmas carols should be rewarded a little bit, he believed.

USES 39-YEAR OLD HOME-MADE KNIFE

Lismore—A home-made butcher knife manufactured 39 years ago by Math Klontz is still in use by its maker. Mr. Klontz made the knife when he resided on a farm near here, spending several hours every day during the winter months at the task. With the aid of a piece of rail and a hammer he pounded a piece of steel and brought forth a very good knife. Putting a handle on it, he has used it continually for 39 years. Although somewhat smaller from sharpening it is still a good one as is evidenced by the service it has seen.

Amidst the general call to happiness, the bustle of the spirits, and the stir of the affections, which prevail at this period, what bosom can remain insensible? It is, indeed, the season of regenerated feeling—the season for kindling not merely the fire of hospitality in the hall, but the general flame of charity in the heart. The scene of early love again rises green to memory beyond the sterile waste of years, and the idea of home, fraught with the fragrance of home-dwelling joys, reanimates the drooping spirit—as the Arabian breeze will sometimes waft the freshness of the distant fields to the weary pilgrim of the desert.

Viewed during the hours of daylight, street decorations in the business section are nothing to write home about. At night, however, the mass of brightly colored lights is very impressive. Next year may bring a decorative arrangement that will add beauty to the streets both in the daytime and at night. At any rate Ole Legvold has hatched out an idea on light post decorations that has a lot of merit. Those unsightly power line posts will be off the streets by this time next year and from what we know of Ole's plan we are willing to predict that for next Christmas Thief River Falls will have really outstanding street decorations.

Honorable mention this week goes to a group of local women whose names we dare not mention. They are the members of an afternoon bridge club. Week after week, thruout the fall and winter months, they have held their regular meetings. But instead of playing bridge, they have renewed and rebuilt old toys, and as a result of their efforts Santa Claus is going to be able to make Christmas merrier for forty-one children of needy families in the community. It has been a nice piece of work and the ladies deserve a round of cheers.

For a pleasant evening, we suggest a drive around through the residence section during the evening hours, viewing the many beautiful Christmas lighting effects. More and more this idea of exterior decoration is taking hold. Instead of enclosing the Christmas spirit behind drawn shades, twinkling lights send out a cheery message of good will toward man, and convert a cluster of houses into a neighborhood of homes.

We Americans have now had our laugh because an English king doesn't even have the right to decide for himself whom he will marry. It seemed such a silly matter for a great empire to get all het up about and we are all very thankful that in our country such personal problems do not become questions of public concern. But hold everything. Maybe the laugh is on us. Just a couple of weeks ago President Roosevelt issued an order that young fellows working in the government's foreign offices cannot get married without the consent of the state department. If these young fellows decide they want to get married they must make application to the state department and their application must be accompanied with a resignation. In other words the private affairs of our own officials in the diplomatic service are a public concern in our country as well as in England.

A constitutional amendment is being proposed to give to citizens of the District of Columbia, which is Washington, the national capital, the right to vote. They do not now possess this privilege, the idea of the constitutional fathers having been to make the capital city free of political pressure or action. This has been the situation for more than 150 years and capital residents are protesting. There seems no good reason why these citizens should not have the right to vote.—Long Prairie Leader.

Just what the idea behind this arrangement was we do not know, but possibly it was based on the fear that a community, made up largely of public employees, would be governed more in the interests of those employees than the people as a whole. And perhaps it was a wise precaution. And we sometimes wonder if the founding fathers wouldn't have been wiser if they had denied the right to vote to all public employees thruout the country. At the present time, for instance, as we see the number of people on public payrolls steadily increasing, and the influence of this group on our elections rapidly gaining strength, it is evident that the taxpayers are gradually becoming the servants of our public employees rather than our public employees being the servants of the people. Instead of the government working for us, we are being called upon more and more to work for the government and its steadily increasing army of employees.

A road may be fine for 50 miles and a man may drive along at 50 or 60 miles an hour safely enough. But one icy spot at the end of that fifty miles can put a car in the ditch on its top. In addition to being alert to avoid accidents and to save your neck, be sure not to drive unreasonably fast in winter.—Grand Rapids Independent.

MESSAGE IS AWAITED

(Mankato Free Press)

How much of the new deal is to be continued during President Roosevelt's second term? From late in January to June 30, in a series, important emergency powers expire which were given him under which much of the new deal was created.

It is regarded as "slated" that his power will be extended both to continue the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and, up to 15 per cent, to devalue the dollar by reducing its gold content. The fund is being used to maintain the stability of the dollar in international exchange.

The powers to devalue and to maintain the stabilization fund expire January 30. On the following day the authority lapses under which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has made its loans to private industries, banks and businesses. It is both assured and desired that financial authority, held by the administration essential to carrying on its fiscal policies, be promptly given.

It is much the same regarding the extension, needed by June, continuing Secretary of State Hull's powers to negotiate the reciprocal tariff treaties.

Another class of cases bears largely on government costs and the balancing of the national budget. A new relief program and the continuance or discontinuance of a list of new deal institutions, or their merger with each other or regular government departments, are involved.

Assured of its prosperity, the country will await thoughtfully the president's definition of the course he will seek to steer into the political and economic future. The nation hopes to see a restraint upon costs applied which will assure the attainment within a year or so, of better than an even balance between the nation's receipts and expenditures.

WALLACE'S WARNING

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Remarks by Secretary Wallace in his speech to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention at Pasadena will be received with misgivings by most farmers, and particularly those of this region. He said that the farmers should be reconciled to an increase of competitive imports from South America because it will be a contribution to the greater certainty of peace.

This warning seems to foreshadow a trade agreement with Argentina and perhaps other countries involving admittance of meat and flax in greater quantities than in the past and possibly on lower tariff rates. It certainly also seems to be a reference to the 1935 agreement which if ratified would partially lift the present sanitary embargo on Argentine meat, and it also points to administration opposition to hopes of the dairy industry to gain more complete protection and better sanitary regulations against foreign producers.

The position of the administration seems to be that trade must be increased with South America in order to lessen dependence on European commercial outlets; and the justification is that this would reduce the shock of another war in this country and fortify the neutrality policy. Since South America produces farm commodities, the farmers are the ones called upon to make the chief sacrifice. If this were indeed an assurance of permanent peace, it might be worth the price; but Mr. Wallace is over-optimistic in assuming the ready acceptance by agriculture of a permanently shortened market and according industry first call on foreign trade opportunities, for a vague and uncertain idea of Pan-Americanism. Farm opinion will therefore await disclosure of what this sacrifice consists of before forming judgment, but with much disquiet.

CURBING THE SUPREME COURT

(Rock County Herald)

Despite all that has been said in New Deal circles, the proposal to curtail the powers of the United States Supreme Court comes far from meeting with approval of the majority of the people of this country. This fact is brought out in a survey of public sentiment just reported by the American Institute of Public Opinion, whose forecast of the November election showed surprising accuracy.

According to this survey, 59 per cent of the voters are opposed to any curtailment of the Supreme Court's powers, and 41 per cent would like to see its powers curtailed in varying degrees. The survey was made of a representative cross-section of the voters in every state and the following question asked: "As a general principle, would you favor limiting the power of the Supreme Court to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional?" The answers were as stated above—six out of ten being opposed to changing the present law which is based on majority rule.

Poor old Henry Arens, defeated candidate for congress from the Second District, sick, injured and disillusioned, says that "the final two weeks of the campaign convinced me that politics are not worth while," and he says, "goodbye, People of the Second District." Henry isn't leaving, isn't going any place, but he says "good bye," politically speaking. "The worst blow of all" as he sees it, was the knowledge gained through his political experience that political promises don't mean anything and that chicanery and deception are a part of the game of those who play the game called politics.—St. James Pathfinder.

Now that the election is over, and Dr. Townsend did not make much of a showing, it is considered perfectly safe to prosecute him for the contempt he showed a congressional investigating committee. Prosecution has been started and he has been duly indicted. The penalty is one to twelve months in jail or a fine of $100 to $1,000, and it is expected that he will be given the jail sentence.—Fergus Falls Journal.

So far as the producer is concerned, the price of turkeys this year is bad. The cost of producing turkeys varies considerably on different farms, of course, but in a rough kind of way, the average farmer is marketing his birds at a loss of from 20 cents to a dollar a bird. However, the price is nowhere nearly as low as it has been in some former years of great production, the situation being helped considerably by better merchandising. The great food store organizations have "talked turkey" in their advertising and moved the turkey crop into consumption rather than have it clog up. The slogan of "eat two turkeys this year" has been catchy. More people ate turkey at Thanksgiving this year than ever before and will again at Christmas time. It looks as though the turkey crop would be moved without further demoralization of the price to the producer.—Morris Tribune.

There are fewer automobile accidents when the roads are slippery than there are when they are in good condition. When driving is hazardous it seems everybody is more careful, and when there is no risk everybody forgets danger and throws caution to the winds. Guess there is a whole lot of truth in that.—Independent Press.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Conservatives always "deplore" efforts on the part of liberals for representation either on the bench or on school and college faculties. They brand any such efforts as attempts to bring politics into the courts and into our schools.

But one thing these conservatives conveniently fail to remember is that they have captured our courts and our schools more completely than any other branch of our government or agency of public service. The decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court are reactionary because the majority of that court believe in a reactionary social and economic philosophy.

Decisions of these learned judges, when they pertain to social and economic problems, are never based on an impartial construction of the law. As a matter of fact, the law in most of these cases is quite flexible. Hence, we have the reactionaries invariably lined up on one side and the liberals on the other.

In our schools we likewise find reactionaries preponderantly in control. There is little doubt that at the University of Minnesota a reactionary administration is conducting a campaign against both liberal students and liberal members of the faculty.

There is politics involved, as the conservatives contend, but the picture is not as the conservatives would attempt to make you believe. From the standpoint of the liberals; our courts and our schools are politically controlled today and the great problem is to eliminate that political control. Liberals are fighting not to inject politics into our courts and our schools but to eliminate the reactionary politics which are entrenched there today.

What sort of government would we have if the farmers and other property owners paid taxes like the steel trust has been paying them?

For the steel trust takes no chances. It fixes its own arbitrary price on iron ore at point of delivery on Lake Erie—not in Minnesota—and basis its valuation of property on that price after allowing for interest and amortization of its investment, profit on the ore, all taxes, and a commission for selling the ore to itself.

Chief Justice John P. Devaney, the only dissenter from the supreme court decision upholding the steel trust's practice, aptly quoted from a memorandum by Judge Martin Hughes—in which Judge Hughes asks where the state would get sufficient revenue to operate if all property in the state were assessed on the same basis upon which the steel trust pays its property taxes.

A majority of the state supreme court followed the well-plowed furrow of steel trust precedent, a furrow laid out and carefully guided for 20 years. Chief Justice Devaney chose to plow in virgin ground, for he says: "So far as can be ascertained, this is the first time in our courts that the Lake Erie base price has ever been subject to judicial scrutiny."

There is no legislative backing for this practice of the steel trust. No law has been passed making this fictitious Lake Erie price of iron ore the basis for evaluation of Minnesota ore properties.

The six Supreme Court justices, a majority of the state's judicial branch of government, have assumed legislative powers in upholding a fallacious precedent.

With everything to gain, taking no chances, the steel trust is stripping Minnesota of its most valuable natural resource, promising only to leave a desolate waste, even as did the timber barons a generation ago. And now it even refuses to pay its taxes, as assessed by the state, unless it can make its own arbitrary valuation.

But the battle has only just begun. What will the people of Minnesota do, what will they demand, when they realize the tribute that has been exacted of them? It is merely a matter of legislature to remove a fictitious prop which upholds a bloated valuation. It's time the Legislature also turned a new furrow.

Even politicians listen to the voice of the people—when that voice comes to them in clear, firm tones.

Less than a year ago the late Governor Floyd B. Olson called Minnesota's reactionary Legislature into special session to pass social security legislation. Included in the Olson program was an unemployment insurance act.

The federal government had already enacted such a law, under which employers of all states, whether these states had similar acts or not, were assessed for unemployment insurance benefits. Despite this, the reactionaries in the Legislature rejected Governor Olson's pleas; unemployment insurance was an altogether too liberal idea for their digestion.

The need for a state unemployment insurance act to enable the workers of Minnesota to benefit from the federal act was as great then as it is today. But reactionaries can no longer reject the principle of social security. Have they changed their minds? No. The people spoke out vigorously on November 3, and there is nothing else for the reactionaries to do but surrender to the demands of the people.

In the State Senate

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

On December 17 the 49th Minnesota Legislature was called for its second special session since April, 1935. Never before in the history of the State have there been two successive special sessions in between any regular sessions. Never before have there been three special sessions in so short a time as between 1933 and 1937. The frequent special sessions are indications of the swiftly changing, and let us hope, progressing economic conditions.

This special session was called by Gov. Hjalmar Petersen for the express purpose of passing an unemployment insurance act in order that the State of Minnesota might be benefited by the federal social security act as this applies to unemployment insurance. Under the terms of said federal social security act it is necessary for all states desiring such benefits to have passed conformitory legislation approved by the federal social security board before January 1, 1937. The federal government will collect between two and one-half and three million dollars from Minnesota for 1936. Ninety per cent of this money can be retained for the workers of our state if we pass the necessary legislation in time. If not, this money will be lost to the workers of our state. The purpose of this special session is to obtain and secure this money for our own people.

The last special session of our legislature which passed "Pension" legislation acceptable to our federal government failed to pass unemployment insurance legislation. At that time the legislature was much of the opinion that such unemployment legislation could better be handled at the next regular 1937 session and that the time limit of January 1, 1937, would be extended. However, Washington has not permitted any time extension, and it has therefore become imperative for Minnesota to act. There is no time to lose if such legislation is to be passed.

Since our last special session an interim committee on social legislation and relief has given much study to the various factors of unemployment insurance legislation. It has prepared three bills which already have been introduced. The reason for introducing these several bills is to embody all the controversial factors in connection with this subject in bills which are properly drawn as to form and which, if passed, would meet with the approval of the social security board without delay. The said committee does not endorse any one of these three particular combinations. Today three more bills, all dealing with this one subject matter, were introduced.

There are three major factors of controversy in connection with social security legislation.

1. Shall the employer of less than eight be exempted or should all employers, even those who employ only one, be included? The Federal social security act draws the line at eight or more, exempting all others. The states may include more employers than does the Federal government.

2. Should the employer be required to pay all the costs or shall the employees also contribute, and if so, how much? Organized labor in our state requires that the employees be exempted from all contributions.

3. What type of fund shall be established? Shall it be a simple pool fund or one with merit rating (reserve fund), or shall it be part pool and part reserve? All of these factors are highly controversial, and there are other minor factors of some importance. There is plenty subject matter for debate, and no doubt the legislature will have to work with record speed in order to pass this legislation within the short time that we now have to work in.

It will, no doubt, be of interest to our readers to know that eleven other states, namely: West Virginia, Virginia, New York, New Mexico, Idaho, North Carolina, Maine, Vermont, New Jersey, Iowa and South Dakota are having similar special sessions of their respective legislatures at this time and for the same purpose as Minnesota. It is very likely that all of these states will act in time to benefit under the Federal act for 1936. Thus far twenty states have unemployment insurance on their statute books, and the Federal government has provided one for the District of Columbia. The states which already have acted are: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Ohio, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Wisconsin and Maryland.

Gov. Hjalmar Petersen delivered his message to the legislature yesterday. This message was brief, concise and to the point. The entire message was devoted to unemployment insurance, the purpose for which this legislature was called into session. The Governor pointed out that unemployment is a major problem in America today and that industry has so far been the favored child of our government. He said that good unemployment insurance will tend to bring about greater buying power and will result in greater business activity and stabilization of employment. He referred to other countries which now have unemployment insurance and pointed out that their unemployment problem is a much lesser one than ours. He further stated that unemployment insurance will not be more expensive than direct relief. He expressed himself in favor of exempting the employee of any contribution to his unemployment insurance fund.

It is, of course, too early to attempt to guess the kind of legislation which will be passed. Many Senators who have spent much time in the study of this kind of legislation disagree in their conclusions and also claim that they still are insufficiently informed to vote intelligently. Our district is an agricultural district, and the farmers are benefitted only indirectly. However, the farmers will appreciate and derive much benefit from the greater and more constant buying power of the laboring people. The major portion of our employed people come in the eight or less group. Your Senator is of the opinion that this legislation should be broad enough to benefit all workers.

Since this article will reach our people a day or two before Christmas, may I avail myself of this opportunity to wish you one and all a very Happy Christmas and Prosperous New Year?

Very sincerely yours,
E. L. Tungseth.

CALLING NAMES BRINGS $30.00 FINE TO MOTHER

Breckenridge—A Tenney woman has learned that you cannot abuse the teacher of your child by calling her names and get away with it. A girl who was reprimanded in school by her teacher went home and told her mother, who in turn went to the school and told the teacher what she thought of her. The teacher had a warrant sworn out for the arrest of the mother and before the judge in justice court she was found guilty and fined $30. The fine was suspended later.

PROWLERS LOSE FRIDAY EVENING TO ADA QUINTET

Locals Tie Score Twice But Finally Lose by Tally of 19 to 15

The Lincoln high school basketball team, playing an inter-district game against Ada at the Auditorium last Friday evening, failed to display its best form and came out of the contest at the short end of a 19-15 score.

The best the Lincoln boys could do against the scrappy visiting quint was to tie the score at 11-11 in the third quarter and at 15-15 shortly before the close of the final period. The Prowlers found difficulty in getting the ball into their possession, and missed numerous scoring opportunities.

In a preliminary event the Alvarado high school team took the Prowler B team into camp by a score of 25 to 20, the five winning points being scored in a three-minute overtime period after the fourth period ended with the score tied 20-20.

The box score of the Ada game:

Early Action Sought on Federal Relief Funds

Quick congress approval was sought Saturday for President Roosevelt's request for an immediate $500,000,000 relief appropriation.

Current funds are expected to last only another month, making action necessary early in January if the work relief program is to proceed without interruption.

Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday he would ask for the appropriation, designed to meet work progress administration costs until June 30, during the first week of congress. It convenes on January 5.

Estimates for relief needs in the next fiscal year, however, will not be submitted until spring in order to obtain a better idea of future needs.

The president, in disclosing his request for the special appropriation and a study of methods to count the unemployed, said he had taken no action to stop cuts in works progress administration rolls.

United States Senator From South Dakota Dies

Senator Norbeck's death was announced by his brother, George Norbeck, who said the senator's heart "gave out as the result of a cancerous development of the tongue and jaw." The senator was 66.

Lukewarm toward several national Republican administrations, and disliked by conservatives in his own state, the South Dakotan repeatedly demonstrated his ability at the polls. Re-election in 1932, when a Democratic landslide cut down every other major Republican candidate in the state, climaxed Norbeck's political success.

8 LIVESTOCK MEN WILL BE HONORED AT WINTER SHOWS

Recognition Banquet to be Staged at Crookston February 10

Eight livestock breeders from the Minnesota Red River Valley will be honored at a special banquet to be held during the forthcoming Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows. The recognition banquet is scheduled for Wednesday evening, February 10.

Two livestock breeders, one a dairy cattle breeder and the other a general livestock breeder, will be selected from each of the following districts: District 1: Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, and Pennington; District 2: East Polk, West Polk, Red Lake, and Norman; District 3: Clearwater, Mahnomen, and Becker; District 4, Clay, Wilkin, East Ottertail, West Ottertail.

Final selections which are to be made by the county agents and previously named honor livestock breeders in each of the above districts, are to be based upon the following requirements (a) a minimum of five years' work as a purebred livestock breeder, (b) a major part of the herd should be purebred and registered and headed by a purebred sire, (c) and show records and performance are to be given due consideration.

Twenty-seven honor livestock breeders were named during the silver anniversary celebration of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Winter Shows in February 1935. With the addition of eight new members this year, the total will thus be thirty-five.

Plaques will be presented to each new member at the time of the banquet by the Red River Valley Livestock association, O. M. Kiser, secretary, and the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association, C. M. Peask, Secretary.

I. Jensen, Clearbrook, is president of the Honor Livestock Breeders' Club; C. J. Lofgren, Ada, vice president; and Peter Engelstad, Thief River Falls, secretary-treasurer.

Local Hockey Players Attend Game at Hallock

A group of members of the Thief River Falls entry in the States-Dominion hockey league journeyed to Hallock Sunday to witness a contest between Hallock and Grand Forks, a large crowd being present to witness the game, which ended in a 2 to 2 tie. Both teams revealed a lack of preliminary practice, altho the Hallock aggregation, which includes a number of former Canadians, showed superiority over its opponents.

100TH RESIDENT AT PEJIHUTAZIZI

Granite Falls—The population of Pejihutazizi village now numbers 100 persons, the largest total this village has assumed in many years. The 100th resident was no less a personage than the new arrival in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ross. That the village is "typically American" is borne out by the fact that it is comprised of 25 families, or an average of four persons to the family. The village is composed entirely of Sioux Dakota Indians and is located two miles southeast of Granite Falls.

ATTORNEY—CAN'T GET OUT OF JAIL

Hastings—Even a lawyer's best discourses on law could not keep a local attorney out of jail. Roy W. Canfield found himself "locked in jail" when he went to visit a client at the Dakota county jail one afternoon. He was let into the cell block by Deputy Sheriff Earl Wasser, and locked in to interview his client. Mr. Wasser was called away for 20 minutes on an important errand and leaving, he forgot about the lawyer. Meanwhile, Mr. Canfield had an appointment at one of the Hastings banks, but when he finished his business at the jail he couldn't get out. It was just a matter of "cooling his heels" behind the stout barrier of the iron bars until the sheriff returned.

Roseau Downs U. of N. D. in First Contest in the States-Dominion League

Playing in the first game of the season in the States-Dominion hockey league at Grand Forks last Thursday night, Roseau's experienced Cloverleafs showed too much power and speed for the University of North Dakota team, winning by a score of 6 to 1 before a crowd of 800 fans in the new sports arena.

The visitors scored twice in the opening period, added a single counter in the second and rushed in three quick goals late in the last frame to sew up the battle.

Except for brief spurts, the game was slow. Both teams showed lack of condition and the big ice sheet was no help to tiring legs and short wind. Roseau's smoother team play and better covering in front of the goal were decisive factors.

PETERSEN CITES INTERFERENCE BY GOVERNOR-ELECT

Says Elmer Benson Should Wait Until His Own Term Begins

Governor Hjalmar Petersen in a public statement Monday asked Governor-Elect Elmer Benson "not to inject himself further into executive affairs while I am still governor."

The governor made the statement in commenting on apparent failure of his efforts to have the state conservation commission remove Commissioner E. V. Willard, who he contends has "outlived his usefulness."

Petersen, who succeeded the late Governor Floyd B. Olson, who died last September, said he had learned Benson's secretary urged a commission member to remain away from a meeting to consider Willard's removal.

The governor added that Benson is "interesting himself in the unemployment insurance legislation" now before a special session of the legislature.

"I certainly feel that he (Benson) has done wrong in interfering in executive affairs," Petersen said. "I still am governor and will continue to be until he takes the oath of office. I will thank him not to inject himself further into executive affairs while I still am governor."

Group Plans to Build Dams at Headwaters of Clearwater Lake

At a meeting in Crookston of the Clearwater River Improvement association, it was voted to spend not to exceed $500 for an immediate survey and temporary small dams at two sites at the headwaters of Clearwater lake to hold back the spring freshets. It is hoped to later replace the temporary dams with permanent concrete structures. Perhaps it will be possible to secure government funds for this worthy project, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette. One of the sites is on Buzzel lake and the other on a marsh adjacent to Clearwater lake and are the sites of old logging dams. It was voted to assess Grand Forks, East Grand Forks, Crookston and Red Lake Falls on the basis of the amount of city water used.

About Joe Oski of Mavie

A number of North Dakota potato growers and their wives now are on a tour of southern states, visiting southern potato fields, but mostly contacting markets for their own spuds. North Dakota is noted, parts of it at least, for excellent potatoes and the writer remembers visiting the Barnesville country years ago and being told of potato-growing on a large scale in that section. We have not looked on northern Minnesota as a potato country, but one man at least was remarkably successful as a potato grower as far back as 1915. The following account was written in that year:

"A few years ago Joe Oski of the town of Clover Leaf, Pennington county, was a day laborer in Duluth, working on sewer jobs and anything else that he could get to do. One day, while working in a sewer trench, he heard one of the laborers remark about the new lands that were soon to be opened to settlement in the northwestern part of the state. He read a brief announcement in a paper of the sale at auction of lands on the Red Lake Indian reservation and he and Mrs. Oski decided to take the chance. They had been saving money for several pay days to buy food and clothing for the babies.

"When the date of the sale was announced in the papers Joe quit his sewer job, took the first train for Thief River Falls and bought a quarter section of land. He did not know much about farming but he had confidence in his ability to master the art. He did not go back to Duluth but instead used that money to buy an old horse, a still older wagon, a small amount of lumber, an old plow and a few necessary articles to be used on his 'farm'.

That night he camped on the prairie after giving a locator $10 to show him where his farm was located. It required but a few days for Joe to build his house. He and his horse could use the same quarters for a while. When the house was finished Joe started plowing and planted a small plot of ground to potatoes. The seed he secured from a newly made friend who was willing to give him a few bushels on shares. He lived scantily for a while. He didn't come to town because his clothes were threadbare and his shoes had long since given in to the grinding of the new soil. He wrote to the wife and kiddies back home—Duluth was still 'home'—and the neighbors mailed the epistles telling of the land of promise in northern Minnesota.

"When Joe harvested his crop he was surprised to be able to send the folks some money besides putting a little in the bank. During the winter he worked at odd jobs for his neighbors. In the spring he began plowing as soon as the frost was out of the ground and the second year trebled his potato acreage. The next fall Mrs. Oski and the children came from Duluth to make their home with him.

"Since that time Joe Oski has prospered. Each year he has increased his acreage. There is now considerable stock that Joe can call his own. There are good buildings on the farm and the neighbors point to him as an example of what pluck, perseverance and confidence can make of a man. Joe finds his field in the raising of potatoes and he takes great pride in raising the largest tubers in the 'Eleven Towns'.

"Last year he offered a cash prize of $5 to the first person who would bring to the town hall in Mavie, his nearest postoffice, only one potato larger than he could show. He waited until late in the fall before anyone came within a fighting chance of the money, but one afternoon Joe was forced to part with the five-spot and he did so willingly after emphatically stating that he would make competitors 'go home' in 1915.

"So confident is he that he has succeeded that he offers two prizes: $10 to the first person and five to the second person who brings to the Mavie town hall before Nov. 1, 1915, a full half bushel of potatoes, natural smooth, that average larger than a half bushel he will place in display at the same time. He bars no one in the state of Minnesota and hopes that there will be a large number of entries.

"Competitors need have no fear as to whether or not they will get the money if they win, for Joe Oski has a bank account, the size of which concerns none but himself and the bank officials. Suffice it to say that he can stop most any business man on the street and secure the temporary loan of anything up to $100 without the formality of signing a secured note. He has 'made good' in every sense of the word."

We wonder whether or not Mr. Oski found it necessary to award one or both of the prizes offered back in 1915. Anyway, he seems to have demonstrated not only his own ability but the possibilities of the Thief River Falls community as well.

SAVE FOR NEXT SUMMER'S TRIP

Clarkfield—With 50 local business firms and 40 members of a male chorus each putting aside one dollar a month for seven or eight months, the community of Clarkfield expects to be able to send its male chorus to a national song fest in Seattle, Washington. The musical event will take place next summer, and steps are already being taken to finance a travel fund for the Minnesota group. Invitations have been extended the chorus to make the trip to Seatle to participate in the festival.

Sportsmen Asked to Return Game Cards

Sportsmen of the state are asked to cooperate with the division of game and fish by filling out and returning the postcards received when they purchased their 1936 hunting or trapping licenses. The reports indicate in what counties the person reporting hunted, trapped, or fished; whether ample game and fish were found; how many birds were crippled or lost; and whether or not a dog was used while hunting. This information will be used by the division in making studies of game conditions in Minnesota.

Evangelist Gulbrandson Discusses Eternal Home

"The eternal home of the saved will finally be upon this earth, and not on some far away planet. When the earth shall have been purified from the polution of sin Christ will set up his kingdom here and reign forever. The entire face of the earth will be, according to the sure promises of God, become like the garden of Eden." This startling declaration was made by Evangelist Gulbrandson in his lecture on "Where is Heaven?" at the old Methodist Church last Sunday night. The illustrated Back to the Bible lecture program for next Sunday night is announced elsewhere in this paper.

Termite Invasion of Minnesota Confirmed

Minnesota, until recently one of the few states free from termites, is now being invaded by these destructive pests, according to reports by A. G. Ruggles, State Entomologist, at the recent convention of the Minnesota Nurserymen's Association. Termites may destroy entire frame houses if the wood touches moist ground at any point to give them entry. Damage to frame buildings may be prevented by bringing the concrete foundations well above the ground line.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

BRIGHTLY lighted Christmas trees with their strings of sparkling tinsel---rows of stockings hung in happy expectation---holly, mistletoe and wreaths---are the evidences of Holiday Spirit in the air. Everybody enjoys Christmas, not for themselves alone, but for others.

The spirit of friendship, enkindled anew each Christmas through the thoughtful greetings of relatives and friends, means more than the mere exchange of gifts ---it manifests the good will that is still a real and vital force in our daily lives and in our contacts with others.

It is the same spirit of friendship and good will which prompts us to express again this message of Holiday cheer to you. We wish you all the peace and joy a Merry Christmas can bring, and a New Year of happiness and prosperity.

STATE NEEDS MORE REVENUE, INTERIM TAX BODY ASSERTS

Citizens Must Pay Higher Taxes in Future, Says Commission

Millions of dollars of new revenue must be made available to finance the state government for the next two years, the interim legislative tax commission warned citizens and the state legislature last week.

Declaring that citizens of the state will be required to pay higher taxes for a number of years, commission members declared that the condition of the state treasury is "serious."

The warnings were contained in the commission's first report of its inquiry into taxation begun shortly after the 1935 regular session of the state legislature adjourned. The report was the first of seven which will be released by the commission. The other six are in the process of completion and will be released from time to time.

"Your interim commission desires to call to the attention of the legislature and the citizens of this state the fact that materially higher taxes are just ahead," the report began.

The report indicated that the higher tax burden will be placed on individuals business and property and "many more people must pay taxes than are paying them today."

Five difficult problems were listed as confronting the state in its "extremely difficult financial situation." Namely, they were:

1. To find many millions of dollars of new revenue to meet new demands, especially for old age assistance and unemployment relief.
2. To place its fiscal affairs on a balanced budget basis, thus eliminating further current deficits and making provisions for amortization of existing deficit.
3. To discontinue borrowing for current expenditures and adopt the "pay as we go" policy.
4. To prevent an excessive tax burden from falling on property.
5. To adjust the existing tax system so as to meet sound principles of an equitable tax system.

The commission declared the state must find a minimum annually of $14,800,000 of permanent new revenue to maintain current deficits in the old age assistance and unemployment relief funds, in order to carry these programs through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937.

The commission estimated that the cost of relief during the next two years would amount to $6,000,000 annually.

Bemidji School Man and Wife Die in Car Mishap Last Friday Evening

Two persons were killed and one was seriously injured Friday night when a truck that left the scene of the accident collided with an automobile two miles north of Bemidji on highway 71.

C. A. Christoferson, about 42, Bemidji high school principal, and his wife, about 40, were dead when extricated from the wreckage. A backseat passenger, Mrs. S. N. Wilson, was taken to a hospital with serious cuts and bruises.

Beltrami authorities arrested and held without charge Wesley Aho of Craigville, who drove a lumber truck into a Bemidji yard shortly after the time of the mishap.

STATE AWARDS FIVE ROAD BRIDGE JOBS

Contracts for the construction of five highway bridges, to cost $163,993, have been awarded by N. W. Elsberg, state commissioner of highways. The work, in Koochiching, Jackson, Ramsey and Stearns counties, will begin at once and will be completed during the winter season.

N. W. SCHOOL ENDS ITS FALL SESSION FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Enrollment This Term Was Largest in History of School

The Northwest School closed last Friday for a two weeks' Christmas holiday prior to the opening of the winter term on January 4. In summarizing the work of the term, Dr. A. A. Dowell reports the largest enrollment in the history of the school, with all dormitory and classroom buildings taxed beyond normal capacity.

Students were enrolled from seventeen Minnesota counties and eastern North Dakota. According to Registrar J. W. Milner, scholarship was maintained on a high plane, with fewer withdrawals than at any time during recent years.

Even though the enrollment reached a new height, Miss Lydia Dahlen, school nurse, reported less illness than at any time during the past ten years. Only three students were confined in the Health Service with chicken pox, while tonsilitis accounted for the balance who were confined for more than one day. The comparative freedom from illness was credited to the mild open fall and to improved hospital facilities.

The winter term will open for registration Monday, January 4, with the first classes scheduled for the following morning.

SKATERS GIVEN USE OF RINK EACH EVENING

Five Outstanding Players Included in Personnel of Local Sextet

The Thief River Falls entry in the States-Dominion hockey league will formally open the hockey season in the winter sports arena next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the Thieves will meet the Grand Forks Cavaliers. A capacity crowd is anticipated in the arena for the first game, which had previously been postponed because of unseasonably mild weather. The ice now, however, is in excellent condition.

The local squad, comprising 15 players, had been working out each evening since Sunday under the direction of Coach Walter DePaul, and its performance reveals that the squad includes five outstanding members.

Reuben Julien, sparkplug of the forward line, is the most finished offensive player who has been seen locally at any time, and he will be supported at center by Clayton Taylor of Hibbing, a new player. DePaul and Mike Foy, brilliant pair of fast-breaking defense men, have brought a new brand of hockey to this community. The goalie position is somewhat in doubt, as Mike Van Jura, slated for that post, returned to Fort Francis for Christmas and has not yet come back to this city.

Much of the team's success will depend upon how well the younger players of the squad develop. Among them the most promising are Ray Parist, "Snooks" Julien, Ernie Helquist, Gene Berling, Vernon Williams, Grant Gulrud and Arnold Rustad. Rustad and Helquist will be available only during the holidays.

The local sextet was scheduled to meet its first test of the season Wednesday night at Emerson, and it was pointed out that too much cannot be expected, as the boys have not had time to perfect their team play, while the Emerson team with a month of playing behind it, boasts eleven experienced Canadian players. In a game December 23 Emerson defeated Roseau 13 to 3.

Hockey for boys is being organized this week by Coach DePaul. Teams will be divided into sections according to size and weight and will be given the same coaching as the Thieves, with regular games being played at the arena.

It was announced today that all boys from the ages of ten to 19 who are interested in the sport and wish to attend the hockey school are asked to report to Coach DePaul at the arena Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. It is expected that these boys will provide material for future league players. The coach will give instructions in the fundamentals of hockey, and each class will include demonstrations of certain specified essentials followed by a period devoted to practice.

Local skaters in large numbers tried out the arena rink Tuesday evening, and it will be open to devotees of the sport each evening until the finishing touches have been put on the warming room, after which it will be open also in the afternoon. An amplifying system will be installed late this week.

HOLIDAY VOLUME IN POSTOFFICE SETS NEW MARK

70,000 Letters and Greeting Cards Leave City for Christmas

With $801.25 received for postage on 1,100 parcels during the eight days preceding Christmas, the local postoffice set what is believed to be an all-time record for volume of holiday business. The figure, announced by Postmaster Andrew Anderson, compares with $775.50 received in 1935, $629.90 in 1934 and $592.10 in 1933.

In addition to the parcels post business, Mr. Anderson reported, a total of 70,504 letters and greeting cards were canceled during the same period, compared to approximately 60,000 for the same number of days in 1935.

The peak of the pre-holiday mailing rush was reached Monday of last week when no less than 22,120 greeting cards passed thru the canceling machine, in addition to which 270 parcels were insured, and a total of $201 was received at the windows for postage on parcels.

Fire Department Responds to Seventy Alarms During Year

Had it not been for the spectacular blaze that destroyed the Oen Mercantile company stock and building and damaged adjoining structures October 23 with an estimated total loss of $130,000, the fire losses in this city, instead of reaching a new high mark, would have totaled less than $2,500, according to the records of H. L. Schuster, secretary of the Thief River Falls fire department. Losses in 1935 aggregated $8,265.

The department responded to seventy calls during the year, losses of from $10 to $700 being reported in only 18 of them, while more than 25 alarms were turned in because of chimney fires from which no loss resulted.

Aside from the Oen fire the biggest loss of the year, $700, was incurred August 15 in a blaze that partly destroyed the house owned by R. G. Rounds on East First st. Third largest loss was $450 damage done by a fire January 7 at the Mrs. H. Loken home, 512 Conely av. S.

Losses ranging from $10 to $200 were listed during the year at A. Prestebak's hotel, H. Kjos, George Nelson, Log Cabin tavern, A. Flattum apartment, St. Bernard church, Ned Hanson, A. Amundson, V. C. Noper farm, Mrs. A. W. Crown, G. H. Frissell, old mill yard, O. E. Taxerans car, Northern Trading company warehouse and the Elizabeth Shop.

MILD WEATHER IS ENJOYED ON YULE HOLIDAYS

Residents of Northwestern Minnesota last week enjoyed the mildest Christmas Eve and Christmas Day weather in many years, and with the highways free of snow, the result was increased holiday visiting thruout this community.

The mercury dropped slightly below the zero mark Sunday morning for the first time in more than two weeks, the temperature rising again Monday with resulting sleet Monday evening and Tuesday morning, which made automobile traffic hazardous. No wire trouble was reported in this section due to the sleet storm, it was reported by A. J. Rau, local manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

The sleet turned to snow Tuesday afternoon, with mercury readings around the zero mark Wednesday morning. The prediction for today is partly cloudy and cold.

U. S. ROAD GRANTS GIVEN STATE WITH STRINGS ATTACHED

Legislature Must Supply $4,280,000 to Meet Allotment Terms

A $5,430,000 road grant to Minnesota from the $200,000,000 federal road fund was announced in Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace Tuesday.

The grant is conditional upon a $4,280,000 appropriation by the state to match dollar for dollar the federal funds for regular government aid and a secondary and feeder road program. The state will not be required to match $1,150,000 for grade crossing eliminations.

The federal apportionments will become available for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1937, and whether Minnesota will receive its share of the huge fund is dependent on what action the state legislature takes at its forthcoming session.

Minnesota's allotment is split up as follows: $3,460,000, regular federal aid; $680,000, for secondary and feeder roads, and $1,150,000 for grade crossing eliminations.

In actual practice, it was explained at the highway department, the state will be called on to furnish better than dollar for dollar in order to obtain the government allotment. The government requires the states to pay for right of way, property damages, preliminary engineering and administration. This will require action by the legislature to provide more highway funds.

City Clerk Pederson informed the council that no word had yet been received of the status of the city's application for a PWA grant to aid in financing the construction of a sewage disposal plant.

A letter was read from the Detroit Lakes WPA office stating that new orders had been received from Washington making it necessary to increase local contributions for the women's sewing project now under way in this city, the only alternative being to reduce the number of workers. Prizes and Carnival Features to Mark 43d Event at Auditorium

All is in readiness for the forty-third annual New Years ball to be held at the Auditorium this evening under the sponsorship of the Thief River Falls fire department. Arrangements for the event have been completed by a committee including Ole Ness, chairman; Lawrence Bjorkman and Morris Jaranson.

Music for the dancing will be provided by Holsum and his eight-piece dance band of Grand Forks, and a carnival effect will be lent by the use of confetti, noisemakers and paper hats. A number of cash prizes will be awarded in the course of the evening.

Harry L. Schuster, secretary of the department, said today that old-timers whose memory goes back to the first ball recall that on that occasion the fire fighters were decked out in bright red shirts, a feature which will be missing at the ball this evening.

PENNINGTON MEN AT FARM BUREAU ANNUAL MEETING

18th Convention Opened in St. Paul Monday of This Week

The eighteenth annual convention of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation opened in St. Paul on Monday of this week with Pennington county represented by a group including L. A. Nelson, S. E. Hunt, Hans Anton, Alfred Lonnegren, Ole Nesland and County Agent R. M. Douglass. Farm Bureau home and community chairmen, officers and managers of County Farm Bureau Service companies and Farm Bureau Insurance agents attended special departmental sessions at the Lowry hotel on Monday; the first formal convention session was held Tuesday at University Farm, with Dean W. C. Coffey welcoming the farmers to the ag. campus, and the two final days' meeting were held at the Lowry hotel, St. Paul. General problems were discussed on Wednesday, and on Thursday resolutions were adopted and officers for 1937 elected.

Seventy-three counties were represented by official voting delegates, while a number of the unaffiliated counties were represented by unofficial visitors and by insurance men.

As the convention opened it was indicated that 1936 was the most successful year in the history of the organization, with unprecedented gains in membership, and in all services departments.

Increased farm income has made it possible for many additional farmers to give the organization their financial support and many farmers consider the Farm Bureau a strong contributing factor in bringing about increased farm income, officers declare.

LEGISLATURE FINISHES ITS SPECIAL TERM

Insurance Act Tax Provisions Summarized in Brief

The extraordinary session of the state legislature ended last Wednesday with its final meetings enlivened in the house by a formal three-member protest against the new unemployment insurance act and in the senate by a brief dispute over requested consideration of 17 appointments by Governor Hjalmar Petersen.

In the senate Senator Charles A. Hausler, St. Paul liberal, failed by a 26-to-31 vote to force suspension of the rules to act on the governor's nominations. One name that of William Mahoney, state liquor control commissioner, had been designated as a subject of controversy by request of Senator Henry Stiening, Moorhead.

Both branches adopted a resolution urging the President and Harry Hopkins to reinstate 12,000 farmers in the Minnesota drouth area to jobs on WPA projects, and both approved a routine bill for $25,000 covering costs of the special session.

The house approved a resolution urging congress to amend the transportation act because, the document states, the measure discriminates against Minnesota shippers. The senate adopted a resolution congratulating Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, on his 80th birthday.

The house also paid tribute to the late Governor Floyd B. Olson as a "man who bravely died as he bravely lived." The resolution was sponsored by Representative George MacKinnon of Minneapolis.

Employers of eight or more persons in 1936 and all employers beginning in 1937 must pay a tax toward an unemployment insurance fund under the measure passed.

The bill, which went to Governor Hjalmar Petersen for signature and then must be approved by the federal social security board, requires no contributions from employes and sets up a pooled fund with a merit rating and guaranteed employment provision.

Beginning in 1938—and in 1939 for those employes not covered in 1936—benefits are payable to unemployed persons for a maximum of 16 weeks in one year, after a two-week waiting period, and equal to half of the employe's average weekly wage. Minimum weekly benefits are $6 and maximum benefits $15.

The merit rating clause provides that, if an employer's total contributions to the compensation fund exceed benefits paid to his former employes by 7.5 to 10 per cent of his annual payroll, his assessment is reduced to 1.8 per cent. If the excess is between 10 to 12.5 per cent of his annual payroll, his contribution is 1.5 per

AN AFTER-CHRISTMAS PRAYER

The following poem appropriate to the Christmas season was written by Mrs. Sam Pausin of this community, and we take pleasure in presenting it to our readers:

Lord, pray, help me to remember Christmas time throughout the year!
Days of shopping, sewing, baking—oh, such busy, happy times—
Hidden parcels; patient waiting; Christmas programs, songs, and rhymes;
Lighted homes on Christmas Eve; snowflakes whirling down to earth;
Christmas carols on the air—happy tidings of Thy birth—
Christmas trees with lights a-glitter; holly wreaths on panes and door;
Children's laughter; joyful greetings; toys all scattered on the floor,
For these things—I hold most sacred—for Thy birth in Bethlehem,
Son of God, I praise and thank Thee—help me to remember them!

W. C. T. U. News Notes

"The man who flung his hat in the air and gave three cheers when the eighteenth amendment was repealed ought to be leading a campaign these days to rid the roads of drunken motorists. For if there is one thing that could conceivably restore national prohibition, it is the deadly mixture of alcohol and gasoline. Anyone who thinks that the American people will put up with this menace indefinitely is crazy. Traffic is dangerous enough even when all hands are stone sober. Add to it those half wits who don't see anything wrong in getting behind the wheel after they have had a few drinks, and you create an intolerable situation.

"Continue that situation long enough, and you will find a new sentiment for prohibition that will really prohibit just as surely as night follows day."—Editorial in The Pensacola (Fla.) News, October 12, 1936.

Season's Greetings

As another year draws to a close we are reminded once again of the many favors we have received not only during the past twelve months but during the entire forty-eight years of our business in Thief River Falls.

Our appreciation is sincere, and our warmest thanks go out to the people of the community in which we have prospered. We are especially grateful for the kind consideration that has been extended to us following the fire which destroyed our building and forced the only interruption in the service of our store during forty-eight years. Naturally we look forward with happy anticipation to the time when we can resume business in a normal way in our new building.

Equally sincere is our wish that each of you will receive full measure of the joy of the season and the happiness and prosperity of the New Year.

DANGERS OF PUNISHMENT
University of Minnesota Institute of Child Welfare

Improper punishment may result in grave harm.

1. Fear of the parent is often aroused by harsh, frequent, or unjust punishment. Lying to escape punishment is the natural consequence. Evasions and deceits begin to color the whole nature with dishonesty.

2. Hardness and cruelty may be brought about by punishment that is not adapted to the individual and hence causes him to build up a defense.

3. Repressions and inhibitions of natural conduct.—The nature which has not the strength to resist, shrinks and cringes and takes refuge in a dream world, instead of expressing its impulses by doing. Unhealthy daydreaming is one of the great dangers associated with unwise punishment, as the dreamer gradually loses connection between purpose and the action involved in carrying out that purpose.

Children learn, not everything they do repeatedly, but the things they do successfully. It is also true that they learn not to do the things that bring them discomfort and failure.

Our hope in punishing a child lies in the possibility that we may bring about regret in his mind. If doing a certain thing has caused him to feel sorry, then he is not likely wittingly to repeat that act. If then, our punishment or method of handling him does not lead to a feeling of regret and distaste for the act, it has failed. If we are unwise or hasty in our treatment, the child may feel only chagrin at having been detected in behavior displeasing to us. Perhaps next time he will be more careful not to be found out!

It will be seen that punishment must take into account, not merely the simple act which was wrong, but among other things, the child's attitude toward us, his feeling at the time, and the amount of pleasure he got out of the act.

Punishment is so much more likely to have harmful than good results that it should be used with the care one would take in handling an explosive. As Kilpatrick says, we must be careful to see that the positive good we expect as a result will outweight whatever "evil will almost surely follow."

In all our care and training, we must keep in mind, not only the distant goal of healthy and successful adjustments in adult life, but the life the child is living now, too. It is easy to be so intent on carrying out an idea, on finishing a project, that we confusedly grasp at any tools, without giving enough thought to their suitability. Parents have so long depended on the handy tool of punishment that they sometimes overlook its inadequacy—unaware of the rough gouges and cuts that it leaves upon the personality.

Discipline, then, must be thought of as a guidance which will take account of the child's continuous growth process-considering each step in that process to be as rich and full of value as the next, or any other future one. Every good that enters his life at each step will make him better prepared to make a success at the next stage.

"Our part of the discipline," says Kilpatrick, "is to help the child while he is now living to learn such things as enrich his life now and promise most for the next period, and so on, in such manner as to make the most of his continuous growing".

DENTIST'S TOOTHACHE NECESSITATES DENTIST

Chisholm—Does a dentist ever have a toothache, and if he does what does he do? Dr. Frank J. Rabnick, local dentist, was recently confronted with such a situation when he was awakened one night with a throbbing molar. All of his professional skill was exercised to save the tooth, but to no avail. Nothing would stop the pain. "And Oh the relief, when it came out", was the dentist's exclamation after another dentist, whom he called in, extracted the tooth

HELP YOURSELF TO HAPPINESS

For the New Year we wish you happiness. Help yourself to a big slice of it. Don't stand back and wait for others to get theirs first. There is plenty for everybody. As a matter of fact the more you take the more there will be left for the others. So help yourself to Happiness.

Where is Happiness obtained? Not far from home, according to authorities. They all seem to agree that, "The City of Happiness is in the State of Mind." How to get it is a more difficult problem. It isn't sold by the yard or pound or quart. It can't be bought in any form or at any price, and yet it is within easy reach of rich and poor alike. At any rate that is what the authorities tell us, and we have asked many of them. We asked them especially to get some ideas for this column and we don't know of any better way to fill the allotted space this week than by reproducing some of the answers. They follow:

I have told you of the man who always put on his spectacles when about to eat cherries, in order that the fruit might look larger and more tempting. In like manner I always make the most of my enjoyments, and, though I do not cast my eye away from troubles, I pack them into as small a compass as I can for myself, and never let them annoy others.—Robert Southey.

—o—

To look fearlessly upon life; to accept the laws of nature, not with meek resignation, but as her sons, who dare to search and question; to have peace and confidence within our souls—these are the beliefs that make for happiness.—Maeterlinck.

—o—

It is undeniable that the great quest of humanity is happiness. But was the world created to be happy? How many are truly happy? I've studied people in all classes and conditions, and everywhere I have found, when you get below the surface, that it is mostly the insincere individual who says, "I am happy." Nearly everybody wants something he hasn't got, and as things are constructed, what he wants is money—more money than he has in his pocket.

But after all, money can buy only a few things. Why should anyone envy the captains of industry? Their lives are made up of those vast, incessant worries from which the average individual is happily spared. Worry, worry, that is the evil of life.

What do I consider the greatest approximation to happiness of which the present human nature is capable? Why, living on a farm which is one's own, far from the hectic, artificial conditions of the city—a farm where one gets directly from one's soil what one needs to sustain life, with a garden in front and a healthy, normal family to contribute those small domestic joys which relieve a man from business strain.—Thomas Edison.

Happiness grows at our own firesides, and is not to be picked in strangers' gardens.—Douglas Jerrold.

—o—

If thou workest at that which is before thee, following right reason seriously, vigorously, calmly, without allowing anything else to distract thee, but keeping thy divine part pure, as if thou shouldst be bound to give it back immediately; if thou holdest to this, expecting nothing, fearing nothing, but satisfied with thy present activity according to nature, and with heroic truth in every word and sound which thou utterest, thou wilt live happy. And there is no man who is able to prevent this.—Marcus Aurelius.

It is in the nature of things that those who are incapable of happiness should have no idea of it. Happiness is not for wild animals, who can only oscillate between apathy and passion. To be happy, even to conceive happiness, you must be reasonable or you must be tamed. You must have taken the measure of your powers, tasted the fruits of your passions and learned your place in the world and what things in it can really serve you. To be happy you must be wise. This happiness is sometimes found instinctively, and then the rudest fanatic can hardly fail to see how lovely it is; but sometimes it comes of having learned something by experience and involves some chastening and renunciation; but it is not less sweet for having this touch of holiness about it, and the spirit of it is healthy and beneficient.—George Santayana.

—o—

Justice is the only worship. Love is the only priest. Ignorance is the only slavery. Happiness is the only good. The time to be happy is now. The place to be happy is here. The way to be happy is to make other people happy.—R. G. Ingersoll.

—o—

All real and wholesome enjoyments possible to man have been just as possible to him since first he was made of the earth as they are now; and they are possible to him chiefly in peace. To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over plowshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy. Now and then a wearied king, or a tormented slave, found out where the true kingdoms of the world were, and possessed himself, in a furrow or two of garden ground, of a truly infinite dominion.—John Ruskin.

The happiest heart that ever beat
Was in some quiet breast
That found the common daylight sweet,
—John Vance Cheney.

—o—

The secret of happiness is not in doing what one likes, but in liking what one has to do.—James M. Barrie.

There are two ways of being happy: we may either diminish our wants or augment our means—either will do—the result is the same; and it is for each man to decide for himself, and do that which happens to be the easiest. If you are idle or sick or poor, however hard it may be to diminish your wants, it will be harder to augment your means. If you are active and prosperous or young or in good health, it may be easier for you to augment your means than to diminish your wants. But if you are wise, you will do both at the same time, young or old, rich or poor, sick or well; and if you are very wise you will do both in such a way as to augment the general happiness of society.—Benjamin Franklin.

So for the New Year we wish you happiness. Help yourself to a big slice of it and by being happy, make a substantial contribution toward the happiness of others. Happy New Year.

ICY STREETS MEAN SAFETY
(Minneapolis Tribune)

It seems to be a well established paradox that the most treacherous driving conditions are in the end the safest. There is an impressive mass of accident statistics to support that paradox and Captain Oscar Bakken of the police traffic squad does well to note the fact there has not been a fatality for three weeks on the city's ice-encrusted streets. With the hazards of driving so obvious that the most reckless motorist could not fail to take account of them, the year's tragic succession of traffic deaths came to a sudden stop in Minneapolis. It is Captain Bakken's theory that the glassy streets, which made driving an ordeal, were chiefly responsible for this. He suspects that the motorist who ordinarily takes chances was forced to drive carefully, and that this extra measure of caution resulted in a three weeks' holiday for death. Ridiculous as this may seem, the fact remains that there is a great deal of accident data supporting his contentions. It can be shown, for example, that driving conditions which are ordinarily considered "ideal" are most conducive to serious traffic mishaps. On the other hand, conditions which rate as "hazardous" are responsible for a much smaller proportion of fatal accidents than is generally supposed.

THE ENVY OF ALL NATIONS
(Fergus Falls Journal)

America leads the world in life insurance outstanding—both in total volume, and in per capita holdings—by a tremendous margin.

No other people have done so much to create financial buffers to care for the troubles that may come in the future.

THE BILLS MUST BE PAID
(Long Prairie Leader)

The interim committee of the legislature which was appointed by the last legislature to study Minnesota's tax problem and report to the session soon to convene, has made public its report and it is a gloomy one for the taxpayers. Here are some of the highlights:

Minnesota taxpayers must dig up at least $18,125,000 in new taxes during 1937 and 1938 with small prospect of much of a decrease in succeeding years.

These sums must be in addition to present state taxes.

Unless something new can be found to be taxed, at least $14,000,000 of this must come out of homes, farms and other property each year.

This will mean an increase of 100 per cent in present taxes on land for state purposes.

The committee recommends higher income, inheritance, iron ore and gross earnings taxes, but point out the chief source of the new revenue must come from property as it is about the only thing calculated with any certainty to get the money. Which is bad news for the home and farm owners. Itemizing the new demands which have to be met, the committee lists them as follows:

Relief	$6,000,000
Old age assistance	5,000,000
To finance rural credit loss	1,000,000
To finance deficits	6,125,000

It will take an annual payment of $1,000,000 for thirty years or until 1965 to take care of the rural credit loss. The cost of taking care of the new social security programs, that is, the share of the cost that is to be borne by the state, will take the millions named for an indefinite number of years to come, the commission says.

There is nothing particularly new in the facts as revealed by the legislative committee. The Leader has been sounding the alarm in regard to them for the past several years. The report merely indicates that matters have now come to a show down and the whole dismal situation must be faced. In its comment, the committee said:

"In the opinion of the commission, citizens of this state must pay higher taxes for a number of years. The tax burden will be higher for individuals, business and property and many more people must pay taxes than are paying them today. It would be fatal not to face the situation frankly and an effort must be made by the 1937 legislature to place the entire tax system on an equitable and fair basis. If we are to safeguard our present form of government, promote the general well-being and economic recovery, and set the state for permanent prosperity, it is absolutely imperative that we modernize our entire tax system."

Homes, farms and property are more or less defenseless in this matter of new taxes, particularly so since the voters turned down Amendment No. 2 in the last election, which amendment proposed to prohibit taxes on land for state purposes.

The situation is indeed a serious one and offers a hard nut for our legislative statesmen to crack. It will do little good to whine about the situation—the bills have to be paid. There are other new taxes also—those for unemployment insurance and old age pensions. These will not hit the farmers, but they will crack it to the business men. In many cases their new social security taxes will be more than their property taxes on stores, shops, offices and plants.

Men make considerable fun of the effort of the women to conceal their age, but the most subtle compliment you can hand a man past 50 when he tells you his age is to express surprise.—Heron Lake News.

Topics of the Times
By N. A. H.

Local folks have got their fill of skating as a result of that unseasonable rainfall the other day.

The Republican party is trying to pay off a deficit of more than a million dollars, and it can't look to the office holders for much assistance.

Times readers this year got a special bargain in the form of 53 issues of the paper.

A lot of citizens last week resembled Christmas trees, says a cynical colleague at Minneota, pointing out that some were all lit up and many were thoroly trimmed.

Red Lake Falls will have a tax rate of 160 mills next year. And that city has a municipal liquor store too.

It's hard to imagine anyone being so busy as to be obliged to write it Xmas.

That long December mild spell may have been a boon to many, but it was only a pain in the neck to local hockey fans anxious to see action on the arena rink.

This is inventory time for the businessmen, and it promises to be a more cheerful period than for some years past.

A Happy New Year to you all.

1935 Fails to Reveal Drop in Tuberculosis Death Rate, Says Medics

Until 1935 the death rate from tuberculosis dropped continually in Minnesota. The fact that 1935 failed to show another drop in the rate is cited in a bulletin issued by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association, to show that no relaxation in the campaign against this ancient enemy of man must be permitted.

Last year's rise in the tuberculosis death rate was only a fraction of one per cent; but the significance of that fraction will not be known until the figures for 1936 are available.

The rate dropped from 38.6 in 1933 to 35.4 in 1934. The failure to drop further in 1935, when the exact figure was 35.6, should be regarded as a warning, at least, that tuberculosis is by no means conquered. All infectious diseases go in cycles. Tuberculosis may be at the low point in its cycle of virulence and the turn may come at any time.

When it does come, the educational work of the Christmas Seal about tuberculosis, how it is spread and how it may be discovered by modern diagnostic methods before actual illness appears, will be doubly important.

There is only one defense against a possible increase in the virulence of tuberculosis, according to the physicians' bulletin. That is a widespread use of the Mantoux tuberculin skin test and X-ray to discover all who have been infected before they break down with the disease.

The committee heartily commends the effort of the Minnesota Public Health Association which has used its Christmas Seal funds in Minnesota to extend the use of these diagnostic tools to school children. It is these children who will suffer most if tuberculosis should become more virulent and deadly in Minnesota.

HAPPY NEW YEAR MUSH
By Luella B. Lyons

LEAH MERWIN had been the one elected to stay at home when the others went into town in the old flivver to the morning New Year's service at the church. Someone had to remain at home to watch the stock and, too, Leah hadn't a new or even a decent coat. Jake Merwin was having tough sledding in financial affairs without one more need being voiced, so Leah never told him of her need.

"I wouldn't have minded if it hadn't started snowing the minute their backs were turned and now—they won't tackle driving home in this weather," but Leah's words stopped at once as she made out in the swirling snow a car that was stopping in the barnyard. The plump figures of a man and a woman were making a wild dash for the protection of the house.

"We saw we couldn't go another turn of the wheels," the sweet, friendly woman told Leah—the lady who introduced the two of them as Mr. and Mrs. Tom Madison, 11 miles to the east of Borger. "We hoped to spend New Year's and visit at our son's, Tom Junior's over at Borger, but now—well, we want to buy our dinner here from you. May we, my dear, without putting you out?"

They were such a jolly pair and Leah even forgot to be embarrassed when she had to serve them the only thing she had prepared, a feast of delicious fried mush and butter and syrup and plenty of fresh milk and coffee. Supper consisted of the same fare and so did breakfast the next morning, but by that time the Merwins were able to break the drifts and reach the farm and the Madisons, via those breaks, went on their belated way.

"It will be a happy New Year every day for a year for us, Mommy," Leah shouted when the Madisons were out of sight. To a smiling but perplexed family, Leah explained that Mr. Madison owned a small chain of meat markets and small cross road grocery stores and that he had given her sufficient orders for slabs of cornmeal mush just like she had served him and his good wife, for all those stores for one year at least. "The labels on this mush, he said, are to read 'Lady Leah's Prize Mush.'" When the trio had quieted down a bit she added: "The money end of the contract will settle all our financial difficulties for the year and who knows, maybe forever!"

Cranberry Little Changed

Unlike many fruits that have been almost "made over" by cultivation, the cultivated cranberry is not greatly different from the native or wild plant.

Old Time Liquor Laws

While the theme of this article does not pertain exclusively to pioneer life in this county we believe that it is pertinent to this series because it deals with a phase of early life here. But primarily we offer the story because we think it is at once informative and entertaining.

Regulation of the liquor traffic has become a significant matter in this state. Legislators, city officials and others are wrestling with the problems that have arisen since repeal. Recently the writer encountered a copy of a law passed by the Territory of Dakota in 1873. It was fashioned, we understand, from a Minnesota law. The law, in our opinion, has two outstanding features. First it stipulated that each dealer in hard liquor should furnish a bond of $3,000 as surety in case "damage" was caused to a person or to property as a result of intoxication. Our understanding of this clause as we read it is that a person who drank too much and suffered personal physical injury or suffered property damage as an immediate result could institute action against the person who sold him or her the liquor and obtain proportionate damages.

We do not understand the statute to imply that losses in business or reverses due to overindulgence in liquor could be construed as covered by the act, but that if a person was injured in a runaway accident or in any other way in which property damage resulted as a part of the mishap, damages could be collected for both. It is a good thing that the law was not in force when motor vehicles came into use. Of course, people can sue dealers in liquor now in such cases but with no specific legislation, so far as we know, in this state it is difficult to collect damages. But this old law seems to be a sort of protection for the saloon-keeper's patrons.

The other feature is this: The act provided that if a person required care as a result of intoxication, apparently because of drunkenness or attendant illness produced by it, the person who sold the liquor was required to pay the person taking care of the patient $2 a day as long as that care was needed. We did not find any provisions in the act for terminating the period of care other than because of the recovery of the victim. It would appear that in stubborn cases the dealer was liable for payments that were tantamount to a pension.

The law was entitled "An Act to Provide Against the Evils Resulting from the Sale of Intoxicating Liquor", which seems to us a frank admission that the farmers and probably the supporters of the measure were not enthusiastic wets. We are not expressing an opinion here about the merits of liquor. We feel that it is a matter of personal rights and opinions. Our purpose is simply to tell something about the early days in the liquor traffic.

Here in the early years, of course, there was considerable drinking before legislation imposed restrictions. The pioneers liked hard liquor to some extent, although, to be sure, there were stalwart broad shouldered, hymn-singing pathfinders who frowned on intoxicating beverages. In spite of them whisky was commonly available in the early years. Many early merchants kept barrels of good whisky in their cellars and from these barrels, jugs and bottles were killed and individual drinks served. Oldtimers have told the writer of being able to buy a small dipperful of good whisky for five cents. They explained, too, that a good customer could usually get a drink or two free if he complained of illness. If he was a good schemer he might even get three or four free drinks, it seems.

But as settlement increased the restriction became more rigid and numerous. The good old days of promiscuous drinking and general "divelty" passed and intoxication became rare, at least in public. In fact, police took charge of intoxicated persons who appeared in public noticeably affected. Naturally habits have changed with customs and there are oldtimers who assert that people can't handle their liquor like those in early years here. They even go so far as to make the claim that the pioneer whisky, cheap as it was, was better than what we have today. But it is probable that in this case distance has lent enchantment. Certainly there is not any reason to believe that modern liquors are inferior to those of the old days.

But if people were able to collect today for taking care of intoxicated persons a good many wives could collect $2 a day. But the husbands probably would spend the money as soon as they were able to walk back to a saloon, so it would be a sort of dizzy round. To be sure, some wives would rebel, but it seems that most of them stand for a great deal. Our guess is that the saloon-keepers themselves collected this money if any was paid. The law actually went into effect because it was approved by the governor Jan. 10, 1873.

GROW LEMONS IN OTTER TAIL CO.

Fergus Falls— This winter there'll be lemon pie at the Pressley Lewis' in Otter Tail county. And the lemons will come from their own tree, proving the fact that citrus fruit thrives in Minnesota. Recently they exhibited an unusually large lemon, cut from their lemon tree when it was 19 below zero the night before. This is the first time the tree, which now stands two feet in height, is bearing fruit. As a five inch seedling it was brought three years ago from Michigan. The tree is full of fragrant blossoms, so there may be quite a few lemon pies.

SPRING IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Mound—Although ordinarily it is the robin who heralds the coming of spring, residents of West Dutch Lake believe that "If winter comes, spring can't be far behind". It's pretty much like spring to them now, for they have had two unusual callers, one a beautiful red feathered and crested cardinal and the other a huge woodpecker.

Farm and Implement News

We come to the end of a perfect day and we also come to the end of many days which mark the end of another year. All days have not been perfect, but most of them have been just what we made of each. It is not the day so much. It's you, It's me. We must make each day, and may none of them be days that we must always regret, but, that we be happy.

We are especially appreciative at this time of year, as we mark the close of 1936, to each and all of our many valued customers and friends. You have all helped to make our success possible and we wish to thank you with hearts sincere.

We regret the mistakes we have made and especially such mistakes that we do not know about and want to be told of so that we can make them right. If our service to our customers has pleased, we are very happy and pledge our best efforts in the future to do what is right by all.

We wish that all of our customers and friends will find in 1937 the very most of Happiness and that a good measure of prosperity will come to each of you.

May we all join hands and enter the year of 1937 shoulder to shoulder for one common good in the interest of not alone our local community and its selfish interests, but in a greater way of finer character under the golden rule that "We do unto others as we would that they should do unto us" that such reflection may spread throughout the land.

To All We Wish
A Happy New Year

SILVERTON

The Silverton Church held a very fine Christmas program on December 20 under the direction of Miss Anna Hegrenes assisted by Miss Evelyn Peterson. The program consisted of dialogues, responsive readings, recitations and songs by the children. The Silverton Church choir sang a number of beautiful Christmas Carols. Rev. Sabo gave a short talk and a violin duet was rendered by Martin Moen and Herman Christopherson. Following the program gifts and apples were distributed.

The birth of Christ was the central theme carried out in the Yule Tide program given to a large audience at the Elwell School house on the evening of December 17. The play "The Children's Shepherd" portrayed a scene near the city of Bethlehem. A background of dark blue star-filled sky made a pretty setting for the events of the play. The characters were costumed in the styles and hues of ancient Biblical days. The part of the Children's Shepherd was taken by Vera Lohe. Other characters were The Little Star, Margery Christensen; The Angel, Doris Hegrenes; Mary, Gladys Hanson; The Three Wisemen, Helen Gelade, Ellie Hanson, and Hazel Hegrenes. Songs, dialogues and recitations completed the program after which Santa Claus distributed the gifts.

Mrs. Sivert Hanson is deeply grateful for the beautiful electric lamp presented to her at the Christmas festivities by the Silverton Ladies Aid in appreciation of her devoted and faithful labor as president of the Aid the past seven years which she is serving in the same capacity for another term. Mrs. Hanson wishes to thank all those who donated toward the purchasing of the gift.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Woolson and their daughter, Dorothea, had as their guests for six o'clock dinner on Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jands of St. Hilaire and their children, Ellen Mae, Robert, Geraldine and Marion.—Miss Violet Solmonson came last week from Minneapolis to spend some time with the home folks.—Miss Estelle Hanson is spending her Christmas vacation at her home in Silverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gessele and daughters of Thief River Falls attended the Christmas program at the Elwell school. Evelyn Peterson, a Normal student at Thief River Falls is spending her vacation with her parents in Silverton.—Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Gilbertson and nephew, Francis Sagen, who is their house guest, were Christmas day dinner guests at the John Gilbertson home.—D. W. Nelson, Mrs. Carrie Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Woolson and daughters Bernice, Rose, and Dorothea were dinner guests Christmas day at the Frank Johnson home near St. Hilaire.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Gilbertson and nephew, Francis Sagen, were guests at the Iver Olson home on Saturday evening.—Mrs. J. K. Patten and daughter, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sandum, Helen and Donald of Thief River Falls also attended the school program.

REPORTS TO SHERIFF, WANTS TO BE JAILED

Preston—A slight deviation from the general conception that it is news when a man bites a dog was found here when a man sought the sheriff in order to give himself up and go to jail. The deputy experienced a genuine surprise when he was accosted near the jail by a stranger who inquired if he were the sheriff or deputy. His reply was affirmed, he said that he had come to give himself up and accompanied the deputy to the jail upon statement of the fact that he had done "plenty". He was wanted in the Dakotas for check forgery.

New Year's Resolution

HERE'S a New Year's resolution
Any one can make and keep;
It will help one's constitution,
And enable one to sleep.

"I will try to keep from fretting
When I cannot see the sun;
I will try to keep from getting Into quarrels I may shun.

"I will try to keep from grieving
Over troubles that are past;
I will try to keep believing
Things will all come right at last.

"I will try to keep from sighing
When I ought to smile, instead;
I will try to keep on trying
To deserve to get ahead."

New Year Cavalier
by Helen Gaisford Waterman

FENTON DUMONT was bored with the party. All right welcoming in the New Year so smugly for people like those—but he was an adventurer, a cavalier, and the formal drawing room, the lovely ladies so ready to smile upon him, the classical music, the slow, tedious talk of the men suffocated him. He stepped to the balcony.

It had stopped snowing. In another hour the year would be dead. A grand year. But another would be beginning. He slipped over the balustrade, wound his leg around a pillar, and slid down to meet it. To the east, far away, the year was already new, and so he set off in that direction.

He was almost half way across the bridge before he noticed the girl, but then he strode quickly to her side. "Please don't," he said gently. She started. "I should only have to jump in after you, and can't you imagine how cold I'd be?" he ended, and shivered with clownlike intensity. "I might even catch my death," he continued lightly, but the girl looked back to the river, and he realized his error. "You may want to die," he said earnestly, "but I don't. Please!"

"Then leave me be," she answered. Her voice was soft and musical, but passionately desperate.

He gathered her in his arms and kissed her. She struggled fiercely. He kissed her again, and again, pinning her arms to her sides with his strong clasp. And suddenly she went limp in his arms, and cried against his shoulder. He took off his overcoat and wrapped it around her, for she was shivering. "Why did you come off without your coat and hat?" he chided, and stroked her soft hair.

Behind him, bells and whistles proclaimed another year. "Happy New Year, 1936," he said gayly.

She dried her eyes. "I'm being a fool," she apologized.

"Not at all," he answered, gallantly. "Methinks I behold a restaurant across the bridge. How about some coffee?"

She let him lead her, and he found a corner table. When their order had been placed, he turned to her.

"Why should you love a man like that?"

She looked up quickly, studying him. "How did you know?"

"Why else should a lovely girl like you be spending New Year's eve that way? You should be dancing—"

She smiled. "I don't know. It seemed terribly important half an hour ago. But I'm all right now. It doesn't matter any more."

"Off with the old," he quoted, "on with the new. This is the season for lovers as well as years. The old is off?"

"Yes."

He took her hand. "The new—would like very much—to be on." His gaze caught and held hers. "May I take you home now?"

She nodded her thanks. Outside, it was snowing again, but they scarcely noticed. At her door, he kissed her, and this time she did not resist. "On with the new," she murmured gently.

"That's O.K. this time," he answered, "but I won't let it happen next New Year's."

Age of Captive Birds

Among captive birds the bigger the bird the longer it lives. The peacock and the goose have long lives. The hen is short-lived—sixteen years at the most. None of the small birds has a long life. Larks probably live longest. They have been known to reach seventeen years.

HIGHWAY SAFETY UP TO DRIVERS, IS EXPERT VERDICT

Automobile Operators Must be Educated, Highway Chiefs Conclude

The nation's greatest safety campaign cannot achieve ultimate success until license and patrol measures have culled out the habitually dangerous drivers, and until at least as much attention is paid to the education of motor vehicle operators as is now paid to educating firemen of stationery steam boilers.

These, in summary, are conclusions of America's highway experts at the 22nd national convention of the American Association of State Highway Officials, according to Minnesota highway officials who returned last week from the assembly in San Francisco.

Minnesota's state highway department, headed by Commissioner N. W. Elsberg, ranks high for the entire nation, as evidenced by the fact that Minnesota officials held three of the most important places in the national association. J. T. Ellison, deputy commissioner and chief engineer of the Minnesota department, was chosen a member of the national executive committee; W. F. Rosenwald, maintenance engineer, was named chairman of the committee on traffic control and safety, and O. L. Kipp, construction engineer, heads the committee on design for the nationwide organization.

Mr. Rosenwald asserted on his return that the entire trend of the convention this year was toward greater and greater emphasis of the drastic need for education of motor vehicle drivers. This, speakers and study committees agreed, is now the most immediate need in the nationwide campaign to cut down the appalling death and injury toll of the highways.

Traffic control devices, safety engineering, better road design, and all of the other mechanical and engineering accomplishments have contributed much toward making the highways safe, Mr. Rosenwald pointed out. But, he said, even with continued improvement in this field, no feat of highway construction or traffic control can make any road safe so long as a dangerous driver is permitted to careen down that road in an automobile.

Not reasonable speed, but speed in improper places and under improper conditions are responsible for accidents, the convention concluded.

Therefore the experts in the building of safe highways came to the conclusion that from now on the greatest saving in life and limb can be accomplished by: first, education of all drivers of motor vehicles, and second, elimination of habitually reckless, incompetent, or dangerous drivers from the highways through extension of the work of highway patrols and tightening of drivers license requirements.

Sessions of the convention brought out that there are now 26,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States, with 44,000,000 drivers. Last year there were 827,000 accidents in which 37,000 persons lost their lives. This, Mr. Rosenwald said, emphasizes the vital importance of widespread public attention to the safety problem, and those phases of its solution that cannot be reached by all the skill of best engineers.

Dog Poisoners Again Active in This City

The latest of a series of dog poisoning cases reported in the city during the past month occurred Wednesday noon when the pet cocker spaniel of Alex Campbell died after swallowing food believed to have contained strychnine. Clues are lacking as to the identity of the person responsible for the death of the dog, who had many human friends.

MOOSE GETS EVEN WITH MAN BY SMASHING AUTO

Bemidji—The belief that kindness is its own reward which the superintendent of the Headquarters ECW camp in Itasca State park once had, has gone with the winds. A big bull moose, which 700 members of the camp considered their friend after raising him and providing a nice clean pen for him for seven years, showed his gratitude by running into the superintendent's car. Damages totaled $50. Details of the moose's activities after escaping his pen included a sudden dislike for the superintendent, the first person he met, with results that he chased him and heading for the new Chevrolet car scraped his itching horns against it. When the cook came out with a pail of biscuits and tossed them at the moose, he picked up the biscuits as they lit in the snow and when they were gone, he chased the cook into the woods. When someone laid the trail with a pail of potato peelings, the moose followed right back into his pen, where he is perfectly at home. Through the incident he has won a great deal of respect from members of the camp.

TRAVELER MISTAKES CITY FOR NEW YORK

Red Wing—Entering Red Wing with its brilliantly lighted streets, a stranger thought it was New York and he did not discover his mistake until the following morning. John Kripler of Albernia, British Columbia had train tickets from Vancouver to New York City, passports and a steamship ticket which entitled him to cross the ocean and land at Hamburg, Germany. Jumping from a midnight train at Red Wing he hustled away into the darkness of the night, and failing to return, the conductor notified station attendants and left his baggage. His stop-over made getting to New York in time for the boat's sailing a nip-and-tuck matter. Police who picked him up in the streets of Red Wing in the morning thought him to be suffering from a mind ailment.

LIVESTOCK SALE TO BE CONDUCTED AT WINTER SHOWS

Cattle, Hogs and Sheep to be Placed on Auction Block February 11th

The Red River Valley Livestock association is making final plans to hold a purebred livestock sale during Winter Shows week. According to O. M. Kiser, secretary, the sale will be held Thursday, February 11, in the association's livestock pavilion.

The sale will be supervised by a committee composed of J. R. Sargent, Crookston, chairman; E. E. Carmen, Ada; Andrew Johnstad Beltrami; Emil Lerud, Twin Valley, and O. M. Kiser.

Sale entries will be limited to purebred beef and dairy cattle, sheep and hogs, and every effort will be made to maintain the high standards of breeding and quality set in former years.

The Valley Livestock association will also sponsor the annual livestock and 4-H club show, which will be held during Winter Shows week. Entries from all parts of the Northwest are expected to tax the livestock buildings to capacity. Last year, a fire gutted the main livestock barn just before the opening of the show, but temporary repairs were rushed and the show held as scheduled. This building has been completely remodeled so that everything is in readiness for the forthcoming event. Prospective exhibitors should write to John Saugstad, Crookston, business manager, for copies of the premium list.

Physicians Warn of Hazards to Babies in Cold Weather Season

The principal cause of accidental death in babies under one year is mechanical suffocation. Members of the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today call attention to a recent study by the United States public health service as a warning to parents, especially in cold weather, to be mindful of this hazard and avoid it.

The average annual death rate among infants for suffocation has been 39.8 for each 100,000 live births over a period of eight years. This rate is more than four times as high as that for burns in infants the same age.

Deaths from suffocation occur most frequently in winter when the tendency is to cover babies too closely. A few are caused by unusual accidents such as cave-ins or falling earth; and a few still occur as the result of overlaying in bed by some sleeping adult. The latter are less frequently reported than formerly because nowadays most babies have their own beds.

A warm all-over sleeping suit with feet, if necessary, hands covered, is recommended by the physicians. Then outer bed covers need not be so heavy or so closely wrapped around the child. All covers should be firmly fastened at the foot and at the sides so that the baby cannot pull them out and become entangled in them.

A slightly lower death rate for suffocation was reported for the northeastern and western sections of the country and an equally high one for white babies of the Southeast. Negro babies of the Southeast shows the need, in the opinion of the medical committee, of a special watchfulness on the part of everybody who is responsible for the care of babies.

MAYOR DONATES PLAYGROUND LOT

Fairmont—Because of his fondness for the name "Lincoln", his own name being William Lincoln Nicholas and his son's, Charles Lincoln Nicholas, the mayor of Fairmont has purchased four lots and donated them to the city as an addition to Lincoln park. The land will be used as a children's playground, helping to keep them off the street and out of dangerous traffic.

cent, and if more than 12.5 per cent of his payroll for the preceding year, his rate is nine-tenths of 1 per cent, subject to the solvency of the fund.

Under the guaranteed employment provision, the bill similarly provides that an employer whose excess of contributions over benefits exceeds 7.5 per cent of his annual payroll and who guarantees employment to all his employes for at least 40 30-hour weeks a year and deposits securities with the state industrial commission may have his contribution reduced to one-half of 1 per cent.

The department of administration and finance (Big Three) is given authority to classify the employes under the state industrial commission, which is empowered to administer the law.

Benefits for employes of concerns employing eight or more begins in 1938, while those employers of firms with less than eight begin in 1939.

SNAKE ENJOYS MILD WEATHER

Red Wing—When a garden snake is discovered crawling through foot high snow banks in December with the mercury registering above the freezing mark—what does it mean? For Tommy Christianson, who reported the incident, it verifies predictions that the winter will be mild. Crossing the Vermillion river bottomland, Tommy saw the snake wiggling across the snow-packed road. Mild temperatures, he believes, lured the reptile from its hibernating den.

MONKEY IS CHORE BOY'S ASSISTANT

Isle—A pet monkey on the Clarence Cederstrom farm in Opstead is rapidly learning to assist with chores. His help is such that when the chore boy comes there are no cows left to milk. The little creature, housed in a cage in the barn, has been alertly watching his master do the chores. One day he escaped from his cage, pulled the locking-pin out of two stanchions, released the cows and then opened the barn door and let them out. Empty stanchions greeted the chore boy.

MINNESOTA DEBT INCREASES 39 PCT. IN 5-YEAR PERIOD

Principal and Interest Payments Are Now Double 1932 Total

Making public new sections of the report covering its two-year study of Minnesota finances, the Interim Tax Commission today disclosed that outstanding debt of Minnesota has increased 39% in the last five years to a staggering total of $123,808,288 and that expenditures of the state to carry its debt have almost doubled since 1932.

The commission's report revealed that a total of $11,680,300 was required during the last fiscal year ending June 30 to meet principal and interest payments on the state's debt, or 91% more than the amount in 1932, and that the annual cost will run up as high as $17,332,500 before it begins to decline.

The interim commission, headed by Senator Fred J. Miller of Little Falls, is releasing its report by sections as approved by the commission, so that citizens of the state may have a chance to familiarize themselves with the tax situation before the legislature begins its consideration of this problem.

The commission pointed out that the state must take up the serious business of solving its tax problem at a time when it is burdened by the heaviest debt in its history. The total has increased from $88,909,190 on June 30, 1931, to $123,808,288 on July 1, 1936, and this does not include unfunded obligations. Of the big debt hanging over Minnesota citizens, approximately half represents debt of the rural credit bureau, and about one-third is highway bonds. Bonds or certificates of indebtedness issued for various relief purposes constitute a big slice of the remainder, but many certificates issued for building needs also are outstanding.

The commission recommended that the state pay for relief needs out of current funds instead of borrowing as it has been doing and suggested that it revert also to its former policy of making capital improvements on a "pay-as-you-go basis."

The report showed that state expenditures for the 1936 fiscal year from current revenue were $69,996,000, excluding expenditures from borrowed funds and rural credit loan receipts. Funds distributed for school aid increased 32.5% between 1932 and 1936, the report disclosed, while expenditures for highway maintenance went up 28%. Expenditures for welfare purposes increased 22% in the five years, but the commission warned that with the old assistance program now in full operation welfare costs of the state soon will be double that of 1932.

The Pauper's Oath

The pauper's oath is one which is permitted to persons undergoing bankruptcy and in some other cases, whereby on the giving of a statement supported by oath that the person is without any available assets, either personally owned or in expectation, he may be released from the payment of certain obligations and permitted to re-establish himself on a solid financial foundation free from debt.

Former Pennington County Resident Dies in California Dec. 23

Swan G. Johnson of Turlock, Calif., formerly a resident of St. Hilaire, died at Turlock Wednesday, December 23, at the age of seventy-seven years and eight months.

Mr. Johnson was born in Smaaland, Sweden, April 12, 1859. In 1869 he emigrated from Sweden to LaPorte, Indiana, where he made his home until 1885, at which time he moved to Kittson county. On March 1, 1889 he was married at Kennedy to Hulda Udd, and nine years later, in 1898, they moved to St. Hilaire. They resided at St. Hilaire until 1927 when they moved to Turlock where Mr. Johnson spent the rest of his life.

He is survived by his wife, his three daughters, Mrs. Henry Brooten of Mayville, N. D., Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom of St. Hilaire, Mrs. Thomas Helland of Washington, D. C., his eight sons, Elmer, Harvey, George and Lloyd, all of St. Hilaire; and Philip, Theodore, Oliver, Arthur, all of Turlock, Calif. Eight grandchildren are also among the surviving relatives. One daughter and two sons preceded him in death.

The body was brought to this city where funeral rites were conducted at the Erickson and Lund chapel Wednesday afternoon, December 30, Rev. Herman Larson of St. Hilaire officiating. Interment was made in the St. Hilaire community cemetery.

Statue of Martin Luther

A statue of Martin Luther stands in front of Luther Memorial church at Thomas Circle, in Washington. It is in bronze, cast by Reitschel, and is a copy of the original in Worms, Germany. It was erected in Washington in 1884, in commemoration of the birth of Luther. The cost, including pedestal, was $10,000, and a memorial association was created to care for it.

FARMERS RECOVER BAD CHECK MONEY

Brainerd—Checks totaling $320 have been recovered for Crow Wing farmers to whom they were tendered for payment of stock purchased in the southern part of the county. The checks were issued to the farmers by a Minneapolis man who was buying stock and farm products, paying for the products with checks which came back from the bank with the notations that no funds were there to cover them. After threats of prosecution were made, the money was recovered by the county attorney.

Unemployment Insurance Act Gets Federal O. K.

Formal approval of the Minnesota unemployment insurance act was granted Tuesday by the federal social security board in Washington.

The approval permits Minnesota employers to deduct from their federal tax payments contributions made into the state fund created by the act passed at last week's special session of the legislature.

Minnesota officials now hope to obtain a treasury order extending the collection date of unemployment insurance taxes from January 31 to March 31, since collection of state taxes would be difficult before the latter date.

The Minnesota delegation also sought to obtain a federal grant for $22,225 administrative expenses. The state act affects 325,000 employees.

Talk by C. D. Gustafson Reproduced in Magazine

A paper read by C. D. Gustafson at the recent annual meeting in Minneapolis of the Minnesota Automobile Dealers association was re-produced in the December issue of the official publication of the National Automobile Dealers association. At the Minneapolis meeting Mr. Gustafson was elected a director of the state organization.

Valley Potato Growers Will Exhibit Products at Winter Shows in Feb.

Potato growers and horticulturists will have their innings during the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows February 8-12, 1937. Exhibits of potatoes and onions will be on display throughout the week, and one day, Thursday, February 11, has been designated Horticultural Day.

This program will include a potato cleaning demonstration by Professor R. C. Rose, plant pathologist; and A. G. Tolaas, state seed potato inspector; an address on "Fruits for the Red River Valley" by Professor W. H. Alderman, chief of the Horticultural Department, University Farm, St. Paul; and the presentation of awards by the Red River Valley Development Association to winners of the windbreak planting project.

According to Professor T. M. McCall, Northwest Experiment Station horticulturist, Minnesota potatoes are equal to potatoes grown in other parts of the United States, from the standpoint of quality, but are often forced to sell at a discount due to appearance. The cleaning of potatoes consequently appears to be highly desirable. Red River Valley potato growers are particularly concerned due to the heavy soil common to this area.

BUYS BACK OLD HORSE AT SALE

Frazee—Because he feared that an old brown horse which he formerly owned, would fall into hands of strangers, Tim Wellman bought it back recently at an auction. For many years the horse was one of a team which he employed on his rural mail route, but "time marches on" and eventually the horses were replaced by the more modern and speedy vehicles of transportation. The trusty team was sold but never completely forgotten. When "Flossie", one of the horses, was again put on the auction block, Mr. Wellman, although he has absolutely no use now for her, bought her again instead of having her fall into the hands of strangers who might abuse or overwork her in her old age. The spotted pony which was "Flossie's" team-mate died last summer, or he would probably have purchased it too.

Son of Elroy Johnsons Dies Christmas Day

Ronald Elroy Johnson, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy R. Johnson of St. Hilaire, died at his home at one-thirty o'clock in the afternoon of Christmas Day. He was nineteen months old at the time of his death.

Ronald was born June 4, 1935, at Crookston, and spent his entire life at St. Hilaire. He is survived by his parents and his grandparents, J. H. Johnson of Audubon, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlson of Angus.

Funeral rites were conducted in the Lutheran church of Brandt township Monday, December 28, at two o'clock. Reverend Brenestad of Warren officiated. Interment was made in the Lutheran church cemetery.

St. Cloud—The old saying, "every cloud has a silver lining" applied itself in the case of an enterprising local youth who ignored the taxation cloud involved in the social security act and sought out the silver lining. Entering a book store to purchase a bottle of "tattooing ink", he said, "We're all just a number now and it's going to be mighty hard to hang onto that little number card for as long as 40 or 50 years, so why not have it tattooed upon us and evade any possible future argument." The young man plans to tatoo social security numbers of people, and although unfamiliar with the methods he is feeling his way about and intends to set up with the proper equipment as soon as possible. He has confidence of cashing in on Uncle Sam's recently effective piece of legislation.

Attendance of 400 Is Anticipated; Term to Close Late in March

The winter term of the Northwest School will open for registration Monday, January 4, and close the last week in March. This has been found to be the most satisfactory time for farm boys and girls to be in school, for they are thus available for spring work at home throughout the crop growing season.

Last fall, 384 boys and girls from fifteen Valley counties were in attendance. As a number of new students will enroll for the Winter term, the attendance for the year is expected to pass 400 for the first time in the history of the school.

Students are urged to take cultural, as well as vocational subjects, to insure a well-balanced course. Hence, emphasis is placed upon English and public speaking, debate, dramatics and music. According to Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the Northwest School, culture and agriculture should go hand in hand. The farm people are and should be just as much interested in good literature and good music as people engaged in other professions.

Registrar J. W. Mlinar has arranged special classes in agriculture and home economics for students who plan on entering for the first time at the beginning of the winter term.

HAT ROLLS MILES, RETURNED BY AD

Mound—Rolling the distance from one town to the next, from Mound to Seton, did not prevent a woman's $12.00 hat from being found through a 25 cent want ad. When Old Man North Wind whipped a woman's hat from her head and carried it far beyond her reach, she thought it was gone forever. But, reckoning with her resourceful husband, he turned his steps to the office of the Mound Pilot and inserted an advertisement for the return of the hat. A Seton man appeared a few days later with it and carried away a shiny dollar as his reward.

Poultry Problems to be Topic at Northwest Winter Shows Feb. 9

A round-table discussion of timely poultry problems will be held each day during Winter Shows week, with A. M. Pilkey, Northwest School and station poultryman, in charge. Tuesday afternoon, February 9, will be devoted to poultry housing; Wednesday afternoon, poultry feeding; Thursday poultry health, and Friday, turkey day. According to Professor Pilkey, a comfortable well-ventilated house, free from moisture, is essential for profitable winter egg production. Depression and drouth have played havoc with farm buildings, and the poultry house has been no exception. The time has come when many farmers must give early attention, not only to the poultry house but other poultry equipment such as feed hoppers and water containers. Plans and specifications for rebuilding or improving poultry houses, together with plans for poultry nests, feed hoppers, and water stands, may be obtained through the local county agent or by writing the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston.

GIANT MOSQUITOES IN NATIONAL FOREST

Two Harbors—Mosquitoes in the Superior National forest are not only of a giant variety but also live in snowbanks. Ripley himself would not have believed his eyes when Fred Gowan, a CCC foreman, brought a mosquito into camp recently. He explained that no one has believed his story, but he has the camp superintendent, a forest inspector and two other foremen to testify in his behalf. He finally admitted that he did not have to hit the insect with an axe, but insisted that it was crawling along on the snow. As final proof, the mosquito was produced, pressed between the pages of a field note book.

HAULS WRONG HAY STACK BY MISTAKE

Wadena—"I didn't steal the hay, I merely hauled away the wrong stack and I'm darn sorry", said a Wadena county farmer who walked into the sheriff's office to "give himself up". He brought with him the newspaper which contained an item stating that the sheriff was looking for some one who took Frank Kliegel's hay. The hay stack has been returned and all is forgiven.

"U" HEAD MAKES BIENNIAL REPORT TO THE REGENTS

Declares Youth Problem Is Still Unsolved; Warns of Exploitation

Present day youth has been seeking education in steadily growing numbers during the past two years but with 5,200,000 young men and women still out of school and unemployed, no satisfactory solution of the "youth problem" has yet been reached, President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota declared, in his biennial report to the Board of Regents.

"Two years ago in my report I called special attention to the number of young people who were out of work and out of school, and I undertook to analyze the importance of extending and expanding the school system of the country to meet the needs of thousands of young people who are seeking an education or who desire employment," said Dr. Coffman.

"I regret that I cannot report that a satisfactory solution of these problems has been found during the last two years," he continued. "Some progress has been made. There is a remarkable increase in the registration in the high schools, evening schools, and in the colleges and universities of this country, and a smaller number of youth are unemployed than a few years ago."

Citing general figures, the University president asserted that in the United States today there are 20,100,000 young people between the ages of 15 and 24, inclusive. Of these 4,000,000 are now in schools or colleges, 500,000 are in school on a part-time basis, and 7,600,000 are employed on other than work-relief jobs. Of the total, 2,800,000 are married women who are not otherwise employed or attending school, thus leaving 5,200,000 young men and women unemployed and not in school.

Dr. Coffman pointed out that there are various groups, including the American Youth Commission, the Educational Policies Commission which was created by the National Education Association and the Department of Superintendence; and the American Youth Council, which are making serious attempts to study the problems which arise from conditions underlying the figures he cited.

Dr. Coffman proposed, as a part of a new educational technique, joint student-faculty committees to study major social problems. He suggested that at least once in every generation of students, that conference be held at which world leaders and scholars be invited to discuss such problems as the causes of war, for example, and analyze suggested remedies in order that future citizens have a better understanding of these phenomena.

Our NEW YEAR Message

We Dedicate Ourselves to Service!

Business is sensitive, it goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated.

If our service has been good it is going to be still better. This business is never satisfied with good enough, when it can give something still better. Service may mean the way our employees greet you—it may mean the promptness with which we serve and oblige—the attention we give your every want—the courtesy with which we comply with your every wish. It may be the finding of something here which cannot be obtained elsewhere—it may involve the many little business courtesies due you as a valued patron, such as a respectful "Yes Ma'am" or "Yes Sir" and "I Thank You."

Service may mean the spirit with which we answer the telephone or the promptness with which we respond to a customer's request, or the smile with which we greet him and the satisfactory way we have of answering every question. It may mean sterling reliability, quality at reasonable prices.

Service in fact, may mean many things—but to us service must mean everything.

We shall try to make this business the sort of a place you have wanted one to be—the kind that is most talked about, pointed out on the street, looked up to, recommended by one and all because of our strict adherence to carefully planned policies.

We want to thank you most heartily for your patronage and extend you Greetings and Best Wishes for Great Happiness and Prosperity for the Coming Year.

ROSEAU MEETS LOCAL HOCKEY TEAM SUNDAY

Thieves Play Grand Forks This Evening; Game to be Broadcast

Determined to avenge defeats suffered in the first two games of the season, the Thief River Falls entry in the States-Dominion hockey league is today in improved condition for its contest with the University of North Dakota aggregation at Grand Forks this evening, and next Sunday afternoon's game with the Roseau Cloverleafs in the local arena at 3 o'clock. The game this evening will be broadcast over Radio Station KFJM, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Roseau next Sunday is expected to display a classy brand of hockey, having recently added to its lineup a player-coach from St. Paul. In previous games the team has won from the University of North Dakota, tied the Grand Forks Cavaliers and lost to Emerson and Hallock.

A crowd of 500 persons packed their way into the arena Sunday to witness the opening local contest, in which the Cavaliers scored a 3 to 2 victory over the Thieves. The defeat of the local sextet was attributed to over-anxiousness on the part of the players and to the fact that the first line, consisting of Clayton Taylor, Harold Stanbridge and Reuben Julien, had not been together long enough to perfect their passing attack.

Rube Julien scored in the second period on a pass from Foy, and Stanbridge tallied in the third on a solo from near the blue line. Johnnie and Adam Faust and Kuecher scored for the Cavaliers. The local lineup included Napoli goalie; DePaul, Foy and Hellquist, defense; and Taylor, Stanbridge, R. Julien, Parbst, Snooks Julien, Eerling and Williams, forwards. Robert Bell of Roseau, Earl Effinger and A. M. Senstad served as referees.

At an unscheduled feature of the game, Mike Foy, Thieves defense man, and Pupur of the Cavaliers at one point threw discretion to the winds and resorted to fisticuffs to settle an argument that arose in the course of the game. Fans made allowances for the spectacle, pointing out that an occasional fight in a hockey game is not to be taken too seriously.

In their first game of the season played at Emerson last Wednesday evening, the Thieves showed up better than had been anticipated against their formidable rivals, losing by a count of 7 to 4. The locals played their opponents on about even terms until the third period when the Canadians, putting on a strong offensive, scored three goals to put the game on ice.

Walt DePaul, playing a spectacular game for the Thieves, soloed thru the Emerson team to score three times, while Helquist scored on an assist from Harold Stanbridge, newly acquired center man. Emerson presents a brilliant aggregation composed entirely of Canadian players, several of whom are drafted from the Big Four in Winnipeg, which is the last word in amateur hockey. The Emerson team will appear here later in the season.

J. GULLINGSRUD LISTS TAX RATES FOR COMING YEAR

School District Rates Are Mostly Down, Treasurer's Report Shows

Published elsewhere in this issue of the Times is a table prepared by County Treasurer John Gullingsrud giving the 1936 tax rate for all county subdivisions as well as the county and state rates, making it possible for taxpayers in all parts of the county to determine the rates on which their taxes payable in 1937 will be computed.

The compilation reveals substantially lower rates, compared to 1935 in 69 school districts and higher rates in fifteen others; while nine townships have lower rates and twelve show an increase. Biggest reductions are shown in the Goodridge school district, No. 8, where the rate is down more than two-thirds; and in the St. Hilaire district, No. 102, where it is down more than half.

The rate for School District 18, embracing the city of Thief River Falls, also shows a reduction, particularly on agricultural lands, while the rate necessary to raise needed funds for city purposes is 31.11 mills, compared to 28.85 a year ago.

BENSON GIVES PROGRAM TO LEGISLATURE

ASKS STATE LIQUOR DISPENSARY SYSTEM

Would Increase Tax Exemptions on Homesteads and Farms

Gov. Elmer A. Benson, Minnesota's third farmer-labor chief executive, laid before the state legislature an extensive program of social and economic reforms coupled with a recommendation for a constitutional amendment curtailing the powers of the United States supreme court, in his inaugural address in the State Capitol Tuesday.

In emphatic language appealing for enactment of liberal legislation "to lift the economic standard of farmers and workers," the 42-year-old Farmer-Labor governor, who took the oath of office Monday, advocated drastic tax increases on iron ore mining and urged that all state public welfare agencies be centered in a new Department of Public Welfare.

Governor Benson's 10,000-word message, heard by a joint session of the legislature that embraces a liberal-dominated house of representatives and conservative-controlled upper branch, carried recommendations that affect merchants, the laboring man and farmers, youth, education, electric power companies, conservation projects, and co-operative concerns. He also urged erection of a memorial to the late Governor Floyd B. Olson.

The new chief executive scored private industry for its inability to supply "even our most elemental social and economic needs," and tossed several biting remarks at "the railroad owners," the "big financiers" and the "public utilities" for rushing to and receiving financial aid from the government in contrast to the futile appeals of the farmer for a guarantee of cost of production prices.

"Government is no longer a mere huge policeman, protector of the rights of private property," Governor Benson declared. "It is now the great guarantor of social

This question was asked of Mayor W. W. Prichard in a letter received from A. A. Davidson of Renville, state investigator, who writes that the state plans to erect a monument on the site in Renville county where all other members of her parental family were killed in an Indian massacre, and she was left for dead, but survived after being twelve days without food. Anyone knowing members of the John Meyers family is asked to communicate with Mayor Prichard.

The Times takes pleasure in presenting herewith "The business and financial outlook for 1937" by Roger W. Babson of Babson Park, Massachusetts, widely known economist and forecaster, who predicts a return of prosperity this year.

Babson Park, Mass., I predict that 1937 will be our first year of real prosperity since 1929. It will be a year of genuine business expansion, considerable real estate activity, constant labor troubles, shortages of skilled workers, rising prices and living costs, and brisk retail trade.

Nearly every line will enjoy good gains in both volume and profits with the heavy industries showing the greatest percentage improvement. Tuck this forecast away for a check-up next December and I predict that you will find general business around 8 percent above today's figures and not far from the 1929 peaks!

Business at Normal

A year ago at this time my forecast was: "By next Christmas general business, as measured by the Babsonchart, should be hugging the 'X-Y' Normal Line and heading into another period of exactly where business is today. We are right square on normal!

For the first time in fourteen years, we are crossing the "X-Y" Normal Line on the way into a new prosperity era. A moment's retrospect shows the tremendous distance that we have covered since we touched bottom in March, 1933. The total gain in business has been 78 per cent! Nearly a third of this rise has come during 1936 alone.

1936 Remarkable Year

The year just closed has been a remarkable one in many ways. While it is generally believed that elections do not change the basic course of business, most analysts concede that they are temporarily upsetting. The tide of recovery was running so strong in 1936, however, that it swept over every obstacle and washed out the old year in a burst of glory.

There are scarcely any figures on record that can match 1936's steady gains in jobs, payrolls, industrial activity, profits and dividends. Topping off the year was a real post-election boom. Wave after wave of wage boosts and bonuses and dividend increases and extras lifted Christmas trade back to old-time levels.

Eight Per Cent Gain for 1937

The momentum picked up by this surge of buying will carry into the New Year. Business in 1936 was good. Business in 1937 will be better. My estimate is for a 10 per cent gain in the first six months over the initial half of 1936. It is harder to make a definite prediction for the second half, but I think a 5 per cent gain over the closing months of the old year is within reason.

This would put my Babsonchart Index about 8 per cent above normal by the Fourth of July and approaching 10 per cent over normal by next Christmas. The entire

Crowding the 700,000 pound mark, the Thief River Falls cooperative creamery in 1936 established an all-time high mark by producing a total of 696,917 pounds of butter during the year, it was announced today by O. S. Bergland, manager of the thriving institution.

The year's output compares with a production of 481,807 pounds in 1935, and reveals the impressive gain for the past year of no less than 215,110 pounds, testifying to the increasing number of patrons delivering cream to the local plant.

A substantial gain was registered also in the amount of butter sold locally in 1936, the total for the year being 111,372 pounds, compared to approximately 100,000 pounds in 1935.

A detailed report on the past year's operations will be submitted at the annual meeting of stockholders of the creamery, scheduled to be held February 15.

Nice things are being said around town about the effective work the city's new snow plow is doing in clearing the streets of the residence district. We don't know whether it's the plow or the fellows who operate it who deserve the credit but we'll take a chance and offer a round of cheers to the men who run the thing.

Folks who do not like thrills should not attend hockey games. Those who do like thrills, however, will get a bang out of this fastest of all games. Roseau plays here Sunday afternoon. The first seven hundred spectators to arrive at the arena will get comfortable seats to stand on and razz the officials.

People of the Grygla community have never been really satisfied with the way our county has maintained their road from Goodridge north to the county line. They therefore should be pleased with the arrangement entered into by Pennington and Marshall counties whereby Marshall county will maintain the road from Goodridge north and Pennington county will maintain a stretch of Marshall county road north of Mavie. This is a sensible arrangement and should prove advantageous to both counties.

WE'RE OVER A BARREL

In a concise but thorough report to the Governor, Commissioner of Highways N. W. Elsberg has set forth the needs of the highway department for the coming biennium. In this report he properly calls attention to the fact that if the state is to properly maintain the present enlarged trunk highway system and take advantage of the various federal aids that will be available for new construction, additional funds will have to be provided. He points out that while money to match federal aid can be obtained by borrowing, as it has been during the past two years, he recommends a pay-as-you-go plan with necessary revenue secured through increases in fuel and license taxes. If this needed additional revenue is not provided the state will lose much of the ten million dollar federal aid available during the next two years.

Much could be said in criticism of a system of taxation that enables the federal government to tax us for road purposes and then forces us to pay more taxes in order to participate in the distribution of the revenue we have already provided. Such a system in effect denies us the right to determine for ourselves what our taxes should be.

But this is a situation for which Mr. Elsberg is not responsible. The only thing he can do, as he has done, is to point out to us what we must do if we wish to get our money back from the federal government. And his reasoning is sound when he recommends a pay-as-you-go plan. Minnesota is out of the mud. There is no emergency that justifies a road building program on the borrow-and-spend basis. The state has already had too much of that kind of financing.

Minnesota certainly cannot afford to pass up the ten million dollars of federal aid. And Minnesota certainly should not go further into debt. The only alternative, therefore, is to increase the revenue of our highway department through increased gasoline and auto license taxes. Governor Olson recommended this course two years ago but the legislature voted to pile up another eight million dollars of debt. Let's quit kidding ourselves with borrowed money, face the facts, and pay as we go. The federal government has us over a barrel but that is a condition we have asked for and now that we've got it we'll have to like it for many years to come.

SPEND, SPEND, SPEND

In his inaugural message, delivered to the legislature Tuesday, Governor Benson made one statement that should be carved into the desk top of each senator and representative. He said, "...expenditures must be regarded as current expenditures and must be met by current revenues. It would be unfair to meet them through bond issues or increasing the state's indebtedness." If the legislature will guide its actions strictly by that order then the taxpayers of the state will have little reason to worry about the results of the present session.

But if that injunction is ignored, and the legislature makes a serious attempt to put into effect even a part of the expensive program, outlined by the Governor, with borrowed money, then the state of Minnesota is in a bad way. The obvious reason for this distinction between cash and credit is that as long as we operate on a cash basis we will know what we can afford and what we cannot afford, and as soon as we discover we cannot afford a certain experiment we can discontinue it. But when the state experiments with borrowed money, the high cost of visionary schemes is not felt until we start paying the bills and find, too late, that we are obligated beyond our means.

Aside from this one bit of good advice, the message can be regarded largely as the trumpeting of a politician rather than the counsel of a statesman. It might be more properly classified as the first speech of the 1938 political campaign than as the recommendations of a chief executive who is called upon to guide the destinies of his state through an already difficult financial situation.

In the interests of economy the message contained no appeal. Spend, spend, spend, was the one big idea that received most emphasis. The following quotations, picked out at random, are typical:

"You should be liberal with appropriations."

"The issue of economy should not be raised as a bar."

"I urge the passage of a bill, together with such appropriations as may be needed...."

"The little that the state may expend will be money well spent."

"These...recommendations will, of course, require more money."

"I recommend that a...board be created and supplied with sufficient funds."

"The new obligations which government must assume require additional expenditures."

"How can we expect private industry to pay decent wages when the state itself does not do so."

Saturated with arguments of this type for increased spending, the document contains not one single suggestion as to ways and means of promoting economy and efficiency in the interests of the taxpayer.

The one encouraging thought, from the standpoint of the taxpayer, is the possibility that the legislature may take the Governor's good advice against further borrowing. It is easier, at any rate, to get relief from a tax burden that is levied for current expenses than it is to get out from under a load of debt. Spending will not be nearly as popular when the people finally discover that the money being spent is their own money, and most of it, no matter in what form it has been collected, as President Roosevelt has pointed out, coming eventually from the pockets of those who labor.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Approximately 1000 liquor establishments in the state of Maine lost their liquor licenses on December 1, as a result of the many town and county local option victories chalked up in that state on September 14, according to latest figures just compiled by Mrs. Althea G. Quimby, president of the W. C. T. U. in Maine.

More than one-half of the territory in the state of Maine will be dry as the result of the statewide vote, it is estimated.

Voters in the Maine election had a three-way option on their ballots, for state stores, for sale of liquor in taverns, and for the sale of beer. The [illegible] voted dry [illegible] of these options.

"The vote [illegible] bring state-wide prohibition," said Mrs. Quimby, in summing up the dry victories, "but we are most grateful for the results of this first battle of the ballots."

PUBLIC OPINION

THE "GOLD STANDARD"
A Delusion, a Snare,—a Lie

Editor Times:

A bill of so-called "paper money" may be a circulating medium of exchange without the legal tender flat, but it is not money. A gold or silver coin is a medium of exchange, but it is not money unless so designated by law.

Judge Tiffany's "Constitutional Law" says: "There is legally no such thing as gold or silver money or paper money. Money is the sovereign authority impressed on that which is capable of taking and retaining the impression."

In speaking of the Legal Tender Act, United States Attorney General said: "We repeat money is not a substance, but an impression of legal authority, a printed legal decree", (12 Wallace's U. S. Supreme Court Reports, page 519) and the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the Legal Tender Act.

Who then were interested in saddling the redemption feature to our paper money and having the Government promise to "redeem" Legal Tender paper and silver "money" in gold? Why, of course, the big, international bankers, so as to control prices and indirectly industry and trade.

It naturally follows that there exists no money to settle balances in foreign commerce with and never did it exist. Such balances are either settled with bullion or "exchange" based on market values of the different currencies. Of course coined metal may be used in place of bullion, but then its weight and fineness determines its value, same as bullion, not its legal tender value in the country coining it. Or these balances may be deferred, and thus become "credits". This talk of the necessity of gold standard for foreign trade is nothing but sheer propaganda to fool the people to enslave themselves with redeemable money. A legal tender bill "redeems" itself each and every time it is used in trade, as any one can understand if he stops to think.

Money as a medium of exchange is the basic requirement of trade, and also trade is a basic requirement for civilization as we know it. Any political party which ignores the money question in its platform is either extremely ignorant of political economy, or else its leaders are corrupted by these international bankers, who are willing to use any and all means to keep the common people ignorant and careless, so as to keep the "Status Quo" intact, and thus keep control of our economic destiny.

Gov. William Langer began his second day as North Dakota's new chief executive with more than 30 state employes discharged in the wake of a rapid-fire political housecleaning.

At the same time the man who won the gubernatorial chair as an independent prepared to answer notice of a suit served by Walter Welford, his Republican predecessor, charging Langer with violation of the corrupt practices act.

With five major department heads, carryovers from the Welford regime, already ousted, Governor Langer turned his attention to a [illegible] W. J. Flannigan, highway commissioner, who filed charges of neglect of duty and malfeasance.

Miss Gladys Rud resigned her position at the Linn Cafe and went to Thief River Falls where she has accepted another. Miss Alice Fladeland returned to Duluth to assume her nursing duties after spending the holidays visiting friends and relatives here. Johnson drove to Warren Monday to be in attendance at his official duties. This community was blessed with a fine snow storm Monday but a let down came along toward evening. Einar Johnson, foreman at the local school project and Mrs. Johnson spent part of the holidays visiting in the Malung vicinity.

Another overflow crowd was in attendance at the local hall on New Years eve when the North Star farmers club entertained with another of their enjoyable evenings. Many good songs and instrumental music and plays displayed much talent. Much credit is due the officers and members of the various committees for the entertainment displayed by this club. The large crowd again gave further evidence that the enlargement of the hall was needed and that even more room is needed. The hall association advises that since the enlargement the receipts have been such that there only remain a few more dollars to pay when they will be out of the red. Just as soon as this is accomplished they intend to further enlarge, take out what is now the stage, and build on the east end for this purpose. Then this community would have a gathering place for most any festivity. The directors of the Hall association are to be complimented for their progress.

Advocating a state liquor dispensary system, Governor Benson said: "No one who has been following the daily press can escape the conclusion that conditions now are worse than they were under the old system when we had the saloon. It is quite obvious that the liquor traffic in private hands cannot be controlled. The state is interested in the question primarily as a matter of temperance and social control. The matter of revenue is of secondary importance. Publicly-owned liquor stores offer the most effective method of meeting the problem."

Other major recommendations of Governor Benson were:

Increase in the income tax in the higher brackets.

Increase in monies and credits tax.

Increase in tax on utility company franchises.

Increase in taxes on public utilities, including railroads, telephone companies, express companies and the like.

Increase in estate gifts and inheritance taxes, and increase in taxes of insurance companies.

Increase in the occupational tax to eight per cent on 50 per cent of the gross valuation of all iron ore mined; also revaluation of all iron ore properties for ad valorem tax purposes.

Meeting of increased expenditures by current revenues instead of through bond issues, or through increasing the state's indebtedness.

That the chain store law be made more drastic and revised in the light of recent court decisions.

Establishment of an expanded college aid program and means to assist in the general program of youth planning.

Exemption of [illegible] and farms operated by owners from the state levy for at least the first $4,000 of assessed valuation, tax chain farm operators.

Evangelist Discusses Work of Martin Luther

"Dauntless did Luther defend the gospel from the attacks which came from every quarter. The Word of God proved itself a weapon mighty in every conflict. With that Word he warred against the usurped power of the head of the great apostasy, and the rationalistic philosophy of the schoolmen, while he stood firm as a rock against the fanaticism that sought to ally itself with the Reformation", declared Evangelist [illegible] in his lecture on "The Great Reformation of the Sixteenth Century", at the old Methodist Church Sunday night. A most interesting Back to the Bible lecture program for next week is announced in this paper.

Pennington Girls Fail to Take Full Advantage of Chance in Leap Year

That Pennington county young ladies failed to take full advantage of the opportunity offered by Leap Year in 1936 is revealed in the announcement by Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund that only 94 marriage license applications were filed during the year, compared to 112 in 1935. The number filed last year, however, is in excess of the 82 filed in 1934, 91 in 1933 and 80 in 1932. June, as usual, proved to be the most popular month for marriages, 17 licenses having been issued in that month, followed by 15 in August. The low mark for the year was reached in February when only two licenses were issued.

INTERIM TAX BODY REPORTS ON STATE TAX DELINQUENCY

Tax delinquency threatens the extinction of local government in many northern Minnesota counties and is one of the most important questions the state must face in tackling the tax problem, the interim commission on taxes said Saturday in another chapter of its report to the legislature.

Total unpaid property taxes amount to $92,287,000, of which a major part will never be collected, the commission said. Much of it represents land which the state will acquire in the next two years.

Criticizing the practice of bargain settlements, the commission, which is headed by Senator Fred J. Miller of Little Falls, recommends that the legislature "abandon the practice of granting tax bargain settlements". No longer, says this group, should privileges be granted whereby "old unpaid taxes can be settled for a fraction of their original price, without penalty and interest: "Leniency which enables a property owner to escape payment undermines the stability of government itself."

But, the report says: "Until nonproductive lands are taken from the tax rolls or assessed on the basis of what they can pay, until over-lapping units of government are abolished or consolidated, until costly but isolated roads abandoned, until these and other far-reaching changes are made in many of these northern distress counties, delinquency will continue to flourish."

On a per capita basis, the burden on property by the state tax levy is the second highest among 25 states using this form of taxation and "the conclusion is justified that general property in Minnesota carries a heavier aggregate burden than property in neighboring states," the report said.

Reasons for delinquency are given as: Excessive tax burden, depression conditions which reduced individual income, the tendency to abandon unprofitable land holdings, anticipation of bargain tax sale laws, inadequate laws with reference to enforcement of tax liens, and special assessments.

MARSHALL COUNTY SELLS $255,000 IN BONDS AT 3 PER CT.

Six Twin City Investment Houses Buy Refunding Bond Issue

Six Twin City financial houses were successful bidders in Marshall county's advertised sale of $255,000 worth of refunding bonds held at a special meeting of the county board of commissioners in Warren last Wednesday, Levi G. Johnson, county auditor, announced.

The new bond issue will effect a big saving for county taxpayers, the issue bearing three per cent interest in comparison with 4½ per cent interest on the present issues which will be called on February 1, 1937. The bonds to be refunded are the funding and refunding bonds issued on August 1, 1932.

First payment of the new issue will be made in 1937 and will amount to $20,500 with similar payments scheduled annually through 1951, a period of 15 years. The county will set up a special sinking fund for bonds to retire the issue each year, the board resolution stated.

The successful bidders in the joint bid for the issue include the following concerns: Wells-Dickey Co., Minneapolis; Kalman and Co., St. Paul; First National Bank and Trust Co., Minneapolis; Allison-Williams Co., Minneapolis; First National Bank, St. Paul and Bigelow and Webb, Minneapolis.

FOX HUNTING IS TRADE FOR 3 MEN AND 2 DOGS

Breckenridge — The rich hunt the fox for pleasure, but Louis and Ervin Leshowsky and Clarence Benson hunt the animals for profit. The men own a truck which has a kennel on the rear in which are kept four grey hounds. These dogs are so fast that they can out-run any fox or wolf. The other day these men were in Breckenridge and on the front bumper were a red fox and a coyote. The men spotted the coyote near Brushvale, five miles north of Breckenridge, and the dogs were unable to overtake the animal until they were near Galchut, across the river in North Dakota and nine miles away. The men have bagged 40 foxes so far this year, getting most of them in Richland and Cass counties.

Greenbush Men Bound Over as Result of Auto Deaths December 13th

Matt Barto, 23-year-old Greenbush, Minn., man was held to district court in Grand Forks Thursday on a charge of first degree manslaughter, arising from the automobile collision near Manvel December 13, in which Prof. W. C. Stockfeld of the University and three children of Dr. J. L. Sayre were killed.

Bonds were fixed at $1,500 by Justice of the Peace Phil McLoughlin after the preliminary examination, and Barto was released on cash bail.

E. Allen of Grand Forks, who passed Barto and his companion, Clarence Stauffeneker of Greenbush, shortly before the accident, testified that the Barto car was traveling at about 50 miles an hour. Adolf Karlstad and Sheriff J. M. Lund of Grand Forks testified as to the positions of the two cars following the accident.

Barto was represented by C. F. Peterson as counsel. At a previous hearing Stauffeneker was held to the district court on a similar charge.

STRUCK BY ICICLE FALLING FROM TANK

Deer River—A narrow escape that John Martin will remember for a long time occurred at Deer River last week when a large icicle dropped from a water tank and struck him as he was walking along the street. The tank was 15 or 20 feet from the sidewalk, a heavy wind taking it that distance in the air as it fell. Although stunned, Martin continued down the street, where a companion took him to a doctor's office. Three stitches were required to close the wound, which might have been fatal if the icicle had landed with the point down.

Submits Biennial Report to Governor E. A. Benson This Week

With upwards of $10,000,000 in federal aid funds as one of the benefits at stake, N. W. Elsberg, state commissioner of highways, in his biennial letter of legislative recommendations to Governor Elmer A. Benson, today placed the determination of Minnesota's future highway policy directly in the hands of the people of the state and their elected representatives.

Commissioner Elsberg's report and recommendations were particularly pertinent inasmuch as only last week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture allotted to Minnesota $5,537,023 in federal highway funds for 1937, most of which cannot be obtained, however, unless the state matches the federal money with state funds that are not now either available or in sight. A similar amount will be at stake in 1938, before another Legislature meets.

"The public and the legislature," Commissioner Elsberg's recommendations to Governor Benson stated, "must soon choose between the abandonment of a normal highway improvement program or the adoption of a schedule of motor vehicle and motor fuel taxes high enough to meet the cost of such a program."

The commissioner adhered to his statement made during December that he would make no effort to influence the legislature as to what policy it should choose. He did advise, however, that legislation be enacted which would put the highway department on a pay-as-you-go basis, so that road dollars will go for roads instead of to pay interest on bond indebtedness.

A pay-as-you-go policy, he said, only can be accomplished either by eliminating road construction or by increasing current revenues to match federal aid funds, meet state obligations on other federal funds, and provide state funds for roads on which no federal aid is available.

The report points out that the 1933 legislature added 4,500 miles of county roads to the state trunk system, increasing its mileage 65 per cent, and at the same time reduced motor vehicle licenses and left gasoline taxes unchanged. This provided no means for "financing the improvement and maintenance of the enlarged trunk system," and none has yet been provided, the report adds, at the same time setting forth that the 1935 legislature met the critical situation by authorizing further bond issues to finance matching of federal aid.

Commissioner Elsberg cited that bond charges now take "more than one-fourth of the current income of the highway department every year." He advised the governor that complete details of the financial problems of the department will be presented to the proper legislative committees, but expressed it as his belief that the "interests of the motorists and the public will be best served by making a substantial increase in current revenues for the trunk highway system."

How this can be accomplished is a matter for legislative determination, the commissioner said, abiding by his earlier assertion that the highway department will make no campaign for revenues.

Commissioner Elsberg stressed the importance of growing public demand for safer roads, separated traffic lanes, separated crossings, widening and straightening of older highways and greater sight distances on curves and hills.

Two specific measures were suggested in the interest of safety: first, adequate provision for financing and maintenance of the drivers license division and enforcement of the law that created it; and second, legislation to meet the growing traffic problem produced by increasing numbers of "house-trailers." In this regard he urged that regulations be adopted imposing minimum standards of construction, brakes, clearance lights, rear vision, and couplings.

He also cited the employment provided by road construction, urged great study and care in addition of any more routes to the trunk system in view of the present situation, and asked that authority be given the department to borrow from available state funds to avoid temporary financial embarrassment if the legislature extends the time for payment of license fees.

The report warned that refunds of gasoline taxes have spread to so many fields and reached such large sums that these laws should be strengthened to prevent abuse of the privileges originally intended. It urged further legislative study of means to tax other motor fuels coming into competition with gasoline, but not now taxable.

DRY LEAGUE HEAD CHARGES LIQUOR WITH DEATH TOLL

Must Take Major Blame for Automobile Fatalities, Says Holsaple

In a New Year's statement released at the state Dry headquarters in Minneapolis this week, Dr. R. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Minnesota, places the major blame for the most of the automobile fatalities of the past year squarely in the lap of the liquor traffic and charges traffic and safety organizations with indifference concerning the real facts in the case. The leader of the state temperance forces likens the attitude of many who profess interest in the traffic situation to the ostrich sticking its head in the sand. The statement follows:

"During the year just closed, 37,500 people were killed on our highways in traffic accidents: within 500 as many as there were Americans killed in the entire World War and an increase of 1100 over the preceding year which also marked an all-time high record of automobile fatalities up to that time. Automobile accidents as well as the number injured in such accidents has also reached a new high level. Safety councils and traffic organizations, official and non-official, all with the best of intentions have made all sorts of suggestions running from mechanical controls making it impossible for an automobile to be driven over 50 miles an hour up to permanent revocation of the driver's license and long term imprisonment for those responsible for such accidents.

A score of bills will be introduced into the forthcoming Legislature intended to relieve the situation. All these suggestions and discussions, however, ignore the one and most prolific cause of all these accidents—ALCOHOL. The large majority of fatal automobile accidents have been found to be caused not merely by drunk, but by "had been drinking" drivers. Drivers who had taken only a "few drinks", possibly only a few glasses of beer, which scientific test has shown contain sufficient alcohol to slow down nervous reaction to an extent that makes the drinker a serious traffic hazard. Why will intelligent people play the ostrich and stick their heads in the sand refusing to see the facts that are so patent to everyone?

EAT CHRISTMAS DINNER TOGETHER FOR 36 YEARS

Grand Rapids—M. A. Spang and his family enjoyed a Christmas dinner at the William Hollihan home. The announcement is not unusual in itself, but it happens to be the 36th consecutive year that it has been made in Grand Rapids. Mr. Spang was first invited to the Hollihan home several years before his marriage, and the invitation has continued each year since 1900. The occasion has become a custom of such long standing that Christmas dinner for either Spang or Hollihan would not be the same if it were not enjoyed together.

Doctor Who Gave Name to Holt Dies in Crookston

Dr. Halvor Holte, 79, pioneer physician and civic leader of Crookston, died Saturday at the Bethesda hospital, an institution self-founded, from pneumonia, after an illness of two days. Funeral services were held Wednesday in the English Lutheran church.

Born in Stavanger, Norway, July 11, 1857, Dr. Holte came to America with his parents when he was 15 years old. The family settled on a homestead in Fillmore county where Dr. Holte lived for several years. Later he worked in northwestern Minnesota, part of the time in Polk county. He became the first homesteader at Holt, Minn., which place is named for him.

Later he attended Augsburg seminary in St. Paul, St. Olaf's academy for two years, St. Olaf's college at Northfield, Minn., for two years, and the University of Minnesota, where he received his degree in medicine.

Concordia Board Rejects Plan to Move to Fargo

Concordia college will remain in Moorhead and plans to construct a new $150,000 women's dormitory will proceed, with the contract scheduled to be let about April 1. This was the announcement made by Dr. J. N. Brown, college president, who said the board of directors at their annual meeting had voted to remain on the present campus.

Earlier in the day it had been proposed by Dr. J. C. K. Preus, Minneapolis, educational director of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, to move the college of Fargo provided sufficient financial support from that city were forthcoming. Another site, consisting of 65 acres of land purchased 15 years ago and lying south of the present campus along highway No. 75, had been considered. Both of these proposals were voted down, however.

U. S. Plans Tests for Timber Scaling Jobs

Vacancies in positions as timber scalers at Cass Lake and other points in Minnesota will be filled by open competitive examinations, it was announced this week by the manager of the Eighth U. Applications for the positions, which carry a salary of $1,860 a year, must be filed in St. Paul not later than January 15. Applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 45 and must meet other requirements.

INDIAN COLONY IS PROPOSED NEAR ISLE

Isle—A proposal to purchase a section of land five miles north of Isle and establish thereon a colony of 150 Indian families was made public last week when a government man called on property owners. Most of the Indians would be moved to Isle from the Leech Lake district. The section looked at includes Twin Bays. Residents of Isle are seeking more information before they decide whether to be pleased or worried about the proximity of the Redskins.

'37 AUTO LICENSE PLATES READY TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Registrar Campbell Reminds Public of Deadline February 15

With the sale of 1937 motor vehicle plates now under way, car owners in Northwestern Minnesota are reminded to secure their 1937 auto license plates as soon as possible, by Alex Campbell, deputy registrar of motor vehicles here.

The deadline for the purchase of plates for next year will be February 15, Mr. Campbell stated, and car owners are urged to get their plates now to avoid the last-minute rush which always occurs.

Rates are still according to the system in effect last year with a $7.50 minimum for Class B passenger cars weighing more than 2,000 pounds and a $5 minimum for lighter model, Class A cars. The tax is figured on a 2.2 per cent of the list price basis. Ten per cent is taken off after the first year and 10 per cent for each year thereafter until the minimum is reached.

Ordinary four wheel trailers will need licenses again this year and two wheel licenses with a capacity of more than 1,000 pounds will have to be licensed at the rate of $2 per ton or each fraction thereof. Two wheel trailers, regardless of capacity, used for carrying passengers or property for hire, also will require licenses for 1937.

The last date to apply for licenses is February 15, and after that a penalty of 25 cents a day for the two days following will be charged. Then 50 cents extra will be charged each month as a penalty during the next four months.

MOOSE CALF FOUND IN A WOLF TRAP

Baudette—Willie Knutson of Rako, near Baudette in the North Woods, has a trapline that is intended for wolves, but recently the wrong fellow got mixed up in the trap and almost paid for the intrusion with his life. A little moose calf wandered into the trap line. One of its feet was tightly clamped in the steel jaws. The calf was taken to the Knutson farm, where the injured leg, partly frozen, was properly treated and thawed out. The incident was reported to the game warden, who advised keeping the calf until completely well. The little fellow is getting along fine, and will probably regret leaving the farm and the Knutson hospitality.

year's gain should average about 7 to 8 per cent above 1936. Business will be above the X-Y line—in other words, in a prosperity era—for the first entire twelve month period since 1929! Unless—

Labor Holds Whip-Hand

It is seldom that there is no "unless", 1936 was an exception. Then there was no "but" to my bullishness. Today, however, there is one major question in my mind—the labor problem. If this issue is not handled properly, business could receive a very rude set-back. Workers are in the most strategic position today they have ever held.

Labor leaders can tie prosperity in a knot if they call a general walk-out or they can give prosperity a boost if they keep their heads. Do not misunderstand me. I am not predicting grave national labor tie-ups, even though some current situations do look threatening and even though there will be a big increase in the number of strikes. I merely say that if labor leaders try to push too far and too fast in their demands for higher pay and shorter hours, we are in for serious trouble.

Four New Factors

There are four new factors in the picture today which give labor such a strong hold on industry. First, is the tremendous gain in industrial production and profits. Second, is the steady rise in living costs. Third, is the big gain in labor's influence as indicated by the election results. Finally, there is the "powder-keg" row between the Lewis and Green factions. These factors, particularly the latter, all increase the tension of the situation.

The real key to this puzzle is the Administration and its policy toward labor. If trouble should develop, Mr. Roosevelt with his almost unanimous backing could swing the tide of battle in whichever direction he wished. Because of the President's unprecedented worker-following, the outlook for labor troubles depends to a large extent on Washington.

Congress Not Harmful

In fact, much depends on Washington as far as most problems are concerned. Not so many years ago it was the vogue to take careful soundings in Wall Street before making an annual forecast. Today the most important preparation for my outlook letter is to drop the lead-line in the Potomac. A fortnight before Christmas, I visited the Capital. Experienced observers there believe that the President may have more trouble than the public imagines in holding his huge Democratic majority together.

The Washington consensus is that Congress will not be harmful to business in spite of the voters' roar of approval of the New Deal. There will be a lot of barking but little biting. The emphasis of the coming session will be on perfecting legislation already passed and adding a few amendments thereto. I doubt if a hamperful of new reform laws will be jammed through.

Bond Inflation to Continue

It will be two years before another election, and the average Congressman will be worrying less about his constituents and more about the Constitution. Along this line, I expect to see a big improvement in federal finances. An effort will be made to cut expenses. Relief aid will be continued but not on the boondoggling scale of the past three years. The government's income should rise steadily as 1937 works along. But despite Washington forecasts to the contrary, I doubt if the gain in revenue or the slash in expenditures will be sufficient to bring the budget into balance by June 30, 1938.

This means that inflation will gain ground this year. It has already taken big strides in recent years although the general public is entirely unaware of it. Public debt has grown $16,000,000,000 since July 1, 1930. Tax receipts have doubled since 1933. Still the Treasury is forced to raise funds to pay the public bills by selling government bonds. This money finds its way into the banks in the form of jobholders' or contractors' deposits. The bank then "invests" these deposits by buying more government bonds.

The cycle repeats itself over and over again, building up bank deposits and ballooning the public debt. This is camouflaged inflation. It will continue in 1937 aided by another form of inflation—the check or credit type, similar to that which we had in 1929. When all is said and done, every one of the various inflations has the same effect—the boosting of prices and the speeding up of business and building activity.

See Home Building Boom

Four years ago the building of a new home or factory was a relatively rare sight. Only eight homes were built at the depression low in 1933 where a hundred were built in 1929 and where fifty are being built today. Home building is a typical capital goods industry. It is a direct thermometer of public confidence. Once confidence returns there is a veritable stampede to take advantage of real estate bargains and to get under the wire on building costs. A feature of 1937 should be a real boom in home building.

Non-residential construction, aside from public works, should also enjoy a big gain. Plant expansion or modernization is a necessity for many concerns. Prices of building materials are on the verge of a sharp mark-up. Demand for skilled building mechanics will soon be reflected in higher bids on jobs. Bargains in existing structures are pretty well picked over. If you must modernize, renovate, repair, or build, let out your contracts NOW!

Extend Leases Now

The same applies to rents. If you have a favorable lease extend it NOW for a five-year period. After a 10 per cent advance last year, rents will probably increase another 5 per cent in 1937—maybe more in well-located areas. With the optimistic prospects for building and rents, I look forward to a profitable year for real estate men with rising values and with activity at least 20 per cent above 1936.

The outlook for real estate and building is typical of the outlook for all capital goods industries such as locomotives, ships, power stations, and machinery. These businesses are due for a much sharper percentage improvement than the consumer goods industries. Employment in the heavy group a year ago was 75 per cent of normal; today it is 85 per cent; and by next Christmas it should be 95 per cent.

Where to Get Jobs

The 3,000,000 heavy industry workers who are still jobless should dwindle to 2,000,000 by the end of 1937. This would leave only 6,000,000 out of jobs next December and of this number 4,000,000 are the floating jobless or are unemployable. By far the best bet for new jobs will be in these industries. My advice to young men looking for a job today is to learn a building or machinery trade or to join the sales force of a building materials or machinery concern!

Skilled workers are going to demand, and get, higher pay in 1937. While total employment should increase perhaps 5 to 8 per cent, wage rates should be stepped up by at least that amount or more on the average. Payroll totals should show a rise of not less than 10 per cent. But remember fatter payrolls mean heavier producing costs. The latter in turn mean either a mark-up of selling prices or a cutting of profit margins.

Sees Rising Prices

Three years ago higher costs would have meant slimmer profits. This year they will mean higher selling prices. This holiday season we are waving good-bye to a buyers' and employers' market. For the first time since 1929, we shall see prices during 1937 controlled by the seller and wages by the employee.

Gone, temporarily at least, are the days when orders were taken below cost simply to keep the machinery from getting rusty. Gone are the days when people would work for nothing simply to keep up their courage. In addition to higher producing costs the Robinson-Patman Price Act, if strictly interpreted, will push distribution costs higher. All this will be mirrored on wholesale and retail invoices.

Sharp Mark-ups Ahead

Wholesale quotations on 784 products—from raw material to finish goods—have risen 3 per cent in the last three months and are at a new top since September, 1930. Next Christmas this price average will be 5 per cent—maybe 10 per cent—higher than it is today.

Four years ago wheat was selling at the lowest price in three and a half centuries—41 cents a bushel. Because it was cheaper than to pay freight, corn was being burned for fuel in place of coal. Milk was being poured on the streets to reduce over-supplies of butter and cheese. There was a bounty on baby pigs. Today wheat is around $1.35 per bushel. Corn is being imported from Argentina. Much bulk butter sold in United States' markets comes from abroad. Bacon is a delicacy once again. This all goes to show how much more powerful are the rules of nature and economics than the laws of men. The drought, the AAA and short supplies, plus better business and heavier consumption, have doubled farm prices during the last four years. Now, what about the outlook for farm prices this year?

Another Good Year on Farms

Grain and cotton prices depend on the weather and plantings. Based on current acreage estimates and barring drought, prices of these products should not be much higher next December than they are today. Meat prices will edge upward for our livestock population is near the lowest point in years. Dairy, eggs, and poultry prices will advance under the impetus of higher producing costs during the first half. Good prices plus higher production should lift farm income between 5 to 10 per cent during the new year.

Farm profits will be somewhat less due to markups in the prices of products which the farmer has to buy. With farming continually more profitable, good land (now up 20 per cent over the depression low) will continue its gradual rise. This recovery in agricultural prices is a very bullish factor in the business outlook but do not forget that it means higher living costs in the city.

Clothing to Cost More

Up to now, the cost of living has not been keeping pace with the recovery in general business. Its advance totals only 20 per cent against 75 per cent for industrial activity and 30 per cent for retail prices. This coming year the gap will narrow. I look for a 5 to 8 per cent rise in living costs against only a 3 per cent gain in 1936.

In the vanguard will be clothing price-tags. They have been at a standstill for the last three years but they will move ahead 8 to 12 per cent in 1937. Food bills will be 5 to 8 per cent higher. Monthly electric and gas statements will be slightly lower. Coal and coke will ease off as the peak of the heating season passes, but those who use oil should make contracts now as protection against a 10 per cent advance.

1937 Salesman's Paradise

Merchants can honestly plug the "Buy Now—Higher Prices Coming" appeal in their advertising. Salesmanagers can safely jack up their sales quotas and advertising appropriations by at least 10 per cent—probably 20 per cent. The sales feature of 1937 will be the return of the seller's market for the first time since 1929.

Every hour of effort and every dollar of expense put into selling work in 1937 will return what two did in 1936 and what two may in 1939! I urge every salesmanager and every salesman to work his head off in 1937. Get your reward for all the hard work of the past few years. Sunny selling days will not last forever!

Bull Market Not Over

The outlook for money rates is a big influence also on stock prices. Pitiful returns on savings bank deposits, bonds, mortgages, and high-grade preferreds will not coax money out of good sound stocks. The tremendous volume of money seeking investment (a billion dollars in December alone) will prevent too big a stock sell-off. 1936 dividend increases and extras, plus possibilities of still higher earnings over the next few years, give well-chosen stocks added attraction of those who want protection against a rising cost of living.

In spite of the 30 per cent gain in stock prices during the last twelve months, I believe that many stocks are not over-valued. There may be periods of backing and filling, but the basic trend is still upward. The bull market which began on July 8, 1932 has not reached its peak.

Good Selection Vital

While the general pattern of the stock market should be upward, prices of individual groups will vary greatly. Good selection will pay even greater premiums this year than last. Biggest gains percentagewise will be shown by the equipment, building material, electrical equipment, steels, metals, and office supplies will be in the vanguard.

No War in 1937

No one can deny that the overseas situation is critical. Europe and Asia today closely resemble the armed camps of 1912-14. A general war involving Fascism vs Communism is inevitable; but a general European War will not come in 1937. There will continue to be revolutions within nations; but no formal conflict between nations.

European securities will remain unattractive although world trade will continue to increase slowly. The gain since 1933, now totals 30 per cent. South America, France, Holland, Switzerland, Belgium, Scandinavia, Canada, and other British Commonwealths will be our best markets. Japan and England will not be as good as in recent years. Spain, Germany, and Italy will be our poorest.

Conclusion

As 1937 opens, most of the snarls brought on by the depression have been untangled. Improvement is widespread through all branches of industry. Employment is gradually approaching normal once again. The outlook for the coming twelve months is bright. I predict that as we look back at this New Year season we will remember it as a momentous milestone in our business history.

Whether we realize it or not today, we are now placing a headstone over the 1929-1936 depression corpse and bundling up the 1937 (?) prosperity baby in swaddling clothes. How long this period of prosperity will last or how far it will go, no one can now say. That depends upon how well we have learned that lasting prosperity only comes through the practice of industry, honesty, thrift, faith and other basic virtues!

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

FINANCES ARE SCHOOL BOARD SESSION TOPIC

TOTAL GAIN OVER 1935 AMOUNTS TO $111,952

At the January session of the local board of education Monday evening, Supt. Morris Bye submitted an enlightening analysis of assessed valuations and tax rates for the school district.

The total 1936 assessed valuation, Mr. Bye reported, is $1,504,415, which represents an increase of $46,656 in the valuation of platted real estate and an increase of $69,823 in the personal property valuation, while the agricultural land valuation shows a decrease of $4,527.

Assuming that taxes were to be paid in full, Mr. Bye said, the special maintenance tax of 34.5 mills on platted real estate and personal property would yield $49,239.78, while the 8.83 mills levy on agricultural land would net $681.45. The bond and interest tax of three mills would yield $4,513.24, and the regular one mill tax $1,504.41.

Mr. Bye pointed out that every tax dollar collected in 1937 on the 1936 tax levy on platted real estate and personal property in Thief River Falls will be distributed as follows: Schools, 33.6 cents; city 27.1 cents; county, 28.5 cents; and state, 10.8 cents.

The board was informed that the district will receive $3,545.85 from the final settlement of 1936 state income tax receipts, on the basis of $3.85 for each of 921 pupils. This will make a total for the year of $10 for every pupil in the district between the ages of eight and sixteen.

Dr. A. M. Smith and Dr. A. E. Jacobson were named delegates to the 1937 convention of the Minnesota School Board association, which will be held in Hotel Lowry in St. Paul February 1, 2 and 3. Topics slated to come up for consideration at the convention include payment of all state aids in full; increase in the state income tax to accrue to schools; larger school unit organization; federal aid for schools; and transportation aid for all rural boys and girls to high school.

The board considered a report from T. J. Berning of the state department of education, who recently visited the local schools and who commented favorably on the pupil-teacher attitude; well-cared-for plant; increasing enrollment in all grades; adequate educational supplies; good office and records; well planned report to the board of education; and competent administration and supervision.

At the request of Rev. E. A. Cooke and Alf Bredeson, who appeared in behalf of the local youth forum, the council voted to ask the arena committee for the use one night a week of a room on the second floor of the arena if and when available for meetings of the forum group.

H. N. Elofson was granted a building permit for a residence at an estimated cost of $3,500. The council also approved the appointment up to February 10 of Alfred Flattum as supervisor of the toboggan slide maintained by the park board.

The locals had the lead at the end of each period, and Loren Stadum was high scorer, accounting for ten points. In a preliminary game the Prowlers B team won 24 to 17 from the Warren B. team.

HOCKEY TEAM PLAYS HALLOCK HERE SUNDAY

Crowd of Nearly 1,000 Sees Roseau Win Contest Last Sunday

LOCAL TEAM GOES TO GRAND FORKS TONIGHT

Thieves Defeat University Aggregation Last Thursday

After winning one game and losing another during the past week, the Thief River Falls entry in the States-Dominion hockey league will journey to Grand Forks this evening for a contest with the Grand Forks Cavaliers in the winter sports building on the university campus. The game will be broadcast over Radio Station KFJM, beginning at 8:15.

The Hallock sextet, holding second place in the league standings, next Sunday afternoon will make their first appearance on the arena rink in this city. The Hallock team includes a number of fast Canadian boys who play a classy brand of hockey and a hard battle is in prospect, as the Thieves must start their winning streak soon if they are to secure a position in the semi-finals in late February.

A crowd of nearly 1000 enthusiastic fans packed the arena Sunday to see the Roseau Cloverleafs and "Thieves" step through three periods of spectacular hockey which ended 2-1 for the Cloverleafs. The Thieves, entering the game more or less an underdog, launched an unexpected dazzling passing attack that put the Cloverleafs on the defensive for three periods until DePaul and Rube Julien were penalized at the same time, Roseau scoring with the two Thieves in the penalty box. Roseau played a style of fast, heads-up, defensive hockey featured by Bob Bell's sensational work in the nets.

The first two periods went with no scoring by either side with Taylor, Julien, Stanbridge and DePaul bombarding the Roseau net, but Bell turned them back scoreless. Roseau scored at the beginning of the third period on a mix up in front of the Thieves' net. After ten minutes of play Roseau taking advantage of the penalties meted out to DePaul and Julien turned on the power and scored the second and winning counter with a five man offensive. Snooks Julien, center on the Thieves Kid line, scored on an assist from DePaul a few minutes later to end the scoring.

The Thieves lineup included Napoli, goal; DePaul, Gulrud and Skoglund, defense; and Taylor, Stanbridge, Rube Julien, Parist, Snooks Julien, Berling and Williams, forwards. On the Roseau team were Bell, goal; Ness, Alley and Nelson, defense; and Erlandson, O. Hobstritt, Anderson, Gray and D. Habstritt, forwards. Effinger and Gabrielson were referees.

Playing against the University of North Dakota team in Grand Forks last Thursday evening, Thief River Falls scored its first win of the season by a margin of 5 to 3. After a slow start the locals took the upper hand, and used a neat passing game to good effect thruout the contest. Many local fans listened to the radio broadcast of the game over KFJM.

New Rules on Endorsement of Old-Age Assistance Checks

County Auditor A. M. Senstad today issued the following statement calling attention to new regulations relating to endorsement of old-age assistance checks by their recipients in Pennington county:

Attention of all old-age assistance recipients and of all relatives and friends of recipients who are assisting these aged people in handling old-age assistance checks and the attention of all banks, business houses and persons cashing the checks is called to the following instructions now printed on the back of all such checks:

"This check must be indorsed in ink or indelible pencil on the line below by the person in whose favor it is drawn and the name must be spelled exactly as it is on the face of the check.

If endorsement is made by mark (x) it must be witnessed by 2 persons who can write, giving their place of residence in full."

One half of each old age assistance check is federal money and the federal government requires that the endorsement conform to the instructions as quoted. For the information of all recipients and all persons handling these checks we wish to make it known that the check will not be cashed unless the endorsement conforms to the instructions.

The January payment of Old Age Assistance will be made in the later half of this week, and we realize that the instructions in regard to endorsements is new and may cause a little hardship this first month; nevertheless the endorsements on old age assistance checks must be in proper form in order to get the checks cashed as this office is checked by both the state agency and federal auditors.

MOTOR VEHICLES OWNED IN COUNTY PAY $38,797 FEES

A total of 3,891 motor vehicles were registered in Pennington county in 1936 and taxes paid on them aggregated $38,797.06, it is revealed in the annual report of Secretary of State Mike Holm, submitted last week to the legislature.

Figures on the number of vehicles and revenue for nearby counties include: Marshall, 5,214 and $43,851.26; Red Lake, 1,936 and $16,587.76; Clearwater, 2,468 and $20,976.06; Roseau, 3,864 and $32,076.27, and Polk, 11,295 and $102,973.85.

STATE SOLONS RECEIVE MANY NEW MEASURES

Bill Would Create County Welfare Boards to Handle Relief

CIVIL SERVICE BILL INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

No Need of Borrowing to Meet Deficiencies, Says Budget Head

Establishment of county welfare boards, to administer old age assistance, mothers' aid, child welfare and relief under supervision of the state board of control, is sponsored in a set of bills introduced in the state house of representatives Tuesday.

The bills are framed in conformity with recommendations of the joint senate and house interim committee on social security and relief, with the primary objective the centralization of various forms of providing assistance. The soldiers home board, under one of the measures, would be abolished and its powers transferred to the board of control, but with a provision for appointment of a director of soldiers' welfare.

A bill placing all state employes under civil service and other increasing the assessed valuation of iron ore and all other minerals, mined and unmined, from 30 to 80 per cent, headed the list of 23 bills introduced in the house in a one-hour session Monday afternoon.

The iron ore measure, sponsored by Representative Verne Lockwood, Motley, is intended to tax mineral reservations as well as surface rights, and to achieve this the solon's bill is framed so that there would be separate assessments of surface rights and mineral reservations.

The civil service bill is authored by Representative George MacKinnon, Minneapolis, and parallels that introduced in the senate a few days ago by Senator H. C. Stimling, Moorhead, with the exception MacKinnon's proposal would make the budget commissioner a member of the civil service commission and would exempt employes of state institutions who are under jurisdiction of the state board of control.

MacKinnon's measure sets up a president of the commission for a six-year term at the salary of $4,000 a year; the budget commissioner at his present salary, and another who would be appointed now for a two-year term at $3,500 a year. Henceforth, all terms would run six years.

There is no need for the legislature to authorize state borrowing to make up the operating deficiency of several million dollars which is being run up by the state during the current fiscal year, Paul A. Rasmussen, state budget commissioner, asserted Wednesday.

Appearing before the house committee on appropriations, Mr. Rasmussen said deficiency estimates of Public Health Group to Make Intensive Search for Young T. B. Victims

An intensive search for early symptomless tuberculosis will characterize the program to be financed by Christmas Seals throughout Minnesota in 1937, according to the announcement of the Minnesota Public Health Association, which directs the statewide work.

"Uncover Tuberculosis by Modern Methods" will be the theme of the year's Early Diagnosis educational campaign to be launched in April. Throughout the year emphasis will be placed on the fact that by anticipating tuberculosis and searching out threatened children by means of the Mantoux test and x-ray, the disease can be prevented. Only one out of every 11 Minnesota children have been tested, the State Association points out. Effort will be made this year to promote tuberculin testing of school children in communities in which these modern tests have not yet been made available.

As soon as Christmas Seal reports are complete throughout the state and it is known how much work can be attempted in 1937, plans will be made for definite local and statewide activities, the State Association announces. In many cities, contributions are still being made to the Christmas Seal fund and special effort is being made to reach quotas.

It's a Ringer!

ONE subscriber to the belief that, in the long run, truth must prevail is John D. McDougall, pastor among grain receivers in Chicago.

"Here is the proof of what I am compelled to tell," Mr. McDougall asserted, indicating a sheaf of beautifully ripened wheat. "The facts concern a friend, one A. J. Sundberg of Hillsboro, N. D.

"Sundberg shipped this sample of fine wheat. When I complimented him upon its quality he relaxed, as most folks do under the influence of praise, and he recalled some of his difficulties growing the grain.

"Why, even at a time this wheat was ripening—my friend told me—he hitched his wagon team to a weeping willow tree out in the fields and responded to the cheery invitation of the dinner bell.

"He was gone 41 minutes, but grasshoppers invaded the place in such numbers they devoured both horses and all of the wagon except its tongue. When my friend finished his dinner all that was left of the horses was their shoes. And the grasshoppers were playing quoits with them."

State Medical Assn. Doctors Give Warning of Kerosene Poisoning

The importance of protecting children from kerosene has had far too little emphasis according to a bulletin issued today by the Minnesota State Medical Association's Committee on Public Health Education. If kerosene is accidentally swallowed in any amount the result is likely to be a dangerous and perhaps a fatal illness. This danger from the drinking of kerosene is apparently not well known and many families, according to the doctors, still have kerosene around where children might get at it for use as a household remedy in colds and croup.

The result of such accidental indigestion of kerosene is usually an acute illness and death from pneumonia is likely to ensue within three to forty-eight hours after the accident, especially in young children.

Treatment is of little avail according to the bulletin. The only way these deaths can be surely avoided is to prevent children from any access to kerosene containers.

Most Courteous Service Station Man to be Named

A half-million ballot cards were placed in the 8,300 gasoline stations in Minnesota with the opening of the search for the most courteous gasoline station attendant in the state.

The consuming public will be the judge by means of obtaining the ballot cards at any gasoline station in the state, regardless of the make or brand of gasoline sold and regardless of the size of the station or services offered. Finalists will be elected from each of the 21 districts and the winner will be named at the annual convention and exposition of the association which will be conducted in Minneapolis, February 10-11.

The search will end January 31 and will include a scrutiny of the more than 20,000 attendants of the state operating at the 8,300 service stations.

Hunting of Nobles in 1066

ALABAMA CHILDREN COME TO SEE SNOW

Windom—While most of Windom's citizens were much pleased with this year's mild Christmas weather after being snowbound last year, it was a great disappointment to two persons. And they were children visiting in Windom who had come from Mobile, Alabama, where it has not snowed since 1828, coming with great expectations of seeing Minnesota snow.

Farm Outlook for 1937 Best in Past Six Years, University Farm Says

"Farming conditions in Minnesota are the best they have been in 6 years." Thus begins the 1937 Agricultural Outlook report, prepared by the Agricultural Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, to assist farmers in planning this year's business.

Continuing, the report says, "Farmers face a shortage of feed grains, but have a fair supply of hay and rough feed. Altho some liquidation of livestock has taken place it is believed that livestock numbers have not been greatly depleted, and that relatively large numbers remain to be marketed at prices which give promise of averaging higher than in 1936. Milk production per cow has been running above that of a year ago.

According to the Outlook, farm prices, as of November, were 96 per cent of the November average for 1924-25-26 and purchasing power of Minnesota farm products 14 per cent above November during the same years. There is every indication that the demand for farm products in 1937 will be greater than in 1936 with industrial production expected to increase 10 per cent.

The 16-page Outlook pamphlet summarizes general business conditions, foreign trade, and similar factors affecting agriculture and presents separate discussions on the outlook for each of the major farm enterprises—dairy, hogs, beef cattle, sheep and wool, horses poultry and eggs, turkeys, and the several important crop commodities. Included also is a discussion of the outlook for farm-family living in 1937.

Copies of the report will be supplied free to anyone who applies to a county extension agent or the Bulletin Office University Farm, St. Paul, for Pamphlet 39.

ALEXANDER IS APPOINTED NEW RESETTLEMENT HEAD

Following the transfer of the Resettlement Administration to the department of agriculture by executive order, effective January 1, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today announced the appointment of Dr. Will W. Alexander as administrator of the agency, succeeding R. G. Tugwell. Dr. Alexander, who has been deputy administrator of the Resettlement Administration since May, 1935, was born at Morrisville, Mo., July 15, 1884. He attended the public schools of Missouri and received his A. B. degree from Scarrit-Morrisville College in 1908. He received degrees from Berea and Southern Colleges and from Vanderbilt and Boston Universities.

CLEARBROOK FIRM NAMED CHAMPION FLOCKMASTERS

For producing the greatest average weight of lamb per ewe, Oscar Hulteen and Son, Clearbrook, Clearwater county, have been named champion flock masters in the 1936 lamb production contest sponsored by the agricultural extension division, University Farm, St. Paul. W. E. Morris, extension animal husbandman, states that the champion flockmasters raised 50 of 56 lambs from a flock of 30 ewes. The percentage of lambs born was 180 per cent and lambs raised were 150 per cent. An average of 122.3 pounds of lamb per ewe was produced. A gold medal and a cash prize will be awarded by the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association.

Few Eskimo Dogs Here

Exceedingly few Eskimo dogs are found in our native communities, for there are so many other breeds that take more kindly to our climatic conditions and congested civilization that dog fanciers have been content to let this animal rule the north where only the hardiest of canine breeds can thrive.

NEEDLES, BRUSH ON DEER'S MENU

Two Harbors—Pine and balsam needles, various lichens, hazel brush, swamp grass and twigs comprise the winter diet of deer, as shown by examination of the stomach of six deer on Superior national forest. The examination was made as a part of an endeavor to determine the relation of wild life to the forest and ascertain the desirable species of plant life with a view towards increased propagation of the deer. Working in cooperation with the Lakes States Forest experiment station, N. Aldous of the United States Biological Survey, made the test on deer killed during the recent hunting season.

Public Health Group to Make Intensive Search for Young T. B. Victims

An intensive search for early symptomless tuberculosis will characterize the program to be financed by Christmas Seals throughout Minnesota in 1937, according to the announcement of the Minnesota Public Health Association, which directs the statewide work.

"Uncover Tuberculosis by Modern Methods" will be the theme of the year's Early Diagnosis educational campaign to be launched in April. Throughout the year emphasis will be placed on the fact that by anticipating tuberculosis and searching out threatened children by means of the Mantoux test and x-ray, the disease can be prevented. Only one out of every 11 Minnesota children have been tested, the State Association points out. Effort will be made this year to promote tuberculin testing of school children in communities in which these modern tests have not yet been made available.

As soon as Christmas Seal reports are complete throughout the state and it is known how much work can be attempted in 1937, plans will be made for definite local and statewide activities, the State Association announces. In many cities, contributions are still being made to the Christmas Seal fund and special effort is being made to reach quotas.

It's a Ringer!

ONE subscriber to the belief that, in the long run, truth must prevail is John D. McDougall, senior among grain receivers in Chicago.

"Here is the proof of what I am compelled to tell," Mr. McDougall asserted, indicating a sheaf of beautifully ripened wheat. "The facts concern a friend, one A. J. Sundberg of Hillsboro, N. D.

"Sundberg shipped this sample of fine wheat. When I complimented him upon its quality he relaxed, as most folks do under the influence of praise, and he recalled some of his difficulties growing the grain.

"Why, even at a time this wheat was ripening—my friend told me—he hitched his wagon team to a weeping willow tree out in the fields and responded to the cheery invitation of the dinner bell.

"He was gone 11 minutes, but grasshoppers invaded the place in such numbers they devoured both horses and all of the wagon except its tongue. When my friend finished his dinner all that was left of the horses was their shoes. And the grasshoppers were playing quoits with them."

State Medical Assn. Doctors Give Warning of Kerosene Poisoning

The importance of protecting children from kerosene has had far too little emphasis according to a bulletin issued today by the Minnesota State Medical Association's Committee on Public Health Education. If kerosene is accidentally swallowed in any amount the result is likely to be a dangerous and perhaps a fatal illness. This danger from the drinking of kerosene is apparently not well known and many families, according to the doctors, still have kerosene around where children might get at it for use as a household remedy in colds and croup.

The result of such accidental indigestion of kerosene is usually an acute illness and death from pneumonia is likely to ensue within three to forty-eight hours after the accident, especially in young children.

Treatment is of little avail according to the bulletin. The only way these deaths can be surely avoided is to prevent children from any access to kerosene containers.

Most Courteous Service Station Man to be Named

A half-million ballot cards were placed in the 8,300 gasoline stations in Minnesota with the opening of the search for the most courteous gasoline station attendant in the state.

The consuming public will be the judge by means of obtaining the ballot cards at any gasoline station in the state, regardless of the make or brand of gasoline sold and regardless of the size of the station or services offered. Finalists will be elected from each of the 21 districts and the winner will be named at the annual convention and exposition of the association which will be conducted in Minneapolis, February 10-11.

The search will end January 31 and will include a scrutiny of the more than 20,000 attendants of the state operating at the 8,300 service stations.

Hunting of Nobles in 1066

After 1066 hunting in England became the sole privilege of the nobles and the common people were prohibited, under severe penalties, from hunting game. Under the Conqueror, it was as great a crime to kill one of the king's deer as to kill one of his subjects.

ALABAMA CHILDREN COME TO SEE SNOW

Windom—While most of Windom's citizens were much pleased with this year's mild Christmas weather after being snowbound last year, it was a great disappointment to two persons. And they were children visiting in Windom who had come from Mobile, Alabama, where it has not snowed since 1898, coming with great expectations of seeing Minnesota snow.

Farm Outlook for 1937 Best in Past Six Years, University Farm Says

"Farming conditions in Minnesota are the best they have been in 6 years." Thus begins the 1937 Agricultural Outlook report, prepared by the Agricultural Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, to assist farmers in planning this year's business.

Continuing, the report says, "Farmers face a shortage of feed grains, but have a fair supply of hay and rough feed. Altho some liquidation of livestock has taken place it is believed that livestock numbers have not been greatly depleted, and that relatively large numbers remain to be marketed at prices which give promise of averaging higher than in 1936. Milk production per cow has been running above that of a year ago.

According to the Outlook, farm prices, as of November, were 96 per cent of the November average for 1924-25-26 and purchasing power of Minnesota farm products 14 per cent above November during the same years. There is every indication that the demand for farm products in 1937 will be greater than in 1936 with industrial production expected to increase 10 per cent.

The 16-page Outlook pamphlet summarizes general business conditions, foreign trade, and similar factors affecting agriculture—and presents separate discussions on the outlook for each of the major farm enterprises—dairy, hogs, beef cattle, sheep and wool, horses poultry and eggs, turkeys, and the several important crop commodities. Included also is a discussion of the outlook for farm-family living in 1937.

Copies of the report will be supplied free to anyone who applies to a county extension agent or the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul, for Pamphlet 39.

ALEXANDER IS APPOINTED NEW RESETTLEMENT HEAD

Following the transfer of the Resettlement Administration to the department of agriculture by executive order, effective January 1, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today announced the appointment of Dr. Will W. Alexander as administrator of the agency, succeeding R. G. Tugwell. Dr. Alexander, who has been deputy administrator of the Resettlement Administration since May, 1935, was born at Morrisville, Mo., July 15, 1884. He attended the public schools of Missouri and received his A. B. degree from Scarritt-Morrisville College in 1908. He received degrees from Berea and Southern Colleges and from Vanderbilt and Boston Universities.

CLEARBROOK FIRM NAMED CHAMPION FLOCKMASTERS

For producing the greatest average weight of lamb per ewe, Oscar Hulteen and Son, Clearbrook, Clearwater county, have been named champion flock masters in the 1936 lamb production contest sponsored by the agricultural extension division, University Farm, St. Paul. W. E. Morris, extension animal husbandman, states that the champion flockmasters raised 50 of 55 lambs from a flock of 30 ewes. The percentage of lambs born was 180 per cent and lambs raised were 150 per cent. An average of 122.3 pounds of lamb per ewe was produced. A gold medal and a cash prize will be awarded by the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

Recent price advances are now a source of worry for the economic planners down in Washington, and before long that old alphabetical arrangement that we used to hear so much about years ago, HCL, is going to re-enter the arena of national problems. A higher cost of living is inevitable. It will be higher not only in dollar costs but in real costs, measured in terms of the exchange of services. The other fellow will get less of the service we perform for him and we, in turn, will get less of the service performed for us by the other fellow. The reason for this is that out of every exchange of service, government is going to take an increasingly large portion. If two farmers decide to exchange between themselves a hundred bushels of wheat for three hundred bushels of oats, and while that exchange was going on the government stepped in and grabbed one-fourth of the wheat and one-fourth of the oats, the farmers wouldn't like it. But that is what actually happens when the farmer exchanges his raw materials for finished products. At every stage in the handling and processing of those materials, the government reaches in and takes its share, and by the time that product gets back to the farmer in finished form, its cost includes all of those taxes. The person who invariably finds himself on the short end of these transactions is the ultimate consumer. And as consumers we are soon going to have the pleasure of opening the surprise package and discovering that it contains the bills for a lot of unwise spending.

Even if we don't get the May thaw until June this year, it still is going to be a short winter.

IT'S ABOUT TIME
(William Feather)

The longer we live, the faster time goes. Time is like a ball rolling down hill. With each yard its speed increases.

The reason for this becomes clear if we recall how full and long the days seem when we are placed in a new environment. The first few days of a vacation, if we go to a strange place, seem longer than the succeeding two weeks.

In the early years of life, the senses are hourly stimulated by new experiences. Gradually, however, these senses are blunted and the days fade into one another, leaving almost no impression on our intellect. Birthdays come so fast that we lose the count.

Schopenhauer's reflections on this subject led him to lay down the rule that the length of any given year in a person's lifetime is in direct proportion to the number of times it will divide our whole life. At the age of fifty the year appears to us only one-tenth as long as it did at the age of five; at the age of sixty the fraction is reduced to one-twelfth; in other words, the fifth year is twelve times as long as the sixtieth year.

Schopenhauer contends that the time of boredom, therefore, is youth and not old age. Children are so thoroughly alive that they need constant occupation or they are miserable. To them an idle hour is like a day. In later years the days fly so fast that the old man is hardly aware that he is out of bed before he discovers that the time has come to retire. Is this a consolation, or a cause for regret?

THE HUMAN ELEMENT
(Milan Standard)

Why is it that cities and villages have periods of growth and stagnation? The principal reason is found in the people living in such places. If they are capable and enterprising, their communities will grow and prosper. If they are not, the effect can be plainly seen in a very short time. It proves that the human element is the all determining factor. This fact can be verified by everyone right at home.

Looking out upon the world at large, the same truth is plainly revealed. Events are determined by a few strong individuals who guide the destinies of nations.

These facts are interesting in view of the preachings of our modern materialistic philosophers who hold that the individual is merely a creature of circumstances mainly material. We like to think that man is a spiritual being who is capable of controlling matter and shape events according to the strength of his will power.

The North Dakota State owned flour mill was operated at a loss of $[illegible] for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, according to an audit of its books completed yesterday. This will come in comparison with other mills which pay heavy taxes, and its losses are made up by the taxpayers. Its operation is typical of government in business. The state could run all of the grocery stores and all of the other stores and factories and undersell private owners if there were only enough taxpayers to take care of the losses.—Fergus Falls Journal.

THIS MAN CAN'T BE DEPRESSED
(Roy L. Smith)

"I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." — Phil. 4:11

It is not always true that one will learn enough from a hitchhiker to justify a hurried stop, loss of time, and all the inconvenience that comes with picking him up; but this old man was distinctly different. He was standing at the intersection of two boulevards, leaning jauntily on his battered old cane, signaling for a ride.

Something about the old bent figure, and the dignified way in which he saluted the passing cars, suggested that he was deserving of a ride. The next minute I found myself inviting him to get in beside me. I have since called myself fortunate, for he gave me much to think about.

We had not driven far when the conversation started, and the old man practically took charge of it. "Yes," he said, "I think I've got a job if I can get down to the newspaper offices. You see, I've always been a newspaper man—was almost raised in a print shop. I've done everything around the office except pay the help. I'm not sure about this job, but there's a fellow down there that I know. I think he will help me with the boss."

"But if you don't get that job, what are you going to do?" I asked, more for the purpose of keeping his conversation going than anything else.

"Well, I've got that all figured out, too," he replied without a second's hesitation. "A number of years ago I was working on a certain eastern paper. My managing editor got wind of a lot of graft going on down in the State Hospital for the Insane, and he sent me down there to investigate. I stayed nearly a week, and I learned plenty.

"But the most interesting fellow I met was a chap who believed he was a big league baseball pitcher. He had a pitcher's mound fixed up out in the back yard and every afternoon he would go out and start pitching an imaginary baseball in an imaginary game. For two hours you would see him out there, every day, winding up, throwing an imaginary ball and sweating as much as if it was a real game."

"But what has that to do with your plans?" I asked, as he paused, evidently awaiting my question.

"Well sir, if I don't get this job, I think I'll go back to that asylum and try to get a job catching for that fellow," he replied drily.

I had met a man who could not be depressed. He was able to see the humor in any situation. He could laugh in the face of his difficulties. He could smile when there wasn't any joke.

The man who has such a spirit is beyond the reach of those things which depress most men; and depressions, in a very large measure, are mental affairs after all. The man who can dismiss his difficulties with a smile, look upon his problems as opportunities, regard his testings as challenges and face his temptations with a sense of inner strength is a man who cannot be depressed.

My old man was armor-plated against trouble by his sense of humor. It is a strange fact, but true, that very few troubles can stand being laughed at. They are so sensitive to ridicule that they soon desert us if we keep laughing at them.

THERE WAS A TIME—
(Grand Rapids Herald-Review)

Joseph Wolf, the democratic leader, was paid a great tribute the other evening when his friends and followers gathered in St. Paul.

We know nothing either good or bad about Joseph Wolf. The tribute may be well deserved. But deserved or not it shows the power of the modern politician in these days of expanding patronage.

Of course, an important politician should have friends. Look at the people who are dependent upon his bounty. Joe Wolf smiles and that means that the wolf will no longer sit on the doorstep of a deserving democrat. Joe Wolf frowns and shakes his head and another democrat has to go to work and make his own living without benefit of party. Joe Wolf and his influence reach into thousands of families and homes. His hand is seen in the politics of every community.

No industrial leader in the history of Minnesota ever wielded a fraction of the power over humanity and employment that Joseph Wolf now has. We have stepped from the age of individualism in industry and finance to the individualism of politics. No business on earth places a greater premium upon individual ambition, hope or selfishness than does politics. Humanity is simply changing its leadership. The dinner to the democratic leader is simply evidence of that change.

There was a time when leadership was largely that of accomplishment, mental or industrial. Now it rests with those who most easily spend the public's money.

If he is correctly quoted in the daily press, Governor-elect Elmer Benson made some striking statements in an address in Duluth on December 17. He spoke of the need of a general house cleaning in the Farmer-Labor party, with expulsion of "those reactionaries, racketeers and crooks who ought to be in reactionary groups." Those fellows do not choose their company on the basis of reactionary or radical, conservative or liberal. They have a different standard. They join the party that is in. Reason why the governor-elect finds "reactionaries, racketeers and crooks" in his own party is because they always make it a point to march with the majority. Where political patronage is, there they are also. They are interested in power. A minority party has no attractions for them. Elmer Benson is entitled to commendation for his declared intention to work for clean politics, and to support in his efforts.—Montevideo News.

Minnesota's 1936 farm income will total approximately $[illegible], the largest since 1931 and about $70,000,000 above that of 1935, figures released by Warren C. Waite, division of agricultural economics, University Farm, St. Paul, show.

Says Dr. Waite: "The income represented by gross sales and income from 16 principal agricultural products, increased in each of the important groups, crops, livestock and livestock products. Crop prices in the early part of the year were lower than those in the same period of 1935, but in the latter part of 1936, prices were well above those of the last portion of 1935. Increased sales of livestock resulted largely from greater physical sales of both hogs and cattle. Prices of hogs were above those of 1935 in the first half of the year, but lower in the second half. Cattle prices were lower throughout nearly all the year. Income from livestock products is determined largely by the income from butterfat. Butterfat prices were higher than in 1935 during most of the year, especially during the summer and fall when production was not greatly different.

Benefit payments from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration amounted to $[illegible] in 1933, $16,000,000 in 1934, $[illegible] in 1935, and $[illegible] in 1936.

Dr. Waite points out that the 16 products represented in his computation constitute about [illegible] per cent of the sales of all agricultural products. His estimate does not include the value of farm products used by the family or changes in inventory values of livestock or crops. Neither is the cash income from sources other than farm products sold included.

Cash expenses for farm operation, including taxes and interest, are estimated at $[illegible] in 1936. Deducting these costs would place the net cash income from farm operation at about $[illegible] for this year.

A. Smith, a farmer two miles east of Jackson, has found a similar plate and he is searching for the man who owns the $30 worth of dentistry.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

On December 22nd they had a meeting at the Court House in regard to the Rural Credit lands and how to get this important problem settled once and for all. It was decided to send a lobby to our state legislature to get this land sold at prices or to be priced according to what it is really worth at the present time, and at the rate of 3% interest, which I believe is to be the best interests of every tax payer in the state. It should be supported one hundred per cent.

It seems that our state is pretty close to bankruptcy and appropriations will have to be nearly twice what they were two years ago. It seems they don't know how to tax us enough to meet these huge appropriations. It's a problem that can be solved like this. Cut out half of all the public officials and a fourth of the employees. One fourth or more in our state are tax exempt. Cut this out too. And we don't want any tax exempt bonds. Put the whole thing on the tax rolls and it will look lots better. A one-house legislature is all we need, with eighty-seven representatives, one from each county, and then we will have something done that probably will be of some benefit to the farmer. As it is now, if we are to expect favors we must have a lobby down there to take care of us or we are simply forgotten.

These points mentioned should be worked on by our county board and they should take it up with the legislature. And I would add this to it, that they leave our town ship and rural school government alone, which they have tried to discontinue the last few years. This gives our county board the greatest opportunity of their lives to do something for the masses of the tax payers.

Very truly

Dear Editor:

I think we are all agreed that the intemperate use of intoxicating liquor is the outstanding evil of this country. Compilers of statistics tell us that drunkenness is the greatest cause of auto accidents, accidental deaths, murders and suicides. Do you realize that more people are killed each year [illegible] in the World war?

I knew this man intimately [illegible] family at work and at rest. Never was I in a more congenial home though I have visited and known hundreds, maybe a thousand other homes.

He professed no Christianity, he attended no church during the time I knew him best. But men are known by their deeds and by their influence upon their families and associates and not by their profession of faith. It was during this time his eight stalwart sons grew from childhood to manhood. I have been with them at work and at play. Nowhere else did I ever meet such well-brought-up boys. Never did I hear any of them utter an indecent word, angry word or curse-word. Nor have I at any time seen any of them indulge in intoxicating liquors. What greater service for the good of his country can a man render than to bring up such a group of boys? If awards are ever given for distinguished services would not such a man deserve one?

If there were more fathers like this we should not need to fear the evil effects of the repeal of prohibition.

I refer to Swan G. Johnson a former resident of this county who recently died in Turlock, California. To his memory and the cause of Temperance I dedicate this stanza from Robert Burns:

"The king can make a belted knight
A marquis, duke and a that
But the honest man aboon his might
Is king of men for a that."

A Temperance Man.

Editor Thief River Falls Times:

Canada appears to understand and appreciate the benefits of the Roosevelt trade treaty with our country. In that the first three days of the year 1937 when 1500 head, or 60 carloads of canadian cattle were rushed across the border. The average weight of these cattle were about 700 pounds, or a saving of $7.00 per head. The new trade tariff rate is 2 cents a pound in place of the former rate of 3 cents per pound.

Now good farmers, if you don't believe that our good neighbors to the North appreciate our markets, you have another guess coming!

We wish to compliment Governor Benson upon his open declaration to do away with the five man conservation commission, and in its place give us a single commissioner appointed by the governor, who can be removed without a scene and delay, when the welfare of the department is at stake, in the best interests of conservation.

We are proud of his declaration to begin the conservation of our waters, timber and natural resources.

The governor recommended many other progressive measures which we have not time or space to enumerate. But at the same time he has been lead too far to the left; along communistic lines, and the spending of millions and millions of dollars of the taxpayers money, without giving due consideration where and how all these extra millions of dollars can be raised, if his program is to be put over.

The first consideration of our present legislature is to raise money to meet an unbalanced budget, pay state obligations past due, and produce enough money to pay actual running expenses of the state. This cannot be done by raising the wages of all state employees. This is like plugging the spigot and opening the bunghole!

When this duty has been successfully completed and the burdens upon the taxpayers weighed and if we can stand further political exploitation, it will be time enough for our legislators to look for new channels of expense and political experiments!

What Minnesota need today is "Statesmen", not politicians? We are at the crossroads. Will they stand the test or will they play the game of the gallery demagogue?

ALBERT ANDERSON,
Gladstone(?), Minn.

Mr. Editor:

More about the Rural Credit Bureau.

When we discuss the grievances of the about 12,000 farmers of Minnesota, many of whom have been foreclosed by the Rural Credit Bureau, and have lost their farms and their homes, we must ask some questions.

First: Has an American citizen the right to make a living on a piece of land for himself and his family when he wishes to do so?

Second: For whom was fruit-bearing soil made by the creator—for the tiller of the soil or for the land speculator?

If we have the answers clear to these two questions, the Rural Credit Bureau will be found to be "weighed in the balance and found wanting." As to question No. 1, we will quote the beautiful words in our "Declaration of Independence," namely "All persons are born equal and have the unalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." We realize that the Rural Credit Bureau is at present breaking all three of these provisions directly. Of course it does not directly "kill" anyone, but it has the right, and does practice the right, to starve Rural Credit renters. We can prove that threats of eviction have been made against a renter who criticized that bureau. The bureau also holds the selling price on those farms so high that none of those renters dare to re-purchase them. Indirectly, then, that Bureau would keep those renters working on a starving basis the rest of their lives at any of them bought back a farm at those prices. Is that not indirect "killing" or is it not?

Where does "liberty" come in to those about 12,000 farmers of Minnesota, many of whom have been "renters" of their former farms and homes? They are now under the supervision of [illegible] of that bureau and must take orders from them what to do on their former farms and homes. Those farmers have no right to plant gardens, seed crops, raise [illegible]. Where does "pursuit of happiness" come in? We claim that those about 12,000 farmers, as American citizens, have the right to make a decent living on the soil God has made for that purpose—when such citizens are willing to do so. We claim that the words quoted from the Declaration of Independence gives them a direct right to live on their farms by their own labors, or shall they be cast out on the roads and live on "relief"? It is by circumstances of which they had no control they got into debt to that bureau and now sit there unable to pay that debt because grain prices and stock prices fell down to almost nothing, and had many crop failures because of drought, etc.

Answer to question No. 2: The law of Moses provides that no one should sell his portion of land alloted to him, but it should continue to be in the possession of that family for ever, for members of that family to make their living from. The command of God, then, is that fruit bearing soil is made for the tiller of the soil and not for the land speculator. (We mean of course, big land companies and other land sharks.) How are land prices made, and who makes them? Answer: land prices are made by big land companies who buy up land when it is cheap, and who combine together and create land booms thru much advertising when grain and farm stock prices are high, as in times of great wars. Then they make much money by cheating the working people. In the law of Moses, God forbids speculation of that kind. Land should not be sold, but be only for food, clothing and shelter for those who till the soil. We know of one big land company who owns 7,700 farms. Figuring 60 acres to each farm that makes 1,232,100(?) acres. We know also of another land company who owns 10,000 acres in several western counties of Minnesota. We do not say that it is wrong for a person to invest some spare money in one or two pieces of land; what we say is that it is pure and simple robbery to permit big land companies to own so much land and at the same time have a state institution like the Rural Credit Bureau, to foreclose on the farms and homes of these about 12,000 farmers families and turn them out on the roads. Can we call such a situation intelligent statesmanship? Why not liquidate the holdings of that bureau by selling those farms to their former owners, and others, at so low a price that it will be possible to pay for them out of the crops of those farms, and on such long term payments and low interest that our farmers can be prosperous? To permit a continuation of above mentioned policy of foreclosure on good American citizens because grain prices and cattle prices fell down to nothing, and because it did not rain enough, and because the sun was too hot, is nothing but a poor statesmanship.

Mr. Gilbert Brattland is our representative in the present legislature and if you form committees in each county where there are Rural Credit farms, collect one dollar from each, and thus help us keep Mr. Brattland there. We have been advised from those who should know, that our present legislators will, by law, cut interest on those loans down to 3 per cent, revalue those farms to present value and reduce the loans. If you fail us now you have to wait another two years. Mr. Thos Bjerk is our treasurer. His address is Thief River Falls. Mr. Brattland will be at the State Capitol. Get in touch with them.

A. K. LOCKREM,
Secretary of the executive Committee.

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

The Fiftieth Legislature convened at noon on the fifth of January, 1937. According to all previous indications, this will be one of the busiest sessions on record, and will deal with more major problems relative to matters of vital importance to our state than any previous session.

The membership of the Senate remains the same as in the last regular session, except for two vacancies which have been filled since the close of the last regular session. The two new members are Senator Oscar A. Swanson of the 15th District, and Senator C. A. Dahle of the 57th District. Both of the senators organized with the so called majority group; which group consists mostly of Republicans and Democrats, some of whom are very Liberal and Progressive, and some of whom are quite the opposite.

Two years ago your Senator organized with this majority for the expressed purpose of obtaining important committee assignments, and for obtaining the support of the Senate majority for legislation which pertained to the interest of our district. This arrangement, as you all know, did not carry with it any restrictions as far as support of or vote for any particular measure is concerned.

Previous to this present session there were indications that the leadership within this majority group might definitely attempt to oppose progressive legislation. Since my district is decidedly a liberal and progressive district, and since I am decidedly a liberal and progressive, I decided that I might get into the wrong boat by joining the majority group at this session. This move cost me a Committee Chairmanship, but otherwise I retain a sufficient number of important committee assignments to give me all the work which any one member can handle.

Dairy products and livestock; education; liquor control; municipal affairs; public welfare; public highways; rural credit and state development; and University.

Our public press has carried the inaugural address of our new Governor and has given much publicity to it. It is therefore, unnecessary for me to add any additional information. Suffice it to say, that our new Governor in this address was true to the campaign promises of the Farmer-Labor Party, and he is to be admired for his fearless presentation of progressive political science. It is not a program of economy, but will require large additional expenditures by the state. The important thing in this connection is a sound system for financing, based on the proper taxation system, "according to ability to pay". It was indeed refreshing to hear the Governor's attacks upon our present liquor laws and the conditions which have been created thereby. At times progressive leaders who have denounced big business in many other fields have forgotten that the worst enemy of the common people today is the liquor business. For that reason it was encouraging once again to hear the voice of our Chief Executive in fearless opposition to the liquor business as it is operating, quite unchecked, in the State of Minnesota today.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that Pennington County will take over the Old Age Assistance of the said Asmund Gunhekson if the Courts shall decide that his settlement is in Pennington County for such Old Age Assistance purposes, and, have a right to become aware of this fact in order that their thinking may be along lines not of reformation in the future but of fundamental change."

The message of Governor Benson was specific and all-embracing. He told the legislators not only what could be done but how it could be done: by memorializing Congress, by proposing general legislation, by suggesting possible constitutional amendments and by specific laws which would enable the state of Minnesota to undertake activities in the field of human welfare now denied.

Capitol News Review
By A. I. Harris

Editorial comments by the conservative dailies on the inaugural address of Governor Benson indicate quite clearly that at least the principle of social security is now accepted as a goal towards which we must strive.

The entire burden of the Governor's message was that government must become the guarantor of social and economic security for all the people, and not merely the huge policeman which government has largely been in the past.

A few years ago, any semblance of such a suggestion would at once have been branded as socialism or communism. Matter of fact, liberal political thought which bore no relationship whatever to either of the above governmental theories, nevertheless was labelled bolshevism by the large newspapers.

Thus, when one reads in the editorial column of the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "Minnesota is embarked on a program of social legislation. In Governor Benson it will not want for an aggressive advocate. He has the merit of sincerity. It should not be the wish of any one to throw obstacles in the line of elected progress, but rather it should be the general resolution to cooperate to the end that these things shall proceed along constructive and effective lines," the signs of progress are indeed healthy.

The Minneapolis Journal does not quarrel with the Governor's premise that the people now regard government as the guarantor of social and economic justice and security. "If it is possible to give such a guaranty and make it good," it says, "there will indeed be a new era for humanity. The Government has indeed assumed great obligations, but there is a limit to possible accomplishment."

There is an almost complete absence of bitter and extravagant invective, which perhaps would have been the case had not the people's decision at the polls on November 3 been so decisive and the mandate so clear. The editors point out that Governor Benson's program cannot be realized in all of its objectives "because of the expense involved," and even though one may disagree with that view, the approach is at least sane and valid. Governor Benson contends that it can be realized through a tax upon wealth, in which contention he claims to have the opinion of tax experts.

It may be that the newspapers have learned the lesson that you cannot obstruct the onward march of human progress by calling names; it may be that they realize that if the present system is to be perpetuated it must be able to guarantee security for the masses. Whichever it is, we are progressing.

One of the bills sponsored by the Farmer-Labor party would require all lobbyists to register their names, the firms or groups they represent, compensation received, and the nature of legislation they desire to promote or prevent. A bill of this kind has been introduced in the House by Representative Carl Eastvold, Ortonville, and in the Senate by Senator George Siegel, St. Paul.

In the legislative sessions of the past the people have had no reliable way of knowing to what extent their elected representatives were influenced by the paid lobbyists. The new bill, if it becomes law, will enable the people to form a clear idea of what interests are influencing proposed laws, and whether or not these interests are working against the public good.

Governor Benson set a precedent when he wore a plain business suit instead of formal garb at the public reception in the state capitol rotunda. The Governor desired that all citizens, regardless of their attire, should feel at ease.

Although Governor Benson appeared as a critic of the economic system which in the past has permitted want and suffering in the midst of potential plenty, he proposed legal measures which would eliminate the abuses of this system and reform it, if it can be reformed. In other words, he threw a challenge to the defenders of the status quo by declaring in effect:

"All right. We will continue with your system. We will endeavor to make it fit human needs. If it can fit human needs then we have no further criticism to make of it, for, after all, our primary problem is one of obtaining human happiness. If the system cannot fit human needs no matter how altered or reformed then the people of this state and nation

The Rev. John Flint of Underwood, retiring district chairman and B. L. Hauge of Bagley were elected members of the state committee of the Farmer-Labor association.

Resolutions urging progressive legislation, particularly legislation to help agriculture, were adopted at the convention. One resolution favored the refinancing of farm indebtedness at low interest rates, along lines of the Frazier-Lemke bill plan.

Friday was the coldest day of the past week, the temperature slumping to near the 30 below zero mark. Readings failed to drop below zero Tuesday or Wednesday.

for the current year a budget calling for receipts of $2,400, and had voted to continue the scale of membership dues established in 1935 and to conduct an aggressive campaign for new members.

Dr. Carl Johnson, president of the Bemidji Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Ray Hannah, secretary of the Civic and Commerce association of that city, were present at the meeting and submitted a detailed outline of attractions that will feature the Paul Bunyan carnival which opens in Bemidji today and continues thru Sunday. Mr. Hannah also discussed mutual problems of civic groups, and voiced the opinion that the budget of the local association is relatively modest compared to those of similar groups in other communities of comparable size.

O. C. Paulson, asked to report on 1937 plans of the American Legion post, stated that a spring exposition will be staged in March in accordance with the custom established in past years. He also called attention to the fact that the local post will be host to the Ninth district Legion convention in June, and he solicited the support of other civic organizations in making the event an outstanding success. Mr. Paulson also urged the continued backing of local citizens for the local entry in the States-Dominion hockey league, the team being under the sponsorship of the Legion post.

Douglas Sooren outlined the activities of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of which he is president, and said the junior group is willing to cooperate at all times with other organizations working for the welfare of the community.

MARSHALL SEEKS STATE AID ON OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

Poor Relief Fund Overdrawn $22,000, Commissioners Announce

Resolution urging the Minnesota legislature to assume and pay the one-sixth of the old age assistance costs now paid by Marshall county because of the heavy tax burden on county taxpayers were adopted at the annual meeting of the county board of commissioners in session last week in Warren, says the Warren Sheaf.

The resolution seeks a special act whereby the state would assume the obligation in all counties wherein at least 25 per cent of the lands are tax delinquent or have reverted to the state.

In the important resolution it is pointed out that Marshall county has been levying all the money taxpayers can bear for old age assistance and poor relief and that the poor funds of the county are now overdrawn more than $22,000. It is apparent that the county cannot continue to pay their one-sixth share for old-age assistance, the resolution further stated.

Copies of the resolution will be submitted to Governor Elmer A. Benson, Senator Richard Rice, Representative Emil Morberg and Keneth C. Haycraft, director of Old Age Assistance for the state.

STATE, COUNTIES OPEN JOINT DRIVE TO CUT DEATH TOLL

Patrol to Cooperate More Closely With County Officials

A statewide drive, in co-operation with the sheriffs and county attorneys of Minnesota's 87 counties, was launched this week by the Minnesota highway department to reduce the toll of human life on the highways and to drive the drunken driver off the public roads.

Instructions for the drive were issued to all patrolmen of the Minnesota Highway patrol by John P. Arnoldy, chief patrol officer. At the same time, Chief Arnoldy, in his biennial report to N. W. Elsberg, state commissioner of highways, disclosed that the enlarged highway patrol had travelled a million more miles in 1936 than in 1935, put in 90,000 more patrol hours, and performed more than 400,000 official acts in the interest of law enforcement and accident prevention.

Minnesota sheriffs and county attorneys, at their recent state conventions, have been consulted and have agreed to full co-operation in the statewide campaign for 1937, Chief Arnoldy said.

In the past state highway patrolmen have customarily placed careless driving charges against motor vehicle operators under the influence of liquor. Hereafter, under new instructions in all such cases, patrolmen are ordered to consult with the county attorney whenever a driver is apprehended under influence of liquor, and the decision will be left to that county attorney as to whether the charge shall be careless driving or drunken driving, carrying a much more severe penalty.

In all cases of motor fatalities, the bulletin further instructs, patrolmen will notify both the county attorney and sheriff as quickly as possible so that both may assist in the investigation.

"The county attorney is the only person who can determine what charge shall be placed against the operator of a vehicle who, through culpable negligence, causes the death of any person", Mr. Arnoldy said in his instruction bulletin.

"The great slaughter of human lives on our highways must be stopped. You have the means, and with the assistance of the county attorney and sheriff fatalities and accidents can be reduced, and it is your duty to do so."

Minnesota's highway patrolmen traveled 4,249,390 miles, by automobile and motorcycle, in 1936, according to the biennial report, as compared with 2,961,748 in 1935.

The force increased its patrol hours from 170,739 in 1935 to 260,007 in 1936, the report shows, as an increased personnel brought the force to 100 men.

During the year, the patrol stopped and weighed 4,125 trucks, checked lights on 21,588 motor vehicles, checked brakes on 89,804 and examined 138,840 drivers for drivers' licenses. The patrol attended 1,280 accidents, took 179 vehicles into custody and gave aid to 73,430 motorists.

There were 160,435 drivers warned for various traffic law infractions, 50,051 tagged for illegal equipment, 20,692 tagged for improper licenses and 8,762 arrested. Where tags were given as a courtesy token, correction was required within 48 hours and motorists usually complied, Mr. Arnoldy said. Fines against offending drivers totaled $87,048 during the year and the patrol was responsible for collection of $214,138 in license corrections.

The year marked the first use of increased police powers by patrol, and patrolmen assisted in the apprehension of persons wanted for other crimes when found on the highways.

Former Local Citizen Tells of Progress Made by Matanuska Colony

In a letter to Mrs. N. C. Lindberg which, because of the longshoremen's strike on the west coast, took five weeks to reach this city from Alaska, Mrs. Carl Erickson, formerly of Thief River Falls and now a member of the Matanuska colony, tells of extensive building operations carried on by the colony during the past year. She expresses satisfaction with the reelection of President Roosevelt, thus insuring continuation of the project in Alaska. "We think", she writes, "that in the next four years we can prove that we can make a living here. We surely would have hated to leave." Mrs. Erickson writes that the winter up to the first of December had been extremely mild, and that on Thanksgiving Day men were at work outdoors in their shirt sleeves.

DEVANEY RESIGNS SUPREME COURT POST ON TUESDAY

Chief Justice John P. Devaney of the state supreme court resigned Tuesday effective Feb. 16 and Governor Elmer A. Benson, appointed Henry M. Gallagher, Waseca attorney, to succeed him.

Chief Justice Devaney who said he is planning to return to the private practice of law in Minneapolis, was asked by Governor Benson to delay the effective date of his resignation so that he might participate in the next meeting of the state board of pardons on February 8 and 9.

"Mr. Gallagher by training and experience, by cultivation of broad sympathies and ideals of life and public service is particularly fitted for this high position," said Governor Benson in announcing the appointment.

Attorney Gallagher had the endorsement of the Minnesota Bar association and groups of prominent attorneys throughout the state. He is a prominent southern Minnesota Democrat and a member of the state bar association, the American Bar association and was president of the Fifth District Bar association in 1930.

L. G. Arneson, Brother of Mrs. L. H. Larson, Dies in St. Paul Tuesday

L. G. Arneson of St. Paul, brother of Mrs. L. H. Larson, died in Bethesda hospital in St. Paul Tuesday, having been ill about two weeks with pneumonia. Funeral rites will be conducted at St. Paul Friday afternoon, and interment will be made there. Mrs. Larson left last Friday night for St. Paul, and her sons Philip and Milton will leave tonight to attend the rites.

Mr. Arneson, who has resided in St. Paul for the past fifteen years, was at the time of his death proprietor of the Prince of Wales Inn in St. Paul. He is well known to residents of this city having visited here on several occasions. His death was the third in the Arneson family within the past four months, the other deaths being those of a younger brother S. V. Arneson of Great Falls, Mont., which occurred the latter part of September, and of a nephew [illegible] old Arneson which occurred at St. Paul November 13, following an automobile accident.

Surviving relatives are Mr. Arneson's wife, his sisters, Mrs. Larson of this city and Mrs. G. F. Hendrickson of Seattle, Wash., and his brothers Fritz of New York City, Aleck of Munvel, N. Dak., and J. S. Arneson of St. Paul.

BOYS MAKE GAME OF BREAKING CITY LAMPS

Hutchinson—The City of Hutchinson has found that it harbors a prospective underworld gang in a group of boys who have made a game out of breaking street lights. It has been revealed that there is a secret organization, with points given for the youngsters who make the "best" records. The rumor has it that 15 points are given for breaking a white way globe (which cost the city $25 each) with five points for street lights and three points for insulators. Breaking these valuable objects is a part of the initiation into the club, and any member who has not a hundred or so points to his credit is considered a "softie". The practice has been going on for several weeks, the lads using hard mud balls, stones and icy snowballs for their purpose. The city council has offered a reward of $5 for information which will lead to the arrest of the members of the gang, with good prospects of the city going broke soon unless they are apprehended.

A-B-C of Hockey

By Coach Walter DePaul

Face Off: The referee drops the puck between the sticks of two opposing players who face each other with their right sides toward their respective team mates. The "face off" puts the puck into play at the start of each period and after the infringment of any rule or after a goal is made.

Off Side: An illegal play caused by a player in one zone receiving a pass from his team mate in the zone behind him or by a player preceeding his puck carrying team mate from the neutral (center) zone into the attacking zone. "Off side" results in the official stopping the play and facing the puck at the place of infraction.

Tripping: The placing of a players stick, knee or foot in such a manner that causes an opponent to fall. Usually in the case of the stick, if the player retrieves the puck and simultaneously causes the opponent to fall it is not deemed a trip. A "trip" incurs a minor penalty on the violator and a face off at the place of infraction.

Minor penalty: The loss of a player for the duration of two minutes who has violated such a rule.

Major penalty: The loss for the duration of five minutes of a player who has violated any such rule as incur such a penalty such as indulging in fisticuffs which is the most common violation under this rule.

Back-to-Bible Lectures Continue This Week

There is nothing in this world of strife and contention so precious to God as His true church. Her members are the body of Christ. In spite of the fierce persecutions the true followers of Christ had to suffer in ages past, the prophet declares: "He that toucheth you toucheth the apple of his (God's) eye". So declared Evangelist Gulbrandson in his lecture on "Gospel and Prophecy" last Sunday night in the old Methodist Church. In vivid pictures Mr. Gulbrandson showed how the mighty forces of evil in all ages have counteracted the ever advancing victorious followers of the lowly Nazarene, who keep the commandments of God and have the testimony of Jesus Christ. The Back to the Bible Lectures' program for next week is announced in this paper.

BOY GOES THROUGH ICE, MISSES HOLE

Fergus Falls—"It is an awful sensation to go down into ice cold water, but it is a lot worse to feel solid ice above one's head when you come to the surface", thinks John Henkes, 15-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Henkes of Fergus Falls. John and a chum, who were fishing through ice at Hoot Lake, intended to cut some holes when the former stepped on thin ice and went through. The ice there was thin, but where he came to the surface it was a solid mass, which his head struck. John made numerous attempts to get to the hole, but inevitably he missed it. When he finally pulled himself into it, he could get a breath of air and then he clung to the edge until his companion gave assistance. John, the heavier of the two, gave all the help he could by kicking his feet and pushing on the ice with his hands, and Jimmy Rustad, his friend who is younger and lighter, with a cool head and a firm hold rescued him.

BILLS BURNED IN FIRE NET PROFIT TO OWNER

International Falls.—When the Seventh Day Adventist school at Browns Corner was destroyed by fire on December 1, Miss Alice Anderson, resident teacher, gave up the roll of bills she had had in her desk as lost. She believed the roll contained $23, but she was not sure. When the ruins had cooled off, however, a search was made and a cluster of ashes found which appeared at one time to have been money. The bills were turned over to the bank, which sent them to Washington to the Treasury department. The other day the government returned its answer: the wad of ashes was worth $31, eight dollars more than the owner thought she had had in the desk. The cashier of the bank remarked that he wouldn't have given a nickel for the evidence. "It looked like just a bunch of ashes to me," he said.

STATE'S BUDGET SHOWS INCREASE OF $14,600,000

State Budget Head Submits Figures to Minnesota Legislature

Paul A. Rasmussen, state budget commissioner, Friday presented to the legislature a budget calling for appropriations of $58,634,446 for the 1937-39 biennium starting July 1, and $3,285,469 for financing deficiencies until the current biennium ends.

The budget represents an increase of $14,600,000 over 1935 appropriations.

Commissioner Rasmussen recommended increased iron ore, inheritance, moneys and credits and gasoline taxes to provide a larger income he said was necessary to permit a 25 per cent cut in state general property taxes, pay school aid in full and balance the budget.

He also recommended appropriations to finance a civil service system, aid the state employe retirement fund, establish a pay as you go relief system, restore salary cuts. He suggested the state gasoline tax be increased from three to four cents a gallon.

Commissioner Rasmussen said he had cut departmental budget requests an average of 25 per cent before submitting the budget.

Applications Go in for Benefit Payments

Applications for cash benefit payments in connection with the federal soil conservation program have now been signed by virtually all farm operators in the county and will be sent in to St. Paul headquarters by the end of the week, County Agent R. M. Douglass said today. Approximately 100 applications from owners of land in the county will then remain to be sent in, he added.

the board of control and the state relief administration are too high. The actual deficiency in state operating costs which must be met should not total more than $3,285,600, he asserted.

This is two to three million dollars lower than deficiency estimates based on figures of the control board and L. P. Zimmerman, relief administrator.

Mr. Rasmussen said that liquor tax collections are exceeding estimates to such an extent that the deficience can be met out of this excess without borrowing or levying special taxes.

U. S. GOVERNMENT SPENT 55 MILLION IN STATE SINCE '33

Total Revealed in Report of State Department of Conservation

The far-flung emergency conservation work program sponsored by the federal government has resulted in the expenditure of more than $55,000,000 in Minnesota alone since the spring of 1933, according to the third biennial report of the state department of conservation, now in preparation.

Minnesota, although ranking but eighteenth in population, on September 1, 1936, held seventh place in expenditure of federal funds for conservation purposes, the report states.

On that date 45,000 enrollees and 5,000 supervisory and technical employees had secured employment in national forest, state forest, state park, soil conservation service, and United States biological survey CCC camps.

It is estimated that $27,000,000 of the total federal expenditures were devoted to improvements directly under the supervision of the state department of conservation. The report recommends to the legislature the adoption of a merit system governing all employees of the department.

"The past two years have witnessed greater strides in the advancement of the cause of constructive conservation along all lines than any similar period in the state's history," the report states. "The work actually accomplished has advanced by many decades the state's program for the intensive management of its conservation and restoration needs and has furnished a basis on which future long time requirements may be planned."

State Willing to Give Iron Paving a Tryout, Highway Chief Asserts

If promoters of iron pavement will share part of the expense, and St. Louis county will pay the balance, the state highway department is willing to give iron highway pavement a trial in Minnesota, according to N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

Replying to a request from a St. Louis County delegation that specifications be changed to permit iron pavement on a grade crossing elimination project near Eveleth, Mr. Elsberg said he would make such a request to the United States Bureau of Public Roads if convinced the test would be without cost to taxpayers of the State.

The project involves approximately $5.50 a square yard, or about $27,500. St. Louis county has appropriated $15,000 to test iron paving, due to the importance of iron mining in Minnesota. The project is approximately six-tenths of a mile in length. A short stretch of iron paving is now being tested on the University of Minnesota campus. Iron would undoubtedly have a longer wearing surface than concrete, highway engineers say.

PLANE CRASHES, NO DAMAGES ARE RESULT

Hastings—As yet Hastings has no official airport but when dense fog forced John Wolf of the DuPont Aviation company of Minneapolis to land his ship here Saturday, he did so with little difficulty. Much to the surprise of the neighboring inhabitants he chose a field on the John Conzemius farm for a landing place. He set his plane down at four o'clock in the afternoon after waging a battle against rain and fog since leaving South Bend, Indiana about seven o'clock in the morning. Because of the strong wind, the ship was anchored to fence posts to keep it from overturning before the pilot could return for his plane the next morning, following a trip to Minneapolis.

TWIN CITY MARKET WEEK SCHEDULED FEBRUARY 8 TO 13

Minneapolis and St. Paul Jobbers Will be Hosts to Merchants

With retail sales during the holiday season surpassing all records for the past seven years, retail merchants of the Northwest have good reason to look forward to a continued increase in trade for spring, according to reports coming from all sections of this territory.

Wholesalers and manufacturers of the Twin Cities are preparing for the largest influx of buyers in the history of spring buying seasons, and in preparation therefor, are making elaborate plans for Twin City Market Week, February 8 to 13.

Cooperating with the Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Association and the Saint Paul Association of Commerce, joint sponsors of Market Week, are various special trade groups, and upwards of 150 individual firms. Elaborate displays of new goods for spring, in every line, will be placed on display for the convenience of visiting merchants, with special emphasis on goods for Easter.

Features of Market Week will be the style show conducted by the Twin Cities Apparel Industries on Monday, February 8, at the Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis, the semi-annual banquet of the National Merchants Association in Saint Paul on Tuesday evening, February 9, and a combination of business conferences and entertainment on Wednesday evening, the 10th, at the Curtis hotel. Special programs will also be provided for furniture groups, grocers, hardware dealers, and others.

The Style Show will feature the newest creations for spring, and will disclose many new effects that have been inspired by national and international events of recent months.

Retailers of the smaller towns and cities no longer find it difficult to offer the newest merchandise as quickly as those of the larger cities, according to A. C. Gasser of Minneapolis and M. H. Lathrop of St. Paul, co-chairmen of Twin City Market Week. When they attend Twin City Market Week, and on their other periodical visits to market, they find available for them immediate or future delivery, all that is up-to-date whether they are big or small.

BOY OUT TO TRAP MINK, LOST IN FOG

Deer Creek—Setting out from his home a few miles west of Wadena at ten o'clock one morning to look for minks and set traps, Glenn Smith became lost in the fog and in the evening, carrying a gun and a sack of traps, wandered into the home of Mrs. Ida Martin at Deer Creek. The boy was nearly exhausted and so frightened he could hardly talk, but managed to give a vague description of the location of his home. His search for mink was unsuccessful and before he knew, he lost his bearings and became hopelessly lost in the heavy fog. Continuing to wander aimlessly, he finally neared Deer Creek and then scared, tired and hungry, approached the home of Mrs. Martin, where he was given food and questioned until he could give some idea as to who he was and where he lived. The boy was taken by car to a place from which he could give directions to his home and when at nine o'clock he saw his mail box he was so overjoyed that beaming and happy he hurriedly ran to the house.

Red River Valley History

By Win V. Working

Geographical Names

We have a few historical facts to present to Times readers today that we feel should be known in order to keep the record straight with reference to local history. First, when reading an account of the experiences of Charles Cavileer, Pembina pioneer, by his daughter, the late Lula Cavileer, we found mention of the fact that mail carriers in the 50's and 60's, making trips between Crow Wing and Pembina traveled on Thief river in canoes. While we had know that voyageurs and explorers made use of the river, we did not stop to consider the significance of its usefulness to mail carriers.

But now persons interested in local history in the Thief River Falls community may muse on the fact that long before there were settlers in this neighborhood the woods along the banks of Thief river echoed the songs and shouts of French mixed blood carriers, who, like their colleagues, the voyageurs, liked to sing as they traveled. Apparently, these mixed bloods had little to fear from Chippewa or Cree relatives in this region, but were wary when they got farther south and found themselves in Sioux country. In fact, several of these carriers were killed by the Sioux. We talked with the son of one of the victims last summer. But we wished to bring out especially the fact that Thief river was an artery of travel for mail carriers back in the frontier years.

Another fact that we think deserves consideration here is that dealing with an old Indian legend concerning the source of the name of the Red River of the North. We introduce it here because the tale originated "near Red lake", which, according to collateral records, probably was not far from Thief River Falls. The story is that the Indians believed that tribes lived beneath the waters of the Red river in ancient times and to them they attribute the source of the river's name. It may be that they also believed people lived underneath the Thief river waters. Here is the story as recently published:

"Many theories have been advanced regarding the naming of the Red River of the North, prominent among them being the claim that it was called Red because of the many Indian battles resulting in the shedding of blood upon its shores. Authorities claim, however, that this is not the accurate interpretation and that the Red river was so named because of the color it took from vegetation which got into the water in flood years. This color is only noticeable when the river is at flood stage.

"The Rev. M. C. Wright, however, who conducted a mission near Red lake in 1843, and who ministered to the Chippewa Indians in that section for over 40 years, was given an explanation by the Indians which seems to be directly connected with the bloody Indian battle theory of the naming of the river.

"They told him that under the waters of the Red river there existed another world and at one time a great many people lived there and that they lost many warriors in a great battle which caused the waters of the river to run red.

"Still another version is that the river received its name because of the red-willow birches that grow along its banks and which the Chippewa called Aanepeminsiaa."

Coupled with this tale we have the pretty little story about the naming of Red lake by the Indians because they viewed the beautiful red sunsets across its waters. We are not sure that the Chippewa were capable of expressing themselves so poetically, not because of the paucity of Indian words, but rather due to the fact that their natures do not seem to have been such that they would be likely to apply such a name. Still, it may be that there were among them enough who were poetically inclined to make the story true.

By the way, we find a great many names among the Sioux in which the word red is used. The suffix "duta", meaning red, was common among the early Sioux in Minnesota. A notorious renegade leader of a Sioux bandit band was named Inkpaduta. But we have often wondered why there is so much interest in the source of the name of the Red river. After all, it matters little just how the name was derived, since there is no real historical fact connected with the naming as in the case of Thief river.

The interest in the source of the name Itasca, of course, is a different matter, and we should like, by the way, to read an article by Heinie Mitchell of the Bemidji Pioneer on the source of the name. Some time ago Heinie told us that the story about Schoolcraft making up a synthetic name for the lake that is considered to be the source of the Mississippi was all wrong and that the word Itasca is a Chippewa name, given if we are not mistaken to male children. We didn't pay strict attention to what Mr. Mitchell said because it occurred in the course of a general conversation and perhaps the writer should not be dealing with his remarks so freely, but that is the gist of what he said, anyway.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

The operation of the unemployment insurance act passed by the special session of the legislature is endangered through the adoption of the merit system. On first thought merit rating may seem a wise provision. If an employer so operates his establishment as to give steady employment, it seems fair that he should be given preferred treatment in the levying of the unemployment compensation tax, and within certain very carefully safeguarded limits that may be both fair and proper. But the degree of steadiness of employment is much more the result of the nature of the industry than of the care used by a given employer in that industry. An industry must be carried on, the industry which by its very nature gives unstable employment as well as the industry which by its nature gives steady employment. The employer in the unstable industry should not be asked to carry a heavier load by reason of the instability of the industry in which he gives employment.

Moreover, if we retain a system of merit rating as far-reaching as the system incorporated in the recent act we unduly narrow the tax base and by that much narrow the scope of the unemployment benefits which can be given. The effect of merit rating is to complicate the accounting, to impose the heavier burdens on the strong, to make still more unequal the competition between the small establishment and the large establishment; and greatly to limit the amount of the fund available to meet the demands of a future period of depression.

Liberals for the first time in the history of Minnesota on January 5 took over control of our state government. With Governor Elmer A. Benson, Attorney General William S. Ervin, and State Treasurer C. A. Halverson, all Farmer-Laborites, in office, control of the state executive council will rest with the liberals. The other two members of the council are Secretary of State Mike Holm and State Auditor Stafford King.

The new House has been organized by the Liberals with Representative Harold H. Barker of Elbow Lake as speaker. Conservatives, however, remain in control of the Senate, by virtue of the fact that there were no elections to the Senate on November 3.

The House is expected to go along with Governor Benson in charting a real constructive liberal program. Just how far the reactionary controlled Senate will go is a matter for speculation. In view of the fact, however, that the Republican spokesmen in the last election declared themselves in favor of liberal legislation, and also because the overwhelming vote for the liberal candidates constitutes a mandate from the people, reactionary senators are expected to place fewer obstacles in the path of such a program than formerly.

Control of the railroad and warehouse commission also will rest with the liberals with all three members, Commissioners Charles R. Munn, Harold E. Atwood and Hjalmar Petersen, all Farmer-Laborites.

The will of S. H. Sonsen, Winona attorney and member of the State College Board, bequeathed $10,000 to needy students attending various state teachers colleges in Minnesota. The Board will decide who are to be the recipients of aid on recommendations of the normal college presidents. Mr. Sonsen died on December 15.

"U" Faculty Engaged in Many Research Projects

What a college professor does with his spare time when not actually teaching might be answered as far as University of Minnesota faculty members are concerned by reference to the report recently issued by President L. D. Coffman to the Board of Regents regarding research projects under way at the University. Preceding his report, President Coffman said: "No survey of researches in progress in the natural and physical sciences can even approach thoroughness since nearly every member of the faculty is devoting some time to one or more investigations in search of new knowledge. There are, however, a number of researches that have recently progressed to a point that makes them noteworthy."

"SEND GIFT", SAYS MAN'S CONSCIENCE

Hibbing—A souvenir hunter's stricken conscience gave Roy Quigley, manager of a local hotel, his most unique Christmas gift. It was a large package which contained 12 pieces of hotel silver, each beautifully wrapped in tissue paper and adorned with colorful seals, and an ash tray and salt and pepper shakers, all hotel property. With it came a card bearing the inscription, "A happy Christmas from a bothered conscience." It was the first time Mr. Quigley received such a gift, but he states that he would appreciate many more.

Helquist, Stadum, Pace Locals First Half Scoring Spree

The remnants of a gritty Prowler cage squad carried on grimly for their absent mates to win their first district game by walloping the gallant Warren Ponies, 28 to 20, in a fast and furious contest at the local Municipal Auditorium Friday evening.

The Prowlers were noticeably weakened by the loss of Captain Bud Nelson, Gordon Caldis, Milt Nesse and Robert Quale who were forced out of activity by the near epidemic of influenza. Although Coach Lysaker's "hoopsters" resorted to straight basketball with no frills, the locals were hard pressed to win the nip and tuck fray.

Bossman sent Warren into a quick lead, but Roy Lee countered and Stadum worked the ball under the meshes to score, giving the locals a lead. Gordon added a gift shot for the visitors. Lenny Helquist, prodigious guard, scored on the only successful distant shot of the game. The lead mounted as Helquist, Mickelson and Stadum accounted for five additional points giving the Leemen a 10 to 3 edge at the end of the quarter.

Bossman cashed in on a free throw. Don Lorentson scored by the simple expedient of dribbling down to the basket. Warren dominated play in this stanza with Bossman, Wilson, Hjelle and Hirst tallying field goals and Hulls converting a free throw. Stadum counted a free throw before the gun terminated play at the half. The Leemen clung to a 16-13 lead but Warren came within a hair's breadth of closing the gap.

The Prowlers regained their poise in the third period. Mickelson made a free shot but Hulls found the net from near the sideline. Stadum's shot under the basket was matched by a shot from Wilson. Haugham went to a guard post and immediately scored on a pretty left handed shot. Lorentson swished in a field goal, and Stadum added two free shots and Mickelson one as the quarter ended with Warren in the short end of a 26 to 17 score.

Play during the final quarter went at a terrific pace with both teams exhibiting an almost impregnable defense. Bossman counted from the foul line, Lorentson's shot was duplicated by Wilson's and the final gun ended the game, 28 to 20.

Loren "Bones" Stadum, elongated soph center, provided the difference between victory and defeat by accounting for ten points, besides acquitting himself nobly under the basket on defense. He and Bob Wilson presented a stirring duel at center although "Bones" had much the better of it. Art Bossman, the Warren sparkplug, played an excellent all around game. The entire Prowler team performed acceptably although they were jittery and indecisive at times on defense. Almost all scoring was done at short range with few shots of the hope variety.

In a preliminary tussle, the Prowlers' "B" squad defeated the Warren "B's", 21 to 17, in a closely contested, but rather drab affair. La Rue Anderson, diminutive but rugged forward, who provided the spark for the local reserves, is improving with every game and is seen as a future star. The entire starting lineup played well with Robert Kielty, frosh ace, holding honors for the subs. The Warren sniper, Bob Dahlof, displayed a deadly eye for the hoop, with twelve of his team's seventeen points to his credit. Ken Howe was a tartar defensively.

Milt Nesse Selected Most Valuable Gridder

At an assembly held last Friday afternoon in the high school auditorium, Mr. Lee made his annual award to the member of football squad who was voted the outstanding player on the squad by his team mates. The award was a football autographed by the Galloping Gophers of the University of Minnesota, national gridiron champions for the third successive year.

Milt Nesse, Prowler captain and fullback, was presented the award after a final vote had been taken to determine the winner. Jack Adkins, husky guard, and Pomeroy Hill, illusive halfback, were others in the running who were edged out in a close decision for the award.

Milt Nesse has been a member of the Prowler football squads for four years. He had the distinction of being the only freshman on the regular squad in his first year of competition. Although he did not win a letter, he was regarded by Coach Roger Dooley, former Prowler athletic mentor, as an outstanding prospect. In his sophomore year he broke into the regular backfield, teaming with Arnold Gunderson, Art Nelson and James Van Pelt to form one of the strongest backfields in Lincoln High School history.

Performing behind a sturdy line he was regarded as one of the best all-around backs in the Northwest last season. He was supported by Roger Weasling, Pomeroy Hill, and Selmer Dicken to form a speedy and well balanced backfield. Besides being a powerful line plunger, and defensive back, Milt's punting is truly worthy of comment as is his passing. He proved to be a clever and courageous leader and the Prowlers success of the recent season was mainly a part of Milt's work. Milt's sports activity is not confined to football as he is now a member of the Prowler cage squad.

FROSH ENTERTAIN UPPERCLASSMEN

"Valuable Player" Award Given M. Nesse by Coach Lee

Friday, February eighth, was Freshman Day and so the pep fest preceding the Warren basketball game was put on by the freshmen of Lincoln high school. First the freshmen stood up and sang through the school song and then the entire assembly rose and sang it. The song was led by Bill Clafly, Jr. with Mr. Harrison at the piano. Bill then led the freshmen in a yell. Wayne Bredeson acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the "Kaltenmeyer Kindergarten" in which a group of freshmen played the parts of the famous pupils. Joseph Rierson took the part of "Yonny Yohnson"; James Borlaug played "Percy Van Schuyler"; Marguerite Simonson enacted "Gertie"; John Magnuson was the dunce and Loren June acted as Professor Kaltenmeyer. Other pupils taking part in the skit were Rodney Brodine, and the members of the freshmen girls sextet, namely, Dagny Tungseth, Elaine Ramstack, Mildred Jensen, Elaine Douglas, Doris Hostvet, and Lois Jordahl. This sextet sang the selection "The Martins and the Coys." The assembly was closed by a group of yells led by Lorraine Amundson and Mary Chommie.

THE SCREAMER

Big, huge, giant, enormous, he-man Adkins! The poor fellow isn't satisfied with skating with one girl but he has one on each arm. Nice going!

Those freshmen are a quiet bunch at least when they're up for exhibition. But that's all right, little ones, some day you'll fight just as the juniors have done, ahh! We know you'd rather be silent than as noisy as "those juniors."

And still more about the freshmen. We have evidence that the freshman boys were calling on a [illegible] girl Saturday night. Do you know who they were? None other than Warren H. and Don P.!

Here's just an idea for an additional subject to be taught in Lincoln High School. How about [illegible] such fellows as Milt N. [illegible] [illegible] Nonsense, we're merely trying to be helpful.

Well, Don O! So you can't even keep on your own two feet. Imagine going skating after a two year vacation from that sport. Very poor technique for something!

There's no doubt about the superiority of this year's pep squad over that of last year and what's more they're all prepared to hold their own when results begin to fly around.

Hey, Mel! Oh never mind, we just thought that we would tell the school about that new affair of yours. [illegible] but if you don't want it mentioned, we'll be absolutely silent on the subject!

May we offer a bit of competition for a rival column? Thanks, we will. [illegible] A popular [illegible] Lorraine A. when her brother drives a taxi?

L. H. S. DEBATERS OPEN '37 SEASON

Lincoln Affirmative Meets Grand Forks; Negative Meets A. C. Team

Last Thursday, Jan. 7, the first inter-school debates were held in Crookston, Warren, Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, and the Crookston A. C. were represented at the contest. The question for debate this year is: Resolved: That all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated. The members of the Lincoln High School debate team who debated at Crookston were Robert Smith and Vernon Wedul, who upheld the affirmative, and Bruce Prichard and Marjorie Matheson, who upheld the negative.

The Crookston A. C. affirmative team were James Weckwerth and Duane Moen, who debated with Bruce Prichard and Marjorie Matheson, and Arthur Brodon and Henry Becker, Axel Rynning and Marvin Nablean upheld the negative for Crookston. The debate coach at Crookston is Mr. D. C. Sheetz.

The Grand Forks Central affirmative team was composed of Arlene Dunreae and Roberta Finlay and the negative teams were Francis Haxo and Ray Holmquist, Patricia Tyndale and Dorothy Granquard, the latter two debating with Robert Smith and Vernon Wedul. The Grand Forks team is coached by Mr. E. L. Schort.

Warren's negative team is composed of Joan Hanson and Donald Kurz, and the affirmative team is made up of Genevieve Danielson and Margaret Reierson. Miss Fee is the coach of the Warren team.

Because the debates were non-decision debates no school won any honors but the Lincoln High teams coached by Mr. Montague made a very good showing in their first contest.

TEACHERS' TRAINING

At a meeting of the T. T. T. R. C. held last Monday, Irene Hanson and Andre Moland were elected reporters to the Progress for the coming month.

Anne Hermanson has been absent from school the past week due to illness.

A new unit of practise teaching, that of fifth and sixth grade History and Citizenship, was begun last Wednesday. Evelyn Peterson, Vivian St. Martin and Esther Bhende are teaching at the Washington School. Those teaching at the Northrop are Eleanor Forney, Thelma Kolden, Iris Ayers and Andrea Moland. Those teaching at the Knox are Luella Bjorkman, Irene Tammer, Rebecca Parquin, Audrey Moland, Anne Hermanson and Alice Ann Severson.

The mounting of standard pictures is the art project for this week.

TOWN HAS THREE MAYORS IN YEAR

Waubun, having three mayors within the period of a year, and still being without one for two months, this village will again return to normalcy when its new mayor takes office this month. The office was made vacant by the death of Halvor Bakken, who had filled the position since April when a vacancy was caused by the death of W. H. Carr. A new mayor was elected in November, but officially he could not take office until January.

Last Friday the third annual edition of Lincoln High School's Pep Squad made their first appearance of the school year. This thriving organization is composed of sixteen girls under the supervision of Miss Hellquist. These girls have been working hard to give the school an organization that can compare favorably with any in the Northwest. This group of girls are journeying to Bemidji tomorrow evening to help represent our school at that basketball game which is a feature of that city's Paul Bunyan celebration. These girls gave an excellent performance last Friday and promise to repeat it at Bemidji. Lets give them our support.

A short time back, before our Christmas holiday, the last basketball game during 1936 was played. That game, brought together two teams that had not met for three years. That game also brought something to our attention, a matter that we thought the students of this high school had stopped indulging in, i. e., the practice of "booing" the referee. Last school year, after being guilty of this offense of the code of good sportsmanship and being reprimanded for it, we thought that it was something this student body would not be guilty of again. But now it springs out at us again. Lets stop it at once. The only way to do it is for each and every one of us to be good sports.

L. H. S. Faculty Return From Christmas Vacation

During the Christmas holidays, the Lincoln High School faculty returned to their various home towns and also traveled to other places in the United States.

Mrs. Korstad stayed at St. Paul visiting her daughter one week, and the other week she remained at home in Thief River Falls.

Miss Olson visited a few days at St. Paul, and spent the rest of the time at her home at Warroad.

The only two of the faculty who really traveled far during the two weeks were Miss Larson and Mr. Gabrielson. Miss Larson visited at Greencastle, Indiana, and Mr. Gabrielson went to Chicago where he took in two basketball games, one international ice carnival, and two N. B. C. broadcasts.

WIND-CHILL

One of the promising young business men of our city has trouble in starting his car after leaving it parked in front of Miss Hellquist's home! Oh, well.

And then one of the haughty young things asked me last week if I wasn't glad school was starting again? What is this younger generation coming to?

Wonder where Fae B. was Friday afternoon? She [illegible] she wasn't in school in the afternoon but Mr. Montague [illegible] the 5th period. Is Fae one of those famous "double personages"?

Vacation and weekends are taking the toll of our students. Seems about half the school has to stay home to rest up, or something.

Ask Evelyn T. the name of the show Saturday evening.

Have "you all" noticed the new outfits some of the girls are sporting—and they're made with their own hands too, (or so Roberta and Bonnie claim.)

Something should be done about those very dignified seniors in physics class! putting tacks on chairs, sitting on the floor (you know, missing the chair), etc. Could it be any chance be the "gypsy in you" could it?

The Game of Curling

The "horseshoe" sport, officially known as curling, is actually a combination of horseshoes and shuffleboard, played on ice. Contestants, instead of throwing shoes, slide heavy weights along the ice, aiming for the center of a circle instead of

PROWLERETTE'S CORNER

Aha! We find much hilarity caused by "prowlerettes" when the dramatization of "1st aid" in gym classes. Knowledge gained, too with some good set-ups and realistic circumstances created. There was everything from a questionable singer's first public appearance ending in a dead faint to a fireman's life for a day—sirens 'n all! Prowlerettes claim learning 1st aid is fun in Miss Hellquist's way of teaching.

Posters who kept the bulletin board in such "dandy" and "seasonable" way are being voted upon now. We'll have the outcome in next week's paper! Miss Hellquist told your own "prowlerette reporter that she was pleased with the spirit and talent which the display exhibited. Each member of the winning committee receives 50 points toward her "L". Also, the winning committees will keep the bulletin board up for the rest of the year with the aid and suggestions of their teacher. Down-right clever girls she has in her classes and it's beginning to show up very clearly on the bulletin board!

Two leagues in basketball this season! Because there are five teams in one and six in another they call themselves (1) The Quintuplet League and (2) The Big Six League. Captains of teams in Quintuplet League are:

(1) Slickers—Ruth Goethe
(2) Slayers—Peg Simonson
(3) Silver Streaks—Margaret Dowarter
(4) Meteorites—Mary Alice Beidermann
(5) Rainbow Aces—Margaret Miller

Captains of teams in Big Six League are:

(1) Skyrockets—Merten Ward
(2) Torpedoes—May Anderson
(3) Whizzers—Jean Lee
(4) Black Legion—Ragna Folkedahl.
(5) Lincoln Zephers—Harriette Simonson
(6) Centipedes—Evelyn Tungseth.

Colorful names, eh? Yet, a different sort of colorful than our last year's pinks, greens and etc. But—practices must be attended to gain full value of points. It'll do you good to work off some of the surplus accumulated during vacation.

By the way—have you noticed that some of the "prowlerettes and prowlers" do all right doing "A Waltz in Skate-Time?" Well, anyway skating's fun in the arena. Agree?

So until next week keep your pep (even though you have to buy Kellogg's), support the Prowlers; and congratulate the Pep-Squad on their first "swellagant" appearance. See you in Bemidji!

'ROUND THE SCHOOL

Miss Diebel's history classes have started a review for the mid-term examination.

Miss Olson's English I classes are starting to read Ivanhoe.

Miss Steenerson's English II classes are starting to read the novel Silas Marner.

Mrs. Korstad's algebra classes are learning shortcuts in multiplying and division as applied to both arithmetic and algebra.

Solomon Islands

The discoverer of the Solomon Islands named them for King Solomon because it was believed that these islands supplied the gold for his temple. There is no proof of this, however. The naked natives eat lizards, crocodiles and mastodantics. Tobacco is used as currency there.

T. R. F. QUINT TO MEET CASS LAKE

Locals Win First Tilt by Score of 37-22

The traveling Prowlers will play their second game in as many nights when they invade the lair of the Cass Lake Indians on Saturday, January 16. This will be the second clash between these rivals this season. The Prowlers won a thrilling encounter from the Indians by a 37 to 22 tally before the Christmas vacation. Only the proficiency of Lenny Helquist in garnering baskets and the otherwise top form of the team caused this game to be rewarded to the locals.

The Indians present a rangy and well balanced team that should extend the Prowlers to the limit on the Cass Lake floor. Cass Lake has always an exceptional high percentage of wins on their home floor and this may spell disaster to Coach Lee's boys. The probable Cass Lake lineup will have Wright and D. Gamache at forwards, Letendre at center, and R. Gamache and Micheal at guards. Neises, Stenberg and Doran may also put in time on the hardwood.

The return to top form of Captain "Bud" Nelson, Gordon Caldis, Milt Nesse and Robert Quale who have been out, because of illness is doubtful. These cagers are probably rusty from inactivity and will not return to their regular efficiency until they have a game or two under their belts. Coach Lee usually has a solution for every problem, and it is certain that the Indians will be in for a hectic evening. The contest has every promise of being a hair raiser with the visiting Prowlers—slight favorites.

Last week intra mural basketball was resumed with the playing of six more games. In the first game the Gophers won their first victory by beating the Bats 14 to 11. In the next game the Black-hawks downed the Trojans by a score of 37 to 8. The Boilermakers, in the third game of the week, won with 26 points to the giants' 16. Then the Cornhuskers won with 28 points to the Billikens' 12. The Panthers, a high rating team, beat the Badgers 28 to 9 and in a very decisive game, the Boilermakers 41 to 6.

Eight high scorers in order of points made for all the games played are the following: Earl Nicholson 46, Alvin Dicken, 46, Rueben Mickelson 42, Adrian Lorentson 39, Clarence Haug 35, Percy Pederson 33, Pomeroy Hill 31, and Clifford Olson 27.

In a special practice contest at the auditorium, a group of junior intra mural basketball stars consisting of Clifford Oleson, Alvin Dicken, Kenneth Jaranson, Glenn Carlson and Miloy Nelson forced the Prowler "B" team to go several short overtime periods before conceding the game by a 25 to 23 score. Lynn Booren scored the deciding 2 points for the "B's."

"Thumbnails of Seniors"

"Stuff and thing"—Monson
"Oh My!" Johnson

Archie doesn't wish for much in the future, just a car of his own (I wonder if he wrote to Santa). He was born in Thief River Falls, on August 5, 1919. His two hobbies are radio tinkering and building. "Pennies from Heaven" is his favorite popular selection. When a cartoon comedy flashes across the screen Archie isn't in the best of spirits. "Magnificent Obsession" is his ideal as a book and Loyd C. Douglas his ideal as an author. Benny Goodman's music will do (nothing fussy about Archie). He prefers Kraft's Music Hall to any other program on the air, and Bob Burns to any other radio star. His delights on the screen are centered on Ronald Coleman, Simone Simon and the movie, "Under Two Flags." Social is his favorite subject. A piece of banana cream pie might calm him after witnessing a cartoon comedy! He took part in the Junior Class play of '35 and is a member of the band.

Dorothy DoDa to some people would like to be a nurse. She hasn't any particular hobbies and tests are her pet peeve. Dorothy prefers the singer Jeanette MacDonald and likes to hear Ben Bernie and all the lads play "In a Chapel in the Moonlight." She turns the dial to "One Man's Family" every Wednesday night. She was born in Thief River Falls on March 21, 1919. "Magic Garden" [illegible] Hill was very interesting to her. On the screen she likes Bob Taylor and the movie "Magnificent Obsession." Skating is her favorite sport and tuna fish salad her favorite dish.

1936 Grid Lettermen Announced Friday

At an assembly held last week the football lettermen for 1936 were announced. The role of honor for the past season consists of 22 boys, this is perhaps the largest number of letter winners for some time. Included in these 22, six were seniors, fourteen juniors and two sophomores, while the freshmen were unrepresented. The letter winners were as follows: Seniors; Capt. Milt Nesse, Jack Adkins, James Peterson, Bud Nelson, Sam Dicken and Helmer Sahl. Juniors; Capt-elect Bob Hanson, Don Lorentson, Lynn Booren, Lowell Nesse, Cliff Olsen, Clark Mickleson, Clarence Matson, Gordon Caldis, Wes. Johnson, Bob Micholsky, Wally Tunberg, Ray Bredeson, Reg. Weasling, and Pomeroy Hill, and the Sophomores contributed Loren Stadum and Orville Ede. Besides this list of lettermen several boys who stood out all year were Cliff Lunke, Robert Schmiltser, Karl Sundberg, Jewel Stadum, Warren Hill, Gene Nelson, Bob Sunde, Jack Hess and Nels Holmberg.

The lettermen will be guests at dinner given by the Junior Civic and Commerce, Thursday, Jan. 21. After the dinner they will see the pictures of all the Minnesota football games of the past season.

GOPHER PICTURES TO BE PRESENTED

Local Jr. C. of C. Sponsors for Athletic Fund

On Thursday, January 8, at 8:00 p. m. Phil Brain of the Physical Education Department of the University of Minnesota will present a moving picture of the activities of the Minnesota team in the 1936 football season. The picture will include a play by play description of each of the eight games played by the Minnesota team this year.

This picture is sponsored by the Junior Civic Chamber of Commerce of this city, and it will be presented at the municipal auditorium. Mr. Lee, Gabrielson, and Montague are faculty members serving on the committee in charge.

A portion of the proceeds of the production will go to the local high school athletic fund.

During the past few years, the fame of the University of Minnesota team has been a topic of universal discussion. This is the first time that pictures of this type has been presented in this city. The production is open to the public. Admission charges will be 20c for students and 35c for adults.

PROWLIN' 'ROUND

A new threat (or rather an old one reappearing) has arisen on the basketball horizon of District 31. This threat is in the form of the Green Wave of East Grand Forks. The wave swept over their intercities rival Grand Forks Central like a tidal wave last week end to prove that they are distinctly in the running for the '37 championship. Coach Chalky Reed's five got off to a poor start and were defeated by Cass Lake and Crookston. Now they seem to have resumed the usual Reed stride and will furnish plenty of battle for Coach Lee's Lincolnites a week from tomorrow night.

A new football captain has been elected. In the humble opinion of this scribe, a better choice was impossible. Bob Hanson, the captain-elect, will undoubtedly fill the shoes of his predecessor, Milt Nesse, capably. And as you all must realize that task is not an easy one. Bob won his first "L" this year as regular center and is expected to handle that same position next season. He continues a long line of great centers turned out by this school including June, Kinghorn, Gunderson, and many others. He is smaller in stature than any of the others, but he makes up for this in fight and stamina. All in all he is a capable leader for the gridiron forces of Lincoln High.

LUMBERJACKS TO BE PROWLERS NEXT OPPONENT

Graduation-weakened State Champs Test Locals at Bemidji Friday

After two victories and two defeats the Prowlers will journey to Bemidji tomorrow to face a strong Bemidji High School cage team that is fighting for another state championship. Although last springs graduation festivities took away a good share of Bemidji's team, including Galloway, all-state center, Johnson, all-state forward, and McCormick, they still have enough left and have developed sufficient new material to give the boys in blue and gold from Thief River a strong fight, and probably will prove to be too strong.

In one of its first games of the season, Bemidji won over Cass Lake by approximately the same margin as did the Prowlers—but it was in that game that Helquist took a sudden liking to the basket making twenty of the Prowler total of 37 points just on his lone shots. If he or some other member of the local five, would repeat this accomplishment tomorrow night at Bemidji, it would, undoubtedly, be a deciding factor in the game.

A few weeks ago, at the same time that the Prowlers were mixing with Grand Forks Central, East Grand Forks took a trip to Bemidji and came back with a 21 to 9 defeat on their backs. Then a week ago, this same Little Green Wave of East Grand Forks played Grand Forks Central and defeated them. So here the whole thing is, in the proverbial "nutshell." G. F. Central beat the Prowlers, the Prowlers won over Cass Lake, Cass Lake and Bemidji both trim East Grand Forks by large scores, and then the Green Wave turns right around and defeats a very strong Grand Forks Central quintet. That's how things stand, the reader of this so-called article will have to figure it out for himself because the writer gives up. Things are in a bit of jumble, but one thing is somewhat of a certainty and that is this: The Prowlers will go into the game with the odds slightly against them but with a lot of support, a good hard fight from every one of the boys, and a bit of luck here and there—Bemidji, beware!

EXCHANGE

The Progress has received several publications from other schools during the past two weeks. Included among these are papers from Ada, Hallock, Sherburn, Crookston, Milaca, Concordia College, Faribault and Luther College of Decorah, Iowa.

Many of these publications are mimeographed sheets while some are included in the city journal and others are printed entirely independent of any local influences.

Sherburn High School presents an interesting variation in a seperate section included in the weekly city paper. The Crookston Pepster exhibits an excellent effort in student work. Their paper is a mimeographed sheet completely prepared and printed by the students.

Over fifteen colleges and high schools are now contributing to the Progress exchange lists. The progress sheet has been sent to all of these schools.

Births and Deaths

It is estimated that 150,000 persons are born every day and 100,000 die. The population of the world, therefore, is increasing by about 50,000 daily.

SEN. GERALD NYE WILL BE SPEAKER AT WINTER SHOWS

North Dakota Senator Will Discuss Munitions February 10

Winter Shows officials have announced Senator Gerald P. Nye as one of the principal speakers during the forthcoming Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows. Senator Nye will speak Wednesday evening, February 10, on the relationship of the munitions industry to world peace. His work as chairman of the senate munitions investigation committee has been the subject of widespread interest throughout the nation.

The American people are anxious to contribute their full share towards the peace and good will among nations. Senator Nye's address will therefore focus attention on this important problem, and assist the people of the Red River Valley in forming sound judgments with respect to national policy.

Senator Nye has been a member of the United States senate since 1925. His home is at Cooperstown, North Dakota, where he was formerly editor and manager of the Griggs County Sentinal-Courier.

Other leading speakers who will appear on the program during the week include: Mr. D. M. Ladd, G-man in charge of the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation; Dean W. C. Coffey, University Farm; Mrs. Bess Wilson, Minneapolis; Professor LeRoy Arnold, Hamline University; Miss Esther Thompson, director of women's work, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg; Dr. F. J. Alway; Professors W. H. Alderman, J. B. Fitch, E. F. Ferrin, P. A. Anderson, R. C. Rose, A. G. Tolaas, A. J. Schwantes, T. A. Erickson, A. J. Kittleson, Miss Amy Wessel, and L. P. Offer Two Weeks Course for Vegetable Growers

To help young men get started right in commercial vegetable production, horticulturists at University Farm, St. Paul, will sponsor a 2-week Vegetable Growers Short Course from January 25 to February 5. A fee of $3 will be the only charge, but registration will be limited to 40 persons. Dr. F. A. Krantz, widely-known potato breeder of the division of horticulture, will be in charge. The purpose of the course, he says, is to enable persons intending to follow the business of commercial vegetable growing to become better acquainted with agricultural science and its relation to the vegetable industry. Principles underlying production and distribution problems will be stressed.

STATE CALLS BIDS ON $100,000 ROAD JOBS

Bids on two state highway jobs to cost approximately $100,000 have been called for January 15 by N. W. Elsberg, commissioner of highways. One project, in Austin, Mower county, will eliminate a flood condition imperiling Trunk Highways Nos. 16 and 218 within the city limits, dirt from dredging to fill a proposed roadside park area. This job, 2.6 miles in length, calls for 140,810 cubic yards of excavation and 91 cubic yards of concrete sewer syphon, the sewers to be under Red Cedar river and Dobbins creek. The other jobs, on T. H. No. 92, between 11 miles south of Bagley and six miles southeast of Mallard, calls for 10.5 miles of stabilized aggregate base and subgrade treatment, the work requiring 1,511 cubic yards of subgrade excavation, 1,895 cubic yards of subgrade backfill, 7,017 cubic yards of binder soil and 24,312 tons of gravel base.

NATIONAL YOUTH ADMINISTRATION PROVIDES SCHOOL

Young Women May Attend Residence School in St. Paul

The National Youth Administration of Minnesota operates a school for girls at 1006 Ivy Street, St. Paul, under the direction of Miss Adelia Prichard. This is a statewide project and accommodates approximately one hundred girls at a time, for a term of four months.

Young women between the ages of 18 and 25 who are physically and mentally normal, and who are otherwise eligible to work on NYA projects may be enrolled at the school. The courses offered are of a broad and practical nature including household management, foods, clothing, music, arts and craft, advanced typing, parliamentary law and other useful lines. During a part of each day the girls are assigned to work projects for which they are paid the scheduled NYA rates in the St. Paul district. With the money earned they are able to pay for their room and board which leaves a small amount for personal spending each month. There is no tuition charge.

Girls who are either working on the NYA now or who can be certified for this work and would like to attend the girls residence school should write to Miss Prichard at the above address at once. The next regular term begins February 1st.

The district NYA office at Detroit Lakes, the NYA area office at Thief River Falls, as well as the several county relief agencies throughout the district can furnish information regarding the rules for eligibility to work under the NYA.

Plummer on the other hand punctured the defense easily and it was only their inability to make baskets that kept the score down.

FAIR DATES FOR 1937 ARE SET AT AUGUST 10 TO 13

Action Taken at Meeting of State Federation in Minneapolis

ROBERT J. LUND NAMED ON STATE FAIR BOARD

Elected Friday at Meeting of State Agricultural Society

Robert J. Lund, secretary of the Pennington county fair board, was elected Ninth district director of the State Agricultural Society, sponsor of the Minnesota state fair, at the annual meeting of the organization in Minneapolis Friday. He succeeds S. E. Olson of Ada, who was advanced to the presidency after being placed in nomination by W. E. Dahlquist.

At the federation meeting last week, which was attended also by O. C. Paulson, the dates of the 1937 Pennington fair were set at August 10, 11, 12 and 13, the dates being fixed later than in former years in order to secure the desired attractions. Contracts were signed for all but two acts for the performances in front of the grandstand as well as for the carnival attractions.

Mr. Lund has served as secretary of the fair board here since 1928 with the exception of one year, during which period the local institution has advanced in rank to its present position of fifth in Minnesota in point of attendance. He also completed this year his third two-year term as a director of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

Albin Olson of Hallock was named a director of the county fair federation succeeding Mr. Lund. At the Minneapolis meeting it was announced that total attendance at county fairs in the state in 1936 totaled more than 1,500,000 and that receipts from all sources were in excess of $500,000, while the fairs paid out $150,884 in prizes of which $96,980 was contributed by the state.

Mr. Lund left Monday evening for St. Paul to attend the organization meeting of the state fair board, scheduled to be held Tuesday in the administration building on the fair grounds. At the meeting, from which he returned this morning, he was appointed supervisor of the agricultural department of the huge state exposition.

Dr. John G. Rockwell Speaks at Parent-Teacher Meeting Monday Evening

Expounding his conviction that the opportunity for education should be equalized thruout the state as a safeguard of democracy at the January meeting of the Parent-Teacher association Monday evening, Dr. John G. Rockwell state commissioner of education, discussed a half-dozen education bills pending in the current session of the legislature.

C. E. Helquist, vice president of the association, presided over the program, which also included several musical features, among them a piano solo by Miss Eileen Rolland, a group of marimba selections by Miss Lorraine Quist, accompanied by Mrs. Cassie Harrison; and several songs by the Lincoln high school boys double quartet, accompanied by Harold F. Harrison.

Dr. Rockwell, who was introduced by Supt. Morris Bye, said that Minnesota has gone a long way toward providing equality of educational opportunity thru its various state aids which have permitted many schools to continue to function thru the years of the depression.

He pointed out, however, that the equalizing process is not yet complete, citing figures showing that 44 per cent of boys and girls of high school age living in rural Minnesota are not attending high school, mainly because their parents are financially unable to provide transportation to village or city schools.

A bill providing for transportation of such pupils, he said, will receive consideration by the legislature, as will one providing tuition and transportation to graded schools of seventh and eighth grade pupils in the rural areas.

Other bills discussed by Dr. Rockwell that will be acted on by the legislature favorably or otherwise include measures providing for carrying out a health program among rural school pupils, an all-year recreational program and a state adult education project.

Dr. Rockwell also endorsed the teacher tenure bill sponsored by the Minnesota Education association, which is designed to promote continuity of service. Under its provisions the teachers would continue at their posts until definitely dismissed by the board of education instead of coming up for reappointment each year.

PACKED ARENA SEES HALLOCK DOWN THIEVES

Both Teams Sunday Present Fine Exhibition of Hockey

TO PLAY FIRST NIGHT GAME HERE JAN. 27TH

Thieves and Grand Forks in 2-2 Tie in Overtime Game Thursday

Playing the Grand Forks Cavaliers to a 2-2 tie in an extra-period game at Grand Forks last Thursday, and losing a hardfought battle to the scrappy Hallock team Sunday in the local arena, the Thief River Falls hockey team is keyed up to get back into the win column in three games scheduled for the coming week.

The Thieves will journey to Hallock for a return game Friday evening, while Sunday afternoon they will go to Roseau for a contest. The next home game on the arena rink is scheduled against Hallock next Wednesday, January 27, and will be the first evening game to be played in the arena.

Another capacity crowd saw a clean-cut, hard skating Hallock team earn a 4 to 3 victory over the Thieves here Sunday afternoon. Two fine teams turned in another exhibition of thrills and spills that left spectators and players alike in a state of near exhaustion.

Hallock went into the lead after 15 minutes of fast skating when Sprout smoked one past Tremontine, Thieves goalie, and added another after ten minutes in the second period, the period ending 2-0 for Hallock. Reuben Julian spark plug of the Thieves offense had the crowd standing in the third period, scoring on a dash early after the period opened, leaving the score 2-1, but Hallock turned on the power and scored twice in seven and eleven minutes.

In the last five minutes the Thieves played a five men offensive, Hallock watching for the breaks, Taylor scoring for the Thieves on an assist from Julian in 14 minutes and Julien tearing in to score again in 19:40 just as the gun announced the ending of a well played game that needs no alibi.

Chet LaBeaux and A. Tremontine the two new boys on the Thieves squad playing their first game here Sunday received much favorable comment and will strengthen the team considerably. They were added to the squad because of the sickness of Mike Foy and Nick Napoli.

The lineup:

PRESIDENT IS INAUGURATED IN RAINSTORM

Nation-Wide Audience Hears Broadcast of Rites Wednesday

SOCIAL JUSTICE IS THEME OF ADDRESS

Holds That Democracy Is Capable of Solving Problems

Thief River Falls citizens, in common with others thruout the country, Wednesday took advantage of the opportunity to listen in on a nation-wide broadcast of all details of the inaugural ceremonies in Washington, D. C., in which Franklin D. Roosevelt was inducted into his second term as president of the United States.

The president, standing bareheaded in a drenching rain which fell during the rites, dedicated his second administration to helping the economically unfortunate, while thousands of his fellow citizens spread across the capitol plaza, too chilled and soggy for prolonged demonstrations of enthusiasm. Thousands more lined Pennsylvania avenue to see the president pass and watch the parade which followed.

So penetrating was the cold and the downpour that hundreds began leaving capitol plaza soon after Mr. Roosevelt started his speech. Those who remained heard only scattered phrases, for the rain, drumming on a canopy of umbrellas, created a clatter that the loudspeaker system could not overcome. The speech was more than half-delivered before there was a murmur of applause. Then, the president, approaching his climax raised his voice:

"I see millions whose daily lives in city and on farm continue under conditions labelled indecent by a so-called polite society half a century ago. I see millions denied education, recreation and the opportunity to better their lot and the lot of their children.

"I see millions lacking the means to buy the product of farm and factory and by their poverty denying work and productiveness to many other millions. I see one third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished.

"It is not in despair that I paint you that picture. I paint it for you in hope—because the nation, seeing and understanding the injustice in it, proposes to paint it out. The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much. It is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

Throughout the address ran a central theme—the president's contention that the processes of democracy are capable of meeting and conquering the nation's social problems; that the constitution as it stands, provides a power of government increasing as "the intricacies of human relationships increase."

Personal Property Tax List Published

Twelve Local Business Firms Called on to Pay More Than $500

One of the most carefully scrutinized legal publications of the year appears in this issue of the Times in the form of the personal property tax list prepared in the office of John Gullingsrud, county treasurer. The tax, including that on moneys and credits, is due before March 1, after which date a penalty is attached.

An inspection of the list reveals that no less than seven business places in Thief River Falls will be called on to pay personal property taxes in excess of $1,000, while five more are in excess of $500. A total of 60 business places in the city are assessed more than $100 each, compared to 40 a year ago. In general, more increases than decreases are noted. In Goodridge four places are assessed more than $100, in St. Hilaire two and in Town of North, one.

The list of big taxpayers in Thief River Falls is headed by the Union State bank, with $2,629.61, followed by the Oen Mercantile company, $2,011.06; Thief River Grocery, $1,507.89; Land O'Lakes Creameries, $1,193.04; L. B. Hartz Stores, $1,138.93; Jordan-Stevens company, $1,004.90; Montgomery Ward & company, $1,013.58; J. C. Penney company, $915.91; Gamble-Robinson company, $912.25; Northern State bank, $785.01; Thief River Falls Seed House, $605.80; and Kelly Hardware company, $533.05.

New High Mark for Births in City Set During 1936, Total 318; and 84 Deaths

A new high mark for births was set in Thief River Falls in 1936, the total number being 318 compared to 84 deaths during the year, it is revealed by records of Dr. O. F. Mellby, city health officer. In 1935 there were 208 births and 101 deaths, while in 1934 the corresponding figures were 181 and 89. A large proportion of the births and deaths listed involved persons residing outside the city, indicating that increased use is being made of the facilities offered by local hospitals.

OAKLAND PARK SANATORIUM HAS GOOD YEAR

Many Improvements Made at Institution by Means of WPA Grants

DR. MELLBY AGAIN HEADS COMMISSION

Receipts for Support of Institution Aggregate $44,840.37

Dr. O. F. Mellby was reelected president of the Oakland Park Sanatorium commission and Dr. H. M. Blegen was renamed vice president at its annual meeting held Wednesday evening of last week. Dr. Baldwin B. Borreson, superintendent, also serves as secretary.

Annual reports submitted at the meeting revealed that substantial improvements were made on the buildings and grounds in 1936 thru the expenditure of $14,500 in WPA funds together with approximately $2,900 supplied by the sanatorium. Major items of work included completion of the tunnel connecting the main building with the nurses' home, repainting all woodwork on the exterior and interior of the buildings, installation of a sewage disposal plant, putting in 2,500 feet of curb and gutter and 500 feet of drain tile, construction of a concrete tennis court for the use of the employes, and landscaping the grounds.

Receipts for the support of the institution in 1936 aggregated $44,840.37, including state aid, $12,301.60; Marshall county, $12,322.35; Roseau, $6,912.55; Pennington, $6,612.28; Red Lake, $4,207.64; and cash receipts, $1,394.07.

To this was added $1,480.91 representing increase to inventory and $4,860.?? in lasting improvements.

Due to the increased expenditures for permanent improvements, the total net cost per day per individual increased from $1.238 in 1935 to $1.88 last year, it was revealed, while the total cost per meal per individual was reported as being 16.2 cents.

While the sanatorium is now fully occupied, there are no urgent cases awaiting admission, Dr. Borreson stated. He added that the service rendered by the institution has been expanded thru the maintenance of a field nurse on a year-round basis since October, 1936.

The annual medical report revealed that of 27 patients discharged during the year, one case of tuberculosis was apparently arrested; seven were quiescent; ten were improved; one was non-tuberculous; and eight deaths occurred. In 16 of the cases the disease was far advanced on admission of the patients.

Two eighth grade teams will play a preliminary game at 7:15.

Playing at Bemidji last Friday evening the Prowlers, after holding the strong Bemidji team to even terms during most of the game, went down to defeat by the close score of 32 to 26, the tally at the half being 14 to 13 in favor of Bemidji. Lorentson and Halquist were high point men for the locals, each accounting for 11 points.

With only one day intervening, the local quintet tackled Cass Lake Saturday evening, and after leading by an apparently safe margin during the first three quarters, went down in the final period before the strong Cass Lake attack, the final score being 28 to 22 in favor of the Lakers. Halquist again played an outstanding game, making twelve points.

Holiday Concert Under Direction of Daughter of Local Couple Landed

A Christmas concert staged by Honolulu choirs of 320 voices under the direction of Hedvig Rice Finkenbinder, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Rice of this city was the subject of extensive comment in a Honolulu paper, from which the following excerpts are quoted:

"To say it was an impressive program is mild. It was one of the most perfect programs to have been presented in Honolulu. The young students in their white robes, singing with natural untrained voices, were perfectly disciplined and controlled."

"The director, Mrs. Finkenbinder, is a graduate of the University of North Dakota. She received choir work at the world-famous St. Olaf's college in Minnesota. When one realizes that the director was guiding such a number of young people in the field of song and doing it in the perfect manner—that is achievement.

TWO YEAR OLD CHILD DRINKS HAIR TONIC

Fairmont—Drinking hair tonic nearly proved fatal to Charles Bowers, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bowers, who was saved at a doctor's office after a wild trip through a snow storm. The child drank the concoction at his home and the physician who reached the house about 20 minutes later, found the child in complete collapse. Seizing Charles in his arms he ran outside with him and laid him in his car. With the blizzard raging, he started the engine but found the car had stuck in a snowdrift. With help the car was extricated, and again the doctor hastened toward his office but after driving a few blocks he collided with a car. When the office was finally reached it was necessary to work over the baby two hours before he was out of danger.

STATE W. C. T. U. WILL PUSH LIQUOR CONTROL PROGRAM

Mrs. J. S. Green, Minneapolis, named state director of legislation, law observance and law enforcement for the Minnesota W. C. T. U. at the state convention in September, will attend the sessions of the Minnesota legislature and look after bills of interest to the organization.

Dr. Izora Scott, Washington, D. C. director of legislation for the National W. C. T. U., was elected treasurer of National Temperance and Prohibition council which met in Washington, D. C. last month, of which the national W. C. T. U. is a part. Dr. Scott reviews some of the legislation for which both organizations will work at this session of congress. Among the measures introduced in the last session is the Guyer bill providing for prohibition in the District of Columbia, and the Capper-Culkin bill to prohibit the interstate advertising of liquors whether by newspapers or over the radio or otherwise. The W. C. T. U., will urge the prompt passage of these two bills.

The dry forces of the nation, according to Mrs. Green are urged to secure as fast as possible legislation for the removal of the sale of liquor from all unpoliced areas; the elimination of the sale of liquor from all gasoline filling stations and airports; more adequate legislation to protect the public against the drinking driver who is increasing so frightfully the number of highway accidents and fatalities.

ONLY FIVE ON WPA IN COUNTY NOT NOW IN NEED OF RELIEF

Two Per Cent on Rolls in This State Found Not in Need of Assistance

But 5 of the 83 persons who have been regularly employed on WPA projects in Pennington county no longer are in need of relief. This fact was made public this week by Victor Christgau, state WPA administrator, who summarized the resurvey of the work relief rolls that has been in progress for several weeks.

The purpose was to definitely establish whether WPA workers actually are entitled to such employment. Now, all assigned to WPA projects have been checked to establish their need, Mr. Christgau said. The re-survey has been in progress since November 16.

All not in need have been dropped as project employees and, if possible under quota limitations, new assignments have been issued so that others who have been certified to WPA may have the benefits of the work relief program.

A summary of the re-survey in District No. 7, of which Pennington county is a part, has been issued by the Detroit Lakes office of J. B. Kovarik, district director. Over the district as a whole, 192 were dropped.

In the state, where the survey is 85% complete, 888 or 2% of the total have been found no longer in need of relief.

TWO INCH NEEDLE FOUND INSIDE EGG

Hector.—A recent "Believe It or Not" feature of Robert Ripley carried an item about a man who found a portion of a needle inside an egg. But that is small news compared with the discovery made by Lars Anderson, baker in Hector. Recently, while working in the bakery, Anderson broke open an egg which, upon examination, was found to contain a needle approximately two inches long. The steel was black and corroded, but nevertheless was a regular sewing needle. Anderson reports that it is the first time in his eleven years as a baker that he ever found anything like a needle in an egg, and it will probably be many years before he discovers another. Although hens often pick at anything bright in the yard, how a needle could be swallowed and go through into an egg is hard to understand.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor:

In last weeks issue of the Times I see our old standby Lockrem is beginning to write again. Maybe Gilbert Brattland has roused him from his sleep. This time he is going to help Gilbert Brattland liquidate the Rural Credits Department. Maybe Arens needs a spanking. Brattland seems to have an old grudge against Arens, and so he likes to put him out of business. Lockrem and Brattland want the state to play Santa Claus and cut down the rural credits loans and interest, and put the loss on the taxpayers.

Some of these Rural Credit borrowers are funny birds and hard to figure out. Fifteen years ago their farms were very valuable. They couldn't get a loan big enough. They got an honest loan and honest money from the state like they asked for. Now they seem to think their farms are worthless. So Lockrem and Brattland think the state should cut down the loans some more and keep on cutting. The state already has done a lot of cutting and compromising on all the big loans, but the borrowers are not satisfied and want the state to cut some more.

These men think the State should be a good Santa Claus and take a loss. They want something for nothing. This may be fine for the borrowers, but what about the taxpayers who will have to take the loss. If the state has to take a loss on these loans then the taxpayers of the state will have to pay the bill. Tungseth and Day and Melby should think of this when they listen to Brattland and Lockrem. Every member of the Legislature should think of the taxpayer as well as the borrower. Our state expenses and other expenses are going sky high.

It is time for the taxpayers to wake up and say what they think. Just where are we going to stop. Lockrem and Brattland and the borrowers are sure a hungry crowd trying to get something for nothing. Let us have some discussion. What do the taxpayers think of cutting these loans. Write Tungseth and Day and Melby what you think about it.

Yours truly,
A TAXPAYER

Andrew Bodine Dies at Age of 84 Years

Andrew Bodine a resident of Wyandotte township since 1882 passed away Sunday morning, Jan. 10, at the home of Peter Kolseth of Wyandotte township. At the time of his death Mr. Bodine was eighty four years of age. Funeral services were conducted at Clearwater Lutheran church Thursday, January 14, with Rev. M. L. Dahle of St. Hilaire officiating. Burial was in the Clearwater cemetery.

Mr. Bodine was born September 14, 1852, in Sweden. He came from his birthplace to Crookston in 1882 and a short time later moved to Wyandotte township where he has since resided. He was married in Polk county in 1884 to Elgeline Hegg who preceded him in death in 1920. He has no living relatives.

Ole C. Peterson Dies–January 17th

Ole C. Peterson died Sunday morning, January 17, in a local hospital at the age of eighty-seven years. Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday at the Erickson and Lund chapel, Rev. J. O. Jacobson officiating, and interment was made in the St. Hilaire cemetery.

Mr. Peterson was born March 12, 1849 in Sweden, coming from Sweden to Goodhue county, Minnesota, in 1865. In 1868 he moved to Kandiyohi county, and in 1882 he moved to St. Hilaire. In 1905 he moved to Mayfield township, where he lived for the remaining years of his life.

School Children of '37 Are Taller and Heavier Than Those 50 Years Ago

School children of 1937 are taller and heavier than the school children of fifty years ago. This fact is cited by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association as concrete evidence of what modern child care has done for children of today. It is based upon an interesting comparison made by the United States Office of Education recently between a study of Boston school children in 1875 and the children of the large cities of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts made a few years ago by the United States Public Health Service.

The Boston children of the '70's were slightly older than the children studied by the Public Health Service and should therefore have been a little taller and heavier than the latter group. The study showed, however, that today's children at all ages from six to fourteen have increased markedly in height and weight. For boys, the average increase was 0.97 inches; for girls, 1.08 inches. The average increase in weight was 1.45 pounds for boys and 2.74 pounds for girls.

The fear, often expressed, that the race may be enfeebled because so many frail babies who would have died in the '70's are being saved as a result of modern medical advances in child care, is therefore obviously without foundation. The feeble babies are growing up with the normal ones to a sturdier childhood than any of them enjoyed in 1875.

The most urgent problem that faces physicians today, according to the bulletin, is not the protection of child health but the preservation of adult health after middle age so that the lives saved from early death may continue to be comfortable and vigorous throughout the normal span of life.

NORTHERN INDIANS TO ORGANIZE BAND

Cass Lake—Indians in the northern Minnesota woods will be given opportunity to "brush up" on their music. A shipment of musical instruments from the war department is expected here this week by the Indian office and these instruments will be used in organizing several Indian bands throughout the Indian country. There are many Indians in this district who played in boarding school bands and will welcome the chance to get back into a band of this kind. In full dress, they expect to be ready to perform at the Minnesota state fair in the autumn.
